POPULARITY OF THE AUTOMOBILE

The automobile business is increasing, and although there are fifteen machines owned and operated by citizens at the present time, the indications are that the number will be considerably increased in the near future. There are many prospective buyers and only high grade machines are being secured.

For pleasure and travelling purposes the automobile is becoming very popular, and as the drivers have attained considerable proficiency, the the result is that the city has been fortunate as regards accidents and collisions.

POTATOES AT $1.25 PER BAG

There was a big supply of potatoes on the market this morning, the price being $1.25 per bag. Seed potatoes sold at from 80 to 85. The farmers who use the east side of the square are happy now that they can back their waggons up to the pavement, as this does away with considerable inconvenience to the seller and buyer alike.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS CURE ALL MINOR TROUBLES

The stomach, the bowels, or cutting teeth is responsible for most of the ills and suffering that afflicts babyhood. Baby's Own Tablets will keep your child well because it is the best medicine in the world for these troubles and at the same time it is the safest. The mother has the guarantee of a Government analyst that this medicine contains no opiate or poisonous "soothing" stuff. Mrs Jos. Bernard, St Emile, Que. says: "Baby's Own Tablets are really a marvellous medicine. My baby was thin, peevish and sickly until I began giving him this medicine. Since then he has thrived and grown splendidly." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

UNION FARMERS' INSTITUTE EXCURSION

The above excursion will be run via Canadian Pacific Railway special train, to the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa on June 10th, calling at all stations from Cavanville, to Tweed, inclusive. Train leaves Peterborough at 6.55. am. Return fare $2.55. It is expected a great many who live at a distance from those stations will arrange to meet trains at various stations along the line, owing to the very cheap fares, which makes it the chance of a lifetime to visit the Capital of the Dominion.

Remember this is the genuine and only excursion being run by Farmers' Institutes of this district this season. Everybody come along. For particulars see large posters.

SPORTING NEWS

JIM HARRISON SHOWS THE CAUSE OF HIS ATTITUDE

A statement from Jim Harrison regarding Brown's letter in the Review was given the sporting editor yesterday but was crowded out of last night's issue.

Harrison denies Brown's statements, which, he declares, are gross misrepresentations of the actual facts. Brown, the Peterborough ped states, never made an offer to split the benefit gate with one-sixth going to him (Harrison) and gave him no assurance that he would get anything out of the entertainment. As Brown, was making all arrangements for the walk the local man wanted to have reasonable assurance that he was going to get his share, which he quite properly thought he was entitled to, as well as any of the others taking part. Harrison states that he wanted to act fairly and squarely with Brown and the other visiting walkers, and there would have been no discussion at all if he were to have been given the consideration he was entitled to. But he didn't get it, he stated, and naturally resented the treatment he was accorded.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

UMPIRE AND HIS DUTIES.

Rule 61.—There shall be no appeal from any decision of the umpire on the ground that he was not correct in his conclusions as to whether a batted ball was fair or foul, a base runner safe or out, a pitched ball, a strike or a foul, or in any other involving accuracy of judgment, and no decision rendered by him shall be reversed, except that he be convinced that it is in violation of one of these rules. The captain shall alone have right to protest against a decision and seek its reversal on a claim that it is in conflict with a section of these rules.

THE BASEBALL WAY.

McGraw's team were one run behind in the ninth; a man was on first and none were down.

"Lay it down," said "Muggsy" to the batter.

The man stepped up to the plate, saw a straight one coming over, swung at it, and lifted it over the fence.

As he trotted in to the bench, proud because he had won the day, the manager barked at him:

"You're fined fifty. When I say bunt, I mean bunt."

ST. PETER'S SCHOOL WON.

St. Peter's school baseball nine defeated the team from King Edward school at the latter's grounds yesterday afternoon by 7—5. It was anybody's game up to the last couple innings, but in their last time at bat the St. Peter's took a slugging streak and won handily.

The batteries were;—

St. Peter's School—Callaghan and O'Hara.

King Edward—Taylor and Williams.

Umpire—McKirn.

McGinley was too much for Rochester yesterday and Toronto won 3—0. The Leafs play at Montreal to-day.

JACK KNOX IS VERY LUCKY

Gets $25,000 out of big Mining Deal at Elk Lake

Jack Knox the Orillia runner won't need to pull off any more matches with Dave Belland for a while if what they say is true. Knox is reported to have struck the lucky in the north.

A mining sale was put through at Elk Lake City last night for $100.000 in which Jack had quarter interest. He got $25.000 as his share.

AT THE WOODBINE.

F. Fox's Dr. Keck Wins Royal Canadian Steeplechase.

Toronto, June 5.—The card at the Woodbine track yesterday had only half a dozen races, the fields in most cases being on the large size, the Royal Canadian steeplechase bringing together a cracking fine lot. This was another of the startling finishes that have been the custom in the even through the field at the Woodbine this spring. The card was a featureless one, but this in no way detracted from the keenness of the sport. The finishes were close in the majority of the events, while there was only one straggling start. The summary is as follows:

First race, purse $500, 3-year-olds, 6 furlongs—Tasley, 1; Desperado, 2; Lady Orimar, 3. Time 1.14 1-5.

Second race, purse $500, 2-year-olds, 5 furlongs—Setback, 1; Dalhousie, 2; Hickory Stick, 3. Time, 1.02 2-5.

Third race, purse $500, 3-year-olds and up, Canadian-bred, 6 furlongs—French Shore, 1; Supper Dance, 2; Valydon, 3. Time, 1.18.

Fourth race, purse $500, 3-year-olds and up, selling, 1 mile and 70 yards—Neoskaleeta, 1; Howard Shean, 2; Punky, 3. Time, 1.46 3-5.

Fifth race, Royal Canadian Steeplechase, purse $600, 4-year-olds and up, about 2 miles—Dr. Koch, 1; Stellaland, 2; Wilhalla, 3. Time, 4.12.

Sixth race, purse $500, 3-year-olds and up, selling, 1 1-8 miles—St. Elmwood, 1; Edwin Gum, 2; Hiacko, 3. Time, 1.55.

CATCHING A REAL HIGH FLY

How it Feels to Catch one Coming From Height of 500 Feet

"While much has been said of my feat of catching a baseball thrown from the Washington monument, a distance of about 500 feet, some details of the stunt have been overlooked," said Charlie Street, the Washington American League catcher.

"The first ball was thrown out of the little window near the top of the monument. We wanted to see what direction it would take and so just dropped it over the side of the monument. It came down with frightful velocity, striking the cement pavement at the foot of the monument and bounding fully sixty feet into the air. When it came down the second time I caught it and found that the impact with the pavement had ripped all the seams and partially smashed the ball. That shows that when a batsman swings on a ball and meets it fairly he doesn't put near the force into his blow that is created by a drop of about five hundred feet.

"The fact that the ball bounded so high into the air after striking the pavement also warned me that it would be dangerous for me to attempt to catch the ball while standing on the cement, for if it should escape me and hit the sidewalk and then poke me under the chin on the rebound, I might have to send for the smelling salts, so I sent word up into the monument that the next ball was to be thrown out from the monument, that the next ball was to be thrown out from the monument, so that I could stand on the grass and make the catch. This was done, and after two or three trials I got the range properly and made the capture. I caught the ball over my head and only felt the jar of the impact up as far as my elbow. I don't suppose that any other catcher would have any particular trouble in repeating the trick—providing the authorities would let him make the trial."

MILES AND MILES OF SATISFACTION

DUNLOP AUTOMOBILE TIRES

THE CITY LEAGUE OPENED TO-DAY

The senior baseball league was opened this afternoon at Riverside Park. The Park Street team was unable to play, owing to the bereavement in the family of three of the players, and the curtain-raiser was a five-innings exhibition game between the T.A.S. nine and the West Ends.

Ald. Phelan pitched the first ball with Ald. Bradburn at the bat. The pitching and batting were both classy.

The second game was a league fixture between the Strathconas and the T. A. S.

RUNAWAY ON GEORGE STREET

Horse Was Caught on Water St. and No Damage Resulted

An exciting runaway occurred this afternoon between 2.50 and 3 o'clock, on George street. Two farmers were driving a spirited horse and in some manner a ring on the bit to which one of the reins was attached to, broke and the animal became frightened and dashed down the street. As it was impossible for either of the men to handle the horse with one rein they both jumped from the buggy. When the animal came to the corner of King and George Sts. it turned east and tore around past the Peterborough Canoe Co. on Water street but it was caught there by Mr. Sam Clarke, an employee of the National Hotel. No damage of any consequence resulted.

PERSONAL

Mr Webber Turner has left for Arnprior, where he is making arrangements in connection with the decorations for the old boys' re-union to be held in that place.

The engagement is announced of Miss Keitha Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moulton, Beatrice street, to Mr. L. J. Pettit, B.A., of Peterborough. The wedding will take place on July 5th.—Toronto Globe.

OBITUARY

MRS. PATRICK CAHILL

The death occurred last night at the family residence 499, Parnell St., of Mrs Patrick Cahill after a lingering illness. Deceased, who was 58 years of age leaves a family of seven children, two sons and five daughters. The eldest is 15 years of age.

Deceased's maiden name was Mary Lundgregan. She was born in the county of Tipperary, Ireland and has lived in this country for about twenty years.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock and proceed to St. Peter's cathedral, and thence to the cemetery for interment.

PERCY CHARLES ABBOTT.

The death occurred at noon to-day of Percy Charles Abbott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Abbott, 573 Sherbrook street. He was 23 years of age.

The funeral will take place on Monday at 2 o'clock to Little Lake cemetery from the family residence.

LATE WM. FOWLER.

It was learned with general regret yesterday afternoon that Wm. Fowler had passed away at his residence at 273 Rubidge street. Although the deceased had to all appearances been a strong, healthy man, he had been suffering for some time, his illness gradually developing until it took an acute form about four weeks ago. Since that time he rapidly failed in health until he passed away at 12.15 yesterday.

The late William Fowler was born on July 25th, 1836, on the farm in North Monaghan. He followed farming until about 20 years ago, when retired and moved into the city where he has resided ever since. In 1862 he married Jessie Lillico, of North Monaghan, and she survives him, along with three brothers, John, of North Monaghan; James and George, of Toronto, and five sisters, Mrs. Margaret Dobbin, city; Mrs. Jane Tully, Lennox, Iowa; Mrs. Andrew Grant, city; Mrs. Robert Leach, Cleveland, Ohio; and Mrs. Richard Lillico, of North Monaghan.

The late Mr. Fowler was all his life a consistent member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and was a member of the session for many years. He was highly esteemed in the church and community. He lived an exemplary life and took a deep interest in the charitable work of the city, being the representative of St. Andrew's church on the Central Charity Board. He was also a member of the Wm. Hall Trust.

The funeral will leave the house Monday at two o'clock, and proceed to St. Andrew's church for the public service at 2.30, after which interment will take place.

SLEPT ON BANK; NEARLY FELL IN

London, Ont., June 5.—Thursday Bert Stinchcombe, who drives an ice wagon, after completing his round lay down to rest on the bank of one of the Coves, south of the city. Stinchcombe fell sound asleep and rolled down the bank, which was fifteen feet high at this point, and fell into deep water. James Langley and Henry Granary, who were walking near the Coves at the time, went to Stinchcombe's rescue, and brought him out in an insensible condition. It was an hour before he regained consciousness.

THE LITERARY SOCIETY MET FOR THE LAST TIME

Pleasant Affair in Assembly Hall of Normal School—An Excellent Programme—Valedictory Read by Miss Lily Cadwell.

The Literary Society of the Normal School met last night in the Assembly Hall for the last time of the first session of the school. The programme was an exceptionally good one. Each number was creditably rendered and was enthusiastically received by the audience. Perhaps the most interesting part of the programme was the reading of the valedictory by Miss Lily Cadwell. The President, Mr Frank Austin occupied the chair and in a neat speech thanked those who had been instrumental in making the society such a success. Dr. Park and Miss Davies who have during the many meetings of the society, taken part in the programme gave valuable assistance last evening.

The numbers of last night's programme were as follows:

Vocal selection—Glee club.
Reading—Miss Sharlow.
Solo—Miss Davies.
Address—Principal Walker.
Recitation—Miss Argue.
Instrumental solo—Miss Manson Valedictory—Miss L. Cadwell.

Principal Walker who is Hon. President of the society in his address, said, "We have now reached the end of the first session of the Normal school and we would regret if our coming together had not been beneficial." He hoped it had resulted in being a prosperous one. He had no doubt but that the students would give a good account of themselves in the future and this would result in the province being benefitted. The students had put up with the many inconveniences in a patient manner and he hoped that they would begin the work before them with a fresh heart filled with enthusiasm to uphold the honor of the institution. The school staff had endeavored to set before them different methods in which to do their future work, but to the students they looked for improvement of these methods. The speaker gave his audience many pointers on what they might expect to find in their work of educating their future pupils and how to meet with the difficulties incidental to a school teacher's life and concluded by wishing them all success.

THE VALEDICTORY

The address was as follows;—

Principal Walker, Teachers and Fellow students:

To-night we are assembled together to say our formal farewell. The word thrills us with sorrow as we realize that to-night heralds the separation of a body of students bound together by strong intellectual and social ties. How are we to say farewell—to break away from all the happy associations of our school life! Words sound hollow, and seem "shrunk by usage into commonest common place," but they are none the less heart-felt and sincere.

We have enjoyed the distinction of being the first class of the Peterborough Normal School. We have been proud of our school because of its beautiful structure, its wide halls and spacious class-rooms. When the term opened in the fall, the building was incomplete, and much of the splendid equipment had not arrived. Consequently there were inconveniences on all sides. But all this only tended towards a stronger feeling of friendship between the staff and the students. The days, full of interest in a new work grew into weeks, and the weeks rolled into months, and now our Normal year will soon be but a pleasant memory of the past.

It is the way in which we were received by the citizens of Peterborough that we wish to speak. We thank them most sincerely for their kindly welcome for the manner in which they have made us feel that the best the city could give was not too good for the new Normal students. The churches could not have been kinder. The many socials which are arranged for us did much to make our stay pleasant and to develop a better acquaintance for our fellow-students.

We wish to thank the clergymen of the city who have met us so regularly and faithfully. They have made their lectures interesting and instructive and their thoughts have applied to our student life and to the calling for which we have been trained. We shall remember them and their friendship long after we have forgotten the words they taught.

And now we wish to thank the principals and staffs of the Model school for their untiring efforts on our behalf. We have found them courteous and kind with a warm feeling in their hearts for the timid junior. They have most unsparingly sought to make our regular visits to their schools a success. To the teachers of the kindergarten we wish to render our sincere thanks for the care they have taken to present to us the principles of their work.

It is when we wish to say farewell to the principal and staff of our Alma Mater that we realize how inadequate are our words. But we feel that those who have always understood our difficulties so well, will not fail us now. We have never found you too engrossed in the school as a whole to give your time to the individual student. At all times you have shown us that you had our interests at heart. If we have one thing to regret, it is that we have, perhaps, not always done justice to a staff of teachers who are collectively and individually enthusiastic in their work. You have not been merely our lecturers, but also, our friends and advisers on every occasion when we required assistance.

It is only fitting to speak of what we have gained from our daily lectures. It is almost unnecessary to say that when we came our conception of education was narrow in many respects. We shall leave the sphere of your influence with much broader ideas of life and education and with a strong desire to make our lives successful in the service of others.

We wish you to understand that we have appreciated beyond expression your efforts to make the lectures interesting and useful. We feel that we are especially favored in that we have been permitted to live over again the struggles of the earnest educators of the past. We have seen the pages of history glowing with the noble lives of our ancestors and we have been carried quite out of ourselves by the lectures in the study of the mind. Groups of students with faces full of interest and quiet enthusiasm have been made to forget care for a time and have been dismissed with some words of rare humor, which have done much to lighten our hearts.

Even our enjoyment of the actual physical world has been enhanced. Our Nature Study and Art have opened our eyes to this great, wonderful world. We have learned that all nature throbs with life, that not the most simple arrangement in plant or flower is without reason. If we can but make the students in our care see the world with its richness of coloring and train them to hear the wanton music of the birds, the murmuring rills and streamlets we shall have done much to brighten their lives.

And now comes the saying of farewell to the students. We have made strong friendships which for a time at least must be severed. But it is not a delighting thought that we may expect to hear again of some of us doing some grand and noble work in some far wider field of effort and achievement?

During our remaining few days together we shall be harassed by examinations but we have a bright incentive before us. Through the kindness of our Athletic club we are looking forward to a long happy day together when the worry of examinations will be over and we shall have nothing but glorious plans ahead.

We must not forget to mention the Literary Society and to thank those who have helped to make it a success.

In the long, long, after years we shall think of our Alma Mater with a warm love in our hearts. It would seem altogether unnatural not to feel deep pain in parting. Life seems full of farewells and our hearts rebel that we, who have grown so proud of our school and our staff, must part.

But let no sadness or sigh, tonight,
Break in our farewell chorus;
For the radiant light of life's noontide bright
Is all around and before us;
And hopes bright star shines clear afar,
While the wide world waits before us.
Then let none speak of a journey done,
Though we part tonight with last good-bye;
It is but life's longer way begun,
And we press where the noblest heights are won.
"Sic itur ad Astra"—so doth run;
The pathway to the skies.

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so, I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c (the cost of a postage stamp). Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. MRS. F. E. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

The annual box sale and concert of All Saints' Jr. W. A. was held last evening. Rev. Mr. Trumpour occupied the chair. After a short musical programme the prizes for the year were distributed. The girls in charge of the candy table were Elsie Reid, Phyllis Curry, Lillian Spicer, and Florence Reid. Mrs. Bois and Miss Hopkins attended to the fancy table.

MASOMIC HALL WAS DEDICATED

The new hall of Omemee Lodge A.F. and A.M. was dedicated yesterday. The ceremony was performed by D.D. G.M. Long, of Port Hope, who was assisted by Mr. Mulholland of the same town. Messrs. H. C. Winch, T. F. Matthews, William Miller and Ald. Morrow and Ald. W. H. Bradburn, of Peterborough were in attendance and had an enjoyable time.

The new hall at Omemee is a very handsome one.

USED TO DISTRIBUTE THE "PETERBOROUGH CHRONICLE"

Mr. William Dwyer Tells of a Pioneer Local Daily--Peterborough Had Only 1000 Residents Then---Has Lived in These Parts 71 Years.

The Review had an interesting caller today in the person of Mr. William Dwyer of Wallace's Point, Otonabee. Mr. Dwyer who is 84 years of age in talking over matters of interest to a newspaperman recalled the fact that he used to work on the Peterborough Chronicle a paper that has long since ceased publication and which will be remembered only by the older residents. The paper was conducted by several prominent men, some of whom were the late Charles Perry and the late Wm. Cluxton. It was one of the first papers published here.

Mr. Dwyer used to distribute the Chronicle when Peterborough had a population of 1000 and from the nature of his work he was acquainted with practically everyone in the village. He was employed on the paper in 1845 and there used to be a lively demand for the news sheet of Peterborough which at the time was considered quite an enterprising journal.

Mr. Dwyer who is the father of Mr. Robert Dwyer the bridgetender at Hales Bridge on the Otonabee came here in 1858 and was born in the County of Tipperary, Ireland. He has been a resident for 71 years and recalls many interesting and amusing incidents. In spite of his advanced years he is an entertaining conversationalist.

He ran an engine in a saw mill here for three years and one near where he now lives for over fifteen years for William Hales after whom Hales bridge is named. Mr. Dwyer later bought a farm at what now is Wallace's Point and has resided there since.

MEETING OF THE OTONABEE COUNCIL IN KEENE, MAY 27; THE BUSINESS TRANSACTED

The Otonabee Council met on the 27th May, when the following business was transacted;—John Hanbidge was present asking leave to commute his statute labor for 2 years to improve the road between lots 18, concession 15.—Request granted.

A large representative deputation was present from the Keene Street Improvement Association asking for sufficient 12-inch tile to drain the east side of Main street, from Wedlock's shop to north of the town hall, stating amongst other reasons why they should be allowed this grant, that for the past eight years the Association had raised for the streets over $100 a year, by free labor, local contributions, concerts, excursions, etc., but, alas for their hopes, the city fathers hardened their hearts and would sell them the tile for 50 cents each, granting sufficient free for the front of the hall and the two cross streets. It is remarked by visitors that Keene is the prettiest, cleanest and most progressive village in the county, all due to the tireless, free work of the Association. Enquiry is made from many places in the province as to how the work is carried on, and many are adopting it. A special grant of $50 was made to each of the five wards for the improvement of the roads. R. A. and H. Deyell were present asking for a special grant to improve what is known as the Beaufort road through Otonabee. $30 was granted. Also an additional grant of $30 to Ward No. Four, as this road is chiefly used by the people of South Monaghan. Reeve Fife, Deputy Reeve Stewart and R. A. Deyell were appointed a committee to interview the South Monaghan Council with the object of getting a grant for the road. A petition was presented, signed by 45 ratepayers, requesting that a polling place be established at Allandale. The majority of the votes would be taken from the Keene division, it being over the 2000 limit as fixed by law. The request was granted as follows, to be composed of the west half of Concession 4, all 5, 6, 7, east half of 8, north of lot 16 and south of lot 25, all between lots 16 and 22, and the following changes were made in the polling divisions:—The fifth and the west half of the 4th concession south of the base line is detached from No. 1 and attached to No. 3, Keene. The west half of 7, the east half of 8, between lots 21 and 25 are taken from No. 4 (Givin's.) and put in Allandale. The clerk was instructed to ask for tenders for the making of 12, 15 and 24 cement tile. The following acts were passed;—W. $1.00, being P. Crowley's 1907 dog tax, which he as collector was unable to collect; Scott & Hogg, coal for crusher, $1.73; J. Hanbidge, drawing timber for bridge, $2.14; Joseph Steel, repairing due ground ditch, $4.00; Melville Stewart, cedar, $4.00; freight on grader repairs, 70 cents. Council adjourned to 21st June.

On the same date the council sat as Court of Revision, when the following appeals were heard and disposed of as follows:

A. Carpenter appealed to be assessed as tenant for part of lot 30, con. 10; John Bell owner.—Granted.

John Minogue to be jointly assessed as tenant with his sons, Patrick and John, for west half of lot 31, con. 9. Thomas Fitzgerald owner.—Granted.

Michael Torpey, over assessed, ordered that he be assessed for $3,000 instead of $3,500.

Joseph Gillespie, over assessment on built this season are as follows: to be assessed for $2,000 instead of $2,350.

W. W. Brown and A. Carpenter appealed as trustees of S.S. No. 17, to have lot 33, con. 10, assessed in the Public school instead of the Peterborough Separate school, as it is beyond the three-mile limit.—Allowed.

David Hastie to be assessed for lot 14, To. Allandale, instead of A. Johnston.—Allowed.

R. H. Campbell to be relieved from the assessment of Mrs. Fife's house in Keene.—Allowed. S. Leeson was assessed as tenant; Mrs. Fife owner.

Robert Knox to be relieved from the assessment of lot 13, Tp. Allandale.—Allowed. Allen Eason was assessed for it.

Wm. Campbell, who has retired from the business of merchant tailor, asked to be relieved of his business assessment.—Allowed.

James Manley over assessed, ordered that he be assessed for $3,000 instead of $3,400.

RAILWAY FROM MILLBROOK TO COBOURG IS PROPOSED

Is For Midland Division Grain Route of Grand Trunk—Survey Will be Commenced Soon.

Cobourg, June 4.—Mr. A. S. Going, locating engineer, was in town this week getting ready to locate a route from Millbrook to a point at or near Cobourg for the proposed Midland division grain route of the Grand Trunk. So far the route has been laid out from Midland through Lindsay, to Millbrook. From Cobourg to Millbrook there are two proposed routes. One is from a point near Hamilton House, across country to Millbrook. Another is to run out the old Harwood and Rice Lake railway about four miles, then across the country to Plainville to Millbrook. Mr. Going will be assisted by six other engineers, and expects to commence work from here about June 20th. He is one of the best locating engineers in America, and laid out the Grand Trunk Pacific route from Edmonton to Prince Rupert; also different routes on the Missouri Pacific. The main point on this proposed route seems to be to avoid the heavy grades of the present route to Port Hope, so as to give the large freight trains for grain, etc., quick trips from Midland on.

MOST TUNEFUL OPERA WRITTEN

The Daintiest Musical Play in Years "The Gingerbread Man" Will be at Grand Next Saturday

Very few comic operas of recent years have given such unbounded satisfaction as the "Gingerbread Man." This piece was originally presented some three years ago by a millionaire at Malden, Mass. by the name of Converse, who put something like one hundred thousand dollars in its production and the first year that it toured the country the entourage was so elaborate that no theatres could hold sufficient money to pay its expenses. It of course made an unusual hit as the production was magnificent. It also demonstrates the fact that the music was of unusual quality and so pleased everybody that they were anxious to see it again and again. Some of the numbers were classics in a way and formed part of the nucleus of many individual music writers. Music stores had a large sale and everybody was whistling the 'Gingerbread Man.' The book by Frederick G. Rankin is rather fantastic in character, yet it served to binge together a lot of clever lyrics and some very funny comedy, and the character of Margery Daw, Simple Simon, Jack Horner, King Bunn, regained their standing in almost every household that had been represented at the performance of this clever opera.

The "Gingerbread Man" received a royal welcome everywhere and its catchy songs and amusing sayings were repeated by everybody. "Every Little Something," "If You Believe in Santa Claus," "Old Rameses," "John Dough" and other songs in the piece were frequently quoted and seemed to have an uncommon vogue for a long time after the opera had left the city, and demonstrated the fact that the whole fabric of the piece is built on uncommon lines and the genuine comic opera properly presented has longevity and will continue to please long after the so-called musical comedy has passed out of vogue.

The original No. 1 company will be seen on its presentation here at the Grand Opera House, on Saturday, June 12th, matinee and night.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York Styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as, Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel, in Peterborough, Friday, June 18. 3d1w.

THIS BOOK SHOULD HELP TO ESTABLISH IDENTITY

Of Man Whose Body Was Found Yesterday Floating in the Otonabee—Inquest Held Last Night at Fraserville—Post Mortem To-day.

Nothing has developed to establish the identity of the body of the man found floating in the Otonabee Friday night. Coroner Dr. Gray opened an inquest over the body at Fraserville last night, at which the following jurors were empannelled: J. T. Latimer, foreman; Wm. Henry, Wm. McElmoyle, Thomas Cowling, Thomas Latimer, Richard Latimer, James Stewart, George Trotter, Jas. Trotter, John Hopkins, Allan Kidd, James Tamlin.

High County Constable Cochrane was at the scene of the discovery of the body yesterday, and left the body at the river bank until it was viewed by the jury last night.

After the jury had viewed the body the coroner ordered a post-mortem to be held to-day, and the inquest was adjourned until next Friday night, when it will be re-opened at the Orange Hall, Fraserville.

A small book that was found on the should be of service in establishing the identity. The man was evidently a laborer, as a rough account of the time worked by himself apparently has been kept in the book, which was shown the Review this morning by Mr. Cochrane. An account had been kept to December 1st, and from all appearances the man had been drowned in winter. The account ceases at the date mentioned, and from the clothing found on the body would bear out this inference.

The first name on the first leaf of the book looks like J. Truaish; the second is not at all discernible, and the other name appears to be Horton. Three names is all there are on this page.

On the second page the names of several local business firms and that of the proprietor of the C.P.R. Hotel are given. The man had evidently owed a small account to the hotel. The Peterborough Hardware Co. and Parker's Laundry are among the business places included in the list, which is a small one.

Owing to the length of time the book has been in the water, it is very difficult to make out some of the writing in it. It is remarkable, however, that it is as plain as it is under the circumstances.

PETERBORO'S CRACK BAND SHOWS MARKED IMPROVEMENT

Bandmaster Gliddon's Organization Presented a Splendidly Played Programme in Park Concert Last Night—Opening of Summer Band Season.

This year the 57th regimental band will be able to easily live up to its reputation as one of the highest rank bands in eastern Canada. At its opening summer concert at Victoria park the band played in a delightfully pleasing way before the usual large park audience. It was generally remarked that the band has improved considerably since last season and unusually interesting programmes are looked for during the summer months.

Bandmaster Gliddon showed splendid judgment in his choice of selections for the opening concert and the band was thoroughly rehearsed for the programme it presented. The ensemble work showed excellent balance and evenness of tone and the different soloists played in a highly satisfactory and musicianly manner.

The opening number was "Old Brigade" march, a rousing selection that served to display the concerted strength of the band. The march is a capital one and has quite a range of tone variety. The Barber of Seville overture was heard for the first time at the park and was shown splendid appreciation. There is probably no more appealing arrangement in the band's repertoire than this masterpiece of Rossini's.

Bandsman Cronk scored a hit in his euphonium number with band accompaniment, "Une Serenade." His new double bell euphonium was used for the solo and the instrument is an excellent one producing a strong true tone and can be heard to advantage in all parts of the park.

The ever popular "Lola" was one of the best received numbers of the evening and some of the exquisite classics of the southland were introduced in "Reminiscences of the Plantation." "The Concert Mazurka" was much enjoyed and it is needless to remark that the medley "Don't Take me Home" found immediate favor.

The march "King Radium" closed a very fine programme.

The famous musical production "The Gingerbread Man," Grand Opera House, Saturday, June 12th. Matinee and night.

REV. E. A. PEARSON SPOKE AT BELLEVILLE CONFERENCE

Address on "The Kind of Preaching Our Age Demands"—Dr. Chown Says He Hopes to See Brantford and Peterborough Carry Local Option.

Special to the Review.

Belleville, June 4—The feature of today's sessions of the Bay of Quinte Conference was an address by Rev. D. Chown on the work for temperance reform throughout Canada. He hoped to see Brantford and Peterborough carry local option laws next year.

Dr. Chown also delivered a rap at race track gambling. He did not believe in the "scum of American black legs" coming to Canada and robbing the hard working class of all their money at every race meet. In a couple of years he expected to secure strict legislation against race track gambling.

He referred to social conditions of "the ward" in Toronto and suggested securing an expert sociologist to study conditions.

The simplification of the catechism and a restating of the doctrine in it was the recommendation made by the Sunday school and extension committee also a suggestion that no Sunday schools be closed during the summer months. These will be sent to general conference for consideration. To show loyal support to the Lord's Day Alliance the Sabbath observance committee suggested that every pastor severely criticize pleasure indulged in on Sundays by motoring, boating, bicycling and fishing.

A decrease of 348 in the membership of the church in the conference was reported, the present membership being 40,240. Sunday school membership is 40,245, an increase of 199, and Epworth League 8635, an increase of 455. The total givings were $381,549, an increase of $36,352.

Rev. E. A. Pearson, of Peterborough in moving a resolution tonight to receive into ministry and ordain on Sunday G. C. McQuade and W. W. Jones, spoke on the "Ministry for Our Times, or the Kind of Preaching Our Age Demands." This was not an age of doubt, he maintained, but an age of struggle against doubt in the interest of a finer faith which was really the result of hunger for truth of restlessness, activity and mental improvement of age. Speaking a good word for Jesus was what a preacher should do, rather than indulge in criticism of the good Book.

LORD ROSEBERY SPEAKS AT THE PRESS CONFERENCE

In Serious Address Great Britain Statesman Tells of the Present Ferment in Europe Which is Forcing Britain to Her Utmost to Build Defensive Vessels—Will "Renew Her Youth in Her Dominions."

London, June 7.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The most representative gathering of British newspaper men ever held, occurred Saturday evening at the Garden Club, at Shepherd's Bush, when 1,000 journalists of the United Kingdom gave a banquet in honor of the 57 colonial delegates to the Imperial Press Congress that is to open at the Foreign Office on Monday.

While the Londoners predominated, every section of the British Isles sent a delegate to welcome the colonial visitors who have come to London from all corners of the Empire.

Lord Burnham presided at the banquet. Lord Rosebery delivered the speech of welcome to the pressmen, and the reply was made by Sir Hugh Graham of Montreal.

Lord Rosebery, an orator of empire and master of eloquence, humor, satire and impassioned invocation, was greeted most enthusastically on rising to propose the toast, "Our Guests."

Lord Rosebery was particularly serious in his reference to the European situation, pointing out that whereas all the talk is of peace all the action is in preparation for war. He said he regarded the outlook as ominous, almost appalling.

He had never seen the condition of things in Europe so remarkable and so menacing as at this moment.

There were features of this general preparation for war, he declared, which must cause special anxiety to the friends of the British Empire.

One was forced to wonder where it was going to stop, whether it would merely bring Europe back into a state of barbarism or whether it would cause a catastrophe in which the working man of the world would say "We will have no more of this madness and this foolery, which is grinding us to powder."

Then they came to a question of close union between the Empire. That was most vital of all. (Cheers.) It was perfectly certain that if they were to build up the Empire they could only do it by the freest knowledge of each other's wants and ideas. He remembered when he was in Canada thirty-three years ago that the news which reached Canada from the Mother Country had not passed through wholly favorable friendly channels. All that was changed now, and he was quite certain that no such abuses now existed.

If they wanted to hold the Empire closer together, their first and main method must be by the cheapest means of communication. (Cheers.) No one could have lived as long as he had without seeing the enormous improvement in our British press with regard to news from the Empire beyond the seas. (Cheers.)

"On the duty of national defence," said Rosebery, "we can and will build Dreadnoughts, or whatever the newest type of ship may be, as long as we have a shilling to spend on them, or a man to put in them, but I am not sure that it may be your duty to take back to your young Dominions across the seas this message, this impression, that some personal duty and responsibility for national defence rests upon every man and citizen of the Empire. (Loud cheers.)

"Tell your people, if they can believe it, the deplorable conditions in which Europe is rattling into barbarism, and the pressure that is put upon this little England to defend itself, its liberties and yours. (Loud cheers.)

"Take this message also back with you, that the old country is right at heart, that there is no failing or weakness in her, and that she rejoices in renewing her youth in her giant dominions beyond the seas. (Cheers.)

"For her own salvation, she must look to herself, and that failing her, she must look to you."

At the close Lord Rosebery was cheered again and again, the audience rising to sing "He is a jolly good fellow."

Sir Hugh Graham, in responding, thanked the gathering for the warmth of their welcome, spoke of the necessity of the journalists joining forces for the good of their county in their great national crisis.

Referring to the defence of the Empire, Sir Hugh said that for long years Canada, under both political parties, had been sponging on the Motherland for protection. Both political parties in Great Britain had been too indulgent a parent to ask us to pay a share, and we had been too mean to offer it, but a change was impending, inspired by the pluck of New Zealand and Australia, colonies ever in the van. Canada had agreed to send delegates to discuss the problem with the British Government and it must be gratifying to the whole British world that the commonwealth, dominions, colonies and dependencies had offered hearty co-operation in this movement, which had originated with the press, was supported by the people, and is now espoused by the political parties. (Loud cheers.)

The colonial visitors will make a strong plea for the reduction of cable rates and the laying of a Government cable across the Atlantic, as suggested by Hon. Mr. Lemieux, the Postmaster-General of Canada, thus linking up the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia and New Zealand by an "all-red line." A movement will be started also for the establishment of an imperial press association and the interchange of news between the colonies and England.

The meeting of the Canadian delegates to the Imperial Press Conference elected J. S. Brierly of The Montreal Herald president, and Macdonald, Halifax, secretary. Later the Australian and Canadian delegates met electing J. S. Brierly president.

THE DELEGATES ARE ARRIVING

Members of Women's Congress Reach Canada From Faraway Lands

Toronto, June 7.—The delegates from India, Tasmania and Australia for the Women's Quinquiennial Congress have arrived in Vancouver, and those from Norway and Sweden have also landed in America. On June 8, Mrs. Willoughby Cummings will leave Toronto to meet them in Montreal, along with the others who will have come from over the seas. There they will enjoy the hospitality of the local council and a series of most interesting entertainments has been planned. Ottawa has also arranged a cordial welcome for them and on June 16 the whole force is expected in Toronto.

Here the first week will be given wholly to business, and the second to the work of the congress, and both will be varied by multitudinous social events. On the evening of June 30 a farewell reception will be given for the delegates in the Parliament buildings, which have been placed at the disposal of the council by Sir James Whitney, who will also preside at one of the evening meetings. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is to be another speaker.

TWO DROWNINGS AT SMITH'S FALLS

Smith's Falls, June 7.—Two men who were fishing in Rideau Lake Saturday found the body of a man floating on the water. The body was identified as that of Israel Early, an old resident at this place. He and another man McCormack, left town on Tuesday to do some work at Dart's cottage, on the south shore of the lake, about seven miles from here, but there is no evidence of the men having been there, and the supposition is that the boat was swamped as they turned to go into the bay where the cottage is located. This is a particularly rough part of the lake and a stiff breeze was blowing when they left here. An upturned boat was seen in that vicinity on Wednesday. McCormack's body has not yet been found. He was an elderly man; but very little is known of him here. Early was 65 years of age, a widower with a grown-up family.

A negro resident of Reginia was found guilty of perjury.

An abattoir to cost $100,000 is likely to be built in Kamloops, B.C.

MONTREAL RIVER CLAIMS TWO MORE

Cobalt, June 7.—The Montreal river has claimed two more lives. On Wednesday Frank Taylor was drowned at Mountain Chutes, when he and two companions were overturned from a canoe in the rapids, and on Thursday a prospector, name unknown, was drowned at Red Pine Point, 12 miles north of Latchford, by the upsetting of a canoe. A companion was saved. The bodies of Herman Sager, drowned at Red Pine Point, 12 miles north of Latchford; Walter Wright, drowned at Elk Lake, and Melvin Zimmerman, at Shining Tree Lake, have not been recovered.

WRITS ISSUED AGAINST CITY

Vancouver, B.C., June 7.—Writs have been served on the city solicitor at the instance of Davis, Marshall & MacNeill, solicitors for E. L. Kinman and his associates, whereby the city is held to be liable to the total amount of $100,000, for alleged wrongful treatment of Kinman and his men in connection with the seizure and maintenance of possession of Deadman's Island by the city police early last week.

The statement in connection with the writ is that the claim is made for false arrest and malicious prosecution.

CHURCH UNION A BACK NUMBER?

Committee Cannot Accept Resolution of General Synod of Anglican Church

Special to the Review.

Toronto, June 7.—The Joint Committee on Church Union, representing Methodists, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, have passed resolutions declaring that the resolution of the General Synod of the Anglican Church in regard to church union requires the acceptance of Episcopacy as a prior condition of negotiations, and therefore, they are unable to accede to this condition.

This practically means the severance of negotiations.

Lethbridge will have a truant officer.

An enthusiastic movement is on foot in Winnipeg to provide public play grounds for the youngsters.

TOYS AWAKE

Benefit of the Children's Aid Society, in the Grand Opera House, To-Night and To-Morrow Night.

The spectacular entertainment, "Toys Awake," will be given in the Opera House to-night and to-morrow night (Monday and Tuesday) under the patronage of the following Peterborough ladies:—

Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Mrs. Peter Campbell, Mrs. Henry Ritchie, Mrs. W. R. Hill, Mrs. R. J. Devey, Mrs. A. W. Cressman, Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mrs. H. Rush, Mrs. R. H. Fortye, Mrs. R. Neil, Miss Morrow, Mrs. A. Montizambert, Mrs. E. L. Goodwill, Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, Miss Halliday, Miss McNulty, Mrs. H. LeBrun, Mrs. George Munroe, Miss Brown, Mrs. Mulholland.

In this great local spectacular production, Mayor Rush will appear as King and Miss Belcher as Queen. The roll of Fairy Queen will be taken by Mrs. Dickson Hall, and they will be supported by about 250 of well-known young people and children of our city.

The play, if we may judge from the rehearsals and what the press in other cities say of it, has a real merit. Aside from the merit, the worthy cause for which it is given, should draw two big houses. The following are a few of the play characters who will take leading parts:

TO BE MADE JUDGE IN THE HIGH COURT?

Rumor Has it That Mr. Daniel O'Connel K. C. Will be Given High Court Judgeship

It is rumored that Mr. Daniel O'Connell, K.C., of Peterborough, senior partner of the legal firm of O'Connell & Gordon, is to be made a judge of the High Court of Justice at Toronto. There are two vacancies in the High Court to be filled, and it is supposed he will fill that made by the recent removal of Judge Anglin to the Supreme Court. Mr. O'Connell is a man of well-known ability and fine legal attainments, and his high reputation has made this appointment a probability for some time. The Review congratulates Mr. O'Connell on his good fortune of the near future, if not already decided upon, and, while Peterborough will lose a high-minded and valuable citizen, the bench will be the gainer.

Following are the officials—
Pres—His Worship Mayor Giddy.
Vice-Pres.—T. B. Chalk.
Treasurer—E. Brown.
Sec.-Pro tem—F. L. Curtis.

IF GOVERNMENT HAD ONLY KNOWN

Special to the Review

Toronto, Ont., June 7.—Senator Archie Campbell surprised the Liberals of Centre York at the annual meeting in Thornhill Saturday by declaring that if the Government had known as much before as now, the Newmarket canal, which Conservatives condemn, would never have been built.

It will cost over one million.

ARCHBISHOP CALLED AWAY

Death at Ottawa of Most Rev. Jos. T. Duhamel—Was Ill Only a Short Time

Ottawa, June 7.—Most Rev. Joseph Duhamel, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Ottawa, died suddenly Saturday night at Casselman, whither he had gone with the intention of presiding at a confirmation class yesterday.

The late archbishop had been in failing health for a couple of years, but had pursued his duties with scarcely an interruption. On Saturday he showed weakness after the work of the morning, and was advised not to go to Casselman. He could not be persuaded, however, and shortly after his arrival he expired, the immediate cause of death being an affection of the heart.

Archbishop Duhamel was born at Contrecoeur, Que., 68 years ago, but shortly after his birth his parents removed to Ottawa, where he was educated until his ordination to priesthood in 1863. He became successively priest of Buckingham, Que., and St. Eugene County, Ont., and in 1874 was appointed Bishop of Ottawa, on the death of Bishop Guigues. In 1886 he was created Archbishop of Ottawa.

He was a knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre, a Roman Count, and chancellor of the University of Ottawa.

The body was immediately removed to Ottawa, and lies in state at the Basilica, where it was viewed yesterday by large numbers. The funeral will take place on Thursday. Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal and Archbishop McEvay of Toronto will deliver orations in French and English respectively.

BIG EXPLOSION IN A COBALT STREET

Cobalt, June 7.—Nearly a case of dynamite went off on one of the main streets of the town. The dynamite was in the bottom of a toolbox, where the men were cutting off ten feet of the hill opposite the public school on Grandview avenue. In some manner fire got into the box and the workmen were warned. They just got out of the pit in which they were working when the explosion occurred.

Not a person received a scratch, which is considered miraculous, as the fire alarm had just rung, and the people were flocking to the scene of the explosion when the dynamite went off.

WAGE BATTLE IN PRISON CORRIDORS

Tiflis, June 7.—A desperate battle was fought in the prison here, which ended in the killing of eight prisoners, and two wardens and the mortally wounding of four wardens and two soldiers.

Five convicts who were condemned to death, while being transferred to the death cells, overpowered the wardens, wounding and disarming them. They ran through the corridors, shooting down everyone they encountered. They were finally brought to bay by a detachment of wardens, but refused to surrender.

ACTION TO BE TAKEN AGAINST MAGISTRATE

Glace Bay, N.S., June 7.—The criminal libel suit brought by Rev. D. McGregor, D.D., against John J. Cameron, M.D., of Antigonish, came to an abrupt close when the magistrate dismissed the case on the ground that he had no jurisdiction. It is reported that an action claiming $10,000 damages for false arrest, has been brought by Dr. Cameron against the magistrate who issued the warrant upon which Dr. Cameron was arrested charged with libel. The constable who executed the warrant will also be proceeded against.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

This is the growing time in Southern Alberta.

Abram Young, a Delaware farmer, dropped dead at London. He was 70 years of age.

The United States imported 670,000 cords of spruce pulpwood from Canada last year.

Lady Aberdeen stated at New York that 12,000 persons die of consumption in Ireland yearly.

The trial of the election petition against L. E. Prouse, M.P., has been adjourned until Sept. 14.

Andrew Pattullo, who escaped from the Toronto Asylum six weeks ago, was recaptured at Niagara Falls.

Dennis O'Connor, W. K. Kelly and J. Lowry were ordained to the priesthood at London by Archbishop McEvay.

Prince Henry of Prussia stated at a meeting of the Navy League in Berlin that Germany needed a powerful navy to assure peace.

John Murphy, a butcher, became suddenly insane while at work in a packing-house at Somerville, Mass., and killed five of his fellow-employes.

C.P.R. conductors in the west object to recent regulations adopted by the company to prevent people from riding free, and their grievance committee is now waiting on the report of Vice-President Whyte, who is at Montreal interviewing the executive in regard to the matter.

STARTLING REPORT OF AN ANGLO-RUSSIAN SUZERAINTY

Having in View the Control of Persia—Vossische-Zeitung of Berlin Publishes a Story Bearing all the Marks of Authenticity to the Effect That the Two Powers Will Control the Shah's Realm in Near Future.

London, June 7.—(New York Sun Cable.)—A political sensation of the first magnitude was created throughout Europe Saturday by the publication in the semi-official Vossische Zeitung of Berlin, of the circumstantial announcement that Great Britain and Russia have assumed joint suzerainty over Persia. The terms of the treaty which the paper declares has been adopted are such as to competely deprive the Shah's kingdom of its independence, and to reduce the country almost to the vassalage of Egypt.

The Vossische Zeitung gives the terms of the treaty, which, it says, has been signed not only by Great Britain and Russia, but by Persia, as follows:

First—The Shah is to restore the constitution, without alteration, and proclaim a general amnesty.

Second—All the financial affairs of Persia shall be controlled by Great Britain and Russia.

Third—All Ministerial nominations shall be subject to the approval of Great Britain and Russia.

Fifth—Persia shall contract no loan without the consent of Great Britain and Russia.

Sixth—Great Britain and Russia undertake to protect the Shah from all acts of violence on the part of the Persian people.

Seventh—They guarantee the safety of life and property and of the throne of the Shah.

Eighth—They guarantee a large loan to Persia.

This startling announcement, considering its source and the intrinsic evidence of its official inspiration, received full credence until a few hours later, when the British Foreign Office issued a denial of its authenticity. The statement was broadly to the effect that there was no foundation for the statements of the Vossische Zeitung. But it was admitted that some weeks ago Great Britain and Russia made joint representations to the Shah respecting the advisability of a restoration of the constitution.

This denial can hardly be accepted as disproving the matter. The Persian situation has reached such a critical stage that both Great Britain and Russia decided recently that it was imperative to deal with it by radical measures.

LEAPS TO RESCUE WIFE; HEROIC ATTEMPT MADE

Buffalo Man Tries to Save Wife From Committing Suicide and Bank Gives Way While Rescuers Are Trying to Get Couple Ashore—Rope is Secured About Man's Neck—Children Watch Mother Drown.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., June 7.—One of the most sensational of Niagara tragedies ever recorded took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when Mrs. Sarah Cohen, 24 years old, of No. 463 Broadview, Buffalo, committed suicide by jumping into the river from the second Sister Island, and her husband, Lewis Cohen, 27 years old, narrowly escaped death in an effort to rescue her.

The three children of the Cohens, as well as a nephew of Mr. Cohen, witnessed the tragedy.

In the effort to rescue the husband from a fate similar to that of his wife Representative James S. Simmons, Reservation Officer Charles J. Martin, Cohen's nephew, and two other men who assisted them, narrowly escaped being thrown into the rapids, when the bank upon which they were standing while hauling at a rope attached to Cohen suddenly gave way.

The affair created the wildest excitement on the State Reservation, and hundreds of people gathered on the bank of the Second Sister Island. Mrs. Cohen's body lodged on a rock near the brink of the falls, and was recovered at 7.15.

The family came to the falls for Sunday, and while walking Mrs. Cohen suddenly became hysterical from the heat and jumped into the swift current above the Falls. Cohen jumped in, seized his wife's body, and with the other hand gripped a log.

In the meantime, the cries of the children attracted Martin and Simmons. The officer hurried to the shelter house of Good Island for a rope. When he returned he found Cohen alone, the terrific current having torn his wife from his arms as his strength gradually grew less. One end of the rope was floated down to the unfortunate man and has had just strength enough to slip the noose about his neck. Fearing that to haul on it in that position would result in strangling the man, those on shore shouted to him to slip it down about his waist, but the force of the current and the waning strength of Cohen made that impossible. He did manage to twist it about his wrists a couple of times and those on the bank began to haul him in.

Hardly had the strain been placed on the rope when the bluff on which the rescuing party was standing gave way, and carried them almost into the river. Fortunately they hung to the line, and when secure footing was again found they succeeded in hauling Cohen to shore, more dead than alive.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

To Press Charges Against the Chief.

New York, June 7.—New York policemen, who have complained from time to time of severe disciplinary measures, styled by some "West Point hazing methods," have taken advantage of the action instituted against Police Commissioner Bingham by Supreme Court Judge Gaynor of Brooklyn. They have retained counsel, with the idea of preferring additional charges against their chief, to be heard by Mayor McClellan.

Deficits Reported.

Hamilton, June 7.—At the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church Saturday morning the reports of the Halifax, Montreal and Knox Colleges were given. The two former had deficits of about $2,000, this being the first year in its history that the Montreal College did not make both ends meet, while Knox College was $7,000 behind.

Woman Drank Acid.

Fort William, June 7.—Mrs. Florence Brown committed suicide yesterday morning shortly before noon by drinking carbolic acid. Her husband is at present working in Saskatchewan, though the woman was living here with a man named Stewart, who came here a few months ago from Kenora.

Vancouver's Legal Department.

Vancouver, June 7.—Geo. H. Cowan, M.P., has resigned the city solicitorship with the understanding that the City Council intends to create a legal department which will devote its whole time to civic business.

Found Father Dead an Step.

Peterboro, June 7.—When Lulu, little daughter of Robert Walsh, returned home she found her father sitting at the door dead. He was 55 years of age. Death was caused by heart trouble.

Drowns While Bathing.

Otterville, Ont., June 7.—Arthur Tavannier, a young Englishman working here, was drowned in the Otter River while bathing. He had no relatives in this country except a sister in Walkerville.

No Damage to Wheat.

Winnipeg, June 7.—At midnight, reports from the west indicate no damage from the cold snap, and at most the frost nipping the leaves would delay it but little and actually straighten the plants. Saturday afternoon it began to rain in central Saskatchewan, and spread gradually eastward, Moosejaw, Bethune, Regina, Brandon and finally Winnipeg, all having good refreshing rains. The ground was thoroughly warmed before the cold snap, and with the rain, the temperature rose, but fell again last night.

Dutch Princess Christened.

The Hague, June 7.—Princess Juliana, the infant daughter of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, was christened in the Lutheran Church Saturday with simple ceremonial.

After listening to a long sermon, the text of which was taken from the Gospel of St. Luke, Her Majesty presented the infant for baptism. After this ceremony the choir chanted the 134th Psalm.

Danger is Past at Elk River.

Fernie, June 6.—The Elk river is now subsiding. No further damage is reported. All bridges are repaired and trains are running as usual.

Ex-Banker Arrested.

Binghamton, N.Y., June 7.—Chas. P. Knapp, president of the Outing Publishing Co., which is now in the hands of receivers, owner of Knapp's Millionaire Bank, and in charge of the defunct bank of Knapp Bros. in deposit, New York, was arrested Saturday on the complaint of Edith Crowley, on a charge of accepting a deposit of $50 after he knew the institution was insolvent.

Black Hand Artist is Recaptured.

Fernie, June 7.—Joseph Rameira, the Italian charged with blackhand threats, who escaped from jail here on Tuesday, was seen yesterday by the Canadian agent at Elko.

The police were notified and Rameira was captured about 9 o'clock and was brought into Fernie on the Great Northern train.

THE GLOBE AND PROTECTION

Protection is so natural and reasonable a means of providing not only a reasonable degree of what its name implies but a balance-wheel and self-adjuster for the whole world of international commerce that it is not surprising that its opponents fall into many pitfalls in abusing it. The Globe approves of a heavy export duty on pulp wood. Its reason for so doing is the necessity of keeping our raw material for our own people so that the work upon it may be done by Canadians and not by Americans. If the Globe were consistent it would stoutly maintain that the pulpwood question like all other trade questions should be an open one. Let freedom of trade, of competition and of supply and demand settle the question according to nature's laws. But the folly of this attitude when applied to the pulpwood problem is so apparent as to make it altogether unarguable hence the Globe approving kicks away the last support it had in maintaining the inviolability of the great principle of Free Trade.

We are not complaining of the Globe's breaking away from its ancient and often ludicrous moorings, but we do blame it for contributing so much to the confusion of the mind of the electorate in so important a matter. Protectionists admit the natural correctness of the principle of Free Trade where it is really free on all sides. But where one nation seeks to get an advantage over another by ignoring that principle it is folly to keep right on in the same old way. Do we not see the case as it really is every day? An ardent free-trader will admit that the very industries for which he prays would not have come if the n.p. had not stood against them otherwise. Yet he will obstinately decry Protection even while profiting by it. What the Globe is to blame for is just that very same fault. It knows that free trade is impossible in this age and yet it pretends that it does not. This pretence is not only hypocritical, it is harmful.

THE NEW CANADA

Canada, according to Laurier, shall from now on consist in the western wheat fields and the route to the sea. Everything else is sacrificed to this present day madness. Seven millions of people, half of whom are looking for work, are invited to bonus the millionaires for doing something that other millionaires offer to do better for nothing. The C.N.R. is even now a transcontinental railway with an immense network of connections both in Ontario and the west. It has cost the country nothing. Whey then did Sir Wilfrid commit us to the G.T.P. scheme, in which we tie up millions of money that might have been borrowed for something else? Then comes the prospect of the Georgian Bay Canal to complete our discomfiture. We are supposed to build an outlet to the sea and an inlet to the wheat-fields. Ontario, that provides most of the money, is side-tracked. We become quite a secondary member of the Canadian federation. If these schemes go through the Province of Ontario, unless Whitney saves it, will be a way-station on the national through-route from the west to the ports of Quebec. Canada will be all ends and no middle. The spending of much money has caught the man with goods to sell. In the scramble he expects to get some. Ditto with the grafter. Meanwhile the steady-going, hard-working man pays for it and gets little, if not worse than little. A commercial tornado is not statesmanship.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The slogan in the good old days was "the truth shall make you free." Nowadays it is "We want to be free so that we can get after truth."

It is said that this is the dried-apple age and that the swelling power of dried-apples would run most of the machines on the continent if properly applied. Our city council might look into this.

The auto is getting down in shape to what it auto be, viz.: a carriage and pair in all but the horses, and not an imitation of a combined steam-engine and lumber waggon.

The Times, our morning contemporary, is entering the field of local journalism with a vengeance. First it secures high-priced machines for the paper, and then touring-cars and pianos for its subscribers. Let the buz-waggons buz.

The protests which have not been settled amicably are those against the election of Hon. James R. Stratton, Liberal, in West Peterborough, and Mr. William Thoburn, Conservative, in North Lanark. The Stratton case has been far advanced, certain branches of it having been carried to the Supreme Court and decided there.—Ottawa Free Press (Liberal.)

OF INTEREST

To the Editor.—Keep that fact in your mind, that of the 2,778,310 enlistments in the Union Army, 2,159,798 were under 21 years of age. There is a mighty suggestion in it. What is the suggestion? What does it mean? It simply means that boys like to fight, that's all. Talk about "youth's uncompromising answer to a problem of right and wrong," and "the boys of the late '50s who could not sleep well o' nights for thinking of the horrors of the slave pen," etc. Fiddlesticks! You know well enough, or ought to know, that the average Union soldier cared no more for the "Niggers" than did the confederate soldiers. The right or wrong of the terrible conflict he was entering was a thing he never thought of. He went to war to "give the rebs hell," and that's all he knew or cared about it.

Suppose we had a war now and government agents were sent out to get recruits. Where in this city could he, with the least effort and in the shortest time, get a bunch of recruits? At the Gayety theatre, or some such place. If the time were ripe, with a good speech and a moving picture machine he could probably get 75 per cent. of them. Do these boys who frequent the Gayety lay awake nights thinking up schemes of bettering the conditions of their fellow-men, of righting wrongs, of delivering the weak, or of doing any good to anybody, either by violence or peaceful means? Hardly. Yet these boys would be the first to volunteer.

Suppose you took two bunches of young men. They've got to be young mind you, the same in all respects, except those of one bunch all had police records and the other had not. If the call were made which bunch would give the greater number of volunteers? You know, but you probably wouldn't like to say. The very same propensity which led these young men to commit acts of violence which land them in jail is the same that would lead them to go to war "for the sake of their country." Simply a love of fighting and violence, which is present to some extent in all boys, and gradually decreases as they grow older. I would not like to say anything to hurt the feelings of any old vet, but it seems surprising that with all that is said about the war, nothing is said in regret about that terrible carnival of murder which was useless and nearly fruitless. The best we can say in extenuation of the crime is to blame it on a lot of irresponsible, thoughtless boys, who, boylike, "didn't know what they were doing."

Yours respectfully,
D. DAVIDSON.

Detroit, May 31st.

BRIDESMAIDS' GIFTS.

Novel Way of Presenting Souvenirs to Wedding Attendants.

At a recent wedding the bride hit on a novel way of presenting the souvenirs to her bridesmaids that added much to the interest of the occasion.

After much looking she found in a Russian art store a number of fascinating old silver belt buckles, such as are worn by the peasants in Russia.

The one drawback was that eight buckles alike were not to be purchased. But the girl hit on the happy plan of making the bridesmaids draw for their own gifts.

Each buckle was done up daintily in a box used for the wedding cake, with the monogram of the bride and groom on top. These were put in the center of a wedding bell of white garden chrysanthemums, and a white ribbon with a small heart, cut from silver paper, was attached to each package.

The bell was a homemade affair, made from fine wire, with the flowers stuck in through the meshes. Each stem was wrapped in damp sphagnum moss to keep it fresh.

The boxes were concealed in the top of the bell above the clapper. A wire shelf was run across, with an opening on one side, through which the boxes were slipped. The shelf was hidden by being wound with greens.

Each heart had a number on the wrong side, which was repeated on the box to avoid mistakes.

At the close of the wedding supper the bride rose and said, "I will now ask my bridesmaids to wish me good luck by ringing my marriage bell."

Each girl was then directed to take hold of the first ribbon she could reach and pull the bell gently seven times. In order not to bring bell, boxes and all down on the table, the pulling was very light.

At the close of the ringing each girl was told to gently draw her ribbon toward her, one at a time. This took the small boxes from the shelf without possibility of breakage.

The boxes when opened were found to contain, in addition to an old buckle, a small card with the date of the wedding, the initials of the bride and groom and a merry jingle appropriate to the occasion.

Washing Crepe de Chine.

How many people know that washing crepe de chine is no more difficult than washing a frock of colored muslin? Yet the fact is that a frock of crepe de chine in a delicate color will come out of four or five washings as triumphantly as a piece of white linen. In performing the operation only tepid water must be used, and the goods should be left in as short a time as possible. White castile or some other fine soap should be employed, and the garment must be thoroughly rinsed, half dried and pressed on the wrong side with a medium hot iron. Great heat is not needed and is, in fact, injurious.

If of a delicate tint the garment must be dried in a sunless place and left in an equally shady spot after pressing.

Flower Sachets.

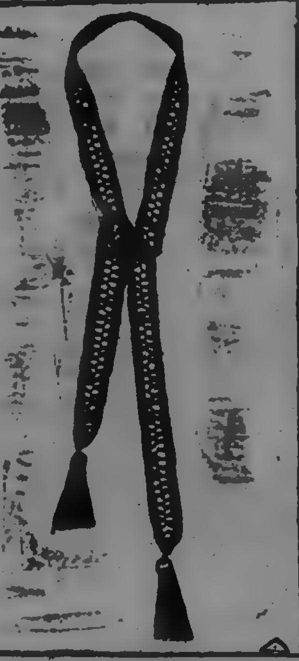
Flower sachets are extremely dainty. To make a rose sachet a little ball of perfumed cotton must be covered with crinkly pink or white silk. Petals are formed around this center with satin ribbon, and green ribbon wound around wire suggests a stem.

A tiny bit of rose foliage (bought at the hat trimming counter) is added, and the result is a very pretty rose spray.

A lovely velvet pansy will entirely conceal a little flat perfumed cushion, and a yellow and white ribbon daisy does the same service.

A Modish Accessory.

Girls are exceedingly interested in the narrow cravats which are worn around the base of a lingerie stock. They are made of velvet ribbon, they are crocheted from silk thread, and they are built of stitched silk embroidered in floss and sometimes dotted in metal beads. All of them have tassels. These are sometimes made of beads or, prettier still, of silk floss. The one illustrated is knitted of amethyst floss and finished with large, thick tassels. The handsome ones for afternoon and evening wear are of colored velvet, finished with tassels of seed pearls.



THE NEW CRAVAT.

Herbert Finch, of Winnipeg, is missing from home and his wife has no theories to explain his absence.

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gardiner, Maine.—"I have been a great sufferer from organic troubles and a severe female weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but I could not bear to think of it. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash —and was entirely cured after three months' use of them."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and renewer of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

A TINY BIT OF GROUND.

What May Be Done With a Plot Twenty by Fifty Feet.

A space 20 by 50 feet may under intensive culture be made to yield fresh vegetables for a small family through half the year. With 40 by 50 feet or 50 by 100 there can be a garden spelling riotous plenty.

Have the spading done as early as possible, use thoroughly rotted manure and supplement it with some good commercial fertilizer, either broadcasted and raked in or put in hills or drills.

It is a waste of seed, strength and time to plant a garden in poor soil. The seed will come up, the spindling plants will be harder to work than if they were luxuriant, and the resultant crop will be mostly conspicuous by its absence. So, if it be impossible to do more, make small rich beds, four feet wide and as long as the manure holds out, and sow them crosswise with such things as radishes, lettuce, cress, parsley, beets and onions. Make the rows a foot to eighteen inches apart or sow the radishes broadcast. Lettuce also yields more for broadcast sowing. Pull out the thriftiest as soon as edible and leave the rest to grow. Radish tops make excellent greens, something better flavored than mustard. By sowing thickly you can have dishes of greens.

Say the garden is 40 by 50 feet, this is something what the planting of it should be: Dwarf early peas, medium early and late peas, beets, early and later; beans in succession, including bush limas; carrots, radishes, tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers. Do not adventure upon corn unless it be sweet corn planted on the pea space as a second crop, to come in just before frost. Make an asparagus bed all across one end of the plot, setting two-year-old roots and fertilizing the bed heavily in early summer just after cutting ceases.

Peas are so hardy they may be planted before snow is past, provided, of course, the ground is right when they go in. Make it fine and light, cover the seed at least three inches deep, then tramp the earth over them, setting the feet so one track touches the other. A quart of seed will sow a hundred feet of drill the proper thickness. An ounce of beet seed will sow the same row length.—Circle Magazine.

A MINISTER'S STORY.

It Didn't Have the Intended Effect Upon the Congregation.

It is said that a New England minister once told the following story just before the collection was taken up:

"I have heard of a man, prosperous and well to do, who went to church one Sunday and put a cent—just a plain copper cent—in the collection box.

"On the way home he was overtaken by a sudden heavy shower and, having no umbrella, crawled into a hollow log by the roadside to keep himself dry until the downpour was over.

"Soon the log began to swell, and the wetter it got the more it swelled until the sides finally closed in on the prosperous citizen and held him in a grip like a vise.

"The rain ceased, but the unfortunate man was unable to move hand or foot. He shouted for help, but no one heard him. He was about to give up in despair when he suddenly thought of the cent he had dropped into the collection box that day, and it made him feel so mean and small that he crawled right out of the log without any further trouble.

"Now, if you expect to get caught in a shower and be obliged to take refuge in a hollow log on the way home, by all means put a cent in the contribution basket! If you don't anticipate a crisis of that sort—well, you will know what to do when the basket is passed."

The minister expected a shower of silver and bills to follow this story, but unfortunately just as the collection began a black cloud passed overhead, it suddenly began to sprinkle, and the pennies fairly rained into the contribution basket. Only one quarter, a solitary dime and a lone nickel were found among the coppers, and they got in before the shower began.

The congregation, it seems, had all left their umbrellas at home, and they were not taking any chances.—New York Times.

Got the Number.

Police Captain—You say that an automobile containing several persons sped along the street and struck down an old man? New Officer—Yis, sor. Police Captain—And that after chasing this auto for several blocks you finally succeeded in getting the number? New Officer—Yis, sor. Police Captain—Good! What was the number? New Officer—There wor just foive persons in th' car, sor!—Circle Magazine.

Bold Changes in City Clothing Store

H. LeBrun & Co's

Entire Stock of High-Class Cloths, Clothing and Furnishings offered at prices that will set everybody talking about this Wonderful Sale

After thirty-six years successful business history, the City Clothing Store is preparing for another decidedly forward step, which will necessitate a complete alteration and remodelling of the store. During the months of June and July a clean sweep must be made of the entire stock. This will include the splendid assortment of imported Cloths for Suitings, Overcoatings and Trouserings, as well as Men's and Boy's Ready-to-Wear Clothing, Hats, Caps, Underwear and Furnishings.

Nothing Reserved--No Half-way Measures

No halting between loss and cost. It is to be a "Regardless" Sale, and means hundreds of dollars saved to Men, Boys and Youths during the next two months.

CHANGE IN TAILORING DEPARTMENT

Owing to the ever increasing advance in the cost of Custom Tailoring in Peterborough, no more clothing will be manufactured to order on the premises after the close of this season's trade. Therefore the present extensive stock of Cloths, Tweeds, Worsteds, Serges, Vicunas, Miltons, Beavers, Etc, will positively be rushed out at and below wholesale cost. With the commencement of next fall trade, orders for First-class Tailored Garments will be taken from specially selected samples of fashionable cloths and customers will have these made up to order by expert Montreal cutters and tailors specially skilled in the best tailoring art.

The Sale Starts Saturday, June 5th

THE HOOK

It was hardly dawn, and the window was open. The intruder had clambered up the front porch, and the interior of the room looked inviting. He could see that it was the abode of some person of wealth. There were costly ornaments about the room, any one of which would bring handsome returns at a pawn-broker's. A gold clock ticked on the mantel, and a silver service glistened on the table.

On a couch lay a man sleeping heavily. His face was red, and in his hairless crown glistened in the first faint glow of day!

"This is fine," muttered the intruder. "Here's a baldheaded man first thing. The season is opening in great shape!"

And the first fly crawled over the window sill, and the season of torture had begun!

A demented young woman was found near High River, Alta. She proposed to walk from Alberta to England.

PROGRESS IN COW TESTING

Good Work the Associations are Accomplishing

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, June 5—The records of the cow testing associations show a large increase in the number of cows whose production, both as regards weight of milk and butter fat, is being noted regularly. It is no wonder that the plan appeals to the progressive dairymen of Canada, because record work must mean substantial improvement and the improved herd is the herd that produces economically.

Since commencing records many farmers have been enabled to increase the yield of milk and fat per cow considerably, because instead of contentedly saying "so many cows so much milk," each individual is studied and each member of the herd brought up to a good profit earning capacity. Herds that used to produce only 187 lb. fat are now up to 220 lb.; milk production has gone up from 4850 lb. to 6580 lb. In 1905 one herd averaged 5574 lb milk, but in 1908 the owner had brought all up to 7240 lb milk per cow. One member in 1905 keeping 9 cows obtained only 4560 lb. from each but in 1905 with 11 cows he had an average yield of 7600 lb milk. Cash receipts have increased with another member from $52 per cow in 1905, to $76 in 1908.

Instances might be multiplied, these few indicate what it means to the real dairy farmer who seeks improvement. Time spent in weighing and sampling is well spent; definite knowledge is obtained.

COULDN'T SEE THE ECLIPSE

There was an eclipse of the moon Thursday night. Miss Diana's residence rose partially clothed and proceeded to dress herself fully with the shadow of the earth. Then after an hour or so she slid out of the garment. Several hundred thousand people waited with impatience all day for the dressing-room scene. If Michigan were mountainous, and the mountains were high enough, they might have seen it, at that.

Great was the excitement when the newspapers announced the free show. Hundreds of opera glasses were rescued from the baby, who had been using them as playthings. Field glasses were taken from father's caddy bag and brother's yachting jacket. Prof. A. St. Rolozer cleaned the lenses of his telescope and carted it to the Campus Martius. He spent the entire afternoon painting a sign which read, "Eclipse on Tap, 10 Cents."

Market gardeners who supply Detroit's magnates with fresh lettuce watched their chickens go to bed without any desire to follow their example. Rubbing their eyes, they fought mosquitoes on the lawn and craned their necks to the east. The North Woodward girl (who thinks eclipses are just too sweet for anything) wouldn't go to the drug store for a sundae, for fear of missing part of the celestial phenomenon. Mike the Wanderer announced that he was a patron of the planets, and that if the moon were going into eclipse he would follow her example, and did so, schooner by schooner.

And then, just as father was announcing that the moon would rise in two minutes and five seconds, unless something had delayed it, a mist, a smoke, a haze, a fog, a cloud, poked over the place where the moon was supposed to be due. More clouds followed. Father closed his watch and took the car down town. Mother put little Jimmie and Jessie, who squalled, to bed. The North Woodward girl's thoughts turned to the drug store. Mike the Wanderer looked at the electric light and muttered, "Fine hic-clipse."—Detroit News.

TO DO GOOD SHOULD BE AIM OF ORDERS AND INDIVIDUALS

Rev. W. C. Riddiford Preaches Splendid Sermon to Canadian Order of Foresters—"Opportunity"—Its Real Significance—The True Purpose of Life.

It was an interesting and timely sermon that Rev. W. C. Riddiford preached to the local courts of Canadian Order of Foresters at the Park street Baptist church last night. The occasion was the annual church parade of the Foresters and there was an excellent representation at divine service. Mr. Riddiford took "Opportunity" as his subject and his address was effective and applicable.

After bidding the Foresters welcome Mr. Riddiford stated that he did not know all about the order they represented, but he did not know that when God put it into the hearts of men some 31 years ago to organise one more institution for the help of the afflicted and widows it was formed for no selfish purpose.

In regard to the principles of the order the speaker felt very much interested and he congratulated the Foresters on the humane part of their programme in their provision for consumptives at Muskoka. He was also interested to know that no infidel could join their ranks and that no saloon keeper could be a member. It was hoped that the order would cling tenaciously to the principles it had established.

The text for the sermon was taken from Galatians, 6—10, "As often as we have opportunity let us do good unto all men." Every man should bear his own burden. We all have to bear burdens and everyone has his individual cares. We need a fellow sympathy and a fellow love. Jesus Christ said that brotherhood was the goal of Christianhood. To do good to all was an opportunity open to everyone.

Opportunity knocked at the door but once. She knocked and then passed on and an opportunity lost could never be recovered. We should take advantage of these opportunities if they were God given. An opportunity for mere material gain was not God given. The opportunities that we should take advantage of were those for doing good mankind. Paul said, "As often as ye have opportunity do good."

God was raising all over this country of ours organisations which had for their principles doing good.

Opportunities were often lost through the mistaken conception of the real end of life. The right conception of life was to go about doing good. And we were not to simply strive for the material offerings of this world. We were here to do good at all men. The speaker gave evidence that these opportunities were numerous and while we might not be able to do them alone we could with the help of Jesus Christ.

If the members of the Canadian Order of Foresters had the touch of Christ in their lives their order would rise to the height of its ideals.

Late Judge Weller

After an illness of several months His Honor Judge Charles Alexander Weller passed away at his residence, 371 Reid street, on Saturday afternoon at 5.50 o'clock. The news of his demise spread quickly throughout the city and caused universal regret. Although it was known that the judge was in poor health, few were aware of the acute nature of his illness and his passing away came as a surprise to many citizens. On Saturday afternoon it was evident to those at the bedside that death was near. The end came quietly and peacefully.

In the death of Judge Weller, a prominent figure in the life of Peterborough is removed. His death is sincerely mourned. He was held in highest esteem by the members of the bar and his kindness of heart and quiet manner had made him popular with citizens generally.

The late Charles Alexander Weller was born in Cobourg in March 1830, being a son of the late William Weller, one of the pioneer settlers of that district. He was educated at Upper Canada College and before being called to the bar studied law with the firm of Boulton and Cockburn, of Cobourg. He was admitted to the bar in 1852 and shortly afterwards commenced the practise of his profession in Peterborough. At one time he was in partnership with the late W. H. Vizard and later with the late D. G. Hatton, father of Mr. Geo. Hatton, barrister. In 1858 he was appointed Crown Attorney and Clerk of the Peace and in 1876, jointly with his brother, the late W. H. Weller, he was appointed Local Master in the Court of Chancery. He retained the office on the death of his brother in 1880.

In 1886 the subject of this sketch was elevated to the bench, being made judge for Peterborough county, the position which he held up to the time of his death. In 1857 he was married to Miss Martha Gilchrist, daughter of Dr. Matthew Gilchrist, of Colborne, who predeceased him by eleven years. One daughter, Mrs. Dean, of this city, is left of a family of two, a son and daughter. The son died many years ago.

Judge Weller's son, Harry B., was a barrister and practiced his profession at Millbrook. Two sisters survive, Mrs. Clark, of Cobourg, and Miss Weller, of Cobourg, and one brother, Mr. J. L. Weller, C.E., of St. Catharines, Superintendent of the Welland Canal.

The late Judge Weller was one of the founders of the Peterborough Club and took an active interest in that institution until a few weeks before his death. He was a member of St. John's church.

The funeral took place this afternoon at three o'clock from his late residence, 371 Reid street, to St. John's church, where services were conducted and thence to Little Lake cemetery.

All the law offices in the city closed this afternoon at two o'clock and will remain closed until tomorrow morning. The members of the bar attended the funeral in a body. Mayor Rush and Council of the city also attended in a body.

The shops were closed during the passage of the funeral cortege.

ANOTHER PETERBORO BOY WHO THINKS WELL OF WEST

Mr. Fred Weir, of Winnipeg, and formerly of Peterborough, is in the city on a short visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Weir, Rubidge street. Mr. Weir left Peterborough for Winnipeg five years ago, and was employed at the C.G.E. prior to his departure for the west.

He is employed in the T. Eaton Company, Winnipeg, and paid a call to the Review this morning. Mr. Weir is well acquainted with Oliver Earle, formerly of this city, and now holding one of the most responsible positions with the Eaton Company's Winnipeg store.

Like practically all the others who have left the east to reside in Western Canada, Mr. Weir speaks in the highest terms of the prairie country.

"There's a great field there for all young men," he says, "in different lines of work."

The Death of Judge Weller Mourned by Legal Profession

The members of the legal profession of the county of Peterborough deeply lament the death of Charles Alexander Weller, Esquire, County and Surrogate Judge of Peterborough, who departed this life June 5th, 1909, in his eightieth year. Called to the bar in 1852, he entered the practice of his profession at Peterborough in the same year, and was appointed county attorney in 1858, and county judge in 1886.

Judge Weller endeared himself to the profession by his uniform and constant courtesy, his patience in hearing and absolute integrity and fairness of judgment. In court he heard the last word, and gave patient hearing, then, with knowledge of affairs, a judicial mind, and appreciation of the equities he rendered judgment rarely appealed from, and always received as the judgment of a just judge.

Lamented by all, he will particularly be missed by the profession which he adorned, and in whose love and respect he lived in kindly intercourse.

He served the people faithfully, and in a ripe old age died, lamented and mourned by all.

The profession tender to his bereaved family their condolence, and this expression of their respect for one whose loss will be most deeply felt, especially to those to whom he was so tender and loving.

Signed on behalf of the Peterborough Law Association.

LOUIS M. HAYES,
President.
F. L. GOODWILL,
Secretary.

EYE HAD TO BE REMOVED; INJURY TO MR. J. STANGER

Mr. John Stanger, of this city, met with a very serious accident on Thursday last while working on a boathouse for Mr. L. Potvin at Stony Island. He was driving a nail into a plank when the nail flew back and struck him in the eye.

The injury was a most painful one and as Mr. Stanger was up the lakes it was impossible to secure assistance or to get him back to town until Friday, when one of the steamers brought him to Lakefield, and from that point he came to the city on the train and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

This morning it was found necessary to remove the injured eye, the left one, Dr. Buchanan, a local eye specialist, performing the operation.

REFERRED TO AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Rev. Canon Davidson Made Feeling Reference to Death of Judge Weller

At St. John's church yesterday Rev. Canon Davidson made feeling reference to the death of His Honor Judge Weller, who was a member of the church. Sincere sympathy was extended to those who were bereaved. During the offertory Mr. George Chandler sang "Be Thou Faithful unto Death," from Mendelssohn's St. Paul. Hymn 221, "Let Saints on Earth in Concert Sing," was sung and Chopin's Funeral March was played by Mr. R. J. Devey at the conclusion of the service.

INTERFERED WITH POLICE OFFICERS

Young Man Was Mixed up in Assault on P. C. Adams on May 24th

Another young man, who was mixed up in the recent assault on P.C. Adams was in police court this morning. He was charged with interfering with the police officers who were attempting to make an arrest.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the accused, asked for a summary trial, and pleaded not guilty.

Chief Rossel was not ready to proceed with the hearing and the case was enlarged until this evening at five o'clock.

FORESTERS PASSED VOTE OF THANKS

On returning to the hall last night the Canadian Foresters were called to order by Bro. Wm. Whitcroft, C.R., who thanked the brethren for their attendance. Several members referred to the excellent sermon and the practical truths which were so forcibly drawn therefrom.

On motion, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Rev. Mr. Riddiford for his able address, also to the church officers for the use of their edifice, and to the choir for the special character of the music rendered.

The closing ode was then sung and the brethren separated.

During the summer months the offices of the Peterborough Light and Power Co. will close at 5 p.m. each day.

A farmer of Morden, Man., was accidentally shot and killed by companions while hunting gophers.

"CRESSMAN'S DEPARTMENT STORES"
THE June Bride's Home

While the first impressions are not always lasting, still they should be very favorable when the bride is brought into her new home for the first time. The first appearance often makes or mars the happiness of the young married couple. There are a great many things that go to make a home beautiful, but the most important are the wall decorations; just as the back-ground of a picture is all important, so is the back-ground of the home's furnishings.

You can demonstrate this fact in your own home by taking a piece of your nicest furniture, first place it in a room that is papered with a cheap characterless paper or perhaps none at all, note the effect, then "presto change" put the same article in a room with beautiful rich paper, THEN note the result. We specialize in this line. We're always working out schemes for wall decorating that are artistic and appropriate, schemes that would just fit the room it is wanted for. Don't forget, this is the most important feature of the new home for your bride, YOUNG MAN. Have her form favorable impressions of the home from the first time she sees it. Cressman's will help you, the cost is no more; choose home furnishings and wall decorations here—easy to select, easy to compare, for both departments are on the same floor, the third.

BODY NOT THAT OF BROTHER

Brantford Man Telephoned Dr Gray on Saturday

On Saturday night Coroner Dr. Gray received a telephone message from Brantford from a resident of that city by the name of Maracle, inquiring after a brother who had been missing since last fall. Mr. Maracle thought that perhaps the man whose body was found in the Otonabee was that of his lost brother.

The identity having been established however, Dr. Gray informed the Brantford man that the body was that of the late Elias Armstrong.

BRASS SHEILD IN ST. LUKES

To Commemorate It's Donor, Mr. Warr—The Inspection

A beautiful brass shield has been placed on St. Luke's pulpit to commemorate its donor, Mr. Warr, who left Ashburnham many years ago. It bears the following inscription:—

"By this tablet the congregation of St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, wish to commemorate the donor of this pulpit, William Warr, who by his own labor built it and presented it to the church, July, 1877. Well done, good and faithful servant."

A Presbyterian residental college will be built at Moose Jaw, Sask.

Improvements at Crowe's Landing —New Cottages are About Ready for Occupation

Special to the Review.

Crowe's Landing, June 7.—Belvidere opened for the season last week and guests are commencing to arrive.

Mr. I. N. Ackerman of Norwood, has had Mr. Welkins, of Norwood at work for several days, surveying ten more lots on the lake shore east of Crowe's Landing. A couple of cottages have already been built there and it is proposed to call this locality "Norwood-on-the-Lake."

Mr. Packenham's fine new cottage is almost completed. The painters have just finished their work.

Mr. A. E. Finley's cottage is also ready for occupation.

Mr. W. Logan Craig has built a new boat-house.

Mr. James Robb one of the oldest residents of this district, is improving in health.

The water in the lake has gone down thirty inches during the past month.

Several "drives" of logs are passing through the lake for the mills at Lakefield and Peterborough.

TWO DOGS CAUSED ASSAULT CASE

Defendant Was Fined $5.00 at Police Court This Morning

Two dogs were the cause of an assault case at the police court this morning in which the defendant was fined $5.00. Mr. Osias DeLaplante represented the complainant. According to the evidence of the complainant he was driving along the street and the defendant's dog ran out and started to fight with the one owned by him. He got out of his rig and kicked the defendant's dog, and the result was that he was hit on the face and was called some uncomplimentary names. A witness corroborated his statements.

The defendant admitted striking the blow after his dog had been kicked by the complainant. He had tried to part the animals, but thought that the abuse to his dog was uncalled for.

THE LATE JUDGE WELLER

The public generally heard of the death of the late Judge Weller with sincere regret. As a practising barrister and clerk of the peace and subsequently as judge of the County Court for this county he had won universal esteem as a learned and fair-minded man, both on and off the bench. He was known by everybody and it was a pleasure both to himself and the "old-timers" to meet and chat over the old days when Peterborough was just emerging from the backwoods, and "the front" played such an important part in the life and events of this district. In another column will be found a chronicle of the life of the late judge. We confine ourselves here, therefore, more to a reference to those little side-lights that recall the time which for everybody passes into the "later days" when we remember the good only of life and not the unkind. As a cricketer Mr. Weller was one of the best. He excelled at the bat and kept wickets in excellent form. Many a time have we heard Mr. Yarker, the manager of the Toronto Clearing House (then manager of the Bank of Montreal here) dilate upon the Peterborough cricket team for cricket was the only game in those days, and especially upon the deftness of Mr. Weller. In "those times" of which the judge so often spoke, the pleasantries of life were enjoyed fully while now they are so much at almost everybody's hand that comparatively little is thought of them. In this connection it remains for us to record the deep regret with which the older people heard of the late judge's decline in health and of his passing away, nor will the younger generation bear less earnest testimony of their appreciation of one who never forgot that "integrity" was the distinguishing mark of true manhood. Truly, such a monument is "more enduring than brass."

The resolution of the bar records the high reputation the late judge bore as a lawyer, his learning, his patience and his thoroughness. He will be greatly missed.

MILITIA HAS THE RIGHT OF WAY

Winnipeg Motorman Fined for Obstructing Regiment on March

Winnipeg, Man., June 5.—A temporary settlement of the conflict between the Militia and the Street Railway was effected yesterday afternoon, when Motorman William McIntosh was fined $5 for obstructing the militia by running his car into the line of march last Tuesday.

The Street Railway has given notice of an appeal. The ordinances sanctioned by the province, giving the railway the right of way on the tracks, were played in contention against the Militia's act, but were not sustained by Magistrate Daly.

He said; "To my mind there is not the slightest doubt but that the Militia has the right of way over everything. To give an opportunity for a final settlement I will find the accused five dollars and then the case may be carried to a higher court."

CANADIAN TOWNS ARE BORROWING TOO RAPIDLY

The statement that Canadian Municipalities have been going at too rapid a pace in their borrowings in the English market, as alleged by the London Standard in a recent issue, is declared by Mr. Edwin Hanson, of Hanson and Hanson, to be more or less true.

Commenting on the statement that owing to the competition of the lenders even moderate sized municipalities are raising money at better rates than the provinces of the Dominion and the prediction that this condition would result disastrously for the municipalities and the market, Mr. Hanson said:

"Undoubtedly the prices are too high. The municipalities of course are not to blame; they are justified in trying to get as much as possible; and so long as money remains plentiful they will be all right; prices will remain high.

"One factor which will tend to keep the money market flush will be the visits between the various monarchs and rulers of Europe as announced in to-day's despatches. These visits, tending towards the establishment of better relations between the countries, will have a good effect on the markets. In the expectation of continued peace, money always becomes easier."

DEATH OF POPULAR YOUNG LADY

Miss Vivian Clancy Only Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clancy Passed Away Yesterday

The death occurred yesterday at 12.30 p.m. of Miss Vivian Clancy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clancy, at her late residence, at the corner of King and Rubidge streets. The deceased had been ailing for about three weeks, but during the past few days her condition became worse and she passed away. The late Miss Clancy was twenty-five years of age and was born in this city and had been very popular among a large circle of friends and acquaintances, by her amiable and cheerful disposition. She is survived by her parents and four brothers, Leo, Clare, Hector and Raymond, to whom will be extended sincere sympathy.

The funeral will take place from the family residence on Tuesday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

The body of a newly-born babe was found floating in a well near Beaudette, Manitoba.

CLASSY BALL IN OPENING OF SENIOR CITY LEAGUE

West Ends Defeated Strathconas in League Game by 10-7—An Exciting Five-Innings Struggle by T.A.S. and West Ends Resulted in a Tie 1-1.

Ideal weather greeted the fans and players at the Riverside Park Saturday afternoon, when the Senior City Baseball season was inaugurated. Unfortunately the P.A.C. team was unavoidably absent, and instead of the league game the T. A. S. and West Ends battled for five innings, the score resulting in a tie—one all. The Strathconas and West Ends then played their league game, and the result was a win for Manager Oldham's nine, after an exciting and well-played contest, in which the fans were given a good idea of the article of ball which will be played throughout the schedule. The score was 10—7.

That the exhibition was pleasing to the spectators was evidenced by the frequent applause handed out to both teams, and it had the effect of encouraging the players to do their best work.

OPENING CEREMONIES.

The first game was opened in the "big league" style. His Worship Mayor Rush was on hand to perform the duty assigned to him of pitching the first ball, but he was called away on business before the game started. The task was then undertaken by Ald. Phelan, while Ald. Bradburn occupied the batsman's position and also handled the bat. But the alderman slab artist was in rare form, and the result was a strike-out registered in the score book.

FIRST GAME.

Gus Rose was put in for the first three innings, and Minorgan the fourth and fifth, and both twirled effectively. Quinlan worked for the T.A.S. and pitched in his usual steady manner. The work of the fielders was classy throughout the contest. A feature of the game was a fast double play, Quinlan to O'Brien to Flaherty.

The Strathconas and West Ends have played many interesting games during the past three seasons, but the contest Saturday was by far the best exhibition yet put up by two teams. Somehow the Straths looked and worked like winners up to the fatal ninth, but at this stage of the game the errors commenced to arrive, and these, coupled with some decidedly bad judgment on the part of the Strathcona players, gave the game to the West Ends, and the smile disappeared from the countenance of Bill Metheral and alighted on that of Duke Oldham. It is liable to remain with that person if his team continues in the future to play the same kind of ball as that which was put up by them Saturday. The contest from the beginning of the ninth was an exciting one, and the errors were few and far apart. Both Hickey and Dobson pitched gilt-edged ball and were well supported. There has been much discussion about the question of giving the younger players a show, and it was claimed by some that this could not be done by the forming of a Senior City League, whereby ball players who have been in the game for a long time would have a big advantage over their younger opponents. Both teams had "kids" working at the hardest positions on the field, and they more than made good. Hickey, who twirled for the Straths, was always master of the situation, whether the bags were occupied or lonesome, and he displayed splendid headwork at critical times. With a little more experience with his new teammates he should have a fine record by the end of the season.

Minorgan at short, and Gibson at third, for the winners, tore off some pretty plays and were also handy with the stick. This was their first appearance in fast comapny, and the management of the West Ends have made no mistake in signing these promising players. The older members of each team also figured in some brilliant fielding, and the work of Bill Shaw on retiring the side by three pretty put-outs at his position in left field was a big feature of the game. Both backstops had their wings in good shape and caught splendidly.

WHAT HAPPENED.

The Straths were the first to figure in the run-getting. With two out Kendrey doubled. Curtis grounded to Gibson, who threw wild to first, and the former scored. Wilson put a hot one at Minorgan, who fumbled and threw wide, and Curtis scored. Two runs.

In the third Heaslip let Rose's grounder go past, and Gus made the second bag and scored on Carton's hit. One run.

In the sixth the score was tied by the West Ends.

Halpin made a safe one, Kirn walked, Dobson put one past Kendrey and Halpin scored. One run.

The Straths in their sixth made another run to the good. Shaw singled, stole second and third. Craig hit to left field, scoring Shaw, but the former was out while running to third. One run.

West Ends got three more in the seventh on some nice hitting by Minorgan and Kirn, both of which knocked out two-baggers. Three runs.

The Straths scored three more and went ahead in their half. Curtis singled, stole second and third and went home on Hickey's hit. Weatherstone singled, Craig walked and the bases were full. Heaslip hit to centre, but the ball was dropped and two runners crossed the pan. The next batter struck out. Three runs.

No counters were secured in the eighth, but in their last time at bat the West Ends secured five runs on a number of errors and wild throws by the Straths.

Parnell was sent in to bat for Hickey and was hit by Kirn. He went to first, stole second and scored on a couple of sacrifices. The last batter struck out and the game was over. One run.

KLING TO REPORT TO CHICAGO CUBS

Back Stop Will be Back in the Game by First of July—Will Receive $6.000

Kansas City, Mo., June 7.—John Kling stated last night that he will return to the Cubs before July 1. He received a telegram from President Murphy offering him $6.000, or a full year's salary, to return, and he wired Murphy that he would return provided Murphy would concede a certain little demand which Kling feels sure he will do.

Murphy told Kling over the long distance telephone that it is practically a certainty that he will wire him in two days' time to join the team, but before making the definite announcement he said he wanted to talk with Manager Chance.

Kling said concerning his reply to Murphy—

"There is no question but that I soon will join the Cubs. It may not be for 15 days, but I will be there on the job by July 1. Murphy has made me a flattering offer, and I wired that I would accept if Chance saw fit to order me to report. Murphy and I have fixed up our differences and I am now ready to play with the Cubs.

P.A.C. TEAM RAN UP A BIG SCORE

Intermediate League Game at the Oval Saturday Was Won by P.A.C. Team—Score Was 15-7

The P.A.C. and Y.M.C.A. played an intermediate league game at the Oval Saturday afternoon and former won by the score of 15—7. There were many misplays and they were responsible for many of the runs. Both teams worked well, although the pitchers were wild at critical points of the contest. The "Y's" did not have on their strongest line-up, and this gave the P.A.C.'s a big advantage.

The batteries were—Y.M.C.A., Lang and Dobbin; P.A.C., Dusty and Patterson.

Umpire—P. Gorham.

FIELD RULES.

Rule 75—No person shall be allowed upon any part of the field during the progress of the game, except the players in uniform, the manager of each side, the umpire, such officers of the law as may be present in uniform, and such watchmen of the home club as may be necessary to preserve the peace.

Rule 76—No manager, captain or player shall address the spectators during game except a request for information about the progress or state of the game.

There should be a big crowd at the City League games next Saturday. T.A.S. vs West Ends and Strathconas vs P.A.C. are sure to make some excitement.

No delay was caused by having an insufficient number of balls. The executive had one dozen ready if necessary.

All the teams were weak in batting but a big improvement will be noticeable next Saturday.

They were also slow in getting around the bases. The players should endeavor to do everything possible to make the contests fast and there is no department of the baseball game where a better opportunity can be secured than in base running.

Although nearly all of the Straths players have been together for a number of seasons they have a lot to learn yet and a glance over the rule book would be beneficial.

Len Dobson will likely do the backstopping for the West Ends in their future games. Carton has a weak wrist.

The work of the young recruits in the two games was very gratifying. They played like big leaguers.

TOM DOSEN'T FANCY GAME

Says the Milwakee Walk Was a Dismal Failure—Thinks Walking a Back Number

Tom Slater has at last been heard from. A letter from Fulton, N.Y., was received from him this morning and the letter head bears the name of the Fulton Furniture Co., with which he is employed as local salesman. Tom expresses the opinion that the heel and toe game is dead and says he is thoroughly disgusted with the prospects after the Milwaukee walk.

"Nobody made anything out of it," he states. "Hoagland and I are not on the best of terms and I don't know what he made, but I know Brown's money in the beer town was only around seven or eight dollars—a nice prize after a week's hard work".

Tom expresses the opinion that Brown will soon have "Hoagland's goat," and apparently has not heard that the champion lost to the boy wonder here.

He requests that copies of the Review be forwarded him containing the accounts of the walk here.

THE WALKERS REACH HOME

After an Unprofitable Walking Season in the Last Two Walks

The Auburn Citizen says—George Brown, West and Blake, the three walkers who participated in the big international race at Peterborough, Canada, last week, in which both Brown and West finished ahead of Hoagland, arrived home from across the border last night. Brown stated that the walkers received nothing from the prize money for their long week's grind in the Canadian city and were only able to get home by the good people of that city patronizing a benefit given for the stranded walkers on Wednesday night of this week. The benefit netted the walkers enough to purchase grub along the route. Ray Fenton accompanied the youthful peds as far as Rochester.

The walkers had hard lines since leaving Auburn three weeks ago. The Milwaukee race was a fizzle from a financial standpoint, and they were stranded there until tickets were sent on to come to the Peterborough race. Brown states that he got a whole lot of experience in the two races, and from now on will not be handed any lemons by the promoters of walking matches, and that he will have something to say as to who handles the finances, and that he will be on the square. He is looking healthy and strong and has nothing but words of praise for the treatment accorded by the people of Peterborough who were not in sympathy with the way the race was conducted in that city.

FORLORN ECHOES OF THAT WALK

George Brown, the boy walker, has written the sporting editor. Brown says it feels good to be home with his own folks and with no prospects of having to do any "Weary Willie stunts to beat it out of a town where the box office receipts all have to be taken to meet expenses as per agreement. He says that in the future he will have to have a guarantee so that he will be protected in case the gate is below expectations.

Walking matches and amateur shows are a dead letter in Peterborough. There's no money in either.

John D. Rockefeller writes to deny the report that he got his start in the financial world in the money made by pulling off walking matches.

John Blatchford says he had no idea that Brown and Hoagland would go as fast as they did and that the people would come so slowly.

A copy of the Auburn Advertiser that reached the sporting department this morning prints a report from a local paper which states that there were 2,000 people at the walk on the last night. Somehow the invisible 1,200 didn't figure in the gate.

FOOTBALL

An interesting football game was played at the grounds of the Brinton Carpet Works team Saturday afternoon, when the carpet makers defeated the Y.M.C.A. team by 3—2. The proceeds were for the benefit fund for Jack Aspey, who had his collar bone broken some time ago during a practice game.

BASEBALL

Hawkins, pitching for T. Eaton's team Saturday, shut out the opposing team by 11—0. The former Peterborough twirler had an easy victory.

Toronto lost to Montreal Saturday by 8—1 in the first game and tied the score in the second contest. On Sunday they lost again, and the blame goes to Killogg, who was wild. The score was 7—1.

Nat Ray's Byzantine won the Street Railway steeplechase at the Woodbine on Saturday. The net value to the winner was $1,410.

TERAH WINS WATERLOO.

Carries Off Feature of Last Day of Woodbine Meet.

Woodbine Track, June 7.—The most successful meeting in the history of the Ontario Jockey Club closed under ideal conditions. The attendance has been one of the largest in years, the Earl and Countess Grey attended seven out of the thirteen days.

The fourth race, the Waterloo Handicap, was one of the hardest driving finishes that have been seen at this meeting. Direct and Terah, the two first horses, looked to be in the running going down the back stretch, but as they are both stretch runners, they fairly galloped over the top of their field in the last sixteenth. Direct was the first to collar the leader, while Terah was coming with a killing rush at the end. They ran like a pair for the greater part of the stretch, but Direct hung in the last few strides and Terah was first under the wire.

The summary is as follows:

First race, Norway purse, selling, 5 1-2 furlongs, four-year-olds and up—Sir Edward, 1; Edgely, 2; Little Osage, 3. Time 1.07 2-5.

Second race, Tyro stakes, selling, for 2-year-olds, 5 furlongs—Busy, 1; Flying Squirrel, 2; Chilton Queen, 3. Time, 1.01 1-5.

Third race, William Hendrie Memorial Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, foaled in Canada, 1 mile—Glimmer, 1; Moonraker, 2; Cannie Maid, 3. Time, 1.41 4-5.

Fourth race, Waterloo handicap, 3-year-olds and up, 1 1-8 miles—Terah, 1; Direct, 2; Lady Esther, 3. Time, 1.54 2-5.

Fifth race, Street Railway Steeplechase, handicap, for 4-year-olds and up, about 2 1-2 miles—Byzantine, 1; Kara, 2; Steve Lane 3. Time, 5.14.

Sixth race, Consolation purse, selling, for 3-year-olds and up, 1 1-16 miles—Creel, 1; Giles, 2; Dredger, 3. Time, 1.49.

Seventh race, Norway purse, selling, for 3-year-olds and up, $500 added, 5 1-2 furlongs—Plaudmore, 1; Cooney K., 2; Bellwether, 3. Time, 1.07 3-5.

The Woman In the Alcove

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,
Author of "The Millionaire Baby," "The Filigree Ball," "The House in the Mist," "The Amethyst Box," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY.

I had not moved nor had I shifted my gaze from the scene before me—the ordinary scene of a gay and well filled supper room—yet I found myself looking, as if through a mist I had not even seen develop, at something as strange, unusual and remote as any phantasm, yet distinct enough in its outlines for me to get a decided impression of a square of light surrounding the figure of a man in a peculiar pose not easily imagined and not easily described. It all passed in an instant, and I sat staring at the window opposite me with the feeling of one who has just seen a vision. Yet almost immediately I forgot the whole occurrence in my anxiety as to Mr. Durand's whereabouts. Certainly he was amusing himself very much elsewhere or he would have found an opportunity of joining me long before this. He was not even in sight, and I grew weary of the endless menu and the senseless chitchat of my companion and, finding him amenable to my whims, rose from my seat at table and made my way to a group of acquaintances standing just outside the supper room door. As I listened to their greetings some impulse led me to cast another glance down the hall toward the alcove. A man—a waiter—was issuing from it in a rush. Bad news was in his face, and as his eyes encountered those of Mr. Ramsdell, who was advancing hurriedly to meet him, he plunged down the steps with a cry which drew a crowd about the two in an instant.

What was it? What had happened? Mad with an anxiety I did not stop to define, I rushed toward the group now swaying from side to side in irrepressible excitement, when suddenly everything swam before me, and I fell in a swoon to the floor.

Some one had shouted aloud:

"Mrs. Fairbrother has been murdered and her diamond stolen! Lock the doors!"

CHAPTER II.

I MUST have remained insensible for many minutes, for when I returned to full consciousness the supper room was empty and the 200 guests I had left seated at table were gathered in agitated groups about the hall. This was what I first noted. Not till afterward did I realize my own situation. I was lying on a couch in a remote corner of this same hall, and beside me, but not looking at me, stood my lover, Mr Durand.

How he came to know my state and find me in the general disturbance I did not stop to inquire. It was enough for me at that moment to look up and see him so near. Indeed, the relief was so great, the sense of his protection so comforting, that I involuntarily stretched out my hand in gratitude toward him, but, failing to attract his attention, slipped to the floor and took my stand at his side. This roused him, and he gave me a look which steadied me in spite of the thrill of surprise with which I recognized his extreme pallor and a certain peculiar hesitation in his manner not at all natural to it.

Meanwhile some words uttered near us were slowly making their way into my benumbed brain. The waiter who had raised the first alarm was endeavoring to describe to an importunate group in advance of us what he had come upon in that murderous alcove.

"I was carrying about a tray of ices," he was saying, "and, seeing the lady sitting there, went up. I had expected to find the place full of gentlemen, but she was all alone and did not move as I picked my way over her long train. The next moment I had dropped ices, tray and all. I had come face to face with her and seen that she was dead. She had been stabbed and robbed. There was no diamond on her breast, but there was blood."

A hubbub of disordered sentences seasoned with horrified cries followed this simple description. Then a general movement took place in the direction of the alcove, during which Mr. Durand stooped to my ear and whispered:

"We must get out of this. You are not strong enough to stand such excitement. Don't you think we can escape by the window over there?"

"What, without wraps and in such a snowstorm?" I protested. "Besides, uncle will be looking for me. He came with me, you know."

An expression of annoyance—or was it perplexity?—crossed Mr. Durand's face, and he made a movement as if to leave me.

"I must go," he began, but glanced at my glance of surprise and assumed a different air, one which became him very much better. "Pardon me, dear, I will take you to your uncle. This—this dreadful tragedy, interrupting so gay a scene, has quite upset me. I was always sensitive to the sight, the smell, even to the very mention of the word blood."

So was I, but not to the point of cowardice. But then I had not just come from an interview with the murdered woman. Her glances, her smiles, the lift of her eyebrows were not fresh memories to me. Some consideration was certainly due him for the shock he must be laboring under. Yet I did not know how to keep back the vital question:

"Who did it? You must have heard some one say."

"I have heard nothing," was his somewhat fierce rejoinder. Then as I made a move: "What! You do not wish to follow the crowd there?"

"I wish to find my uncle, and he is in that crowd."

Mr. Durand said nothing further, and together we passed down the hall. A strange mood pervaded my mind. Instead of wishing to fly a scene which under ordinary conditions would have filled me with utter repugnance, I felt a desire to see and hear everything. Not from curiosity, such as moved most of the people about me, but because of some strong instinctive feeling I could not understand, as if it were my heart which had been struck and my fate which was trembling in the balance.

We were consequently among the first to hear such further details as were allowed to circulate among the now well nigh frenzied guests. No one knew the perpetrator of the deed, nor did there appear to be any direct evidence calculated to fix his identity. Indeed the sudden death of this beautiful woman in the midst of festivity might have been looked upon as suicide if the jewel had not been missing from her breast and the instrument of death removed from the wound. So far the casual search which had been instituted had failed to produce this weapon. But the police would be here soon and then something would be done.

As to the means of entrance employed by the assassin, there seemed to be but one opinion. The alcove contained a window opening upon a small balcony. By this he had doubtless entered and escaped. The long plush curtains, which during the early part of the evening had remained looped back on either side of the casement, were found at the moment of the crime's discovery closely drawn together. Certainly a suspicious circumstance. However, the question was one easily settled. If any one had approached by the balcony there would be marks in the snow to show it. Mr. Ramsdell had gone out to see. He would be coming back soon.

"Do you think this a probable explanation of the crime?" I demanded of Mr. Durand at this juncture. "If I remember rightly, this window overlooks the carriage drive. It must therefore be within plain sight of the door through which some 300 guests have passed tonight. How could any one climb to such a height, lift the window and step in without being seen?"

"You forget the awning." He spoke quickly and with unexpected vivacity. "The awning runs up very near this window and quite shuts it off from the sight of arriving guests. The drivers of departing carriages could see it if they chanced to glance back. But their eyes are usually on their horses in such a crowd. The probabilities are against any of them having looked up." His brow had cleared; a weight seemed removed from his mind. "When I went into the alcove to see Mrs. Fairbrother she was sitting in a chair near this window looking out. I remember the effect of her splendor against the snow sifting down in a steady stream behind her—the pink velvet, the soft green of the curtains on either side, her brilliants and the snow for a background. Yes, the murderer came in that way. Her figure would be plain to any one outside, and if she moved and the diamond shone—Don't you see what a probable theory it is? There must be ways by which a desperate man might reach that balcony. I believe"—

How eager he was and with what a look he turned when the word came filtering through the crowd that, though footsteps had been found in the snow pointing directly toward the balcony, there was none on the balcony itself, proving, as any one could see, that the attack had not come from without, since no one could enter the alcove by the window without stepping on the balcony.

"Mr. Durand has suspicions of his own," I explained determinedly to myself. "He met some one going in as he stepped out. Shall I ask him to name this person?" No, I did not have the courage, not while his face wore so stern a look and was so resolutely turned away.

The next excitement was a request from Mr. Ramsdell for us all to go into the drawing room. This led to various cries from hysterical lips, such as, "We are going to be searched!" "He believes the thief and murderer to be still in the house!" "Do you see the diamond on me?" "Why don't they confine their suspicions to the favored few who were admitted to the alcove?"

"They will," remarked some one close to my ear.

But quickly as I turned I could not guess from whom the comment came. Possibly from a much beflowered, bejeweled, elderly dame whose eyes were fixed on Mr. Durand's averted face. If so, she received a defiant look from mine, which I do not believe she forgot in a hurry.

Alas, it was not the only curious, I might say searching, glance I surprised directed against him as we made our way to where I could see my uncle struggling to reach us from a short side hall. The whisper seemed to have gone about that Mr. Durand had been the last one to converse with Mrs. Fairbrother prior to the tragedy.

In time I had the satisfaction of joining my uncle. He betrayed great relief at the sight of me, and, encouraged by his kindly smile, I introduced Mr. Durand. My conscious air must have produced its impression, for he turned a startled and inquiring look upon my companion, then took me resolutely on his own arm, saying:

"There is likely to be some unpleasantness ahead for all of us. I do not think the police will allow any one to go till that diamond has been looked for. This is a very serious matter, dear. So many think the murderer was one of the guests."

"I think so, too," said I. But why I thought so or why I should say so with such vehemence I do not know even now.

My uncle looked surprised.

"You had better not advance any opinions," he advised. "A lady like yourself should have none on a subject so gruesome. I shall never cease regretting bringing you here tonight. I shall seize on the first opportunity to take you home. At present we are supposed to await the action of our host."

"He cannot keep all these people here long," I ventured.

"No. Most of us will be relieved soon. Had you not better get your wraps so as to be ready to go as soon as he gives the word?"

"I should prefer to have a peep at the people in the drawing room first," was my perverse reply. "I don't know why I want to see them, but I do; and, uncle, I might as well tell you now that I engaged myself to Mr. Durand this evening—the gentleman with me when you first came up."

"You have engaged yourself to—to this man—to marry him, do you mean?"

I nodded, with a sly look behind to see if Mr. Durand were near enough to hear. He was not, and I allowed my enthusiasm to escape in a few quick words.

"He has chosen me," I said, "the plainest, most uninteresting puss in the whole city." My uncle smiled. "And I believe he loves me; at all events, I know that I love him."

My uncle sighed, while giving me the most affectionate of glances.

"It's a pity you should have come to this understanding tonight," said he. "He's an acquaintance of the murdered woman, and it is only right for you to know that you will have to leave him behind when you start for home. All who have been seen entering that alcove this evening will necessarily be detained here till the coroner arrives."

My uncle and I strolled toward the drawing room and as we did so we passed the library. It held but one occupant, the Englishman. He was seated before a table, and his appearance was such as precluded any attempt at intrusion, even if one had been so disposed. There was a fixity in his gaze and a frown on his powerful forehead which bespoke a mind greatly agitated. It was not for me to read that mind, much as it interested me, and I passed on chatting as if I had not the least desire to stop.

I cannot say how much time elapsed before my uncle touched me on the arm with the remark:

"The police are here in full force. I saw a detective in plain clothes look in here a minute ago. He seemed to have his eye on you. There he is again! What can he want? No, don't turn; he's gone away now."

Frightened as I had never been in all my life, I managed to keep my head up and maintain an indifferent aspect. What, as my uncle said, could a detective want of me? I had nothing to do with the crime; not in the remotest way could I be said to be connected with it; why, then, had I caught the attention of the police? Looking about I sought Mr. Durand. He had left me on my uncle's coming up, but had remained, as I supposed, within sight. But at this moment he was nowhere to be seen. Was I afraid on his account? Impossible; yet—

Happily just then the word was passed about that the police had given orders that, with the exception of such as had been requested to remain to answer questions, the guests generally should feel themselves at liberty to depart.

The time had now come to take a stand and I informed my uncle, to his evident chagrin, that I should not leave as long as any excuse could be found for staying.

He said nothing at the time, but as the noise of departing carriages gradually lessened and the great hall and drawing rooms began to wear a look of desertion he at last ventured on this gentle protest:

"You have more pluck, Rita, than I supposed. Do you think it wise to stay on here? Will not people imagine that you have been requested to do so? Look at those waiters hanging about in the different doorways. Run up and put on your wraps. Mr. Durand will come to the house fast enough as soon as he is released. I give you leave to sit up for him if you will. Only let us leave this place before that impertinent little man dares to come around again," he artfully added.

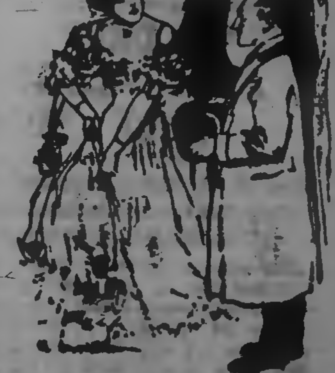
But I stood firm, though somewhat moved by his final suggestion, and being a small tyrant in my way, at least with him, I carried my point.

Suddenly my anxiety became poignant. A party of men, among whom I saw Mr. Durand, appeared at the end of the hall, led by a very small but self important personage whom my uncle immediately pointed out as the detective who had twice come to the door near which I stood. As this man looked up and saw me still there, a look of relief crossed his face, and after a word or two with another stranger of seeming authority he detached himself from the group he had ushered upon the scene and approaching me respectfully enough said with a deprecatory glance at my uncle whose frown he doubtless understood:

"Miss Van Arsdale, I believe?"

I nodded, too choked to speak.

"I am sorry, madam, if you were expecting to go. Inspector Dalzell has arrived and would like to speak to you. Will you step into one of these rooms? Not the library, but any other. He will come to you as quickly as he can."



"I am sorry, madam, if you were expecting to go."

THE WOODMEN AT SERVICE AT KNOX CHURCH

Rev. H. J. Keith Preached Instructive Sermon to Members of the Order Last Evening

The evening service at Knox Presbyterian Church last night partook of a special nature owing to the large number of Woodmen of the World, who attended in a body. The pastor, Rev. H J Keith chose as his text for his sermon, "And now also the axe is laid unto the root of the tree," St. Luke 3, 9. His message was not only particularly of benefit to the members of the visiting Order, but to each individual person. The main object expressed was that if any person or any organization desires to achieve good among mankind there must be first an absence in themselves of those things which they are seeking to reform in others.

The symbol of the Woodmen of the World stands for progress and reformation. But these aims are not easily accomplished. Even in the church opposition has been met and world obstacles are much more pronounced. St John as he held up the figure of an axe striking at the root of a tree was sensational. "Christ Himself in His message to the world was sensational, and if you bring a message which is to have power against the selfishness of men you will be regarded as sensational." Rev. Mr Keith said that the gospel of Christ was filled with socialism. Not, however, that socialism which is as full of as many wrongs as the system which it seeks to right. Christ's socialism goes deep down into the root of man's lives. Character is recognized. It is the standard and not wealth and power. The socialism of St. John regards all men as brothers and goes into their needs. "He that hath two coats let him impart to him that hath none, and he that hath meat let him do likewise." We must recognize men of the world over as brothers.

Rev. Mr Keith referred to the man who was not willing to accept his responsibilities and burdens. He is a parasite and not worthy to be called a man. The text also suggests regeneration. A man may cry loudly for reformation and progress, but he must also conform to that idea. No man will turn away from his selfishness without the aid of a power outside himself. Every man that stands as a reformer must recognize that selfishness in him is an evil that must be removed before he can help in bearing the burdens of the gospel world and the regenerating gospel for every man was sent by St. John in the following words: "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the Sins of the world." By conforming our lives, ny the regeneration suggested, we fit ourselves to help others and to remove evils.

The church was crowded owing to the attendance of the Woodmen. The choir sang several anthems well and Mr. James Browne sang as a solo, "Face to Face."

DRUNKEN MAN'S NARROW SHAVE

Fell on the Road and Had Close Call to Being Run Over

This morning on Charlotte street, an intoxicated citizen had a mighty narrow escape from serious injury. He was in the middle of the road, apparently enjoying an hilarious jig, when he suddenly lost his footing and fell down.

An express rig was coming toward him at a pretty fast clip, and the driver just pulled up in time to save the inebriated one from being run over. He was put on his feet by an onlooker and given a good start along the pavement.

During the summer months the offices of the Peterborough Light and Power Co. will close at 5 p.m. each day.

300 A DAY POURING INTO GOWGANDA

Mr. D. E. Conroy Home on a Short Visit Tells of Famous Mining Camp--Another Big Silver Belt Discovered at Silver Lake 25 Miles From Gowganda.

Mr. D. E. Conroy, of Gowganda, arrived in the city Saturday night for a short visit to his parents in Ashburnham, and left to-day again for Northern Ontario's new mining camp. This visit of Mr Conroy is the first time he has been home since March and he reports the camp to be in a very flourishing condition. Each day sees the arrival of 150 canoes with an average of two wealth seekers in a canoe. At a conservative estimate there are 300 people a day coming in. There are three lines of boats from Latchford with two portages and a dozen boats are waiting for passengers at each portage. From Latchford to Elk Lake is a distance of 56 miles and the trip is made in 6 1-2 hours.

There are about 15,000 people in the camp with about 10,000 claims staked out. Outside of the prospectors the residents are engaged in various lines of business and one merchant has a $40,000 stock of provisions.

Among the claims that have made rich finds lately is the Sifton-O'Brien claim. Many others have been very successful also. The Sifton-O'Brien which is one of the biggest properties in the district, takes out about $7,500 worth of ore a week and the expenses are said to be in the neighborhood of $1,000 a week. There are ten big mines bagging silver ore, making the number nearly equal to those similarly engaged in the Cobalt.

The supply of silver seems to be very great good silver being found at Shining Tree Lake, 25 miles from Gowganda Lake. This is thought to be a continuation of the silver belt found on Silver Island forty years ago.

Mr. Conroy stated to the Review that bush fires were raging over the country and it was expected that in five months there would be no green timber in the district. The fires had their origin largely in prospectors starting fires for cooking their meals and as everything is very dry they have a large and destructive scope.

HOMING PIGEONS STARTED ON LONG FLIGHT FROM THIS CITY

Word was received in the city on Saturday by Mr. W. F. Skitch, agent of the Canadian Express Co., from New Bedford, Mass., that two baskets of homing pigeons would arrive on an evening train, and a request was made that they be liberated at 6 a.m. the following morning. The liberation of the birds was arranged to take place from Armour's Hill, and the fact being bulletined at the Review office was responsible for quite a gathering of interested spectators at this somewhat early hour of the morning, among whom a number of ladies were present. The pigeons arrived in good condition, and proper care being given them they were in good shape for the flight. There were 67 birds in the flock and a week ago they had made a flight of 300 miles from Richland, New York, to New Bedford, Mass., in five hours and two minutes, almost a mile a minute.

The two baskets were opened simultaneously at 6.02, W. F. Skitch, David Moore and Charles Harmer being responsible for the liberation of the birds. There was a sudden whirring of the wings and the pigeons rose to a height of two or three hundred feet, making wide circles for a minute or two, and then striking off in a south-easterly direction at a very rapid rate, taking a course that seemed to be in a straight line with their destination, and being lost to sight in about six minutes. They will have a distance of about 500 miles in direct course to travel, and word of their arrival is expected this afternoon. The pigeons were sent by Charles H. Sherwin, secretary of the New Bedford Homing Pigeon Club, New Bedford, Mass.

PETERBOROUGH IS SPOKEN OF

As Objective Point of Outing of Brockville Volunteer

The Brockville Times says; —The parade of the 41st regiment last night brought out 151 officers and men at the armouries last night and the drill was highly satisfactory to the officer commanding, Lieut.-Col. Fisher. Both bands were present and at intermission rendered several selections.

After being dismissed the officers and sergeants' mess held meetings for the consideration of the annual outing of the regiment.

Resolutions were passed at both meetings favouring the outing and the regimental committee was appointed to take charge of the matter with power to select the objective point and date. Peterborough, Chrysler's Farm, Quebec and Niagara Falls were spoken of, and while no selection was made, the last named place met with the most popular favour.

The regiment visited the Falls two years ago, and pleasant recollections of the trip are still entertained by those who were fortunate enough to go.

EDWARD AND THE DERBY

From the New York World.

Hail, Edward, Rex,
Minoru wins
In this the king of equine epics
And you're the first of kings to be
The owner of a nag
That led the ponies in the race,
And took the Derby rag.
Don't you feel gay.
Don't you want to cut loose
And kick up your heels.
And cavort round the pasture,
To show how it feels.
Wow.
What's a throne now!
And a scepter and crown
And a long tailed robe
And boss of the sea.
And drum-beats round the globe!
Piffle, ain't they!
Tommyrot!
Your kingdom for a horse.—
That's what.
A man may be a king by birth,
No competition's in it.
But Derby winning! Well now that,
Takes more than birth to win it,
And say, Ed.,
On the dead,
Did the cops
Work the drops
On the shed!
Or did they let you lay.
A pound or two your way!
No!
Yes!
What!
Well.
Don't tell.
We love a closed shed,
But, oh you, Ed.

PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterborough a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin running; simply this, more families will of necessity move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase in other words prosperity is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city. ¶ People who are contemplating purchasing homes will do well to see J. IMPERIAL PRESS CONFERENCE DISCUSSES CABLE RATES

Earl Crewe Lays Stress Upon the Necessity For a Greater Attention to Accuracy in Reporting Speeches of Political Men—Sir Hugh Graham Favors Giving Companies Chance to Cheapen Rates.

London, June 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At the Imperial Press Conference meeting yesterday, at the Foreign Office, Earl Crewe took the chair. In his opinion the Empire would not be completely united until time comes when the western provinces of Canada, say, are in a position to learn and understand what are the problems facing the India Government. The Empire would not be complete until the aboriginal in Australia was in the position, if he cared to, to learn all about the development of our great protectorate state.

It was extremely difficult now for every speech to be reported all over the Empire. Only last week his office suffered from a difficulty of this kind. Col. Seely made a statement in the House. There was nothing in the speech to cause uneasiness, but the form in which the speech was cabled to South Africa caused very real uneasiness.

"Towards the question of cable development the attitude of the Government is of a thoroughly sympathetic character, and we shall look forward to your business discussions in the hope to find a solution of the question," said Earl Crewe. The great development of wireless telegraphy they must also bear in mind.

What the Empire needed above all other things was easy communication between the Mother Country and the dominions over the seas. Intercommunication between the dominions was every bit as important.

Referring to the accuracy in cabling reports of speeches, Lord Crewe said it was very important when reporting speeches of Ministers, which almost entirely consisted of qualification; it took almost immense genius not to avoid being misleading in sending reports of this kind by cable, and when there was added to this, the other fact that the man at the end of the wire might represent someone with purposes on one side or other, which may be used to garble the message, it stood to reason that anything like perfect accuracy was exceedingly hard to maintain.

They were constantly receiving suggestions in regard to wireless developments, the latest being one with relation to Western Pacific. Sir Sanford Fleming of Ottawa, and Henniker Heaton, Lord Crewe referred to as the two evangelists of intercommunication.

Stanley Reed of India moved the following resolution:

"That this conference regards it as of paramount importance that telegraphic facilities with the various parts of the Empire be cheapened and improved, so as to ensure fuller intercommunication than exists at present, and appoints a committee to report to the conference at its re-assembling on June 25, as to the best means to attain this object, the committee to consist of Messrs. "Thomas, Ward, Temperley, Fenwick, Coker, Brierley, Ross, Nelson, Phillipson, Stowkingswell Crosby, Boles and Hover."

Postmaster-General Buxton followed. The postoffice, he said, would have to consider the whole question from the point of view of business. They would do what they could to assist the committee by providing them with information.

Sir Hugh Graham, Montreal, believed in the agitation for state-owned cables, and proposed the organization of a permanent commission to enquire into the subject.

Postmaster-General Buxton assured the delegates of the sympathy of the Government, which, he said, would try to co-operate.

P. D. Ross, Ottawa, moved an amendment advocating an all-red cable route by the Government cable to Canada and Government control of wires across Canada. Canada was almost unanimous in favor of bringing in the state to improve the cable service with Britain. He believed the Canadian Government had information to the effect that with a state cable the cost of commercial messages could be reduced without loss to the service.

Austin Chamberlain said the problem they had to consider that day was one of the greatest possible importance to the development of the Empire. It needed co-operation alike of the nation's Governments and cable companies. (Applause.)

Crosbie-Boles of India, Temperley, Fenwick and Ross spoke in favor of cheaper rates.

Sir Hugh Graham said the only basis for an improved service was cheaper rates. If they could get cheapened rates of transmission from the old cable companies, good and well, but if they did not they must lay their own cables, and money would be forthcoming for that purpose. Referring to the all-red route he declared that whether it came in six months or a year, or whether they had to wait five years, the object must not be lost sight of, and no effort should be spared to bring it about. (Applause.)

Mr. Reed's motion was then carried unanimously, with an addition to the committee of Sir Hugh Graham, Hon. W. L. Lawson, Messrs. Fairfax, Brierley, Bell, Phillips, A. Lawson, F. Parke, Banorgee and Blake. Mr. Ross' motion was then allowed to stand over.

The conference adjourned to luncheon at the Commons. After luncheon the delegates attended a garden party at Marlborough House as guests of the Prince and Princess of Wales.

GERMANY ROUSED BY ROSEBERY

Speech to Pressmen Creates Stir — German Papers Comment on Utterances

Berlin, June 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Lord Rosebery's speech at the banquet to the overseas press delegates, while universally condemned, formed the most prominent feature in the German papers yesterday, and has produced a profound impression.

The Vossische Zeitung, in a leading articles, states that the spectacle of Lord Rosebery, as the mouthpiece of a once proud country, bewailing to representatives of the colonial press that Europe exercises such a pressure on the "Little Island" is pitiful. "The day on which the boundless panic set in in England," the journal adds, "was the day when the triple entente against Germany and Austria-Hungary was wrecked on the central European bloc. It is untrue that weapons with which Europe is studded are directed against England. It remains, however, true that without such weapons, Europe would long ago have been the football of England."

The Local Anzeiger expresses the opinion that Lord Rosebery's speech will result in a strong revival of the agitation which has kept Europe in breathless suspense.

The Morgen Post, in an article entitled "English Mischief-making and Hopes," says Lord Rosebery made an agitator's speech before 600 people, in which almost every word conveyed an untruth.

LARGE BEQUEST TO EMPLOYEES

Paris, June 8.—The will of the late H. A. Chauchard, proprietor of The Magazine Du Louvre, leaves his collection of paintings, bronzes, marbles, etc., comprising some of the most celebrated works of the romantic school of 1830, to the National Louvre Museum. The collection is valued at $1,000,000. To the employes of the Louvre store M. Chauchard leaves $600,000. He gives $400,000 to the poor of Paris, and makes also numerous bequests to various philanthropic and charitable institutions. The big individual legacies are $3,000,000 to Geo. Leygues, the lawyer and man of letters, and the members of his family, and $100,000 to Gaston Calmette, proprietor of The Figaro.

FIVE HUNDRED WERE INJURED IN EXPLOSION

London, June 8.—A despatch received here from Cracow in Austrian Poland, says that 500 persons were wounded by the explosion of an army powder magazine there Saturday night. Three soldiers were killed, 40 houses were wrecked and hundreds of other houses damaged, and many of the wounded are seriously hurt.

The magazine, which was situated near the railroad station, was struck by lightning and exploded.

Several thousand pounds of powder went off and 1,500 projectiles were scattered among a big crowd of people who had assembled at the station awaiting a train.

WHISKY CAN'T BE IMITATED

Washington, June 8.—Lloyd W. Bowers, solicitor of the United States, yesterday submitted to President Taft his opinion as to what the term "whisky" means in law.

In effect Solicitor-General Bowers holds that the public does not consider that added coloring or flavoring matter can make whisky out of what otherwise is not whisky. Whisky is regarded generally and naturally as having a flavor and properties of its own.

CITIZEN OBJECTS TO PAYING BILL

A. Kingscote Contends in Lawyer's Letter Sent to Council That City Should Not Pay J. J. Turner & Sons for Decorating Streets on May 24th.

Following letter from Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon was read at last night's meeting of the City Council:

"Dear Sirs,—Mr. A. Kingscote of this city, has given us instructions to advise you that the contract you made with Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, for the decoration of the streets of Peterborough on the 23rd and 24th days of May is void, and Mr. Kingscote submits, as a ratepayer, that Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons' bill should not be paid.

Our client's contention is, that it is contrary to the policy of fair dealing that Mr. J. J. Turner, in being a member of the Council, are also a member of the partnership of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, should sit in the Council, while his partnership is receiving the benefits and profits of a contract with the city."

The letter was referred to the Legal Committee. It is a somewhat peculiar coincidence that Ald. Turner is chairman of the Legal Committee.

Aldermen Passed Resolution of Sympathy Last Evening

At the meeting of the Council last night the following resolution was carried by a standing vote;

Moved by Ald. Morrow and seconded, by Ald. McIntyre, "that the Council place on record an expression of the deep loss this city and county have sustained in the death of his Honor C. A. Weller, county judge of the County of Peterborough. Judge Weller was recognized to be an able judge, who combined with a wide learning in the law a sound judgment and a complete impartiality that caused his decisions to be accepted without question as from one whose learning, judgment and character commanded respect. He loved justice, and his administration of the law was always just, but tempered at the same time with a full measure of mercy that the circumstances would permit him to exercise. His death is a loss to the judiciary and to the community, and especially to his family, to whom we wish to tender our sincere sympathy and in doing so we are voicing the regret and sympathy of the whole community and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the bereaved family."

Ald. Phelan in a few remarks, expressed the deep regret the aldermen felt at the death of the judge.

BULL KEPT FOUR UP IN TREES OVER FOUR HOURS

Two Men and Two Youths Had an Exciting Experience on East Bank of the Otonabee Short Distance Below City—Clothing Left on Ground Was Damaged

To be kept up in trees for over two hours by an angry bull was the unpleasant experience of four Peterborough people on Saturday night. The east bank of the Otonabee river about a half-mile below the street railway wharf was the scene of the unusual happening and the quartette who had the exciting adventure were two men and two youths, who reside in Peterborough.

They were disrobing for a swim in the river and were a short distance from the shore when the bull appeared from a neighboring field. His approach was unnoticed by the four who were undressing. When the angry animal appeared they climbed up into the trees with great speed and prepared to wait until the bull departed. This was about 6.30 o'clock.

The bull, angered at missing his prey, proceeded to demolish the clothing that was left on the ground. He trampled some of the garments in the earth and also did effective work with his horns. A valuable raincoat was among the articles that were badly torn.

It was about nine o'clock when a couple of Peterborough young men going down the river in a canoe heard the animal bellowing on the shore and approaching saw the four people in the trees and the bull on guard. It was a funny sight, although the quartette in the tall timbers couldn't see it that way. Shortly afterwards the animal got tired of waiting and joined the herd, which was a short distance away. When he was gone the would-be bathers decended, got into what was left of their clothes and sadly made their way homeward.

THE PREMIER'S SATISFACTION

Pleased With the Success of the Hydro Electric By-law

Special to the Review

Toronto, June 8—Premier Whitney made a statement this morning on the success of the Hydro Electric bylaw in Hamilton yesterday. "I can only express my satisfaction at the result," he said and to any appreciation of the splendid work done by my colleague, Hon. Mr. Hendrie, together with Mr. Allan Studholme, M.PP. and Ex-Mayor Stewart, MP. It is a large subject and I do not see that I can say anything more.

Considering all the circumstances, the result may be considered the most remarkable testimony yet, as to the standing the Government's power policy has with the people.

THE PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY TALKS ABOUT CHURCH UNION

Leaders of Union and Anti-Forces in Presbyterian Assembly Present Their Cases—Queen's Man's Motion is to Get Views of Congregations Next Fall—Anglicans Are Reluctant to Go Ahead.

Hamilton, June 8. Principal Patrick's speech yesterday afternoon in presenting to the Presbyterian General Assembly the report of the committee on union with other churches was a masterpiece of moderate, but convincing statement, couched in very earnest but very calm expression and directed throughout, in an appeal to the higher reason and an illumined inspiration. It will take rank with the best of the great speeches delivered on the subject during the past five years.

He was listened to with close attention, but he made slight appeal to sentiment and aroused little applause. In this he differed from Principal MacKay, the leader of the Canadian "Wee Frees," who had a vociferous following, which responded loudly to every sledge stroke of the dissenting federationist. Dr. MacKay took it upon him to deny the truth or validity of practically all of Principal Patrick's statements, and threw down the gage in the threat that there was no more hopeful thing for the church about the movement than that there were men on both sides who could feel strongly, speak strongly, and who would "act strongly when the time came to act."

The motion presented by Principal Patrick was to receive the report with deep gratification that in the judgment of the committee the organic union of the churches — Methodist, Congregationalist and Presbyterian — is practicable, to recommend a Sunday in October next for bringing the question before the congregations; deferring a vote until after the Methodist general conference in September, 1910, and, in detail, committing the question to the whole church.

Principal MacKay's amendment thanked the committee for its diligence in preparing one plan of negotiation with the sister churches, but requiring another committee to be appointed to prepare a plan of federation to be reported to the assembly, and sent down along with the plan of union already proposed, and asking the other churches to appoint similar committees; while at the same time a pastoral letter be sent to all the congregations assuring them that nothing had so far been done to bind the churches to union.

The new features of the report of the committee were embraced in the correspondence with the Bishop of Quebec, representing the general synod of the Church of England, in which the resolution of the Lambeth conference, later adopted by the Anglican Synod, is quoted, demanding that any basis of union "respect the convictions of those who had not received Episcopal orders, without involving any surrender on our part of the principle of church order laid down in the Preface to the Ordinal attached to the Book of Common Prayer."

This resolution, the bishop says in his letter, must be a condition of the negotiations with the other churches, and the joint committee has come to the conclusion that the enforcement of this would be an insurmountable bar to union.

In the evening Revs. Dr. Forrest, Dr. Morton, Trinidad, and Dr. J. W. Duncan, Toronto, supported the motion, and J. O. Rolston Pendennis, Man., Rev. Dr. Campbell, Montreal, and A. L. Fortune, Enderby, B.C., the amendment.

Adjournment was taken at 10 o'clock until to-day, when the debate will be resumed.

FOREST FIRES IN NEW BRUNSWICK

St. John, N.B., June 8.—All the central portion of New Brunswick is ablaze with forest fires. Damage has already been done to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars, unless rain comes within comparatively few hours, but as yet there are no indications of rain.

From also every section of surrounding country forest fires are reported, and yesterday this city was enveloped in heavy clouds of smoke.

The report reached here last night that the large mills of Dr. Fraser & Sons have been burned at St. Francis, near the Quebec border. Many houses have been destroyed in interior of the province.

CANADIAN DOCTOR MET TRAGIC DEATH

Montreal, June 8.—A telegraphic despatch from Pacific Grove, California, announces the tragic death of Dr. Neil Gunn, who was fatally burned in a fire in his laboratory. Dr. Gunn graduated from McGill in 1888 with high class honors. He went west about four years ago for his health. He was 48 years of age, and came from St. Thomas, Ont. Immediately after graduation he went to St. Mary's Ont., where he practiced till 1891. In 1901 he married Miss Hardy of this city. He leaves no children.

Want a Western Referee.

Chatham, June 8.—In his opening address to the County Council, Warden William Abraham, drew attention to the Government appointing an eastern man, Henderson of Ottawa, as drainage referee for the entire province. An eastern man could not be at all conversant with drainage matters in the west, where nine-tenths of the drainage litigation takes place.

Warden Abraham also urged the council to memoralize the Legislature regarding asylum authorities refusing patients.

New Ogilvie Elevator.

Fort William, June 8.—Definite announcement was made yesterday that the new Ogilvie elevator will be commenced immediately. It was anticipated that construction of this elevator would be postponed until next year, but the large increase in the growth of the western business made it imperative that an addition to the Fort William plant should be made at once.

For Bishop of Ottawa.

Montreal, June 8.—Those well posted in ecclesiastical matters believe that Mgr. Emard, Bishop of Valleyfield, will succeed the late Archbishop Duhamel of Ottawa. It is also stated that His Grace Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal, will be given the red hat during the plenary congress here.

CONFERENCE AT LONDON IS OVER

London, June 8.—London Methodist conference will finish its labors to-day, when the stationing committee will present its final draft. The sustentation fund committee's report was adopted, which means a raise in the minimum salary for ministers on poorer circuits. Married men receiving less than $700 now apply for aid to the sustentation fund, unmarried men if below $600 and probationers if below $350. The figures heretofore have been $600, $400, and $200.

James D. Hastie and Thos. R. Fydell were superannuated for one year.

HAMILTON FOR HYDRO

Whitney-Beck Power Scheme is Selected by Ratepayers — Third Vote Was Taken

Hamilton, June 8.—The Whitney-Beck power project scored a notable victory yesterday when the ratepayers voted down the Cataract Power Co.'s bylaw by a majority of 170 and passed the Hydro-Electric bylaw by the handsome majority of 613.

The cause of the Government scheme has been championed by Hon. J. S. Hendrie, ex-Mayor Stewart, M.P., Allan Studholme, M.P.P., and others in a series of public meetings during the past fortnight.

This is the third time that the people of Hamilton have declared by large majority that they are in favor of entering the Government's power scheme, and although two alleged hydro councils have succumbed to the potent influence of the Cataract company, it is not thought that the council will have the temerity to balk the will of the people longer.

The Cataract contract that the people voted upon yesterday was much better than the one passed by the council last July, and which was set aside by the courts.

The new contract offered to give Hamilton power for civic purposes at $16 a horse-power or ten per cent. lower than the hydro, and also offered to supply power and light to citizens at ten per cent. less than charged by the hydro in any place. In spite of that the people refused to accept the contract.

Only freeholders and tenants with long leases were allowed to vote.

Two bylaws were submitted on the question, one asking the ratepayers if they approved of a contract with the Cataract Power Co., and the other submitted in the form of a plebiscite, the question being asked if they were in favor of entering into a contract with the Hydro-Electric Commission.

THE EXERTION PROVED FATAL

Kingston, June 8.—David Ross of Pittsburg Township suffered from peritonitis and a doctor told him not to ride his bicycle. Friday he went nine miles on the wheel to have the doctor examine him, and was found on the roadway, and died in Hotel Dieu. He was 26 years old and came from Scotland only two months ago.

The two-year-old son of Philip Kennedy, Baker's Point, was probably fatally scalded by pulling a kettle of boiling water off the stove.

Misener Will Contested.

Hamilton, June 8.—A caviat has been filed against the will of Lemuiel Misener, Jerseyville, who left an estates valued at $15,000, to Mrs. Baguley. A brother of the deceased has filed a caviat on the grounds of undue influence of the beneficiary. Misener died last Christmas, and an inquest was held, because it was claimed he had not been properly cared for.

Guards Boy From Mother.

Windsor, June 8.—William Taylor, a dredge engineer, living in Amherstburg, is guarding his home with rifle and says he will kill any person trying to enter his premises without his consent. The precautions are to guard his nephew, Percy Ulch, for whom a court order was issued in Detroit that he be returned to his mother.

PROBABILITIES.

Wednesday, easterly winds, fair with higher temperature.

The Daily Review

TUESDAY, JUNE 8, 1909.

A REFORM CALLED FOR

It is a well-known fact that the recent announcement that all but one or two of the election protests fyled have been withdrawn has created misgiving and irritation in the Conservative party. (We are informed on good authority that it will be necessary for the leader of the party to exercise a little more authority in preventing saw-offs, compromises and withdrawals that are bound to excite more or less suspicion. The Conservative party as a body desires to live up to its professions, and the record of the party of late may be just as good in the matter of protests as that of the Liberal party, but that is not good enough.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

We may well ask what the address of Earl Rosebery at the opening of the Imperial Press Conference, in London, really means. The Earl lays it down definitely and plainly that Great Britain expects almost immediate war. It is such a desperate case that he even foreshadows the defeat of the United Kingdom. That the Home Government is well-informed, her world-wide system of ambassadors, envoys, attaches, etc., ensures. The present situation has not been equalled since the Crimea, if even then. Whatever betides, the colonies will stand by the Mother Country to the last dollar, and the last drop of their blood. God Save the King!

A HORSE-SHOW

We are glad to see that the Examiner endorses, in a recent article, the Review's advocacy of a horse show for Peterborough made in these columns last winter. The winter season is the dull season locally, and a horse show would be both beneficial and profitable. Galt a town considerably smaller than Peterborough has held one each year for years, and it has paid well in every way. The daily attendance averages 5,000, and the number of "strangers" brought to town is considerable. Whatever is to be done in this way should be done now. Mr. D. Hughes Charles has just returned from Galt and is enthusiastic. He thinks a horse-show for Peterborough might do very well. High jumping, steeple-chasing, random-riding, military and class riding, &c., would provide splendid entertainment, while the other and more ornamental features usually connected with such an event would add to the attractiveness. We commend the undertaking to the consideration of the council and of the Board of Trade.

THE WORLD A NATION

It must look to the reader of the world-events as if the time was not far-off when the nations of the world would combine for the purposes of international well-being. Even now the world is one stage. We cannot get off it. We cannot go elsewhere. It is one boiling-pot into which everything human goes. Why should it remain an unorganized congeries of hostile communities when it could be a world organised as a union for purposes of mutual protection and balance, leaving home or domestic affairs for the different races still to fight and squabble over. Thus would the safety valve remain intact while the absurdity of present day armaments would die a natural death. The organization would be no doubt on the principle of international police as has been established in China and elsewhere by the western powers. It can be done, and unless we are to go bust it must be done. The U.S. is decreasing this year its war-estimates by 34 millions of dollars while Canada is raising here by the price of a new navy! Something wrong here. The Canadian militia now costs seven millions a year, while 12 years ago it cost about one. In twelve years we have wasted, allowing for all necessary buildings, etc., not less than 50 millions of dollars. Ontario's share of that for improvement purposes would have been fifteen millions. And yet we remain unimproved, even in the plainest way.

THE OUTLOOK

The Outlook is one of the best American journals. It is edited by Lyman Abbot, and gives earnest, sincere, honest thought to the affairs of the United States without unnecessary bias and with perfect freedom from the taint of suspicion. The following article refers to the recent attempt to lower the tariff in the United States. If favored the attempt. It is well-known now, of course, that the attempt failed utterly no less than eighteen Democratic senators voting against reduction. The Outlook's article will be even the more interesting on that account. The reason for lower selling abroad than at home is not manifestly, that it is more profitable, but that foreign trading, no matter how cheap or unprofitable, serves to keep the fires lighted and the wheels of commerce going at home when over supply would otherwise require them to cease. If, also, this "dumping" on foreign shores of home-products at a low price were desirable for the foreign shores why do they kick against it? Why do we in Canada especially provide against "dumping" by a tax of the highest rate or any rate if it is unnecessary? The answer is that already given. "Dumping" ultimately destroys the industry of the country which gets the goods. The buy-in-the-cheapest shibboleth, therefore, does not work, or at any rate only for a time. The plain sensible view of facts must always guide both protectionists and free-traders. Every country in the world is protectionist except Britain, and she is coming round rapidly, being indeed partially protective at present with her embargoes, tea duties, etc. Protection preserves the equilibrium or balance of trade and industry. That is all it is intended for. Free trade means that the weaker country must go to the wall in the unequal strife. Whatever might have been the case forty years ago protection is to-day a necessary weapon of defence.

The article is as follows:—

For a long time it has been believed that "protected" American manufacturers have been selling their products at lower prices to foreigners than to their fellow-citizens. Until recently, however, it has not been known that this had become a recognized practice. The latest testimony to that effect is in a pamphlet prepared by Mr. James G. Parsons, Secretary of the Tariff Reform Committee, and entitled "Protection's Favors to Foreigners." In this pamphlet is set forth the practice of manufacturers who sell for export at one set of prices, necessarily low enough to get the trade in foreign markets, and in the home market at another set of prices, kept as high as the tariff, with the combinations and agreements fostered by it, will permit. According to the testimony collected in this pamphlet, leather, for instance, is sold at five to ten per cent. below domestic prices; lead, at little more than half the home price; and steel rails at ten dollars a ton less than the price in this country—$28 to $32. Regarding the last-named commodity, the tariff hearings last December afforded a mass of information. The testimony of Mr. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, deserves citation, especially the following passage between him and the Hon Champ Clark, the Democratic leader of the Committee on Ways and Means:—

Mr. Clark. Do you know of your own knowledge what is the greatest discrepancy there ever was between the home price of steel rails and the foreign price?

Mr Schwab. The greatest discrepancy!

Mr Clark. Yes.

Mr Schwab. You mean how high in this country and how low in Europe?

Mr. Clark. How much lower did American manufactured steel rails sell for abroad as compared with what they sold for at home?

Mr Schwab. I should say probably $16; I am not sure of that, however; that is merely a guess.

Mr. Clark. It is a habitual process to sell them cheaper abroad, is it not?

Mr. Schwab.—Yes, sir; and a very wise process . . .

Mr. Cockran. Could you explain the wisdom of it to the victims of it as well as to the beneficiaries of it? From the point of view of the American consumer, where does the wisdom of it come in?

Mr. Schwab. I am not thinking of the consumer. I am thinking of the manufacturer. (Laughter.) I presume there is no argument there.

Mr. Cockran. There is no argument there. The more you get the merrier.

Mr. Schwab. I have said it was a wise provision for the manufacturer. You cannot let a steel plant stand idle. The fires in your furnaces and the heat costs go on whether you are making steel or not.

Mr. Cockran. You said as a matter of fact that there are different rates charged for your products abroad and you charge less abroad than you charge at home?

Mr. Schwab. We usually charge abroad what we can get.

Mr. Cockran. You do that at home; do you not?

Mr. Schwab. Yes, of course.

Mr. Cockran. You cannot, of course, put a pistol to a man's head and take all he has.

Mr. Schwab. You can in some instances; yes.

In so essential a commodity as sugar, Mr. Parsons declares that refined sugar has been exported to Great Britain at 2.6 cents a pound when the wholesale price in this country was 4.55 cents, the difference in favor of the foreign consumer being 1.95 cents, the extra amount of the duty on refined sugar! The protection given to the Sugar Trust "is equivalent to 78.7 per cent. ad valorem. Mr. Parsons further informs us that "Something like six billion pounds of refined sugar are consumed annually in this country, of which the Sugar Trust refines about four billion five hundred million pounds, or seventy-five per cent. Yet this giant industry, noted for its enormous profits and great accumulated wealth, not content with its extreme protection—the net protection on refined sugar is from sixteen to twenty cents per hundred pounds, while the total labor cost of refining does not exceed ten cents—has deliberately cheated the government by false weights of over two million dollars during the past ten years."

The following further instances are taken from Mr. Pearson's tables of differences between export and home prices:—

Articles and description.	Export Price.	Home Price.	Per Cent of Difference
Watches. Elgin movement, 20-year, gold-filled case, each	$7.98	$10.23	28
Watches. Elgin movement, silver cases......	3.04	4.47	47
Shot Guns. Stevens' No. 105, each	2.80	4.25	52
Screws, round head, size 1-2 in., No. 1, per gross	.034	.087	156
Screws, flat head, size 1-4 in., Nos. 1 to 4, per gross	.034	.073	115
Saws, Disston's, framed wood, No. 60, per doz...	6.00	9.00	50
Saws, Disston's, band 2 in. gauge, per ft....	.157	.26	65
Lamp chimneys, Macbeth's, No. 502, per dozen	.40	.68	70

The above figures indicate, of course, that our tariff duties are unnecessarily high, even from a protectionist's point of view. Any industry which regularly sells its product abroad at lower than domestic prices shows that it no longer needs protection.—The Outlook.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is a George who has applied the land tax to Britain, and it was a George who originated it, Lloyd George and Henry George.

A correspondent who does not sign his name or give any indication of whether he is acting in good faith or not writes concerning certain health conditions in Ashburnham. Manifestly the Review cannot print anonymous correspondence of this character.

Are you in favor of the walk going on the inside or the outside of the trees? If so speak up. Funny thing that the ratepayers of a street are to have no say as to what is for or against their convenience. In all the discussion no reason was given for the engineer's report.

Special Notice

The local officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway announce that commencing Sunday, June 6th, and following Sundays, until further notice, train No. 4 will leave this city for the east at 11.26 a.m., and train No. 3, will leave for the west at 4.38 p.m.

Commencing June 7th, a new fast train will leave Toronto at 4 p.m. for Galt, Woodstock, London, Detroit, arriving in Chicago at 7.15 a.m., the next day, making connections with all the morning trains out of Chicago. Splendid new equipment.

Don't forget parlor cars on local from Peterborough at 7.56 a.m., and from Toronto at 5 p.m. Secure a good comfortable seat in these handsomely furnished cars at the small cost of 25 cents. Seats reserved at the city ticket office. 3d

SURE CURE FOR FRUIT SCALE

(Ukiah correspondence of San Francisco Call).

Prof. Harlan has discovered that the ordinary black ant will remove the scale from the fruit trees without injuring the trees or leaves in the least. He says their work is more complete than that accomplished by spraying or by any of the imported insects. The ants are captured by placing a plate of sugar near an ant hill and when covered with ants the plate is put in the forks of the infected tree. The ants leave the sugar and go to work on the scale. As soon as they all leave the sugar the plate is placed at the foot of the tree and as the ants come down after having cleaned the tree of scale they again assemble on the sugar and are thus easily removed to another tree.

Several ranchers in this section have tried the scheme and estimate that it will be worth millions to the fruit growers.

CANADA'S FAMOUS MEN AND WOMEN

Gladly Testify to the Great Value of "Fruit-a-tives."

Hon. Senator Costigan (member of the Cabinets of five Premiers of Canada), says:—"Fruit-a-tives is the only medicine I ever took that did me any good for Constipation."

Mrs. J. R. Flock (widow of one of the most prominent physicians in London), writes:—"I was a constant martyr to Stomach Weakness all my life and no physician could cure me, but Fruit-a-tives gave me entire relief and I strongly recommend this medicine."

Mr. James Dingwall (Superintendent of St. Andrew's Sunday School in Williamstown, Ont., for nine years) states: "I am now over eighty years old, and I can strongly recommend Fruit-a-tives for Bladder and Kidney Trouble and Chronic Constipation."

Mr. H. Marchessault (High Constable of Quebec), testifies:—"I suffered for ten years with Severe Pain in the Back. Nothing did me any good until I tried Fruit-a-tives."

Mr. W. J. McComb (the leading merchant of Trenton, Ont.), writes:—"I was a martyr to Headaches—consulted doctors — wore glasses — without the slightest relief. Then I took Fruit-a-tives and this remedy cured me."

This is the kind of evidence that convinces. Dealers everywhere have "Fruit-a-tives." 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The Tibetan Yak.

The recent arrival of the five Tibetan yak in Canada means a great deal to the Dominion, declares Ernest Seton Thompson, the well-known naturalist, who was instrumental in securing them from the Duke of Bedford.

It is hoped in time to effect a conquest of that vast stock-range which lies between the especial domain of the common cattle and the reindeer, and which at present is lying idle. This area is at least equal to all the cattle ranges hitherto utilized in America. It is at present only inhabited by a few trappers and Indians and by lumbermen on the edges. Attempts to utilize it for cattle by crosses between the American buffalo and the long-haired cattle of the Highlands have failed because of the unmanageable character of the buffalo. But the yak, or woolly ox, has been formed by nature for the northern ranges, and has long been domesticated by man. Its native Tibetan haunts on the snowclad, rocky hillsides and mountains extend even up to 20,000 feet, higher than the range of any other animal.

Experiments prove that the yak thrives equally well near sea-level, as at Shanghai, Nice, Paris, Antwerp, and Woburn Park, in England as well as in the London Zoological Gardens. Its native food is a coarse, wiry grass, but the experiments at Woburn Abbey and the London Zoo show that it thrives on anything that ordinary cattle will eat. The country along the north shore of Lake Superior around Thunder Bay would be a veritable paradise for herds of yaks.

Long-Distance Running.

A very plucky attempt to lower the record for the run between Hamilton and Toronto was made a few days ago by Frank Murphy, a young runner of the West-end Y. M. C. A., Toronto. The boy—for he is nothing more—failed to lower the record, but he came close enough to it to justify high hopes being held for his future performances. He showed all kinds of grit and endurance, plugging along alone through the mud, with no one to rub him down, so that he was afraid to stop lest his legs should stiffen up on him. But it seems too bad that he should have tackled anything so arduous. A run of this sort is almost too much for a full-matured and carefully-trained runner, and for a slight boy like Murphy is nothing short of dangerous. At the same time it does not seem to have had any serious consequences, because he was down to work bright and early next day, and complained of nothing but a little stiffness about the hips.—Toronto Saturday Night.

The Bishop's Amazement

The Bishop of London, preaching a farewell sermon on the occasion of the departure of Rev. H. S. Woollcomb, who is touring the colonies for three years in behalf of the Church of England Missionary Society, said there was nothing so touching as the longing which their country people of the colonies and the United States had for some living link, some living touch, with the mother country, especially the mother church. He was astonished at his own reception in Canada.

Remarkable Traffic Increase.

The policy of the C.P.R. has been to sell the land cheap on this irrigation block, so as to get settlers into the district, and thus make it traffic-producing. That this policy is proving successful is proved by the remarkable increase in freight receipts from this district. Thus outgoing shipments show an increase of 77 1-3 per cent. in cattle, and 264 1-2 per cent. in grain over last year. The total outgoing freight increased 86 per cent. for 1908 over 1906, while incoming freight increased 119 per cent.

"THE TOYS AWAKE" PROVED A BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Beautiful Children's Extravanza Given Charming Presentation—Ensemble and Individual Work Won Enthusiastic Approval—Repeated This Evening.

There is a harmony of color, a wealth of light and tinkling music and a profusion of pretty groupings and effects in "The Toys Awake" that makes the charming picture of fairyland pass all too quickly. It was captivatingly given last night at the Grand Opera House by 250 brightly costumed and clever and well-trained children and grown-ups and was a brilliant success in every particular. From the opening scene, when the first entrance was made to the final curtain the picture was one of fascinating attractiveness and there was never the slightest variation from the bright note of merriment or even a momentary lull in the festival of delightful splendor.

The play is based on an old German legend of the toymaker of Nuremberg; the scene is laid in Toyland and the event is the anniversary of the Queen's birthday. The young Prince of Charmingland visits the court and wins the hand of the beautiful little princess and carries her off to his own land.

The plot of the piece is really daintier and more interesting than that of the majority of spectacular offerings but is nearly lost sight of in the pretty confusion of the almost numberless national groups and choruses and dance creations and the eccentric antics of the grotesque comedy characters. The play may be summed up as a panorama of pleasing and cleverly executed features and the groups and solo performers always have the background of a tastefully arranged and gaily dressed bank of fellow performers in an almost bewildering array of costumes which show intelligence in fine taste and original conception of what is required for comedy effect.

There are two acts in the production, the first showing the entrance of the King and his court and the cunning little toys. The herald announces the arrival of each picturesque party or individual and it seems to the audience that the procession is an unending one. At length however, they all enter after being announced and performing something characteristic of what they represent and the announcement to the banquet hall comes from the King.

In the next act the toys entertain the court and last night they not only succeeded in obtaining the commendation of their audience of mimic land, but earned, as well, the heartiest approbation from the large gathering, that while not within the charmed circle was by the peculiar privileges of fairy lore permitted to see the enchanting programme presented in the King's banquet hall.

In this delightful court entertainment some of the cleverest special numbers ever given here by juvenile talent was produced including singing, dancing and recitations. The little artists were enthusiastically applauded and it was the general opinion that the play was probably the most acceptable presentations of its kind seen in Peterborough.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

WHAT YOU NEED FOR THE COUNTRY.

You need some handy balm ready for blistered hands, sunburned skin cuts, burns, bruises, stings and the many little accidents incidental to open-air life. Zam Buk is the ideal balm. It is antiseptic, soothing, and healing. Insect stings or barbed wire scratches cannot become poisoned wounds if Zam-Buk is applied. It soothes sore, aching feet, heals baby's chafed places, cools patches of sunburn, relieves the pain of blister. Mothers should see that the country cottage is never without Zam-Buk. Purely herbal, it may be regarded as Nature's own healer. Apply it to all skin injuries, eruptions and diseases. All druggists and stores.

CRADLE OF METHODISM

Picton, Ont., June 6.—The centenary of the White Chapel, one of the very few remaining cradles of Methodism in Canada, was celebrated yesterday at Hallowed Mills, two miles below Picton. The Bay of Quinte Conference adjourned from its sittings in Belleville, and nearly 200 preachers with their friends came down by steamer to see the century-old building.

The meeting house was erected in June, 1809, the prime mover in its building being Stephen Conger, whose son resides adjoining the old chapel. The chapel is the oldest Methodist church in Canada now being used as originally intended. It is of a plain type of architecture, with four square walls and pavilion roof of heavy frames. The interior is quaintly old-fashioned, the box-like pulpit crowned overhead with the sounding boards. In the church is the old melodeon, now almost tuneless, and the box stove used the first year the chapel was in commission.

Rev. Mr. Greatrix, of Belleville, president of the conference, presided at the anniversary exercises. Mr. John L. Lake, a prominent Toronto layman, who was stationed at the White Chapel in 1866, gave a short address of a reminiscent nature. The day also marked the 60th anniversary of his ordination. Rev. Dr. Shorey, of Cobourg, one time preacher on the circuit, gave a short address.

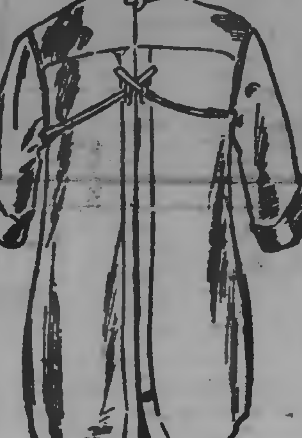
PRACTICAL APPAREL.

Garment Can Be Put on Patient as He Lies Abed.

After experiencing the difficulty of dressing and undressing the bedridden a clever woman has devised a nightgown which will be found not only a useful article in hospitals, but in all cases where persons are too ill to be moved. The nightgown is divided in the back instead of in front and is cut from head to foot. The patient's arms are slipped through the sleeves, and he need be lifted only a few inches and the loose ends of the garment thrust under him. Two loops at the neck are easily fastened and hold it in place there, and at another point between the shoulder blades it can be fastened in much the same way if necessary. With this nightgown a patient whom it would be difficult to clothe under ordinary circumstances may have his garment changed frequently with practically no trouble, and the nurse or whoever is in attendance can make the change unaided and in a few minutes.



NIGHTGOWN FOR THE SICK.

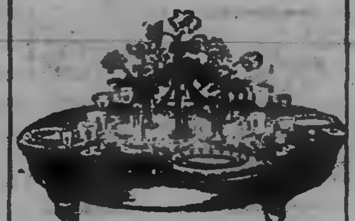
FAD FOR THE HOSTESS.

Centerpiece of Crystal Vases With Chain Decorations.

The hostess who is always looking for something new with which to make her table attractive will find it in the large department shops where they are showing a unique and artistic device for a centerpiece.

It consists of a group of slender crystal vases connected with delicate crystal chains. The one shown in the accompanying illustration has four small vases connected with a larger one in the center.

Since the chains are removable it is possible to arrange the vases in many different ways. For a long table they could be placed in a straight line, while for a round table they should be placed more as shown here. These beautiful sets come in many sizes and are made up of few or many vases, just as the purchaser wishes. They are among the most attractive forms of table decorations which have been brought out during the past year. Another lovely device for the table is a slender silver candlestick, the base of which consists of a glass flower holder with its many little round openings to accommodate the separate stems of the blossoms and hold them upright.



THE NEWEST THING IN CENTERPIECES.

These candlesticks are placed in glass finger bowls and the holders filled with blossoms.

The effect is charming with the soft candlelight above the low bowl of flowers. Many times a hostess wishes to use candles to light her table, but this seems to interfere with her floral decorations. In this way two decorations are effectively combined.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Higher at Chicago. Cables Steady—Hogs Lower, Cattle

LONDON, June 7.—London cables for cattle steady, at 12c to 13¾c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10⅛c to 10½c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, June 7.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 48 carloads, consisting of 1064 cattle, 24 sheep and 32 calves.

Exporters.

There were quite a number of shipping cattle on the market, but no buyers were operating, as they do not want them on Monday, but Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers' sold at from $5.85 to $6.25, loads of good at $5.55 to $5.85; medium, $5.30 to $5.45; common to medium, $4.90 to $5.25; cows, $4.25 to $5; bulls, $4.50 to $5.25.

Milkers and Springers.

Milkers and springers were quoted at $30 to $65 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices for veal calves were unchanged, at $3 to $6.25 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts light, and prices unchanged. Export ewes sold at $4.50 to $5 per cwt.; rams, $3.50 to $4 per cwt., and spring lambs at $3 to $5.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

There were no hogs on sale, but H. P. Kennedy reports prices 10c per cwt. lower. Selects, fed and watered, $7.65, and $7.40 f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 7.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending June 5 were 2497 cattle, 209 sheep and lambs, 1941 hogs and 1367 calves. Supply for local consumption this morning consisted of 600 cattle, 60 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 50 calves. Owing to the run of cattle being fully 500 head smaller than a week ago, a much stronger feeling developed in the market, and prices advanced ¼c per lb., but butchers bought only sufficient to fill their immediate requirements, and trade was rather slow. There was some demand from Quebec buyers, and about three carloads were taken, but the trade for export account was very quiet. Liverpool cables stated that the weather was cool and trade fair, but prices showed no improvement. Few sales of extra choice steers were made here at 6⅝c; choice at 6¼c to 6½c; good at 5¾c to 6c; fair at 5¼c to 5½c; medium at 4¾c to 5c, and common at 3¾c to 4½c per lb.

For hogs, an advance of 10c per 100 lbs. was paid in some cases for a few choice parcels. Demand was not keen for supplies, as packers were in most cases fairly well supplied, and the market was rather quiet, with sales at $8.50 to $8.60 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Sheep prices show a further decline of ½c to 1c per lb. Supplies were not large, but the demand was rather limited, and holders, in order to make sales, were obliged to accept the above reduction, and 5c per lb. was the ruling price for yearling stock. The offerings of spring lambs were small, which met with a fair sale at $4 to $6 each. Calves sold well at prices ranging from $2 to $8 each, as to size and quality.

At the Canadian Pacific live stock market, receipts for the week ending June 5 were 1923 cattle for export account and 550 cattle, 250 sheep and lambs, 620 hogs and 1241 calves for local consumption. The offerings this morning consisted of 200 cattle, 125 sheep and lambs, 60 hogs and 125 calves.

The exports of live stock from the port of Montreal for the week ending June 5 were: Cattle: Liverpool—Corinthian 750, Parthenia 532. London—Cervona 600, Lake Michigan 306. Glasgow—Ionian 151, Parthenia 82, Manchester Shipper 382. Total, 2871; last week, 2291.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, June 7.—Cattle—Receipts 3250 head; slow; fancy dry-fed, steady; common, 15c to 25c lower; grassers, 25c to 50c lower; prime steers, $6.75 to $7.25; shipping, $6 to $6.60; butchers', $5.50 to $6.75; heifers, $4.50 to $6.25; cows, $3.00 to $5.25; bulls, $3.00 to $5.40; stockers and feeders, $4.25 to $5.10; stock heifers, $3.25 to $4.25; fresh cows and springers, choice, steady; others, $2 to $3 lower; $25 to $60.

Veals—Receipts, 2800 head; active and steady; $6 to $8.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 8800 head; fairly active; best grades, steady to 5c lower; pigs, 15c higher; heavy, $7.80 to $8; mixed, $7.75 to $8; Yorkers, $7.50 to $7.85; pigs, $7.30 to $7.40; roughs, $6.65 to $6.80; stags, $5.50 to $6; dairies, $7.50 to $7.85.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at 19,000; market strong to 10c higher; beeves, $5.20 to $7.30; Texas steers, $4.65 to $6.25; western steers, $4.75 to $6.40; stockers and feeders, $3.60 to $5.55; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $6.30; calves, $5.75 to $7.75.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at 40,000; market 5c lower; light, $7 to $7.50; mixed, $7.20 to $7.70; heavy, $7.30 to $7.75; roughs, $6.20 to $7.45; good to choice heavy, $7.45 to $7.75; pigs, $6.10 to $7; bulk of sales, $7.35 to $7.75.

YOUNG ITALIAN WAS FINED

Used Insulting Language When Asked to Produce Peddler's License

A young Italian pedlar was fined $5 and costs amounting in all to $9.58 at the police court this morning.

Mr. D. N Minicola acted as court interpreter.

The Italian peddles fruit for Frank Marino and does not have a license in his own name although Marino has two. This morning the Italian was met by Chief Ronzel who demanded to see his license as he had done on several other occasions. But the pedlar answered in an insulting manner and threatened to do the Chief bodily harm and as a result was locked up in the station.

Frank Marino told the court that he had two men peddling for him and had also secured two licenses but the men did not carry them.

Chief Ronzel gave his evidence for the purpose of showing that his demand was a reasonable one and he only wished that the Magistrate would make it thoroughly understood that he and his officers were to be civilly treated while in the discharge of their duty.

The accused through his interpreter, stated that he had offered to send a man to get the license and also said that the Chief had used bad language towards him.

But P. C. Newhall who was nearby at the time contradicted the latter part of the Italian's evidence and the Magistrate would not believe it either and imposed the above fine.

THAT WALK ON BENSON STREET

May Yet be Built on Outside of the Tree Line—Aldermen Get Tangled in Voting—Finally Decide to Have Another Report From the Board of Works.

The location of the new cement walk on Benson street is about as uncertain as the whereabouts of a woman's purse.

The Board of Works decided it was to go on the inside of the tree line, the city engineer recommending this action. Every resident on the street wanted it on the outside—and the trouble started. And the end is not yet.

The city council last night decided to send the matter back to the Board of Works to be reported upon, and in the meantime both sides will be able to get their wind and recuperate—whatever that is.

Mr. R. J. Kidd headed a deputation of the Benson street ratepayers and made a strong case for the walk going outside the tree line.

When Mr. Kidd was through the aldermen started making resolutions, but they were not of the New Year variety. There was a motion, then an amendment, then an amendment to the amendment, and then another amendment on top of that. When they started to vote the aldermen got tangled. And it was no wonder. Ald. Hicks moved that the civic fathers get untangled before they proceeded further.

Mr. Kidd showed that the grade would be better with the walk outside the tree line, that the Water Commissioners had no serious objections to it going outside the trees, that the city engineer was mistaken and that every man jack of the ratepayers along the street wanted it on the outside. He alleged uncourteous treatment on the part of his old friend, Ald. Phelan. Ald. Phelan, he said, would not bring the Board of Works to the scene of the trouble to go over the ground.

Ald. Phelan resented Mr. Kidd's reference to the chairman of the Board of Works being discourteous to the Benson street deputation.

This led to some cross-firing, and the trouble was smoothed out.

Ald. Phelan told Mr. Kidd to stick to his subject, and Mr. Kidd, who wanted to show that the city engineer's judgment was sometimes bad, was willing to leave it to the council as to whether he was to continue speaking or sit down. It was not necessary, however, to take a vote on the matter.

When the excitement had somewhat subsided, Ald. Phelan arose to make a statement.

Ald. Phelan said he had no axes to grind. He went into the matter thoroughly as chairman of the Board of Works and acted on the report of the city engineer. Mr. Hay was paid by the city for his services the same as the city solicitor. They gave their opinions and the city acted upon them. The speaker had nothing to gain by having the sidewalk inside the tree line. The engineer had reported that way, and his judgment should be respected.

Ald. Duncan said two engineers had reported in favor of the walk going inside the tree line, and he did not see why these reports should be gone back on.

Ald. Buller said he was still in favor of the walk going outside the tree line. He thought the matter should be referred back to the city engineer.

Ald. Duffus was in favor of having the walk outside the tree line.

Ald. Duncan and Ald. Bradburn moved and seconded that the report of the Board of Works containing the recommendation that the walk go on the inside of the tree line be adopted.

Ald. McIntyre moved, in amendment, seconded by Ald. Morgan, that the walk go on the outside of the tree line.

Ald. Gillespie moved in amendment to the amendment that the question be referred back to the Board of Works to report on. Ald. Buller seconded this.

Ald. Morrow asked if it was definitely settled that the city was to have the ten foot strip of land from Mr. Fitzgerald.

Ald. Duffus said he understood the city had an option on it.

Ald. Turner asked Mr. Fitzgerald, who was present, what he would do.

"I'll let the city have the land any time it will pay for it," said Mr. Fitzgerald.

Voting on the amendment to refer the question to the Board of Works came next, and it was defeated 7—5.

Ald. McIntyre's and Ald. Morgan's amendment came next and it failed to carry.

Then Ald. Duncan remarked that the government engineer was coming to Peterborough this week, and as the government was interested in the matter on account of the Normal school being on the street, it might be well to have his opinion.

It was agreed that there was some merit in this.

Ald. Gillespie wanted his amendment put again, and it was voted on and carried, the vote standing 7—4.

This ended the incident.

BOARD OF HEALTH HELD MEETING THIS MORNING

A meeting of the Board of Health was held this morning, with Dr. Burnham, chairman; Mayor Rush, Dr. McNulty, Dr. Young and Mrs Murty in attendance.

A letter was received from the Wm. Hamilton Co., saying they wished a sewer connection from the creek south of McDonnel street to McDonnel street.

The engineer will be asked to report on this matter.

The city treasurer was instructed to pay the following accounts;—Fred. Brown, $2.50; J. E. A. Fitzgerald, $2.00; J. J. Turner & Sons, $78.15; Mrs. J. Brumwell, $4.20; R. Hicks & Co., $3.25; Wm. Curtis, $1.00.

An account of $100.00 from Dr. Morgan was laid over until the next meeting, the doctor being asked to send in an itemized statement.

A PRESENTATION NIGHT AT THE BELMONT CLUB

Last evening at the Belmont Club an informal luncheon was tendered Mr. Robert Hall, a valued member of the club, prior to his departure for Milwaukee. He was presented with a beautiful silver napkin ring, accompanied with the best wishes of his club mates for a prosperous residence in the western city.

There was an attendance of practically all the members of the club, and advantage was taken of the occasion to honor Mr. Arthur Meyers with a handsome mission design clock, in view of an approaching event in which Mr. Meyers will be very much interested.

Mr. W. Wareham was presented with a very fine pipe in recognition of his winning a recent tournament held under the auspices of the club.

ROUTINE BUSINESS AT THE COUNCIL MEETING

The City Council met last night for the regular session, and in the absence of the Mayor, Ald. Phelan was elected to the chair for the evening.

Those present were Aldermen Hicks, Duffus, Duncan, Morgan, Buller, Bradburn, Gillespie, Turner, Morrow and Metherall.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Among the communications read were the following:

Notification of the ninth annual convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities to be held at Medicine Hat on July 26th and 27th was read.—Received.

R. J. McLaughlin, of Lindsay, wrote stating that the offer to purchase Burleigh Falls, given the city, will remain open until July 1st, and after that time, if the city decided to submit the matter to the people, the option would be extended for a reasonable length of time.

Geo Lancaster applied for permission to erect a boat house on city property, north of the C.P.R. bridge. Harvey Staunton sent in a similar application. S. W. Rose also asked for permission to build a boat house.

Notice was received from Esther Torpey to the effect that she had been injured by falling on Roger St. on May 9th, and alleging that the fall was due to the defective condition of the sidewalk.—Legal Committee.

Mr. Ozias deLaplante asked upon what terms he could secure connection from a house to the trunk sewer on Lock street, outside of city limits. —Board of Works.

A local man applied for the permanent position of caretaker of the isolation hospital, if one was erected.—Property Committee.

The publishers of the Franco-Canadian Commercial Guide wrote asking the city to insert an advertisement. —Received.

W. A. Bailey wrote that the dog tax notices posted up in the streets were an incitement to murder the dogs.

Mr. Bailey's letter was referred to the police commissioners.

Ald. Duncan read the report of the Board of Works. Ald. Bradburn read the Property Committee's report, and Ald. Morrow presented the report of the Finance Committee. A report was also received from the committee of the whole.

Mr. R. H. Leary asked permission to have banners advertising the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition placed across the streets. There is a by-law against signs being placed across the streets.

Mr. Leary's request was granted and the chief of police will be notified to permit the banners being put up.

The Property Committee was given authority to deal with the applications for boat houses.

The report of the Finance Committee was as follows:

Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1—That four copies of the new city directory be ordered for the city offices.

2—That the collector of taxes be instructed that the roll for 1909 must be returned on or before June 15th, 1909, and that the council deem it advisable that the roll be returned each year on or before April 15th.

3—That the assessors be paid $125 each on account.

4—That T. F. Matthews be refunded $10 paid for a plumber's license as the license should have been issued in the name of J. Friedly, who has taken one out.

5—That a grant of $500 be made the 57th Regiment Band, and of $150 to the Salvation Army band on the same conditions as last year.

6—That the following accounts be paid—

If it is a question of price—then all things considered. "Salada" is the greatest tea value for the money paid, for experience has proven that "Salada" (packed in air-tight lead packets) is tea excellence.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE WM. FOWLER

Public Services Were Held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Yesterday Afternoon

The funeral of the late William Fowler took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, 273 Rubidge street and was largely attended. Public services were held at St Andrew's Presbyterian church of which the deceased had always been a faithful and consistent worshipper, member and elder. The services which were very beautiful and impressive, were conducted by Rev. J. G Potter, assisted by Rev. Messrs W J Keith, John E. Fee, J J Wright, and mention was made of the Christian spirit which the late Mr Fowler had always shown during his life. The pallbearers were the deceased's fellow elders of the church, Messrs Richard Lees, John Mathieson, John Hill, Wm Stevens, George Cockburn, Wm Giren, J. S. Ferguson and Thomas Borland. The floral tributes were many and the esteem in which the deceased was held in the church was shown by the tributes from the Session, Board of Managers, Ladies' Aid Society and the Young Men's Class. The Board of Managers attended in a body.

At the conclusion of the services, the cortege proceeded to Little Lake cemetery where the remains were laid at rest.

YOUNG MAN WAS DISCHARGED

Was Accused of Interfering With Police Officers While They Were Making an Arrest

The young man who was charged with interfering with the police officers while they were endeavoring to make an arrest was discharged after considerable evidence had been taken at the evening session of the Police Court yesterday.

Mr. G. N. Gordon conducted the case for the defendant.

Both P. C. Adams and P. C. McGinnity gave their version of the affair and several other witnesses were called. The evidence was to the effect that the accused young man had arrived on the scene of the disturbance on Murray street at the time the young man, who the police were endeavoring to arrest was on the ground and the officers had a hold of him. The crowd had pressed on top of the officers with the result that their prisoner escaped. The defendant had not used any force, but appeared to be more of a peacemaker than anything else. One witness stated that he had heard the accused ask one of the policemen if he would take the young man home and the policeman had replied, yes. The Magistrate did not favor making a conviction, on the grounds that the defendant had taken part in the disturbance, presumably with good intentions and the evidence did not show any intent upon the part of the young man to interfere with the police and he dismissed the case.

BAND CONCERTS SUNDAY EVENING

Change May be Made as to When S. A. Band Will Give Weekly Concerts

The city will request the Salvation Army band to give their weekly band concert on Sunday evening instead of on Tuesday evening as last year.

Ald. Turner brought up the matter last night. He believed the Salvation Army band concerts would be better attended if given on Sunday night. It was a sacred band playing sacred music, and it would be quite appropriate for it to give Sunday evening concerts.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Gillespie, that the Property Committee ascertain if the S.A. band would give its weekly concert on Sunday evening, instead of on Tuesday evening. This was carried.

If the band cannot play on Sunday evenings the weekly concerts will be given on Tuesday evenings.

LEASE IS GIVEN TO THE COMPANY

Important Announcement Made by Northumberland Durham Power Company Regarding Healey Falls

Port Hope, June 7—The directors of the Northumberland-Durham power company, limited, have just made public an announcement of considerable importance to the municipalities lying between Port Hope and Belleville to the effect that the Minister of Railways and Canals has agreed to grant a lease to the company of the remaining portion of the Healey Falls waterpower controlled by the Federal Government. Development of the power will proceed concurrently with the construction of the Trent Valley Canal which passes through the company's property and will also facilitate the early construction of the Cobourg, Port Hope and Havelock Electric railway which is awaited by the district.

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so, I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c (the cost of a postage stamp). Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. MRS. F. E. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

NO MORE THE LAWS' DELAY

Under an amendment to the judicature act passed last session by the Provincial Legislature, judges may be compelled to give judgment on a case within a reasonable time after trial. The first case arising under this amendment is that of Miller v. Grand Trunk Railway, which was tried before Mr. Justice Magee at Brockville in April, 1908, but in which judgment has not yet been handed down. According to the revised statute, in the case of the death or resignation of the trial judge, if judgment on an action has not been given by him, or in case of judgment being delayed more than six months after the date of the trial, a motion may be made before a Divisional Court, for judgment upon the record. Mr. H. A. Stewart filed motion yesterday of his intention to make such a motion in the Miller case.—The Globe.

COUNTY COURT ADJOURNED FOR PECULIAR REASON

Owing to Judge Weller's Death There is no County Judge —Judge Harding Could Not Act—The Sherriff's Daily Duty.

A peculiar reason and one without precedent in the annals of justice in this part of the country, was the cause of an adjournment of the sittings of the county court, which was to have been opened to-day before His Honor Judge Harding, of Lindsay.

When the late Judge Weller was ill Judge Harding was appointed to act in his place, but since the death of Judge Weller that appointment is void. It is expected that a new judge will be appointed in a couple of weeks. In the meantime the sheriff will have to visit the court room each day at noon and announce an adjournment in the empty room.

ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A. APPOINTED SPECIAL TENNIS COMMITTEE

St. John's Anglican Young People's Association held a special general meeting last night on Nicholls Oval at 8 p.m., after a most enjoyable game of tennis. A special committee was also elected to select teams to do battle for the club in the city competition as follows;—Mr. R. J. Devey, president; Mr. C. Downs, Mr. Nat Greenhalgh.

The Rev. Canon Davidson was present and took part in a set on the tennis grounds, and addressed a few few kindly words of welcome to those present at the close of the meeting.

COVERED THE DISTANCE IN REMARKABLE TIME

The runners in the American Marathons may travel some, but Mr. Bob French, of Potvin's, has a Glasgow Weekly News to hand which shows that their best performances have been eclipsed by the remarkable running of J. T. Primmer in the West Scotland Marathon race. Primmer is a member of the Sefton Harriers, of Liverpool, England, and ran 26 miles, the course of the race, in two hours and two minutes.

This has all the performances of St. Yves, Longboat, Svanberg and the rest of them badly shaded and establishes a world's record. The time is so fast that it is almost impossible to believe the distance was negotiated in such a fast clip, but the Glasgow paper, which is one of the most reliable Scottish journals, gives it as absolutely authentic.

PRUDENTIAL BALL PLAYERS HAVE CLUSTER OF STARS

The quiet and peaceful citizens of Chemong were taken somewhat by surprise on Saturday afternoon when the staff of the Prudential Insurance Company of Peterborough, breezed into that noted summer resort and treated (the fans) of that hamlet to a game of baseball.

The teams lined up under the captaincy of Supt. J. I. Allen, a former Connecticut League "Star" twirler, and Asst. Supt. R. S. Bradley of National League fame.

Both teams played exceptional ball Mr. Allen's forces winning out by the small score of 4 to 3, although it is only fair to mention that had it not been for the superb fielding and timely hitting of one, "Dubbs" Cornelius, once famous second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, in the early nineties, Mr. Allen and his men would have won by a considerable larger margin. While on the other hand, Joseph Leadbetter saved the game many a time by his spectacular fielding and was very much in evidence with his trusty stick.

The outing was given by Supt. Allen in appreciation of the faithful week's work of his staff, it being a record breaker.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

BLOCK BALLS

Rule 37. Sec. 1.—A block is a batted or thrown ball that is touched, stopped or handled by a person not engaged in the game.

Sec. 2.—Whenever a block occurs the umpire shall declare it, and the base runners may run the bases without liability to be put out until the ball has been returned and held by the pitcher in his position.

Sec. 3.—If the person not engaged in the game should retain possession of a blocked ball or throw or kick it beyond the reach of the fielders, the umpire shall call time, time, and require each base runner to stop at the base last touched by him, until the ball be returned to the pitcher in his position and the umpire shall have called play.

What about the Junior Church League? The interest shown early in the season has dropped somewhat, but as the teams do not feel like living up to the rules, they should not expect any other state of affairs.

The "fair" fans of the city are invited to come and bring a friend to the all games at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon.

The grounds committee of Riverside Park could help a lot by allowing each team to practice there once every week.

Will the West Ends trim the T. A.S.? On the form displayed by both nines last Saturday it would appear to be a hard question to answer.

There were 19 stolen bases in the Strathcona-West End game on Saturday. That's getting around the bases some.

Montreal gave Toronto a thorough trouncing yesterday, the score being 17 to 2. The Royals made eight runs off Lundgren in the first inning. Moffitt was hit hard and Duggleby finished the game. Toronto's fielding was bad also.

Rochester came from behind and beat Buffalo 10 to 2.

"Iron Man" McGinnity blanked the Grays with two hits.

Baltimore beat the Skeeters 7 to 2.

Detroit and Philadelphia Americans were both beaten.

Cincinnati, Brooklyn and Pittsburg were the National winners.

Thoney is starring again for Boston.

Montreal come to Toronto to-day for a series of three games.

Kelley has released Pitchers Moffitt and Duggleby for good.

HAVELOCK

Special to the Review.

Havelock, June 6.—Council met as Court of Revision in the town hall on Monday night at 8 p.m. with all members present. The following appeals were received for high assessment;—Wm. Duncan, Chas. Armstrong, A. Waller, I. Ackerman, Thos. Bennet, Harry Peters, S. S. Joyce, Chas. Barton, Chas. Duffield, C. A. Ghent, Thos. Curtis, J. W. Bryans.

Wm. Dineen and Chas. Armstrong, who appealed through Mr. Ghent, had witnesses present who expressed their conviction that local option had decreased the value of these properties fully one half.

Mr. A. Waller in entering his appeal gave the court a little talk on the assessment in general and also gave them to understand that if their verdict did not suit him, that he would take the matter to a higher court.

Mr. S. S. Joyce in appealing, also said that he did not think proceedings were being carried on in a satisfactory manner by the court.

No action was taken on any of the appeals but the matter will be disposed of at a later meeting.

The Belmont and Methuen Council met for their regular May meeting in the Havelock town hall on Saturday, May 29th.

The Council met on Monday, May 31st, in the Council Chamber. Tenders for building sidewalks were entered by Geo. Scott at 40c. per rod, Alex. Smith at 40c. per rod.

Mr. Alex. Smith was given the contract for building all walks east of Ann street and Geo. Scott all west of that point. Young and Phillips were appointed to look after the work.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Art Coon, 401 loads of gravel at 32 cents, $128.32; Geo. Scott, 7 days work, $10.50; Jas. Backus, 13 1-2 days' work, $20.25; Jas. Bryans, 4,374 ft. plank, $65.70.

A beautiful sodawater fountain has been installed by Mr. G. R. McGregor.

Tenders are out for the carrying of mail three times a week between Havelock and Blairton.

The Havelock minstrels will make their appearance in all the latest songs and jokes in the opera house.

IN THE WOOLLY DAYS

COL. STEELE TELLS OF EARLY TIMES IN THE WEST.

When Beyond the Great Lakes Was a Wild, Lawless Country and Whites and Reds Were In Constant Conflict — Traders Supplied Indians With Whisky — Mounted Police Finally Ends Traffic In Firewater.

"It is erroneous," said Col. Steele, when addressing the Canadian Club of Winnipeg the other day, "to suppose that Canada never had a wild and woolly West"; and then he proceeded to recount a few facts that showed that there was a time, not so many years ago, when Canada beyond the Great Lakes was largely a lawless land where human life was little valued, and men, both red and white, were ever ready to raise their hands against their fellows. That this reign of anarchy was brought to a close before permanent settlement on anything like a large scale was established on the prairies, stands to the credit of the Government of Canada in a general way, but specially to that worthy band of horsemen, the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, who prepared the way for the coming of the farmer and rancher, and made law a real thing throughout the Canadian West.

Before the coming of the police one of the principal causes of lawlessness on the plains was the presence of rascally whisky-traders who came up from the still more lawless American West, and establishing themselves in substantial log forts, debauched the Indians with liquor, then robbed them, and often murdered them too, as they saw fit.

One of the most notorious of these centres of evil was "Whoop-Up" or Fort Hamilton, situated at the fork of the St. Mary's and the Belly rivers, but a few miles southwest of when the town of Lethbridge now stands in Southern Alberta. This whisky fort was well stockaded, and well supplied with muskets and a cannon. Through a hole in the wall a drink of whisky could be bought for a buffalo robe, and after having made the Indians drunk, it was no uncommon thing for the vile garrison to "pot" the reeling savages outside. After a time other traders came up who sold the Indians other things besides whisky, among them being rifles and ammunition. This, of course, the whisky-traders did not like, and so they organized a semi-military force known as the "Spitzee Cavalry," from the Spitzee river in Alberta, and drove out the legitimate traders.

Another centre of crime was the Drunken Lakes, near the site of the present city of Edmonton, where, said Col. Steele, "murders and bloodshed had once reigned supreme."

Because the Indians now live for the most part peaceably on their reserves it is a mistake to suppose that they showed any similar disposition in the early years of western history. Our western Indians now have a pretty good name, but what they are capable of doing, even after years of contact with some degree of civilization, was shown at the outbreak of the uprising of 1885, when they began operations by the Frog Lake massacre. In the early times the Crees and the Blackfeet were almost continually at war in the neighborhood of Edmonton, and whenever members of the two tribes met there was sure to be bloodshed. Col. Steele related that the first time he went to Edmonton, he slept in a room on whose floor and walls were still the bloodstains of a Blackfeet chief murdered there two years before.

One of the most notorious of the chiefs of that time was Piapot, one of whose blackest deeds was a massacre of old men, women and children of a rival tribe. That bloody day's work was enacted near where Lethbridge now stands.

But in due time Piapot met more than his match in Jerry Potts, a Scotch half-breed, who with his followers, inflicted great loss on Piapot's band, Potts alone, it is said, scalping nineteen Indians. In later life the terrible Potts became a capable and trusted interpreter.

All this time the diabolical whisky-traders were plying their traffic. They often had battles with the Indians, and on one occasion, among the Cypress Hills, they massacred an entire tribe.

When news of this wholesome villany reached the East it roused the Canadian Government and the British authorities too; and the taking over of the country by the former was greatly hastened.

Col. Steele passed on in his address to the formation of the Mounted Police. He went West with the first division, which traveled from Lake Superior by the Dawson road to Manitoba. The second division, under Lt.-Col. French, now Major Gen. Sir George French, arrived by way of the States in 1874. The force then proceeded westward. One division, under Lieut.-Col. Jarvis, left the main body at Roche Percee, and proceeded to Edmonton, reaching there late in the autumn. The main body marched across the prairies to Southern Alberta, and back to Dufferin, where it went into winter quarters. This force, led by Lieut.-Col. French, covered 1,959 miles, the longest march on record of a force carrying its own supplies.

A special force was detached from the main body when in Alberta, and placed in charge of Lieut.-Col. Macleod. With the notorious Jerry Potts as guide it proceeded to the whisky fort, Whoop-Up, which was captured without a fight. The liquor was destroyed, and the buffalo robes found there confiscated.

The Indians turned out in large numbers to welcome the force, and witness the downfall of their ancient enemies, the whisky-traders. At last they knew that the Queen, the great White Mother, would protect her red children.

WHEN THE BOOM BUST.

How the Winnipeg Merchant Silenced the Banker.

They tell a story in Winnipeg about one of the largest and wealthiest wholesale houses in the city that illustrates both the state of affairs in the Canadian West just after the collapse of the famous "boom" and also the real solidity and recuperative power of that country.

This pioneer firm had been optimistic during the boom, and when the tide receded it was left with a lot of bad accounts on its hands and little good business. It was struggling along trying to prevent the evil of the day being more than sufficient. The bank manager doubtless had his own troubles, but the firm thought he was worrying and hampering them unnecessarily in a time when every nerve was stretched to pay one hundred cents on the dollar. Ordinary hints were of no avail. The banker's enquiries and instructions and statements of what must be done became daily more unbearable. One morning the junior partner of the wholesale house walked into the bank manager's private office and laid a bunch of keys on his desk.

"What are these?" asked the manager, somewhat surprised.

"Those," said the merchant, "are the keys of our warehouse."

"Why do you bring them here?"

"Well, we have been trying for the last six months to make some money to pay off our creditors. There has been nothing in it for us but hard work and anxiety. If you think, as you seem to do, that you know more about running the business than we do, you are welcome to take the keys and start in."

The banker saw that the merchant meant what he said. He handed back the keys, and the firm had more money and less advice from that banker until the tide turned and business began to come their way again.

A MINISTER'S STORY.

It Didn't Have the Intended Effect Upon the Congregation.

It is said that a New England minister once told the following story just before the collection was taken up:

"I have heard of a man, prosperous and well to do, who went to church one Sunday and put a cent—just a plain copper cent—in the collection box.

"On the way home he was overtaken by a sudden heavy shower and, having no umbrella, crawled into a hollow log by the roadside to keep himself dry until the downpour was over.

"Soon the log began to swell, and the wetter it got the more it swelled until the sides finally closed in on the prosperous citizen and held him in a grip like a vise.

"The rain ceased, but the unfortunate man was unable to move hand or foot. He shouted for help, but no one heard him. He was about to give up in despair when he suddenly thought of the cent he had dropped into the collection box that day, and it made him feel so mean and small that he crawled right out of the log without any further trouble.

"Now, if you expect to get caught in a shower and be obliged to take refuge in a hollow log on the way home, by all means put a cent in the contribution basket! If you don't anticipate a crisis of that sort—well, you will know what to do when the basket is passed."

The minister expected a shower of silver and bills to follow this story, but unfortunately just as the collection began a black cloud passed overhead, it suddenly began to sprinkle, and the pennies fairly rained into the contribution basket. Only one quarter, a solitary dime and a lone nickel were found among the coppers, and they got in before the shower began.

The congregation, it seems, had all left their umbrellas at home, and they were not taking any chances.—New York Times.

The Woman In the Alcove

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,

Author of "The Millionaire Baby," "The Filigree Ball," "The House in the Mist," "The Amethyst Box," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY.

I tried to carry it off bravely and as if I saw nothing in this summons which was unique or alarming. But I succeeded only in dividing a wavering glance between him and the group of men of which he had just formed a part. In the latter were several gentlemen whom I had noted in Mrs. Fairbrother's train early in the evening and a few strangers, two of whom were officials. Mr. Durand was with the former, and his expression did not encourage me.

"The affair is very serious," commented the detective on leaving me. "That's our excuse for any trouble we may be putting you to."

I clutched my uncle's arm.

"Where shall we go?" I asked. "The drawing room is too large. In this hall my eyes are forever traveling in the direction of the alcove. Don't you know some little room? Oh, what, what can he want of me?"

"Nothing serious, nothing important," blustered my good uncle. "Some triviality such as you can answer in a moment. A little room? Yes, I know one, there, under the stairs. Come, I will find the door for you. Why did we ever come to this wretched ball?"

I had no answer for this. Why, indeed!

My uncle, who is a very patient man, guided me to the place he had picked out without adding a word to the ejaculation in which he had just allowed his impatience to expend itself. But once seated within and out of the range of peering eyes and listening ears he allowed a sigh to escape him which expressed the fullness of his agitation.

"My dear," he began and stopped. "I feel"—here he again came to a pause—"that you should know"—

"What?" I managed to ask.

"That I do not like Mr. Durand and—that others do not like him."

"Is it because of something you know about him before tonight?"

He made no answer.

"Or because he was seen, like many other gentlemen, talking with that woman some time before—a long time before—she was attacked for her diamond and murdered?"

"Pardon me, my dear, he was the last one seen talking to her. Some one may yet be found who went in after he came out, but as yet he is considered the last. Mr. Ramsdell himself told me so."

"It makes no difference," I exclaimed in all the heat of my long suppressed agitation. "I am willing to stake my life on his integrity and honor. No man could talk to me as he did early this evening with any vile intentions at heart. He was interested, no doubt, like many others, in one who had the name of being a captivating woman, but"—

I paused in sudden alarm. A look had crossed my uncle's face which assured me that we were no longer alone. Who could have entered so silently? In some trepidation I turned to see. A gentleman was standing in the doorway, who smiled as I met his eye.

"Is this Miss Van Arsdale?" he asked.

Instantly my courage, which had threatened to leave me, returned and I smiled.

"I am," said I. "Are you the inspector?"

"Inspector Dalzell," he explained with a bow, which included my uncle. Then he closed the door.

"I hope I have not frightened you," he went on, approaching me with a gentlemanly air. "A little matter has come up concerning which I mean to be perfectly frank with you. It may prove to be of trivial importance; if so, you will pardon my disturbing you. Mr. Durand—you know him?"

"I am engaged to him," I declared before poor uncle could raise his hand.

"You are engaged to him. Well, that makes it difficult, and yet, in some respects, easier for me to ask a certain question."

It must have made it more difficult than easy, for he did not proceed to put this question immediately, but went on:

"You know that Mr. Durand visited Mrs. Fairbrother in the alcove a little while before her death?"

"I have been told so."

"He was seen to go in, but I have not yet found any one who saw him come out; consequently we have been unable to fix the exact minute when he did so. What is the matter, Miss Van Arsdale? You want to say something?"

"No, no," I protested, reconsidering my first impulse. Then, as I met his look, "He can probably tell you that himself. I am sure he would not hesitate."

"We shall ask him later," was the inspector's response. "Meanwhile, are you ready to assure me that since that time he has not intrusted you with a little article to keep— No, no, I do not mean the diamond," he broke in, in very evident dismay, as I fell back from him in irrepressible indignation and alarm. "The diamond—well, we shall look for that later; it is another article we are in search of now, one which Mr. Durand might very well have taken in his hand without realizing just what he was doing. As it is important for us to find this article, and as it is one he might very naturally have passed over to you when he found himself in the hall with it in his hand, I have ventured to ask you if this surmise is correct."

"It is not," I retorted fiercely, glad that I could speak from my very heart. "He has given me nothing to keep for him. He would not"—

Why that peculiar look in the inspector's eye? Why did he reach out for a chair and seat me in it before he took up my interrupted sentence and finished it?

"—would not give you anything to hold which had belonged to another woman? Miss Van Arsdale, you do not know men. They do many things which a young, trusting girl like yourself would hardly expect from them."

"Not Mr. Durand," I maintained stoutly.

"Perhaps not; let us hope not." Then, with a quick change of manner, he bent toward me, with a sidelong look at uncle, and pointing to my gloves, remarked, "You wear gloves. Did you feel the need of two pairs, that you carry another in that pretty bag hanging from your arm?"

I started, looked down, and then slowly drew up into my hand the bag he had mentioned. The white finger of a glove was protruding from the top. Any one could see it; many probably had. What did it mean? I had brought no extra pair with me.

"This is not mine," I began, faltering into silence as I perceived my uncle turn and walk a step or two away.

"The article we are looking for," pursued the inspector, "is a pair of long white gloves, supposed to have been worn by Mrs. Fairbrother when she entered the alcove. Do you mind showing me those, a finger of which I see?"

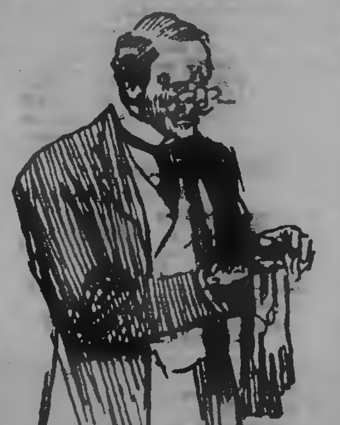
I dropped the bag into his hand. The room and everything in it was whirling around me. But when I noted what trouble it was to his clumsy fingers to open it my senses returned and, reaching for the bag, I pulled it open and snatched out the gloves. They had been hastily rolled up, and some of the fingers were showing.

"Let me have them," he said.

With quaking heart and shaking fingers I handed over the gloves.

"Mrs. Fairbrother's hand was not a small one," he observed as he slowly unrolled them. "Yours is. We can soon tell"—

But that sentence was never finished. As the gloves fell open in his grasp he uttered a sudden, sharp ejaculation and I a smothered shriek. An object of superlative brilliancy had rolled out from them—the diamond, the gem which men said was worth a king's ransom and which we all knew had just cost a life!



He uttered a sudden, sharp ejaculation.

CHAPTER III.

WITH benumbed senses and a dismayed heart, I stared at the fallen jewel as at some hateful thing menacing both my life and honor.

"I have had nothing to do with it," I vehemently declared. "I did not put the gloves in my bag, nor did I know the diamond was in them. I fainted at the first alarm and"—

"There, there, I know!" interposed the inspector kindly. "I do not doubt you in the least; not when there is a man to doubt. Miss Van Arsdale, you had better let your uncle take you home. I will see that the hall is cleared for you. Tomorrow I may wish to talk to you again, but I will spare you all further importunity tonight."

I shook my head. It would require more courage to leave at that moment than to stay. Meeting the inspector's eye firmly, I quietly declared:

"If Mr. Durand's good name is to suffer in any way, I will not forsake him. I have confidence in his integrity, if you have not. It was not his hand, but one much more guilty, which dropped this jewel into the bag."

"So, so! Do not be too sure of that, little woman. You had better take your lesson at once. It will be easier for you, and more wholesome for him."

Here he picked up the jewel.

"Well, they said it was a wonder!" he exclaimed, in his sudden admiration. "I am not surprised, now that I have seen a great gem, at the famous stories I have read of men risking life and honor for their possession. If only no blood had been shed!"

"Uncle, uncle!" I wailed aloud in my agony.

It was all my lips could utter, but to uncle it was enough. Speaking for the first time, he asked to have a passage made for us, and when the inspector moved forward to comply, he threw his arm about me, and was endeavoring to find fitting words with which to fill up the delay, when a short altercation was heard from the doorway, and Mr. Durand came rushing in, followed immediately by the inspector.

His first look was not at myself, but at the bag, which still hung from my arm. As I noted this action, my whole inner self seemed to collapse, dragging my happiness down with it. But my countenance remained unchanged, too much so, it seems; for when his eye finally rose to my face, he found there what made him recoil and turn with something like fierceness on his companion.

"You have been talking to her," he vehemently protested. "Perhaps you have gone further than that. What has happened here? I think I ought to know. She is so guileless, Inspector Dalzell; so perfectly free from all connection with this crime. Why have you shut her up here, and plied her with questions, and made her look at me with such an expression, when all you have against me is just what you have against some half dozen others—that I was weak enough, or unfortunate enough, to spend a few minutes with that unhappy woman in the alcove before she died?"

"It might be well if Miss Van Arsdale herself would answer you," was the inspector's quiet retort. "What you have said may constitute all that we have against you, but it is not all we have against her."

I gasped, not so much at this seeming accusation, the motive of which I believed myself to understand, but at the burning blush with which it was received by Mr. Durand.

"What do you mean?" he demanded, with certain odd breaks in his voice. "What can you have against her?"

"A triviality," returned the inspector, with a look in my direction that was, I felt, not to be mistaken.

"I do not call it a triviality," I burst out. "It seems that Mrs. Fairbrother, for all her elaborate toilet, was found without gloves on her arms. As she certainly wore them on entering the alcove, the police have naturally been looking for them. And where do you think they have found them? Not in the alcove with her, not in the possession of the man who undoubtedly carried them away with him, but"— "I know, I know," Mr. Durand hoarsely put in. "You need not say any more. Oh, my poor Rita! What have I brought upon you by my weakness?"

"Weakness!"

He started. I started. My voice was totally unrecognizable.

"I should give it another name," I added coldly.

For a moment he seemed to lose heart, then he lifted his head again and looked as handsome as when he pleaded for my hand in the little conservatory.

"You have that right," said he. "Besides, weakness at such a time and under such an exigency is little short of wrong. It was unmanly in me to endeavor to secrete these gloves, more than unmanly for me to choose for their hiding place the recesses of an article belonging exclusively to yourself. I acknowledge it, Rita, and shall meet only my just punishment if you deny me in the future both your sympathy and regard. But you must let me assure you and these gentlemen also, one of whom can make it very unpleasant for me, that consideration for you, much more than any miserable anxiety about myself, lay at the bottom of what must strike you all as an act of unpardonable cowardice.

"From the moment I learned of this woman's murder in the alcove, where I had visited her, I realised that every one who had been seen to approach her within a half hour of her death would be subjected to a more or less rigid investigation, and I feared if her gloves were found in my possession some special attention might be directed my way which would cause you unmerited distress. So, yielding to an impulse which I now recognize as a most unwise as well as unworthy one, I took advantage of the bustle about us and of the insensibility into which you had fallen to tuck these miserable gloves into the bag I saw lying on the floor at your side. I do not ask your pardon. My whole future life shall be devoted to winning that. I simply wish to state a fact."

"Very good!" It was the inspector who spoke; I could not have uttered a word to save my life. "Perhaps you will now feel that you owe it to this young lady to add how you came to have these gloves in your possession."

"Mrs. Fairbrother handed them to me."

"Handed them to you?"

"Yes, I hardly know why myself. She asked me to take care of them for her. I know that this must strike you as a very peculiar statement. It was my realization of the unfavorable effect it could not fail to produce upon those who heard it which made me dread any interrogation on the subject. But I assure you it was as I say. She put the gloves into my hand while I was talking to her, saying they incommoded her."

"And you?"

"Well, I held them for a few minutes, then I put them in my pocket, but quite automatically and without thinking very much about it. She was a woman accustomed to have her own way. People seldom questioned it, I judge."

Here the tension about my throat relaxed, and I opened my lips to speak. But the inspector, with a glance of some authority, forestalled me.

"Were the gloves open or rolled up when she offered them to you?"

"They were rolled up."

"Did you see her take them off?"

"Assuredly."

"And roll them up?"

"Certainly."

"After which she passed them over to you?"

"Not immediately. She let them lie in her lap for awhile."

"While you talked?"

Mr. Durand bowed.

"And looked at the diamond?"

Mr. Durand bowed for the second time.

"Had you ever seen so fine a diamond before?"

"No."

"Yet you deal in precious stones?"

"That is my business."

"And are regarded as a judge of them?"

"I have that reputation."

"Mr. Durand, would you know this diamond if you saw it?"

"I certainly should."

"The setting was an uncommon one, I hear."

"Quite an unusual one."

The inspector opened his hand.

"Is this the article?"

"Good God! Where"—

"Don't you know?"

"I do not."

The inspector eyed him gravely.

"Then I have a bit of news for you. It was hidden in the gloves you took from Mrs. Fairbrother. Miss Van Arsdale was present at their unrolling."

Do we live, move, breathe at certain moments? It hardly seems so. I know that I was conscious of but one sense, that of seeing, and of but one faculty, that of judgment. Would he flinch, break down, betray guilt, or simply show astonishment? I chose to believe it was the latter feeling only which informed his slowly whitening and disturbed features. Certainly it was all his words expressed, as his glances flew from the stone to the gloves and back again to the inspector's face.

"I cannot believe it. I cannot believe it." And his hand flew wildly to his forehead.

"Yet it is the truth, Mr. Durand, and one you have now to face. How will you do this? By any further explanations, or by what you may consider a discreet silence?"

"I have nothing to explain—the facts are as I have stated."

The inspector regarded him with an earnestness which made my heart sink.

To be continued.

METHODISTS HAVE PRAISE FOR ONTARIO GOVERNMENT

Special to the Review.

Belleville, June 7.—The Bay of Quinte Conference was continued today and presided over by the president, Rev. B. Greatrix. After devotional exercises the report of the Temperance and Moral Reform Committee was presented. Several changes in the law and its administration were recommended, namely that shorter hours for the sale of liquor in licensed places, and that the Government grant the power of local option on this question. That better provision be made for the care of inebriates and feeble minded persons. That provincial legislation be secured enabling Municipal Councils not only to regulate but prohibit poolrooms. To empower the province to make use of the indeterminate sentence, and the probation system for crime. To prohibit race track gambling and more stringent law regarding printing of indecent pictures. The Government was commended for the stand it had taken to enforce the King's regulations regarding the sale of liquor in military camps.

Rev. R. Duke read the report from the Committee on Christian Stewardship. The committee recommends that more earnest efforts be made to spread abroad the teaching of Scripture. The report of the Epworth League as given by Rev. A. Delve was of a very encouraging character. Rev. R. N. Adams, who has completed fifty years of work in the Methodist ministry gave a very interesting review of his life in this work.

The afternoon session was one of interest and considerable work was accomplished.

Mr. W. D. Gwynn, of Toronto gave an interesting address on the policy of the laymen's missionary meeting, after remarks by Judge Deroche.

It was recommended that each church within the conference adopt the weekly offering system for missions.

Rev. Dr Stephenson of Toronto, the general secretary of the Forward Movement gave an address replete with information appertaining to this branch of church work.

THE NEW DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AT NORWOOD WILL BENEFIT THE COUNTY

The County of Peterborough has been most fortunate in securing one of the three new district branches of the Ontario Department of Agriculture to be established this year. Mr. H. C. Duff, BSA. has been appointed the representative. Mr Duff was in the city last evening while on his way to visit the Branch Department of Agriculture at Lindsay, and called on Farm and Dairy to renew his acquaintance with the editor of that paper.

It is hoped that a class in agriculture will be started in connection with the High School at Norwood next September. Although the office of the Department is located in the Eastern Riding at Norwood, the work of the Department will cover the whole of Peterborough county. It will be their own fault if the farmers of the West Riding of Peterborough do not profit as they should from the establishment of this comparatively recent departure in secondary education that has now been introduced in our midst. Mr. Duff will be only too glad to do all in his power to assist the farmers of Peterborough county in any way possible. The new representative will make his first appearance before the farmers of West Peterborough on Saturday when he will address the annual meeting of the Farmers' Institute to be held in the council chamber.

BOARD OF WORKS IS AFTER SOME OF THE MEN WHO DO THE STREET WATERING

Work Must be Done Properly or Contracts Will be Taken Away—Several Deputations Present Regarding Sidewalks—Spaldings Bay in Bad Shape.

The Board of Works is getting after some of the street watering contractors. At a meeting held before the council meeting last night, Z. Blodgett was on the carpet. He was told that there were complaints against him.

Mr. Blodgett said he could not help it. He was doing all he could. He also said that he never refused to water Charlotte Street from St. Joseph street to the Monaghan road.

Chairman Phelan then read over a long list of charges against Mr. Blodgett, which had been made by aldermen and other citizens.

Mr. Blodgett said in reply that all the district had been watered.

Ald. Bradburn told Blodgett that his statement was not correct.

Ald. Turner said he understood that complaints were made as numerous as last year, and he thought that it would be advisable to take the contract away from Blodgett and give it to another.

Ald. Buller expressed himself along the same lines.

Ald. Turner moved that Mr. Blodgett be allowed to continue his contract until the end of the month and if any more complaints are received that the contract be transferred.—Carried

Ald. Turner made a complaint against the street watering in Ashburnham. He had been informed that he actually went to sleep on the cart. Other aldermen said they had heard complaints about the same man.

It was decided to give him the same chance as Blodgett.

Mr. A. McCarthy said he petitioned the council two years ago for a sidewalk on Concession street. It was promised by the Council, but had been held over until 1908, and it was not done last year. According to the reports in the papers they were being overlooked again this season.

Mr. McCarthy was informed that the sidewalk was to be built this year, but the proper line had to be secured for that part of the walk in front of Mrs. Erskine's property. The city solicitor was instructed to look into this matter, and when it had been arranged satisfactorily the building of the walk would be proceeded with. Ald. Phelan assured Mr. McCarthy that the walk would be built all right.

Mr. B. Paquette wanted to know if the sidewalk on Patterson street was going to be built and the street graded.

He was informed that the sidewalk would be built this year.

Mr. Paquette asked for permission to put in a sewer connection with the outfall sewer on Perry street. It is one of those covered by a special by-law, and will cost Mr. Paquette $25.

Mr. J. T. O'Connell and Mr. Brotherson were present to inquire if a sidewalk was going to be laid on Concession street near the gully.

Ald. Phelan said there was some difficulty in connection with crossing the gully, and the matter was receiving careful consideration.

Mr. Buller was next. He said he and some others had lots on Aylmer and Princess streets, and there was no way to get to them.

Ald. Phelan said the matter referred to by Mr. Buller was being taken up and would no doubt be arranged satisfactorily.

Ald. Buller said the street would not be opened until a by-law was passed by the ratepayers. The street extension by-law had been turned down by the people.

Mr. Tom Moore appeared before the Board and made a strenuous plea for a sidewalk on Bethune street. Two petitions had been sent in for the walk, and the residents along that street felt that they should have it.

It was pointed out that the first petition was not properly signed, one ratepayer failing to sign it.

On motion the street commissioner was instructed to look into this matter and report at once. Mr. Moore said that a quantity of the stones belonging to the city which were piled on the street near where the sidewalk was wanted, had been stolen.

The street commissioner was instructed to investigate the matter.

Ald. Turner drew the attention of the Board to the condition of the creek emptying into Spalding's Bay. The odor there was very bad, and something should be done about it.

Ald. Bradburn said there was a bill of $7.00 from the Chief of Police for cleaning the creek out.

"It's still in bad shape," said Ald. Turner.

An alderman asked if the dead dogs had been taken out.

THEOLOGY OF OLD TESTAMENT DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE

Rev. Dr. Crummy of Toronto, the Speaker at Belleville Temperance Rally Held on Sunday Afternoon.

Belleville, June 6—On Saturday evening in Halloway street church the theological anniversary of the Bay of Quinte conference was held. The speaker was the Rev Dr. Crummey of Toronto and the subject discussed by him was the question of the Theology of the Old Testament. Today was ordination Sabbath. In the morning Bridge street church where the services were held was taxed to its utmost capacity. At 9.30 the conference love feast was held conducted by the Rev. E. Howard and at 11 am. the ordination service was held, presided over by the president of the conference, Rev. P. Greatrix. The ordination sermon was preached by Rev. W. L Shaw, DD, LL.D, DCL. principal of the Wesley Theological College, Montreal. Mr. G. O. R. McQuade was formally ordained by the president and received as a full-fledged member of the conference.

In the afternoon a temperance rally was held in Bridge street church, which was largely attended. The principal speakers were the Rev D. S. Houck and Mr J. Mason, Mayor of Bowmanville, both of whom gave earnest and capable addresses on the line of temperance.

In all the Evangelical churches of the city the pulpits were today occupied by ministers of the conference.

FUNERAL OF LATE JUDGE WELLER

Striking Tributes of Respect and Esteem at the Services Held Yesterday Afternoon

The funeral of the late Judge Weller, took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence, Reid St. and was a solemn and striking tribute of respect and esteem. The members of the Peterborough Law Association, the members of the City Council, the city officials and the members of the Board of Education attended. The outside members of the judiciary and legal profession present were His Honor, Judge Harding, senior county court judge of Victoria county and His Honor Judge McMillan, junior judge of Victoria, Lindsay; Messrs R. J. McLaughlin, KC Lindsay; O. A Langley, Lakefield; George J. Sherry, Norwood and Charles A. Ghent, Havelock. Messrs. Harold and Archie Merrow, George Grover, Toronto; Erwin Grover, of Norwood; Henry Weller, Toronto and Vincent Ketchum, relatives of the deceased, acted as pall bearers. Other relatives present were a brother, Mr J. L Weller, Superintendent of Welland Canal, St Catharines; two nieces. Miss Weller, Cobourg, and Mrs Quipp, Cobourg; Mrs. Grover, Norwood and Mr. Warren Dean, of Perth.

At three o'clock the cortege preceded by the legal and civic bodies proceeded to St John's church where the chancel and pew of the deceased was draped in black. Chopin's funeral march was played by the organist, Mr. R. Devey as the church was filling and the Dead March of Saul as the body was carried up the aisle. The recessional voluntary was the funeral march from Beethoven's Sonata in A flat. The office for the burial of the dead was recited by the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, and afterwards the remains were taken to the Little Lake cemetery. The blinds of all store windows were drawn and business and traffic were temporarily suspended while the cortege was passing through the principal streets.

ONE MONTH'S EXTENSION IN GAS FRANCHISE

Granted at Meeting of City Council—Drilling to be Commenced at Once

The franchise granted Mr. Dettman, of Waynesburg, Penn. to bore for gas in the vicinity of Peterborough, was extended until July 1st at last night's meeting of the City Council. It expired on June 1st. Mr. R. H. Leary was present and read a letter from Mr. Dettman, which stated that the reason why operations were not commenced at Peterborough was that a man could not be secured to do the boring. However, a contract had been made with a Petrolia man to do the drilling, and if everything was all right work would be commenced in a few days. Mr Leary asked that the franchise be extended one month.

On motion of Ald. Gillespie and Ald. Turner, a further extension of one month was granted.

A Saskatoon man who fired at the deputy sheriff has been committed for trial.

Laid at Rest

The funeral of the late Percy Abbott took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, Sherbrooke street, to the Little Lake cemetery. The deceased had been popular with a large number of friends and acquaintances and many attended the services at the house, which were conducted by Rev. H. J. Keith, of Knox church.

PETERBORO'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterborough a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin running; simply this, more families will of necessity move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase in other words prosperity is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city. ¶ People who are contemplating purchasing homes will do well to see J. NOTABLE BRITISH STATESMEN ADDRESS PRESS CONFERENCE

Right Hon. Reginald McKenna, Lord Cromer, Sir Edward Grey and Lord Lyttleton Speak on Place of Press in Imperialism—Money Contributions Not Desired, Says Mr. Lyttleton.

London, June 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Imperial Press Conference discussed "The Press and the Empire" yesterday. Right Hon. Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty, presided. Lord Cromer, Sir Edward Grey and Lord Lyttleton were among those present.

The following was the resolution:

"That it is the duty of the press to do everything in its power to co-operate with the naval and military authorities in organizing the defences of the Empire, and to take all possible precautions to avoid injury to the public interest in publishing news in time of war;

"That it is desirable that the press of the British colonies should act in concert in the wise direction of emigration."

Mr. McKenna anticipated that as a result of the conference ideas would be cleared and the way be opened. He dealt exclusively with naval supremacy and admitted the diversity of local naval problems to British naval defence, which covered the whole globe.

"We cannot," he said, "force our strategic ideas upon you. We should fail if we attempted it. If you come and ask us we shall be ready to answer you, but we should not necessarily expect you to accept that answer. It is only by working out your problems yourselves that you can gain the experience we have gained.

"We will assist by every method in our power, no matter what is the method by which we are asked to assist. Out of this process of self-development in every dominion we will all come to the same idea, namely, the maintenance of supremacy at sea, which means the maintenance of supremacy on all seas alike."

Mr. McKenna concluded with an appeal to the press to maintain the navy above party discussions.

Sir Edward Grey outlined with humorous vagrancies the British foreign policy. It was "to keep all we have got; to consolidate and develop, and to quarrel as little as possible with other peoples, and to uphold in the councils of the world the ideals of Great Britain. With so much at stake, the maintenance of the navy must be the first consideration, not only for the Home Government, but for all the self-governing dominions of the Empire. "If the navy fails," declared the Foreign Secretary, "it will be useless to discuss any other subject."

He concluded by endorsing all that Lord Rosebery said in respect to the European situation. "Excessive expenditure on armaments made the weather very sultry," he observed.

Sir Edward deprecated the idea that the Foreign Office was more prone to compromise where the interests of the self-governing colonies were concerned than in cases where they were not directly affected. Rather the opposite was the case. (Applause.)

Lord Cromer also spoke, and Sir Joseph Ward of Sydney vigorously urged overseas assistance to the Imperial navy.

Mr. Gwynne of The London Standard deprecated any happy-go-lucky naval policy. He advocated an Imperial navy.

Mr. Park of The Cape Town Times anticipated that when union was completed in South Africa it would do more for the navy.

Lord Lyttleton deprecated the plan of annual contributions to the Imperial navy. He reiterated that Great Britain would spend her last shilling in the construction of Dreadnoughts in defence of the Empire, but times and circumstances had changed since Trafalgar.

The time might come for overseas assistance in some tremendous struggle, and the future of the Empire might depend upon its units and its consolidation for defence. He thought monetary contributions should take the form of the cost of a warship, and the contributors' ideal should be ultimately to man it with natives, so that it should form a nucleus for its naval aspirations.

The discussion was then adjourned.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

To Awaken America.

Boston, June 9.—Announcement was made yesterday of the ministers and others who are coming to Brockton, Mass., this week to start an elaborate movement for "the spiritual awakening of America." The list includes Rev. E. D. Daniels, Fred Schneider and Walter P. Zeller of Berlin, Ont., and Rev. Percy Billings of Toronto.

Operator Exonerated.

Napanee, June 9.—Arthur B. Johnston, who was the C.P.R. operator at Kaladar Station, and was charged with criminal negligence in having been asleep on duty April 9 last, resulting in a train collision, was yesterday freed by the grand jury.

Police Inspector Accused.

Montreal, June 9.—One A. Baignet yesterday, before the civic commission, preferred four charges against Police Inspector Lamouche, of general misconduct, including drinking in a saloon during prohibited hours.

Suicides In Water Barrel.

Winnipeg, June 9.—Mrs. Anderson, wife of a farmer living ten miles southeast of here, committed suicide early yesterday morning by jumping head first into a barrel of rain water. She had been in ill-health.

Deliberate Murder.

New Glasgow, N.S., June 9.—Jack Fraser shot and killed Duncan Brown in a quarrel yesterday afternoon. Both were young men. It is said Fraser is a morphine fiend.

Drowned Himself In Slough.

Nokomis, Sask., June 9.—Duncan Jamieson, aged 68, a farmer near here, committed suicide by drowning himself in a slough in front of his own house on Saturday.

Pupils of Miss Gumpricht Were Heard to Advantage

The pupils of Miss Wilhelmine Gumpricht, pianiste, displayed their talents to splendid advantage at a recital held in the Y.W.C.A. "green room" last night. There was a large attendance and the audience was delighted with the programme presented. Miss Gumpricht's pupils in their contributions to the programme showed the results of excellent instruction and were warmly congratulated on their artistic playing. Miss Gumpricht contributed two numbers to the programme and was given an enthusiastic reception, being called upon for an encore, which was generously given.

Miss Gumpricht's pupils were assisted by Miss Frances Manning who sang "Love in Springtime," by Lugi Arditi, very sweetly, and Mr. Kenneth Shook's vocal solo, "The Palms," by Faure, with violin obligato by Miss Hope Miller, was one of the most pleasing numbers on the programme. An encore had to be responded to. The audience evidenced thorough appreciation of Miss Manning's and Mr. Shook's contributions.

Among those who assisted in receiving the guests were Mrs. B. Shortley, Miss McCalla, Miss Coventry and Mrs. H. F. Foote.

The programme was as follows:

PART I.

Piano duet—Parade Review ...... H. Engelmann
Misses Mary and Myrtle Coon.
Piano solo—Sous les Feuilles ...... F. Thome
Miss Vida Foote.
Piano solo—Frolic of the Butterflies Op. 206 ...... C. Bohm

Piano solo—Grand Polka de Concert ...... H. Bartlett
Miss Wilhelmine Gumpricht.
Vocal solo—The Palms ...... J. Faure
Mr. Shook with violin obligato by Miss Hope Miller.
God Save the King.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Floods due to heavy rains are doing damage in Colorado. Four lives have been lost.

Soo Canal tonnage in May was five millions, up and down, with coal shipments heavier than usual.

Charles Lacomte, a reporter for Le Canada, Montreal, jumped in the river at Quebec and drowned.

Jack London, the novelist, is reported to be suffering from a strange disease due to physical breakdown.

The nine-year-old son of George McKenzie, near Comber, lost his left hand by the explosion of a shotgun.

During the summer months Prof. Prince and Prof. Starr Jordan will make a tour of the great lakes together.

J. Saunders, a young Englishman, and an elderly man named Sleeth, were drowned from a canoe at Vancouver.

A. T. Freed, collector of inland revenue at Hamilton, has been given six months' leave of absence preliminary to superannuation. He is grand master of the Masons.

Miss Lillian Johnstone of Parry Sound has been presented with the bronze medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Association for saving Misses Oldfield and Dick from drowning here last September.

The board of directors of the Mother Church of Christian Science have elected William P. McKenzie president; Stephen A. Chase of Fall River treasurer, and John V. Dittmore of New York clerk, the latter succeeding Wm. B. Johnson, who resigned.

CATHOLIC FORESTERS MEETING AT BERLIN

Berlin, June 9.—The ninth annual session of the Catholic Order of Foresters opened yesterday, with Provincial Chief Ranger L. V. McBrady of Toronto presiding. Over 200 delegates are in attendance from all parts of the province and the Northwest, which is included in the jurisdiction of this court. Mr. McBrady is again candidate for the office he holds, but has a strong opponent in J. G. Foley, clerk of crown in chancery at Ottawa. Secretary Webb of Ottawa is also having opposition, the other candidate being Trustee Noonan of Perth. The organization includes 126 courts and 9,030 members, an increase of 658 since last meeting.

LADY ABERDEEN IS IN BOSTON

Boston, June 9.—While Lady Aberdeen was being feted by prominent people of the city and state in Boston yesterday, members of the Boston Gaelic School were circulating a statement that her ladyship was not in America for the sole purpose of assisting in the battle against tuberculosis; but that she had a sinister motive, a motive unfriendly to Ireland and Irish interests.

When the facts were brought to the attention of Lady Aberdeen last night she expressed great surprise.

"It is absurd," she declared, "I am doing everything I possibly can to help Irish industries, and nothing could be further from my mind than any plan inimicable to Irish interests."

GIVES MILLIONS TO HIS FRIEND

Paris, June 9.—Mme. Bouffard, the residuary legatee under the will of M. Chauchard, the wealthy proprietor of the Louvre store, receives property valued at from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000. She is described in the instrument as an old and excellent friend, who for many years showed the testator the most devoted care, and she announced yesterday the gift of $200,000 to the poor of Paris and $200,000 to establish a pension fund for the employes of M. Chauchard's store.

The succession duties of the Chauchard estate will amount to $3,000,000. Among other bequests are $75,000 to his secretary and sums varying from $2,000 to $100,000 to his servants.

WILL BE CONTEST IN WATERLOO

Berlin, June 9.—The writ has been issued for the North Waterloo bye-election. Nominations will be on Monday, June 21, and polling a week later.

The Conservative executive meets this afternoon to decide whether or not to nominate a candidate to oppose Mackenzie King, but the likelihood is they will not do so. Sentiment among Berlin Conservatives is against such action, although in Waterloo there is considerable feeling in favor of making King fight for the seat and there is talk of trying to induce one of the Seagrams to run.

In any event there will be an election, for ex-Mayor Allen Huber announces that he will again contest the riding. In the last election he also ran, with a total of 153 votes.

ARE PUTTING LID ON AT KINGSTON

Kingston, June 9.—Six ice-cream parlor proprietors have been summoned for violating the Lord's Day Act by selling forbidden goods on Sunday.

A petition will be circulated for presentation to the council by young people's societies asking that stores, theatoriums and pool parlors close at 10 o'clock Saturday nights.

Addressed the Press Conference

LORD LYTTLETON.

French Naval Program.

Paris, June 9.—The naval program approved by the Cabinet involves an expenditure of $600,000,000 covering a period of ten years. Six battleships of the Danton type, six of the Republique type and four armored cruisers of the Gambette type are included in the estimates.

FIGHTING THE FLAMES IN N.B.

Thousands are at Work Trying to Save Property — Narrow Escape of Village

St. John, N.B., June 9.—A rising wind yesterday gave new impetus to the forest fires which are scourging the interior of New Brunswick. In Carelton, Madawaska and Victoria Counties the situation is particularly serious. Over 2,000 men in these districts are fighting the flames, but in spite of their efforts great destruction is being wrought in valuable timber limits and several small mills and outlying farms have been destroyed. The fire is so close to the C.P.R. branch railway in this district that the paint was scorched on cars passing through there yesterday.

Fredericton Junction, a village on the main C.P.R. line, about 40 miles from here, narrowly escaped extinction yesterday. A fire supposed to be extinct since nearly a fortnight ago was fanned into fury by the high wind and from the burning brush the flames leaped to the mill house and stables of John Scott, consuming them. From there the flames spread to other dwelling houses; several caught fire, but by great efforts all were saved, though about a dozen barns, being more inflammable, were burned. The men lost all their live stock. The fire at present seems under control, as the wind last night has died down, but the residents are awake and watchful.

PRESBYTERIANS CARRY CHURCH UNION REPORT

Gathering in Hamilton Sets Seal of its Approval Upon Committee's Recommendation That Matter go to the Congregations for a Popular Vote—Polling Should Take Place Simultaneously.

Hamilton, June 9.—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church declined yesterday to turn its back on the negotiations for union. By an overwhelming majority, the vote being 160 to 42, it accepted the declaration of the joint committee that a practical basis of union had been arrived at, and decided to send down the report of the committee embodying that basis to the Presbyteries, Sessions and congregations for their information. Thus for the time being the question, so far as the Presbyterian Church is concerned, passes from the sphere of negotiation and the hands of doctors of divinity to the people of the Church, and another forward step in the movement has been taken. The resolution carried does not mean that the people will be asked to vote upon the issue in the immediate future. The view of the joint committee is that the voting should take place simultaneously in the three Churches, and as the General Conference of the Methodist Church will not meet until September, 1910, the judgment of the Church at large will not be sought before that date. The whole question will come up again at next year's General Assembly, the Presbyteries, Sessions and congregations in the interval being given an opportunity to be fully seized with the doctrine, polity and scheme of administration adopted by the joint committee. The closing stages of the debate yesterday were marked by forcible speeches by Rev. Dr. Sedgwick, Rev. Dr. J. Pringle, and Mr. Edward Brown, the former Liberal leader in Manitoba, and by an able summing up on the part of Principal Patrick. In the afternoon and evening excellent progress was made with the business on the agenda, the reports of a number of committees being disposed of.

LINDSAY LIKELY TO ATTEMPT TO GET BURLEIGH FALLS POWER

Lindsay, June 8.—Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., town solicitor, has written to the town council regarding the Burleigh Falls power. This letter was read last evening. Mr. McLaughlin stated that he was requested some time ago to advise the town about this power, and the validity of the mortgage which the town holds upon the power. He felt to do so would be somewhat inconsistent, as he acted for Mr. Culverwell at the time the mortgage was put on, and Mr. Hopkins acted for the town. He had at all times acted for the town in the matter of Burleigh Falls power, but felt that at present he might be open to suspicion of bias. Consequently he suggested that the town get some independent solicitor to go through the whole matter. Mr. McLaughlin believed it would be a great acquisition to the town of Lindsay if a market could be developed for the power. He thought that about 4,000 h.p. could be developed at Burleigh Falls, and if the town owned the power and had a market it would be very valuable.

Ald. Kylie thought the matter of Burleigh Falls power was very important, and he moved that the council instruct the mayor to secure the services of Mr. Hopkins, or some other local lawyer, in order to have legal advice on the question. The motion was carried, and it is likely that the Burleigh Falls power question will occupy the attention of the council in the near future.

HAD A GLIMPSE OF MRS. EDDY

Boston, Mass., June 9.—Because of assertions that Mrs. Mary Baker Glover Eddy "is either dead or a helpless, mindless puppet in the hands of conscienceless men," leaders of the Christian Science Church invited a delegation of twelve newspaper men to see the founder of the church.

None of the reporters was permitted to speak to Mrs. Eddy nor to see her enter and leave her carriage. They merely saw a coupe pass, and behind the glass window saw a figure which closely resembled the pictures of Mrs. Eddy.

Tar and Feathers for Woman.

Pittsburg, June 9.—Taken forcibly from a house in West Pike Township, near here, early Monday by 15 men, Mollie Ridge was stripped of clothing, covered with tar and feathers and thrown into Pike Run, while H. O. Wright, found in the home of the woman, was also stripped, beaten and thrown into the stream. Relatives of Wright are blamed.

Stage Manager Attempts Suicide.

Middleton, N.Y., June 9.—Clement Hopkins, former stage manager for Blanche Walsh, a member of the Lambs' Club of New York, attempted suicide at his country home in Montgomery, N.Y., while temporarily deranged, by stabbing himself in the breast.

The G.T.P. has given the Government a mortgage to secure the recent ten million dollar loan.

J. E. Campbell of Hepworth, Ont. has been appointed Canadian Trade Commissioner to Leeds, England.

W.F.M.S. IS IN ANNUAL SESSION AT LINDSAY

Opened Yesterday With Large Attendance—Several Delegates From Peterboro'

Lindsay, June 8.—The first session of the sixteenth annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, commenced at the Cambridge St. Methodist church this morning with a large attendance of delegates present, some 105.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs Platt, president of the society after which reports were read from the following district organizations: Brighton, Bowmanville, Belleville, Whitby, Cannington, Lindsay Peterborough, Colborne, Picton, Napanee, Campbellford, Madoc and Napanee west, Tamworth division.

The following reporters for the sessions were elected; Mrs Herb Morrison, Lindsay; Mrs Frost, Tweed; Mrs. Wilson, Dunsford and Mrs Wilson, Port Hope.

Mrs. Burnham of Millbrook is the secretary of the society and her assistant is Mrs Hammond, of Campbellford.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock.

The Peterborough delegates are as follows; Mrs Armstrong, Miss A. Davis, Mrs Sargeant, Miss Myrtle Coon, Mrs James Kendrey and Mrs. Robt. Neill.

The debt on St. Lawrence Roman Catholic church, Hamilton is wiped out and the building was consecrated yesterday.

BISHOP MILLS SAYS THAT CHURCH UNION IS FUTILE

Well-Known Prelate at Session of Ontario Diocese Says Motive With Many is to Avoid Expense—No Ground for Hope of a United Protestant Church—Union Cannot be Before Christ's Second Coming.

Kingston, June 9.—Scathing reference to higher criticism and a plain spoken prophecy that church union is not probable this side of the millennium, were contained in the charge of Bishop Mills, delivered at the opening of the synod of the Diocese of Ontario yesterday afternoon. Said his lordship:

"Attacks are now constantly being made, not merely from without, but within the fold, not merely by open enemies, but by avowed friends, not merely against the Old Testament, but against the New; not merely against revelation, but against God. The miraculous is sneered at; even the resurrection is ridiculed as an impossibility — as the outcome of excitement and feverish imagination on the part of Christ's disciples, who had undergone such a trial and disappointment by His death. And yet there is no fact of history more clearly established, or which rests on more reliable testimony. The incarnation and the atonement are written off, and placed by not a few, in the same category in which they have placed the earlier chapters of Genesis, as belonging to myths and fables."

Of church union, Bishop Mills said:

"The hungering for union, generally, is widespread in the church, and concessions to secure it, are sometimes unwisely offered. In the church in Canada, there are many even so-called High Churchmen, who think union so desirable, and so absolutely in accordance with the mind of Christ, that they are ready to make sacrifices, to which I, for one, could never consent, and I think the majority of churchmen would agree with me.

"It must be admitted that the longing for union, on the part of a great many people, rests upon a merely utilitarian basis—that is, that it would cost less to do the church's work, if all were united, than it does now. It is not so much from zeal for the glory of God, as from a desire to ease men, the removal from them of burdens which they now have to bear, and so it is a question whether to the minds of all its advocates, it is prompted by the spirit of God, and is a manifestation of the mind of Christ. The motive, with many, is undoubtedly worldly.

"Then, as regards the possibilities of union between us, and the various Protestant communions, I think there is no ground for hope. Individuals may be desirous of uniting with us, but as bodies, they are perfectly satisfied with their conditions. They regard their success as an evidence of Divine approval, and a seal of the Divine favor, proof that they are legitimate parts of the Church of Christ, though lacking, perhaps, in regular form, and historic continuity. They feel that an apostolic ministry is all very well for those who have it, but that it is not worth making sacrifices for; that it is not absolutely necessary, as their successes show; that validity may exist apart from outward form, and that visible success is the only proof of reality, and of God's favor; and, therefore some one has said, they want apostolic success, rather than apostolic succession.

"While believing that with God all things are possible, and that if He wished it, He could bring about union by a mighty miracle, I do not believe that union will ever take place before the second coming of Christ, when all things will be made new, and men shall become of one mind. Our Lord prayed for union, and His prayer was granted, but through sin that union was lost.

"The teaching of Holy Scripture is that the church, at the second coming of Christ, will be found outwardly divided. The outward framework of the church militant is to suffer shipwreck; the bone of the mystical body are to be out of joint. As it was in the days of Noah, and in the days of the destruction of the cities of the plain, so shall it be in the days immediately preceding the coming of the Son of Man. In those days the question can anxiously be asked, 'Shall He find faith on the earth, when he comes?' Unbelief will be rife and rampant; the very existence of God will be denied, the revelation He has made will be ignored. There will be no united Christendom to witness to the truth; men will be lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God, and will take the old Epicurean motto as their rule of life. 'Let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we die.' Such is the picture which the Scriptures prophetically set before us."

Toward this condition we are fast drifting.

Rev. Canon Grout was re-elected clerical secretary; Francis King, lay secretary, and R. J. Carson, treasurer. Rev. J. O. Crisp, Col. S. C. McGill, Dr. R. V. Rogers were appointed on committee, audits and accounts. The dean and chancellor, with Dr. R. V. Rogers, were appointed delegates to the church congress at Halifax.

The treasurer's report was adopted. The consolidated fund was placed at $401,643.83, a decrease of $929.26. There was shown a gross income of nearly 4 3-4 per cent., out of which, after deducting expenses and transfer to rest account of $985 a dividend of 4 per cent. was declared, leaving a balance of $603.70. Gross income showed an increase of $494 over the previous year.

At St. George's Cathedral last night a stained glass window in memory of the late Archdeacon Patton was dedicated by Bishop Mills.

THE PAY OF THE CLERGY

The London Methodist Conference has attacked the salary question. Clergymen are proverbially modest regarding their salaries. It is a fact that as a class they grumble less at the fortunes of the profession in this regard than any other class of people. And it is manifestly right and fitting that it should be so. But what of the salary itself? Is it not notorious that with the higher cost of living and the changed conditions appertaining thereto, $2 do not go as far now as $1 did in the days of not so long ago. The salaries of the clergy have not at all kept pace with the absolute needs of the times. As a consequence some of the clergy (we make no reference to any in particular) are reduced to the necessity of running here, there and everywhere, looking for money. It is bound to "get out" and then their influence is gone, at least their influence for good. They become reduced in public opinion to the level of "Kite-flyers" and bad pay. Designing men play upon them and they play upon designing men. They get to be cunning and shifty. It becomes an unpleasant business altogether. And it is almost wholly due to the rascally salaries that the great majority of clergymen receive. They are paid as if they were merely school teachers (this is writ "sarcastic") and yet they have the added burden of promiscuous charity and relief laid upon them to an alarming extent. It is not fair or at all nice that the representatives of "fashionable" churches should themselves be compelled to appear like the twelve apostles. The day is gone by for that. Conferences, synods and assemblies have dealt with this matter, by way of a hint we suppose. But the hint is rarely taken. If the clergy are to be kept "unspotted from the world" they will have to be paid higher salaries. Let us think over it at any rate even if we don't do anything, which is likely.

A CHANGE NEEDED

The speech of Senator Archie Campbell, a recent appointee to the Senate, of the Laurier Government is a candid statement of a decidedly staggering character. On June 7th, at Thornhill, 15 miles from the canal, he spoke, amongst other things, on the Newmarket ditch, as follows:—

"The Conservatives point to the canal at Newmarket and call it the 'Aylesworth ditch,' and say it is monstrous.

"I'm free to say that if this should take place now, and with the knowledge that we have now, we probably would not have gone into it."

Then he said how it happened.

A deputation, composed of the leading men in North York, Liberals and Conservatives alike, headed by T. Herbert Lennox, had come down to Ottawa to ask for the canal.

They had said it would not cost more than $150,000 or $200,000; that it was a work of the greatest importance and would aid the farmers in getting their grain out in a cheaper way.

"The Government listened," said Mr. Campbell, "and looked at the deputation of business and official men and said: 'These men know better than we do,' and they concluded that a work that was pressed so strongly and would not cost more than $200,000 should be embarked upon.

"Now it is costing a good deal more, but we must carry it through.

"The men most to blame are those who, 150 strong, urged it on the Government.

"I say that if it was started again, I presume the Government would not do it."

And, reverting to the general question of expenditure again, with this special reference, Senator Campbell concluded this chapter of his speech: "The Government will make some expenditures probably that on second thought they would not do again."

There is the confession, delivered 14 miles south of the Aylesworth ditch.

Mr. T. C. Robinette was there, and Dr. McLean, ex-M.P., was there, and Mr. F. G. Inwood, Liberal Organizer, was there, and, and fifty other Liberals were there, and not a man said him nay, and no sound of that waters rushing through the Newmarket canal was heard in the land.

Only the spectre appeared of the million-dollar waste, and the empty seats in the Commons as the Liberals slunk out to shun the vote; and the form of Senator Campbell upon the platform disclosing to them the inside Liberal view of the monument more enduring than bronze, building for the Minister of Justice in the constituency of North York. —The News.

What happened at Newmarket might happen anywhere. Many members of each party are afraid to speak their minds for fear of being branded as locally unpatriotic. The lash is held over everybody nowadays just as it used to be in the old slavery days. That Conservatives were concerned in asking for the Newmarket "Canal" is no doubt true. But the blame for this fearful waste surely cannot be laid on the shoulders of a few "easy marks," even if they were Conservatives, led by Mr. Lennox, M.P., who should have known better.

At the bottom of it all is a narrow and contemptible spirit of sectionalism which strives to get all the public money possible spent in some particular locality without regard to honesty, necessity or patriotism. This evil has grown in Canada, under all Governments to a shameful extent. The G.T.P. is only another form of unnecessary money-squandering. It is not to be denied that syndicates should be free to build railways, but why should they be unnecessarily "protected" and stall-fed at the expense of every other interest in the state? The Newmarket Canal, like the Tay Canal, is ridiculous and more. It is a shameful and shameless waste of money. Think for a moment of what a vast amount of good might have been done even in that same locality, if it had to be spent there, in electric railways, water-powers, highways, &c. Hon. A. B. Aylesworth advocated the Newmarket Canal strenuously. He used his position and his influence to subsidize his own constituency. Unless the leading men of Canada can do better than the Haggarts and the Aylesworths, the Pugsleys, the Brodeurs, etc., why go on? Why make slaves of the people? Why require the bone and sinew of Canada to be spent in useless toil to pay for it?

Political platitudes and theories of government are poor food in the face of such practices. Both the Conservative and the Liberal parties are in sore need of bigger ideas and better men, especially in the near-to leadership positions. Mr. Borden is out of touch with many of his party, and if is a "jolly good thing" that he is. He will have to jerk some of his people "out of their boots," if he is ever to restore the Conservative party to its true position in the estimation of the people. Hampered as it is by a certain coterie who think and act so like and in such perfect reciprocal sympathy with their kith and kin of the opposite party as to be indistinguishable from them, the Conservative Party will never get back to power and to that position in the councils of the country which its policy and patriotism entitle it to.

It is useless to disguise the fact that therein lies the reason for our defeat at the last election. There are numbers of splendid men in the G.O.P. at Ottawa. They are straight, have no "records" and are extremely able. Why should they be kept back by a lot of "vulnerable skimeral"? All those of the Newmarket Canal calibre should be swept away. Let them stand not upon the order of their going, but "git." We have been led or misled too long by bluffers and boomsters of both parties. The trick is played out. It is turned. The people look to Mr. Borden. It is necessary for him to rise above his amiable considerations and show some of the strength which he possesses. Meanwhile let no Liberal seek to excuse the Newmarket ditch by pointing to the character of the deputation. Yet even that should be a warning to us all. It is not true patriotism to lie even for local purposes.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Toronto lacrosse teams are, as usual, doing well at the beginning of the season, but on the home-stretch they will fade away as heretofore. Both the east and west excel Ontario at lacrosse if it only knew it.

The multiplication of banks is being dilated upon in magazines, reviews, etc., as more or less of a menace to the country's welfare. Competition in earnings requires the multiplication of enterprises. There is a disposition to hurry the people into spending. The banks back the spender of public money every time. There is a tendency to overdo many things nowadays, but there is a reaction in sight all along the line.

In 1879 Sir John Macdonald wrote to Lord Beaconsfield; "From the Province of Ontario there has been a very large emigration of farmers to the Canadian Far West. They are selling their cleared and improved farms at from $30 to $40 per acre, and afford great opportunity to English tenant farmers who may shrink from encountering the hardships of the wilderness, of purchasing, at very low rates, beautiful farms in good order."

During the intervening thirty years the westward movement of Ontario farmers and farmers' sons has continued. This province has given of its best for the making of the west. In the process rural Ontario has not benefited.—The News.

It is stated that the whole of the interest of Messrs. Cammell, Laird & Co., in the county of Cumberland, and the whole of the interest of the Moss Bay Hematite Iron and Steel Company, Limited, and the Harrington Coal and Iron Company, Limited, are to be incorporated in a new company at Workington, the capital of which is to be about £3,000,000.

The negotiations have been successfully completed, and it is expected that the amalgamation will be quickly launched. The directorate will be practically the same, as new controls the three Workington companies, with Sir John S. Rundles, at the head.

The new undertaking comprises the whole of the Cammell, Lair, and Co's docks and harbour at Workington, and iron mines in Cumberland. The enterprise will have plant consisting of two vast steel works and twenty-two blast furnaces.—London (Eng.) Daily Mail.

Combines are combines whether in England or elsewhere.

The bee line is an established fact, but recently M. Gaston Bonnier, before the Academie des Science, in Paris, raised the question as to whether bees are not endowed with a sense of direction in the same way as are carrier pigeons and swallows. It does not appear that M. Gaston Bonnier had put his theory to the test, but a correspondent, writing in a Paris contemporary says that a bee keeper in the north of France made a test some time ago, and that he satisfied himself that the sense of direction is more finely developed in the bee than in a pigeon. According to the correspondent, one day in July of a year not mentioned the bee keeper took a dozen pigeons and a dozen bees about eight miles from his garden and there released them. To recognise the bees he dusted them with flour, and had a friend stationed near the hive and well in view of the dovecote. The first bee arrived home exactly fifteen seconds before the first pigeon, and their companions followed in due order. It is very probable that the flour to a certain extent impeded the flight of the bees, but nevertheless the pigeons were hopelessly beaten.—London Globe.

A GREAT CITY WILL ARISE

New York. A despatch from Pittsburg says: Another move towards centering the iron and steel industry of the United States along the borders of the great lakes was made when a contract was signed by the Algoma Steel Company for $500,000 of heavy steel machinery to be delivered at Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, as quickly as possible. It is the intention of the Philadelphians and Londoners back of this plant to have two immense steel mills there turning out bars and other steel products by November 1. The nature of the machinery ordered shows that the mills to be erected will be rivals worthy of even the biggest and best Pittsburg mills. They will be by far the largest in Canada. After six years' study those concerned in this project, at the head of the great lakes have decided that it would be cheaper to carry the coal to the iron ore than to bring the ore to the coal as has been the custom for years. It is the intention to go after the Canadian trade and the trade of the Northwestern States, a specialty being made of the steel entering into the making of farm machinery. Announcement of the placing of this order caused some interest in Pittsburg.—Trade Review.

Knights Templar at Detroit.

Detroit, June 9.—In the parade which opened the 53rd annual conclave of the Michigan Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, three Canadian Commanderies, one division of the mile long line of white plumed marchers, with Damascus Commandery as escort, the members of Ode De St. Amand Commandery of Brantford, Windsor Commandery of Windsor and Cyrene Commandery of Toronto, made the fifth battalion.

McGill Gets Fine Property.

Montreal, June 9.—The Joseph property at Sherbrooke and MacTavish streets, which was bought recently for $142,000 for a high-class hotel site, has been turned over to Sir William Macdonald, in the interests of McGill University, at cost price, by the promoters of the hotel. McGill long wished to secure the Joseph estate, which adjoins the college campus, but could not raise the funds. The hotel people will now seek another site.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firm—Hogs Steady and Active at Buffalo and Chicago.

LONDON, June 8.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 13c to 14¼c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10¼c to 10⅝c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, June 8.—Not being able to get a report of receipts from the G.T.R., we are again unable to give a detailed statement of receipts, but there were in the neighborhood of 100 carloads.

Exporters.

Geo. Rowntree was the only buyer of exporters that we heard of operating. Mr. Rowntree bought 720 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Company. Amongst the lot were 237 exporters, for which Mr. Rowntree paid $6.35 to $6.40. The latter price was paid for an extra choice load of cattle brought in by John Vance of Tavistock, weighing 1450 lbs. The quality of these cattle has not been surpassed by any sold this season on either market. They were of the shorthorn breed, and fed by Adam Moore of Tavistock, a farmer who knows how, and feeds cattle. There are many farmers who know how, but don't.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree bought about 500 butchers' cattle for the Harris Abattoir Company at $5 to $5.75; cows at $4.50 to $5.25, and bulls at $4.50 to $5.37½. Mr. Rowntree was well pleased with the general quality of the cattle he bought, and the drovers seemed to be generally satisfied with the prices paid.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby bought two loads. Mr. Murby paid for one load, 925 lbs. each, at $4.75, and one load of stockers, 700 lbs. each, at $4 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a moderate delivery of milkers and springers, for which steady prices were paid, ranging from $30 to $60 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts liberal; prices steady, at $3 to $5.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export ewes, $4.50 to $5 per cwt.; rams, $3.50 to $4 per cwt.; spring lambs, $3 to $6 each.

Hogs.

All the dealers report prices lower, with the exception of one, and he said he could not get any hogs at $7.65, fed and watered, or at $7.40 f.o.b. cars at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, June 8.—Cattle—Receipts, 200 head; fairly active and steady; prime steers, $6.75 to $7.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 200 head; slow, steady and unchanged.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Beeves—Receipts, 81; nothing doing; feeling weak; dressed beef slow, at 9c to 10½c. Exports tomorrow, 2800 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 180; nothing doing of importance; feeling steady; dressed calves unchanged; city dressed veals, 9c to 13c; country dressed, 8c to 12c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 6554; sheep slow; prime lambs full steady; medium and common grades slow and weak; sheep, $3.50 to $5; lambs, $7.25 to $9.25; yearlings, $4.75 to $6.

Hogs—Receipts, 2827; nothing doing of importance; feeling steady.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, June 8.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at 2500; market steady; beeves, $5.30 to $7.25; Texas steers, $4.60 to $6.30; western steers, $5.75 to $6.40; stockers and feeders, $3.60 to $5.50; cows and heifers, $2.40 to $6.25; calves, $5.75 to $7.75.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at 14,000; market steady to strong; light $7 to $7.60; mixed, $7.20 to $7.70; heavy, $7.25 to $7.80; rough, $7.25 to $7.45; good to choice heavy, $7.45 to $7.80; pigs, $6.10 to $7; bulk of sales, $7.35 to $7.70.

Sheep—Receipts, estimated at 10,000; market steady; native, $4 to $5.50; western, $4.25 to $6.00; yearlings, $6.25 to $7.20; lambs, native, $5 to $8.25; western, $6.25 to $8.30.

COAL RESULTS

We sell the very best quality of hard coal, as good as we know how to buy.

¶ Are you getting results from the coal you are now using? Are you sure it is good? Are you burning it the right way?

¶ There is a deal of difference in how you handle the range or furnace. Our long experience tells us that fact, and we are ready to advise any in doubt as to the best way to make use of coal as fuel.

The Woman In the Alcove

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,

Author of "The Millionaire Baby," "The Filigree Ball," "The House in the Mist," "The Amethyst Box," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY.

"You can fix the time of this visit, I hope; tell us, I mean, just when you left the alcove. You must have seen some one who can speak for you."

"I fear not."

Why did he look so disturbed and uncertain?

"There were but few persons in the hall just then," he went on to explain. "No one was sitting on the yellow divan."

"You know where you went, though? Whom you saw and what you did before the alarm spread?"

"Inspector, I am quite confused. I did go somewhere; I did not remain in that part of the hall. But I can tell you nothing definite, save that I walked about, mostly among strangers, till the cry rose which sent us all in one direction and me to the side of my fainting sweetheart."

"Can you pick out any stranger you talked to, or any one who might have noted you during this interval? You see, for the sake of this little woman, I wish to give you every chance."

"Inspector, I am obliged to throw myself on your mercy. I have no such witness to my innocence as you call for. Innocent people seldom have. It is only the guilty who take the trouble to provide for such contingencies."

This was all very well, if it had been uttered with a straightforward air and in a clear tone. But it was not. I who loved him felt that it was not, and consequently was more or less prepared for the change which now took place in the inspector's manner. Yet it pierced me to the heart to observe this change, and I instinctively dropped my face into my hands when I saw him move toward Mr. Durand with some final order or word of caution.

Instantly (and who can account for such phenomena?) there floated into view before my retina a reproduction of the picture I had seen, or imagined myself to have seen, in the supper room; and as at that time it opened before me an unknown vista quite removed from the surrounding scene, so it did now, and I beheld again in faint outlines, and yet with the effect of complete distinctness, a square of light through which appeared an open passage partly shut off from view by a half lifted curtain and the tall figure of a man holding back this curtain and gazing, or seeming to gaze, at his own breast, on which he had already laid one quivering finger.

What did it mean? In the excitement of the horrible occurrence which had engrossed us all, I had forgotten this curious experience; but on feeling anew the vague sensation of shock and expectation which seemed its natural accompaniment, I became conscious of a sudden conviction that the picture which had opened before me in the supper room was the result of a reflection in a glass or mirror of something then going on in a place not otherwise within the reach of my vision; a reflection, the importance of which I suddenly realized when I recall at what a critical moment it had occurred. A man in a state of dread looking at his breast, within five minutes of the stir and rush of the dreadful event which had marked this evening!

A hope, great as the despair in which I had just been sunk, gave me courage to drop my hands and advance impetuously toward the inspector.

"Don't speak, I pray; don't judge any of us further till you have heard what I have to say."

In great astonishment and with an aspect of severity, he asked me what I had to say now which I had not had the opportunity of saying before. I replied with all the passion of a forlorn hope that it was only at this present moment I remembered a fact which might have a very decided bearing on this case; and, detecting evidences, as I thought, of relenting on his part, I backed up this statement by an entreaty for a few words with him apart, as the matter I had to tell was private and possibly too fanciful for any ear but his own.

He looked as if he apprehended some loss of valuable time, but, touched by the involuntary gesture of appeal with which I supplemented my request, he led me into a corner, where, with just an encouraging glance toward Mr. Durand, who seemed struck dumb by my action, I told the inspector of that momentary picture which I had seen reflected in what I was now sure was some window pane or mirror.

"It was at a time coincident, or very nearly coincident, with the perpetration of the crime you are now investigating," I concluded. "Within five minutes afterward came the shout which roused us all to what had happened in the alcove. I do not know what passage I saw or what door or even what figure, but the latter, I am sure, was that of the guilty man. Something of the outline (and it was the outline only I could catch) expressed an emotion incomprehensible to me at the moment, but which in my remembrance impresses me as that of fear and dread. It was not the entrance to the alcove I beheld—that would have struck me at once—but some other opening which I might recognize if I saw it. Cannot that opening be found, and may it not give a clew to the man I saw skulking through it with terror and remorse in his heart?"

"Was this figure when you saw it turned toward you or away?" the inspector inquired, with unexpected interest.

"Turned partly away. He was going from me."

"And you sat where?"

"Shall I show you?"

The inspector bowed, then with a low word of caution turned to my uncle.

"I am going to take this young lady into the hall for a moment at her own request. May I ask you and Mr. Durand to await me here?"

Without pausing for reply, he threw open the door, and presently we were pacing the deserted supper room seeking the place where I had sat. I found it almost by a miracle, everything being in great disorder. Guided by my bouquet, which I had left behind me in my escape from the table, I laid hold of the chair before which it lay and declared quite confidently to the inspector:

"This is where I sat."

Naturally his glance and mine both flew to the opposite wall. A window was before us of an unusual size and make. Unlike any which had ever before come under my observation, it swung on a pivot and, though shut at the present moment, might very easily when opened present its huge pane at an angle capable of catching reflections from some of the many mirrors decorating the reception room situated diagonally across the hall. As all the doorways on this lower floor were of unusual width, an open path was offered, as it were, for these reflections to pass, making it possible for scenes to be imaged here which to the persons involved would seem as safe from any one's scrutiny as if they were taking place in the adjoining house.

As we realized this a look passed between us of more than ordinary significance. Pointing to the window, the inspector turned to a group of waiters watching us from the other side of the room and asked if it had been opened that evening.

The answer came quickly.

"Yes, sir—just before the—the"—

"I understand," broke in the inspector, and, leaning over me, he whispered. "Tell me again exactly what you thought you saw."

But I could add little to my former description.

"Perhaps you can tell me this," he kindly persisted. "Was the picture, when you saw it, on a level with your eye or did you have to lift your head in order to see it?"

"It was high up—in the air, as it were. That seemed its oddest feature."

The inspector's mouth took a satisfied curve.

"Possibly I might identify the door and passage if I saw them," I suggested.

"Certainly, certainly," was his cheerful rejoinder, and, summoning one of his men, he was about to give some order when his impulse changed, and he asked if I could draw.

I assured him, in some surprise, that I was far from being an adept in that direction, but that possibly I might manage a rough sketch, whereupon he pulled a pad and pencil from his pocket and requested me to make some sort of attempt to reproduce on paper my memory of this passage and the door.

My heart was beating violently, and the pencil shook in my hand, but I knew that it would not do for me to show any hesitation in fixing for all eyes what, unaccountably to myself, continued to be perfectly plain to my own. So I endeavored to do as he bade me and succeeded to some extent, for he uttered a slight ejaculation at one of its features and, while duly expressing his thanks, honored me with a very sharp look.

"Is this your first visit to this house?" he asked.

"No. I have been here before."

"In the evening or in the afternoon?"

"In the afternoon."

"I am told that the main entrance is not in use tonight."

"No. A side door is provided for occasions like the present. Guests entering there find a special hall and staircase, by which they can reach the upstairs dressing rooms without crossing the main hall. Is that what you mean?"

"Yes, that is what I mean."

I stared at him in wonder. What lay back of such questions as these?

"You came in, as others did, by this side entrance," he now proceeded. "Did you notice, as you turned to go upstairs, an arch opening into a small passageway at your left?"

"I did not," I began, flushing, for I thought I understood him now. "I was too eager to reach the dressing room to look about me."

"Very well," he replied; "I may want to show you that arch."

The outline of an arch, backing the figure we were endeavoring to identify, was a marked feature in the sketch I had shown him.

"Will you take a seat nearby while I make a study of this matter?"

I turned with alacrity to obey. There was something in his air and manner which made me almost buoyant. Had my fanciful interpretation of what I had seen reached him with the conviction it had me? If so, there was hope—hope for the man I loved, who had gone in and out between curtains, and not through any arch such as he had mentioned or I had described. Providence was working for me. I saw it in the way the men now moved about, swinging the window to and fro, under the instruction of the inspector, manipulating the lights, opening doors and drawing back curtains. Providence was working for me, and when, a few minutes later, I was asked to reseat myself in my old place at the supper table and take another look in that slightly deflected glass I knew that my effort had met with its reward and that for the second time I was to receive the impression of a place now indelibly imprinted on my consciousness.

"Is not that it?" asked the inspector, pointing at the glass with a last look at the imperfect sketch I had made him and which he still held in his hand.

"Yes," I eagerly responded. "All but the man. He whose figure I see there is another person entirely; I see no remorse or even fear in his looks."

"Of course not. You are looking at the reflection of one of my men. Miss Van Arsdale, do you recognize the place now under your eye?"

"I do not. You spoke of an arch in the hall, at the left of the carriage entrance, and I see an arch in the window pane before me, but"—

"You are looking straight through the alcove—perhaps you did not know that another door opened at its back—into the passage which runs behind it. Farther on is the arch, and beyond that arch the side hall and staircase leading to the dressing rooms. This door, the one in the rear of the alcove, I mean, is hidden from those entering from the main hall by draperies which have been hung over it for this occasion, but it is quite visible from the back passageway, and there can be no doubt that it was by its means the man whose reflected image you saw both entered and left the alcove. It is an important fact to establish, and we feel very much obliged to you for the aid you have given us in this matter."

Then, as I continued to stare at him in my elation and surprise, he added, in quick explanation:

To be continued.

ONTARIO'S NEW STATION.

Jordan Harbor Experimental Farm Premises to Be a Big Success.

Building at Ontario's new experimental station, Jordan Harbor, is going on apace, as well as the erection of many new homes within its radius. Perhaps it is only a chimera existing in the minds of the oldest inhabitants down there, but it is very evident to the casual onlooker that the farm will bring something bigger in its wake, if all present signs are not failing, with fruit land selling at from $1,000 to $1,200 an acre.

Director H. S. Peart, B.S.A., an old Burlington boy, expects to move from his present cramped office quarters to the fine new brick building, with its commodious rooms, this week. A large consignment of new chairs, desks and cabinets of solid oak have arrived, but are not yet permanently placed. Everything is neat and substantial as regards finish and quarters in the new building, that when the outside approaches are completed, will be an ornament to the farm. A 10-horse-power boiler does the heating, supplying the greenhouses as well. In the basement are several large experimental rooms, besides a dark room for photographic work, the boiler-room and men's lavatories. On the first floor are the directors' office, a room for the bactereologist (yet to be appointed); a reading and general assembly room. Upstairs, the largest apartment will be set aside for a museum. Then there are the ladies' rooms and others for chemical work.

The views from all the windows overlook the farm, except on the east side.

The greenhouses, lately finished, are not nearly large enough, and another addition is in course of erection, while others will be added as they are needed. The experimental cannery and cold-storage buildings are about finished, and the fruit growers in a very short time will be able to review the results of the tests that will be made in them before the snow flies again.

A pretty resident building has been erected for Mr. Peart, in which are reserved a suite of rooms for departmental visitors. It is the director's intention this year to experiment with nut-bearing trees, and he is very hopeful of success. Some excellent samples of tobacco were lying on Mr. Peart's desk the other day, the first grown on the farm. The smoking qualities were very good indeed.

Nearly 80 varieties of peach trees are set out and some further importations from France and Belgium are expected. From all this lot the varieties adapted for the peninsula will be selected. Fruit men who have not been over the ground since last spring will be amazed at the large number of changes that have since been made in the surroundings.

For a number of years, the bee men of the province have been asking for an apiary where practical and scientific experiments may be conducted for the benefit of the industry. Now the Department of Agriculture of Ontario will make this important addition in connection with the fruit experiments at the new farm at Jordan Harbor. The work is to be placed in charge of Morley Pettit of Aylmer, Ont., who stands in the front rank of Canada's successful apiarists. Mr. Pettit's duties will also include the inspection of apiaries under the Foul Brood Act.

"Bad Men" Up North.

A few days ago a would-be bad man walked into the shack of an Italian who makes a few odd pence dealing out high wines, writes A. C. Pulver, in a recent Gowganda article. The man pulled a gun, grabbed two bottles, said he was a detective, and the poor son of Italy handed over $25 to square himself with the "big chief."

He came back again and several Italians gave it to him good and plenty. The other night, Alf. Dubie, who has a shack up the lake, was surprised. His coat and several articles of clothing were taken. Dr. Porter's canoe was missing the next day. By this time it is probably lying in the bush, with a fresh coat of different colored paint on it, thus placing it beyond hopes of recognition. This comes of "nothing to do" and no policeman in sight.

However, several husky residents gave a generous licking recently to a "sport" who said he was a trifle light fingered on the trigger of a gun. Its not healthy to say too much, unless your mind is running along the right channel.

Strength of R.N.W.M.P.

According to the latest available returns the Royal Northwest Mounted Police numbers 51 officers, 598 noncommissioned officers and constables, with 583 horses. Of the 649 men all told, there are stationed in Saskatchewan, 303; in Alberta, 239; in the Yukon, 79, and in the Territories, 28.

In the course of his report to Sir Wilfrid Laurier—for the force is administered from the office of the President of the Privy Council—Commissioner Perry writes: "During the past year new districts have been settled up, villages have sprung up along the recently constructed railways, and the population in the other settlements has increased. Many places have asked for permanent police posts, which I have reluctantly had to refuse, because I had not the men available.

"Our farthest outposts are found on the shores of Hudson Bay and the Arctic Ocean, and scattered over the vast Northland along the lines of communication. They are found along the International Boundary for 800 miles, and dotted over the settled districts of the two provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan."

N. MONAGHAN COUNCIL MEETING.

The Township Council met in the township treasurer's office in Peterborough at 2 o'clock p.m. Members present were Messrs. J. Brown, reeve, and W. G. Howden, W. McKee and J. Morrow, councillors.

The reading of the minutes of the last meeting was deferred until the next meeting.

A petition was presented and read from Dr. T. N. Johnston and twenty-three others, asking for cinder sidewalks to be built upon Brown street and Monaghan road.

It was moved by Messrs. Howden and Morrow that the matter of the petition be referred for further consideration.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Morrow and Howden, that Mr. Painter be hereby permitted to deepen a ditch on the side of the road at his lot, provided the work be done without any loss, cost or liability whatsoever to the township.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Howden and McKee, that the reeve and Councillor Morrow be a committee to act with the council of South Monaghan in regard to repairing the south boundary road.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Howden and McKee, that Mr. Brown is hereby authorized to act with the council of Cavan or a committee thereof in having a ditch opened on west side of the boundary north from the creek on the 12th con. The cost of the ditch not to exceed $8.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Howden and McKee, that the reeve and councillors Morrow and McKee are hereby appointed a committee to act with Cavan council in the matter of ditching the east side of the boundary south from the creek in the 12th con. The total cost of the work to the township of North Monaghan not to exceed the sum of $50.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Morrow and McKee, that a committee consisting of the reeve and Councillors Howden and McKee are hereby appointed to confer with the Peterborough Radial Railway Co. for the purpose of having the necessary repairs made to the streets used by the Railway Company.—Carried.

Council then adjourned until called by the reeve. The next meeting to be in May's school house at 7 p.m.

"GINGERBREAD MAN" COMING TO PETERBOROUGH AGAIN

At Grand Opera House Saturday June 12th Matinee and Night—Many Tuneful Melodies—One of the Most Popular Comic Operas Ever Written

To those who have, and to those who have not heard the tuneful melodies of the "Gingerbread Man" this will be welcome news. Of all the comic operas that are on the road at present, this one is perhaps the most pleasing, its various musical numbers being of the kind that everyone likes to sing or whistle. Some of the favorites are "Mazie," "John Dough," "Beautiful Isle of Bon Bon," "Old Rameses," "Queen of My Dreams," "Moon, Moon, Moon," Every Little Something."

A number of those who appeared in the production of the "Gingerbread Man" given last season are with it this year, including Fred Rico as the "Gingerbread Man," Ross Snow as "Wondrous Wise," and Maurice Holden as the "Good Fairy." On account of the opera season in the cities being closed, there is a lot of very high-class talent in the caste of this organization, including Miss Rose Murray, as "Margery Daw," and Miss May Boulton as "Mazie Bon Bon." On account of the lateness of the season the prices for the attraction have been reduced and are as follows;—Matinee, whole lower floor 50 cents; balcony, 35 cents; children (anywhere in the house) 25 cents. At the night performance the prices range from 25 cents to $1.00. All seats can be reserved at the matinee and all but the 25 cent seats at night.

Already there is a demand for seats as this opera is so well known. Phone or mail orders received up to 7 p.m. Saturday.

MR. D. O'CONNELL IS APPOINTED JUDGE PRO TEM FOR PETERBORO' COUNTY

Mr. O'Connell will discharge the duties of Judge for the County of Peterborough until a successor is appointed to the late Judge Weller.

The local Bar intimated their unanimous desire that Mr. O'Connell should be appointed, and it is with a great deal of pleasure that the Review congratulates him upon his being appointed to this honourable position.

Mr. O'Connell, who is a young man, has been well and favourably known in the city of Peterborough for the last thirteen years, where he has been engaged in the practice of law.

He was born at Capetown, in South Africa. His father was an officer of the British army, who was stationed there at that time. Mr. O'Connell resided in Toronto for many years and graduated from the University College in 1890, and from Osgoode Hall a few years later, afterwards practicing at Penetanguishene, and later at Peterborough. Mr. O'Connell was at the front during the N.W. Rebellion, being an officer of volunteers.

As a Liberal Mr. O'Connell has been very active and was well known as a speaker in this county and throughout the whole province during the elections of the last ten years. At the time of the re-organization of the Ross Cabinet his name was mentioned as a proposed member of the Cabinet.

About two years ago he was appointed with Mr G. M Roger, the local agent of the Minister of Justice for this county and assisted in settling the drowned land claims, which had been filed with the Government by those who claimed compensation for the submersion of their lands by the Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. O'Connell has been a member of the school board and an alderman of this city for some years and has always assisted in the local government of the city when he felt that he could properly give time and attention to it.

Mr. O'Connell will still practice as a barrister and solicitor, except in the County Court, and his appointment in no way affects the practice of the firm of O'Connell and Gordon of which he is the senior partner, except in Division Court and County Court matters, which might come before him for adjudication.

Mr. O'Connell is not an applicant for the position of Judge of the County Court here but has been appointed to act until a permanent appointment is made.

"THE TOYS AWAKE" WAS VERY SUCCESSFULLY REPEATED

Another large and highly pleased audience saw the second performance of "The Toys Awake," which was given at the Grand Opera House last night for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society. The play went without a hitch, and for its excellent presentations Miss Adams, the directress, and Mr. Ford, the manager, deserve great credit for their splendid training in so short a time of the two hundred and fifty assistants taking part.

The 57th Regimental Band, under Mr. Giddon's direction, played in front of the opera house, and also before the curtain went up.

Miss Mabel McCaw played the incidental music and accompaniments in a faultless manner.

A pleasing feature of the evening the presentation of a beautiful bouquet to Miss Georgina Long, the talented little artist.

THOUGHT BODY MIGHT BE THAT OF BROCKVILLE MAN

Brockville, June 8—The unknown man found dead in the river a few miles east of Peterborough it is thought, may be Peter McGuink, who disappeared from his home here on October 29th last and has since been unheard of.

For the benefit of the anxious ones in Brockville it may be stated that the body of the man found was not Peter McGuink but that of Elias Armstrong. The identity has been so clearly established that there can be no doubt

THE DRAGOONS WILL CAMP AT HALF STRENGTH ON JUNE 21ST

The 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons will hold their twelve days' annual camp at Nassau this year instead of at Kingston. The Dragoons will be represented half strength, which means about 135 horses and 150 men. Lt.-Col. Syer of Millbrook, the officer commanding the Dragoons, will be in command.

The regiment is busy making preliminary arrangements for the camp.

DR. BELL AND HIS ASSISTANT ATTACKED AND DRIVEN AWAY

Special to the Review.

Toronto, June 9—Dr. R. W. Bell, Provincial Health Inspector returned this morning from Port Severn and Parry Sound, where he had been quelling an outbreak of smallpox. He vaccinated 292 people but feeling ran so high that one day a group of French-Canadians attacked and drove him and his assistant away. There are sixteen cases in the hospital.

"COLLEGIATE ECHOES" FOR JUNE IS FINE NUMBER

The "Collegiate Echoes" appears in a new dress for its last appearance this school term. The cover is light green in color and the title is embossed in gold, making a very striking effect. The June number, which was distributed today, is also larger than previous issues, containing thirty-two pages without the cover. It contains a splendid assortment of matter, one of the principal articles being "Five Famous Empty Chairs" from the pen of Frank Yeigh, and used by courtesy of the Canadian Magazine. It is generously illustrated. Other articles are "The Gas Engine," by Stewart Anderson; "Fourth Form Philosophy," by Harold McGill; "The Wild Black Bice," by Stella Shearer; "A French Village" by Stanley Fife; "Twins," by Maisie Armstrong; The editorial, sporting and "exchange" departments have been well looked after. Under the heading "Current Events," are three articles, one in French, by Katheryn Burnett, one in German by Gertrude Yenney and one in Latin by Harold Brown.

Altogether the June "Echoes" is a highly creditable one and the editors are to be congratulated.

SMALL FIRE IN SAWDUST PILE

At the Rear of the Residence of Mr. Peter Johnston Elm St.

The fire brigade was called to a small blaze last night near Park and Elm streets corner. Fire broke out in the rear of the residence of Mr. Peter Johnston, Elm street and caused quite a stir in the neighborhood.

It was extinguished before any damage resulted. Mr. Johnston's wheel escaped without damage.

WEDDING BELLS

WESSELS—FAUX

At the George street Methodist Parsonage this morning Herbert Wessels, of the township of Murray, Northumberland, was married to Nellie May Faux, of Asphodel. The wedding was quietly celebrated, and Rev. E. A. Pearson officiated. The couple were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Wessels will reside in Wooler.

HAMILTON—FREDENBURG

A pretty wedding took place this morning when Eva May Fredenburg, eldest daughter of Mr. Tobias Fredenburg was united in marriage to Harold B. Hamilton, youngest son of Mr. Robt. Hamilton, of East City. The bride wore a handsome dress of heliotrope silk with hat to match, and her bridesmaid was Miss Mabel Godfrey. The groom was supported by Mr. Herb Anderson. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the home of the bride's parents, 378 Queen street, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of and at which a large number of the friends of the bride and groom were present. Many beautiful and costly presents were received, among them being a silver pudding dish from Mr. Robt. Stewart and a silver cake dish and fern bowl from the girls of the department in which the bride had formerly worked at the American Cereal Works. The former associates of the groom presented him with a handsome clock. The newly wedded couple left on the 4.38 C.P.R. train for Toronto, where a reception will be held this evening at the residence of Mr. A. Davis, 36 McGill street, after which a trip will be taken to Hamilton and Buffalo and on their return here they will reside at 378 Queen street. The bride's going away suit was of Alice blue.

Special prices for the matinee Saturday. Entire lower floor 50c, balcony 35c. Children (anywhere) 25c. All seats reserved and sold in advance. Plan opens to-morrow morning.

REPORTED TO HAVE GOT FORTUNE

No Word From Reliable Source About it Yet

A report was current to-day that a prominent local man had inherited a vast sum of wealth from an unexpected source. He was seen by the Review to-day, but declined to give out any particulars of the matter, as he said he learned nothing of it from a really reliable source and preferred that no mention be made of it until he had.

This will be one of the largest excursions of the year.

RECEIVED WORD OF FATHER'S ILLNESS

Mrs. Wm. Irvine, Bolivar street, received a telephone message this morning notifying her of the serious illness of her father, in Janetville, as a result of a paralytic stroke.

The message was received too late to allow the journey being made by train, and this necessitated the trip being made with a horse and buggy. Mrs. Irvine was accompanied by her husband to Janetville.

"CRESSMAN'S DEPARTMENT STORES"
SIDE LIGHTS ON THE WASH-GOODS QUESTION
???
¶ The question of importance to-day and always will be at this particular season of the year. It used to be prints and ordinary muslins, now the variety that is displayed and used for the wash dress and suit is so extensive and so widely different that unless you know just what you want and what is the best, a person is liable to become at sea when trying to select. We will throw a light on some of the best and most popular fabrics of the 1909 season which may be of interest to you.

American Flowered Muslins	26 inches wide in the most exquisite "floral on stripe" effects on dainty light grounds and white. Price 25c.
Theba Batiste	This is a fine American Lawn, 29 inches wide and is suitable for all styles of Dresses. It comes in linen ground with colored spots and rings in the best shades, also black with white patterns. A good washer 15c yd.
American Printed Mulls	Then the American Printed Mulls come in the light—a soft finished fabric in white grounds with stripe and dot patterns in dainty light shades, 27 inches wide. Price 18c.
American Crepes	Of all the new fabrics of 1909, American Crepes are first in prominence on the market, they are 25 ins. wide and come in the daintiest color and patterns including the new Persian stripe. 25c
Striped Linens	The Striped Linens too are popular for the new suit, a fine mercerized finished goods, 27 in. wide all the new shades of tan, blue, helio, etc. 35c.
Anderson's Scotch Zephyrs	You all know Anderson's Scotch Zephyrs and Chambrays, perfect washing qualities in the shades of the season in dark and light effects. Price 25c
Swiss Embroidered Muslins	In solid and lace effects, champagne shade only 27 in. wide an imported sheer mull in an excellent washing quality. Price 25c
Costume Lengths	Have you seen the Scotch Zephyrs in suit lengths wide stripes in tan, Dresden Blue Amathyst and blue, grey and blue; 1 suit only of a kind. 6.00
Kimona Crepes	This is a fabric that is particularly adapted for use in kimonas, dressing sacques, etc., elegantly flowered in dainty shades on grounds of pink, pale blue, wisteria, green and grey, also a line of Jap. patterns. Price 25c

THE COMING STORM

Lord Rosebery is a man of such eminence and sanity that when he comes out of his retirement in order to utter a sensational warning to his countrymen the world listens and takes note. He plainly foreshadows a repetition of the Napoleonic wars, with Germany the aggressor instead of France or as the Emperor puts it, with Germany on the defensive and her back to the wall. To the Canadian the question at once propounds itself "What are WE going to do about it?" The answer of the soldier and of all men loyal to the flag that has waved so long over England and Great Britain and all that she has done and to say truth, all that she "has left undone," will be that if we must fight, we can fight, and will fight. The one note in it all that undeniably jars upon the ear of the brave and therefore proud man is the panicky state of Great Britain at the prospect before her. It is always well, of course to be modest and not over-confident as braggarts and self-appraisers are, but that is an entirely different thing from being under-confident and alarmed. Germany is a formidable foe, never more so than now but so is Great Britain and the British Empire. The battle is not always to the best artillery but to that best served. It was valor, not equipment that won at Marathon and Salamis. But why discuss it? Why calculate upon the chances of defeat? The bold, determined and as of old, resolute Briton is not given to counting the number of his enemies. And we maintain that this spirit animates us still. Notwithstanding the "mafficking" of recent years which has served but to manifest a childishness and noisiness entirely foreign to the Saxon-Keltic character. Great Britain is not on the down grade. The calm, by all accounts, is that immediately before a fearful storm. Perhaps that is so. It must be left to those who know. But whether it is so or not, Canadians without distinction of race-origin, creed or party, will rally to the support of the old flag and "don't you forget it."

OBITUARY

MRS. MICHAEL KENNEDY

The death occurred at Douro this morning of Mrs. Michael Kennedy, who resided in Peterborough up to about nine months ago. She had been in poor health for some time and passed away at the home of her mother, Mrs. John Coughlan. She was thirty years of age and surviving her are her husband, two brothers, Messrs Martin and John Coughlan, Douro, and three sisters, Mrs. David Quinlan, of Ashburnham and Rose and Veronica of Douro.

The funeral will take place on Friday morning at nine o'clock to St. Joseph's church and thence to the Douro cemetery.

RUMOR OF AN APPOIINTMENT

It is rumored that Mr. E. C. S. Huycke, M.A., LL.B., K. C., of Cobourg, will receive the appointment of County Court Judge for Peterborough. The Review was informed of this probable appointment from a reliable source. A few days ago it was stated in these columns that the position lay between Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, of Belleville, and Mr. Huycke, but it seems that Mr. Huycke will be appointed.

Go with the crowd to the city of Toronto, Saturday, June 12th, by special train, which leaves C.P.R. station 7.30 sharp, before the local train and only stops once. Tickets good to return by any train up to Monday night. The Bricklayers' and Masons', Union, No. 17, of city of Peterborough.

THE BEE THE SUREST FLYER

The starting of the flyer pigeons on their homeward route at the lift lock on Sunday brings to mind interesting comparisons between the flying ability of pigeons and bees.

By actual trials it has been proved that bees fly faster and with a greater sense of direction than pigeons. In fact they are able to find directions with greater sureness than any other insect or bird and from its possession of those qualities the term "bee line" has originated.

LAID AT REST

The funeral of the late Miss Vivian Clancy took place yesterday afternoon from her late residence Burbidge St. and many friends were present to pay their last respects to one who had been held dear to them as a close friend or acquaintance. The services at St. Peter's cathedral were solemn and impressive and Rev. Dr. O'Brien officiated, assisted by Rev. Father McFadden. The pall bearers were the four brothers of the deceased, Messrs Leo, Hector, Clare and Raymond and two cousins William and Fred Clancy. Many beautiful floral tributes were sent and friends from Lindsay and other places were present at the obsequies. The remains were interred at the Roman Catholic cemetery and the services were conducted by Rev. Father McFadden and Rev. Father Kelly.

Mr. Harry Crowe, of Buckhorn, was a guest at the home of Mr. John Pearson on Sunday.

Miss G. Howson was the guest of Miss Olive Pearson on Tuesday.

The Wesley football team played the second game of the season Saturday evening with the Lakehurst team. The game was well played by both teams, the score being a tie after forty minutes' play.

The many friends of Mr. Willie Shearer wish him speedy recovery after his misfortune while playing in the game Saturday evening.

Mr and Mrs. Aldus Northey spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. B. Graham.

Mr. David Drain was the guest of Mr. Cephas Northey on Sunday.

There was a good congregation at Wesley on Sunday, but for some unknown reason there was no minister. Mr. L. A. Northey occupied the pulpit and gave a short talk on the Prodigal son which proved very helpful and interesting.

Mr. John Armstrong and John Montgomery were guests at the home of Mr. Joseph Harris Saturday evening.

The stone crusher is now at work in this vicinity, and quite a number of men are employed, Mr. E. Blewett is acting as engineer and Mr. F. Rosboro as overseer.

EVILS OF RACE TRACK BETTING

We spend thousands of dollars protecting this country against physical taint and throw the doors to moral disease. The United States have practically driven race track gamblers out of their borders, while Canada is having these same moral outcasts a chance to continue their nefarious work. We are having just now an influx of immigrants that will debauch our young people and fill our asylums and prisons. It seems strange that New York and California should have the nerve and vigor to deal effectively with this evil, while Ontario with its religious pretentions should allow it to thrive. The trouble is that there are those high in authority who are in the habit of indulging in betting themselves and are opposed to any interference with the "sport." What can be done with representatives of the law openly aid and abet race track gambling? However, it looks as though public opinion were going to insist that our race track morals will be at least as good as those of the United States.

HANDSOME PICTURE FOR FIRST THREE TWO BAGGERS

Mr. Walter Belleghem has donated a handsome picture which will be presented to the first player in the senior baseball league who makes the first three two baggers. The picture is entitled Bachelor's quarters and is framed in quartered oak and valued at $2.50. The object is of course to increase interest among the players and thus add to the success of the league. The fact if the efforts of the executive and the players in the baseball game is appreciated should aid as an incentive to all to work for the interests of the game in this city.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

SCORING OFF BASE HITS

Rule 65, sec. 4—When the ball from the bat strikes the ground on or within the foul lines or out of reach of the fielders.

When a fair hit ball is partially or wholly stopped by a fielder in motion, but such player cannot recover himself in time to field the ball to first before the striker reaches that base or to force out another base runner.

When the ball be hit with such force to an infielder or pitcher that he cannot handle it in time to put out the batsman or force out a base runner.

In a case of doubt over this class of hits, a base hit should be scored and the fielder exempted from the charge of an error.

The YMCA. and Strathcona teams indulged in a good practice last night on the Oval, when all the players had a fine workout with the bat.

The West Ends and Straths will likely practice together tomorrow evening.

The PAC. team have not much to say as regards their chances for Saturday but the struggle will be a fast one.

The West Ends have been practising hard at Riverside park this week and the TAS. will have a hard proposition before them Saturday.

Henry Surphlis is pitching for one of the city league teams in Port Hope. How about a game.

Cobourg has a fast team called the Red Birds, and they are winning most of their games away from home.

With Peterborough, Cobourg and Port Hope represented by fast city league teams all of which are being well supported by the fans, it looks as if amateur ball is wanted.

Baseball is dead in Lindsay. The Peterborough teams always enjoyed a trip to the mud town to play a game but there's no chance this season.

Robert Edmunds and son Ross are playing ball with the Independents of Millbrook.

Toronto lost the fourth straight game to Montreal yesterday by 4 to 2. The Royals tied it in the ninth and won in the tenth. Toronto went to pieces. Casey's team are now in second place.

"Bull" Durham, the new pitcher secured by Toronto from the New York Giants, will twirl for the Leafs against Montreal to-day.

Buffalo beat Rochester by 7 to 6, and the Skeeters shut out Providence by 2 to 0. Matthewson held Chicago to two hits, and Philadelphia got but one hit off Joss, of Cleveland. The Tigers beat the Highlanders in eleven innings. Boston Americans won a twelve-inning game.

SPORTING TALK

The Capitals of Ottawa got badly trimmed on their own grounds on Saturday by the Cornwall team. Now the Senators threaten to drop out. Looks as if there were a yellow streak somewhere.

Rochester is the only Eastern League team that hasn't taken a slump.

The Torontos have been to the bad for the past week but they are about due to start winning again. They had seven errors yesterday.

Keep in mind the city league games on Saturday. Ladies are admitted free. It looks as if the four teams were evenly matched.

The Benson street walk—who won?

They're trying to get the King to withdraw the King's Plate and thus discourage racing.

There is talk of holding a regatta on Little Lake this year. There was talk of holding one last year and the year before.

A local sport inquired this morning what had become of Yankee Rogers, Fritz Mohl and the Sultan's favorite. In answer it might be said that Yankee's whereabouts are unknown. Mohl still conducts his saloon in Buffalo, and Hassan may or may not be selling peanuts in the neighborhood of Sohmer Park Montreal.

Of course the walk was a failure! Do you think if a local committee had charge of it it would? Say "" Ring off, please.

FOOTBALL

NORWOOD'S GOOD TEAM

Norwood, June 8—Another Junior football victory was credited to Norwood when on Monday they defeated teh Warsaw eleven on the latter's grounds by a 1-0 score.

The game was one of the finest seen this year and too much cannot be said of the way the locals played their positions.

The fast playing of the forwards gave the defence none st. Hawthorne in goal made some brilliant stops and Doherty and Kempt at back were like a stone wall defence.

No scoring was done in the first half, it being anybody's game.

When the second half commenced, Warsaw looked as if they might run away with the game but the locals soon turned the tide and the ball was carried to the Warsaw goal. A pretty combination resulted in Henderson notching the first goal in 45 minutes play.

Norwood forwards kept hard at it although the Warsaw boys fought hard for victory. The defence against them was too much.

No further scoring was done and Norwood came off the field, victors of the fastest and cleanest game yet played in the league, the score being 1-0.

W Bell, a Warsaw boy, refereed to the entire satisfaction of all.

Norwood now has three wins and no losses and have Havelock to meet on their own grounds next week. Another win will give them the championship.

GAME AT HAVELOCK.

Havelock, June 9—The Bachelors and Bendicts met in deadly conflict in a very fast and interesting football match at the local park on Friday night last the result being in favor of the Bachelors by a score of 2-1. Following was the lineup:

G Mathison	W. Watson.

IN SUMMERTIME.

Wisht to goodness gracious
It was Summertime,
And I was runnin' barefoot,
With a hund'erd trees to climb.
Wisht that I was fishin'
Down by Mitchell's Mill,
With lots of apples 'side of me,
So's't I could have my fill!

Wisht that She was somewhere's 'round,
So's't she could fish with me.
What makes folks come Summertime
And not in Winter—Gee,
Wasn't she a dandy pal,
Und her hair ain't red;
Let Bill say that one't agin',
And I'll punch his head!

When she comes in Summer, why
I won't just let on
That I ever went with her,
And see how she'll take on!
'Spose she's gone and got stuck-up,
Naw, she never would;
If she has I'll quit right now
Agoin' with her for good.

Girls is awful bothersome,
Never know at all
Any game they want to play;
Couldn't ketch a ball;
Couldn't bait a fishin' hook,
Can't take off a bite—
But when a fellah's lonesome like,
They're simply out of sight.

Wisht that it was Summertime;
'Tought to soon be here;
Seems like 'sif it'll never come,
And has been gone a year—
Goin' in swimmin' every day,
Know a dandy place!
Summertime's the only time
Fer which I fix my face.

A STIRRING INCIDENT.

Sixtieth Anniversary of Montreal Riots Has Just Passed Over.

The middle-aged Canadian of to-day, if he belongs to a family Liberal in politics, will be pretty sure to remember engaging, in his boyhood days, in some such dialogue as this with his father:

"Say, dad, Bill Jones is a Tory and he says that the Grits are all rebels."

"He does, does he?"

"Yes; he says that whenever we get into an argument about politics."

"Well, my boy, the next time Bill Jones or anybody else says that, you ask him who it was that burned the Parliament buildings in Montreal and rotten-egged the Governor-General Lord Elgin."

April 25 was the sixtieth anniversary of this incident in Canadian history—one that seems very remarkable indeed at this date. The Parliament buildings of Upper and Lower Canada were then temporarily situated at Montreal on what is now Youville Square. The Rebellion Losses Bill had been passed by the Liberal Government headed by Baldwin and Lafontaine, to the intense indignation of the Tory loyalists, leads by Sir Allan MacNabb. On April 25, 1849, the Earl of Elgin, then Governor-General, gave his assent to the bill, and the wildest scenes were [illegible] in consequence. A mob gathered, attacked the House [illegible] session, and burned the Parliament buildings. For several days there was a reign of terror [illegible]. Lord Elgin was received on the streets with jeers and volleys of stones and rotten eggs as he drove to the Government House to receive a Parliamentary address. The troops [illegible] by a [illegible] heads, finally [illegible] order, but the affair was not soon forgotten as a factor in Canadian politics.

Lady Aberdeen's Good Work.

One of the results of the [illegible] in Ireland of the Earl and Countess of Aberdeen is the great work for the promotion of public health [illegible] by Lady Aberdeen. The enormous increase in the death rate from tuberculosis within the last three decades, and the very high death rate among children, have awakened all classes in Ireland to the need of something preventative. Consequently a society for the promotion of public health, for the prevention of tuberculosis, and the preservation of child-life has been formed, in which all churches and parties have joined. Under the presidency of Her Excellency it has made great strides, and now consists of eight branches. It has established depots for modified milk, where pure milk prepared for children may be prepared, and has a traveling tuberculosis exhibition which goes about the country, giving health talks, and teaching the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis.

Lady Aberdeen will give a paper on Public Health at the Quinquennial Congress of the International Council of Women to be held in Toronto in June, and all who know of the work she has been doing in Ireland will be interested in what she has to say.

Market Garden of the West.

So heavy has been the demand for land on the Canadian Pacific irrigation block near Calgary, that an army of engineers has just been sent into the field to add another 600 miles of canals and ditch to the 1,600 miles already built. The total area of 3,000,000 acres will eventually require 3,000 miles of ditch, and at the present rate of progress should be filled up in ten years' time. By that date Calgary should be the most densely populated farming district in Canada, as the average unit of irrigated farms is 40 acres, compared with the average of 160 acres for non-irrigated land in Canada.

"Already All-Red."

The news of the shelving of the $5,000,000 All-Red Route scheme evidently has not damped the ardor of the Canadian Pacific, which sends us a pamphlet printed with the brightest of bright red covers, entitled, "The Already All-Red Route." It is, of course, well known that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy had little sympathy with the scheme advocated by Hon. Clifford Sifton, claiming that the speed and size of steamers on the Canadian route should grow with the trade, and not at the expense of the taxpayer.—Standard of Empire.

Fire swept the Quebec village of St. Francis and out of 24 dwellings only one remained,

THE BEAVER AT HOME.

Park Ranger Robinson Tells of Its Habits In the Wilds.

Old trappers tell us there are two kinds of beaver—the house beaver and the bank or lazy beaver, an outcast from respectable beaver society because he refuses to work, simply piling up a few sticks against an old root or stump for a house, says Park Ranger Mark Robinson of Algonquin Park in a recent article in Saturday Night. However, my companion and I discovered that there are two classes of the bank beaver, one being very industrious. They can be found in large numbers on North Muskoka river, where they dig subterranean passages from beneath the low water mark up into the high banks. In many instances small piles of sticks and brush, well covered with mud and moss, concealed the passage way as a protection from enemies and frost. On all the small streams entering North river the beaver have built houses, which causes many to ask how is it the river beaver do not do the same. The only reason I can give is that for a number of years timber drives have been taken down North river, and the logs would destroy all houses in the rush down stream. A couple of lessons have taught the beaver to dig into the bank and adapt himself to circumstances, as they do on the lakes along the Pettawawa river where for many years timbering has been going on, the water being constantly raised and lowered by means of timber dams. On the lakes between Burnt lake and Catfish lake can be seen beaver houses fully 40 feet in length extending from below low water mark to several feet above high water mark. Some of those houses are estimated to contain from ten to fifteen cords of peeled sticks, the bark being taken off for food, then the timber used in construction of the house.

I asked an old experienced trapper how it was that beaver families are said to number from two to six young, yet the most I had seen was three young around any dams I had watched. He replied that he had trapped hundreds of beaver both autumn and spring in the Park before it was a Park. He had studied all the native animals but had given the beaver extra study. He had found that at birth beaver families sometimes number as many as six, but only on one occasion had he seen four young survive. Almost always the number is two.

During the months of June and July the old beaver are selecting new places for dams, houses, etc. They usually leave the old house with the two-year-olds who have remained at the old home until that age, and, taking the younger flock, commence to build a new house and dam. This is usually completed by the end of August or early in September. Then commences the storing of wood for winter use. Small trees of various kinds are cut and brought to a quiet pool, the ends being forced into the mud if there is a soft bottom. If there is a solid rock bottom the brush is put in a pile and anchored in some way. The brush is not placed on top of the pile as many suppose, but the beaver is careful to always build his brush pile from the underneath side.

Eskimo Customs.

Although living among so many apparent disadvantages, and in so unkind a land, the Eskimo has a good conceit of himself, and holds his race to be the salt of the earth. This doctrine they uphold by a queer legend, according to which the Almighty first made different tribes of Indians and different nations of white men, but He was not pleased with them at all. At last He made the Eskimos, and then rested from His labors, perfectly satisfied. So they are the people of the earth. And surely, none but the hardiest, most courageous of the children of men could inhabit those bleak abandoned regions of the Far North, and survive its appalling tempests and freezing cold. Their history, so far as it can be pieced together, is extraordinarily brief, yet their language and legends are full of romantic interest.

The language of the Eskimo has only one remarkable peculiarity—there seems to be no limit to the length of a word. All manner of parts of speech may be joined to the verbal root, and this compound may be conjugated in all moods and tenses like a simple verb. When Rev. Mr. Peck, the Canadian missionary, first went among them, he devoted himself to the study of the uncouth tongue, and, after seven years of six hard, studious hours every day, he mastered the language and produced a grammar of 200 pages. Next, he transcribed portions of the Moravian Eskimo Testament into what is known as the syllabic character, a wonderful invention for simplifying the art of reading and writing for the Eskimos. As soon as the alphabet is conquered, the scholar—man or woman—can begin the first chapter of Genesis, and read on—slowly, of course, at first, but in a few days with surprising ease and accuracy.

Newspapers by Wireless.

The new long-distance Marconi apparatus is being installed in the Allan Line's turbine steamers Victorian and Virginian, and the passengers to and from Canada will thus be kept in touch throughout the voyage with the most important events happening all over the world. At the close of every day the news thus received will be collected and printed in the form of a newspaper, which is to bear the title of the "Allan Line Daily News."

Cost of the Kinrade Case.

Although no official figures are given out it is learned at the Attorney-General's Department that the cost to the province of the Kinrade case has been, so far, about $9,000, and this sum is not by any means the final total.

The expenses of the case have been unusually heavy; the detective agencies' bills alone being a big feature. It will not be known for some time just what the total cost will be.

STUDIES IN THRILLING LIVES

MORE LIFE SAVING STORIES

BY WILLIAM ALLEN JOHNSON

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

"YOU'LL find all kinds of men at the stations," said a grizzled old keeper, retired—without pay. "Some of 'em is ranters, with Bibles in their pockets, and some is cursers, with tobaccer in their cheeks; some sings psalms and some sings—other things; some is big and some is small; but there's one thing about all of 'em—and you'll forgive an old man for saying it, 'cause I'm out of it, y' know—there ain't no cowards among 'em!"

Which seems to be the truth.

About two years ago the department discovered, or thought it discovered, two—two out of two thousand—and they are gone from its lists forever.

This is how it happened:—

At the little harbor of Holland, Lake Michigan, there's a wide channel about one-third of a mile long leading from Lake Michigan into Black Lake.

At the Lake Michigan entrance the government saw fit to construct a breakwater, extending the channel pier ends out for a considerable distance, each in the shape of a letter L. The work had progressed somewhat on the northern arm, beginning with the outer end and leaving a gap of several hundred yards of water between the crib there and the shore.

One morning a heavy rain stopped the work, but the weather cleared about ten o'clock and several men went out with a scow load of planks. The weather, however, was so rough that they soon came back in their launch, leaving the scow behind.

The work should have stopped there for the day. But the government expects such contracts to be finished within a stipulated time, and the contractors were anxious. So later on five men went out again in the gasolene launch which was moored alongside the scow.

Only one of them is alive to-day.

Early in the afternoon the wind, which had been blowing off land, shifted suddenly to the southward, and then, with a few minutes of black, direful calm, broke with the force of a tornado.

The men, hurled helter-skelter about the crib, scrambled down to the launch, but the scow, tearing loose, swung beam about, caught the little boat by its nose and pitched the stern under water.

The men climbed back to the scow, and, realising that the bumping thing would soon be pounded to pieces, started back with a rush for the breakwater. Three men jumped and made it; two brothers, Tom and Ed Bennett, hesitated.

Jumped for Life.

"Jump! Quick!" yelled the elder brother, and Tom with a spring gained the breakwater. Climbing frantically up the longitudinal wall, he heard a cry of distress behind him and looked back. The pitching scow had struck a pile, swerved outward, and now the intervening breech was too great for a man to clear.

"Tom looked at me," said Ed Bennett, "and I looked at him. We couldn't speak. I said to myself, 'The boys are up there and I am the one who is going to be lost.' I was thinking the life saving crew would come out and get them."

So they thought, poor fellows; but when the rescue came the following day one man had utterly disappeared and the lifeless bodies of the other three were found jammed down in a corner of the crib. Ed Bennett, the man on the scow, drifted ashore in the night and was saved in a half frozen condition.

Now for the life savers' side of it.

The lookout in the tower of the station hard by saw the scow break loose and the spray dancing over the crib and reported to the keeper, "Those fellows are in danger. We must help them."

A surf boat was launched into the channel, but the great lake was racing in between the piers now, and against that inpouring flood it was next to impossible to make headway. They did gain the pier ends, but here the open waters, heaving high with the tornado's blast, whirled the boat around like a cockleshell.

They tried the breeches buoy apparatus then, crouching low or lying flat upon the pier, but the sturdy little cannon, the only gun that shoots to save, shot short of the mark, and the seething current, whipping out the lifeline, snapped it in two and carried it off.

There was the big lifeboat there, but it just happened to need vital repairs and was unsafe. They were unable to launch it until the morning following—too late.

They had better have gone out in it as it was, even though the venture meant death for them all, as it undoubtedly would have. For the service says every life guard is expected at all times to risk his life to save others. That's the hard and fast law, and every man accepts the grim decree when he enters the service—and lives up to it.

It is better for a captain to die than survive the loss of his ship and passengers. There's Captain Van Schaick, survivor of the Slocum horror, who is ending the closing years of his old age in Sing Sing, so broken a wreck that they must needs lift his feet over the threshold of his cell as he falters in and out. And there's Captain McVey, of the ill fated Larchmont, now hiding, sad eyed and morose, from the eyes of the world as mate of a Sound tugboat. The courts cleared him, legally, and he must keep working, for he has a family to support. Whether or not he and others in similar plight did their moral duty will never be known in this world, but I believe if you asked them you would find that each wishes he had gone down with his ship.

It is so with the life guard.

In Frantic Wrangling.

On the pier at Holland that night there were friends and relatives of the unfortunates out on the breakwater, and in the frantic wrangling that followed the failure of the Lyle gun, one surfman, stung past endurance by a slighting charge, bawled out:—"I'm not expected to risk my life when there's no chance of a rescue."

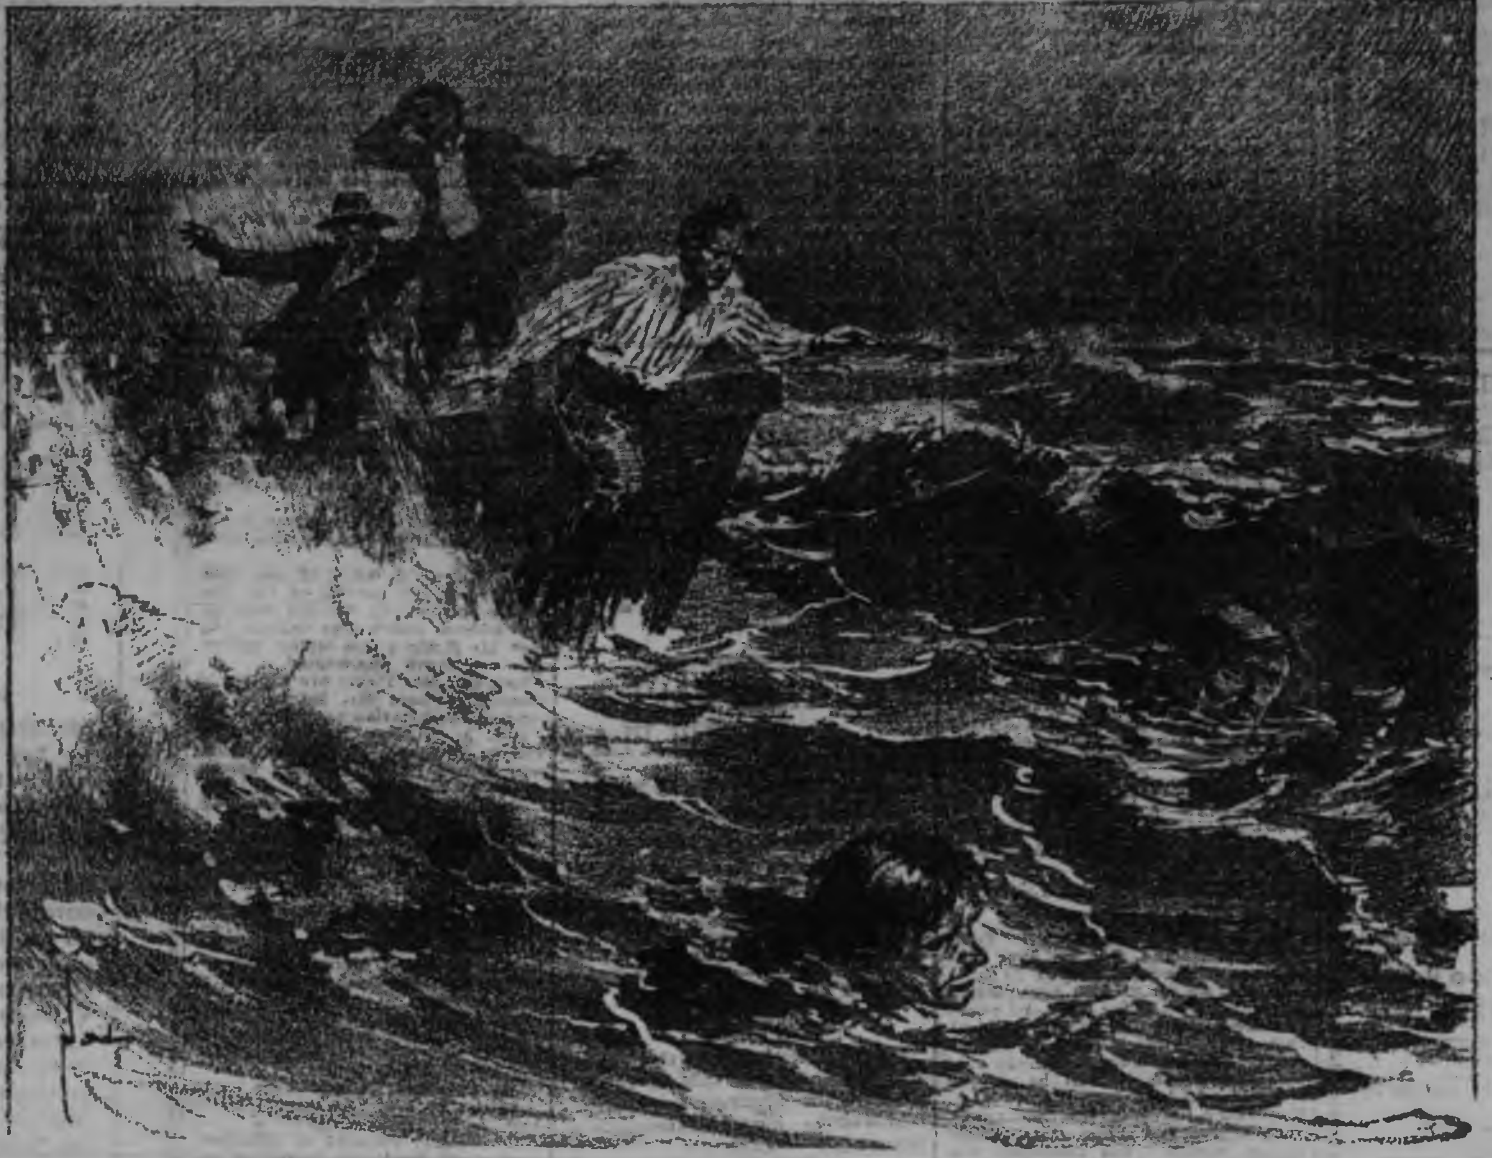
This surfman and the keeper were dismissed from the service and the rest of the crew were transferred to other stations to continue in a different atmosphere. The little station house at Holland was thus swept clean with a moral broom and a new crew installed to grapple with new risks. The department admits, however, that there was no hope of saving the men on the breakwater.

"I'm sort of leary of this bravery business," drawled the grizzled old keeper, a shrewd light in his watery blue eyes and a quizzical look on his weather beaten face.

"I've known a firing line and a band of music to make he-roes of men who haven't the nerve to pilot a ferryboat day in and out. And then I've known men I'd bank on, good men and true as steel, to go all to pieces up against a long run of danger just because they had a bad liver or bad nerves after a night out. Yep, you bet!

"I ain't got no love for 'quick' heroes. Know what I mean? The kind of feller I want to save my life and settle my estate—which I ain't got any—is the man who goes up against odds year in and out in his workaday life and never says a word about 'em. He'll do, every time, if he eats and sleeps well. You can have the other kind for your books and the-ayters.

"As for a life saver, I got this to say:—Let any man stand up in the service for one season and I'd never return no verdict of—of—this here cowardice against him—not against a well man. Nossir, not me!"



THREE MEN JUMPED AND MADE IT—TWO BROTHERS, "TOM" AND "ED" BENNETT, HESITATED.

And then I heard some details of a fight for life which seems to prove that there are other brave men besides gold medalists, and also that here and there in the obscure, colorless paths of life there are men who have failed of recognition in this world, but are quite sure to gain it in the next.

Some years ago the whole Atlantic seaboard was wracked with a terrific midwinter storm that lasted for four days and strewed the coast with wrecks. Near Cape Henlopen, Delaware, three life saving crews saved 194 persons from twenty-two stranded vessels.

Dangers of Fire Island.

Up Long Island way the temperature sank to twelve below zero and the gale reached a velocity of seventy miles an hour. Its fury was most intense in the region of Fire Island, where sixty ships have foundered in the last ten years.

One wild day of the storm a strange, phantomlike craft came pitching up the barren island coast off Lone Hill. A veritable iceberg she seemed. Her masts were barrel big with ice, her deck was a skating rink, her sails were frozen stiff and thick like boards, her running gear was frozen in the blocks.

She was the Louis V. Place, out of Baltimore, with a load of coal and a spent, half frozen crew. The skipper thought he was off Sandy Hook, took soundings, found eight fathoms of water and made desperate attempts to anchor. But the anchors were icebound, and as the wearied crew struggled painfully on the slippery deck the ship lurched suddenly and with an awful creaking and rending of timbers went to her destruction against the outer bar. The despairing, almost helpless crew climbed and pulled one another up to the mizzen rigging.

The men of the Lone Hill station were ten miles down the coast struggling with the wreck of the John B. Manning—all but one, the lookout, "Alf" Saunders. He saw the schooner founder and hurried to his halfway house, where he summoned by telephone the crews of the neighboring Blue Point and Point o' Woods stations.

They came plunging through the storm from each direction, and before the tired out crew of the Lone Hill station returned the work of rescue was on in deadly earnest.

Desperate work it was. The mighty combers cast their spray clear over the shore ridge, which is thirty feet from the water at ebb tide and thirty feet above it. The snow fell in squally sheets, blinding the eyes of the men and obscuring the wreck for hours at a time.

Surfboat and lifeboat were useless, for the water away off shore was jammed thick with porridge ice. There was work for the Lyle gun and breeches buoy, for the foundered vessel lay only four hundred yards out, and the first shot, aimed true, cast the whipline straight across the bow. There it hung till they pulled it back, for the crew in the rigging were either frozen fast to the ropes or too chilled to clamber down and stand on the skating rink of a deck. Then a dense snow squall came up and obscured the wreck for two hours. When it cleared they counted two less men in the rigging.

That night a bright fire was kept burning—a beacon of hope to the wretched souls they could not aid—and the men watched eagerly, silently, prayerfully, for a rift in the ice. The lifeboat was ready for instant launching.

The next day was but a repetition of the first. Time and time again the lifeline was shot fair across the deck, but all to no avail. And one by one the men dropped down from the rigging, like frozen apples, and into the sea.

Times That Try Men's Souls.

These are the times that try men's souls. "Some of 'em prayed," said the old keeper solemnly, "on their knees and out loud. Some of 'em cried like women." For forty long, wretched hours they watched and groaned over their impotence as now and then their straining eyes saw a black object slip quietly out of the icy rigging and straight down to the sea. "Droppin', droppin'," repeated the old keeper, "always droppin'—jes' like frozen apples. When it was all over and the Cap'n got home to his wife and babies he went into deliriums and nigh lost his mind over them droppin' things. He could see 'em all over again, and he screamed like a woman in mortal pain."

At the close of the second day there were two men left and only one showed signs of life. This man from the first was never quiet. Slowly and methodically he kept his arms swinging, pummelling the man next to him, whom he had lashed to a spar, whipping his body all over with a rope and stopping only now and then to lash his own freezing legs.

Twice they saw him do superhuman things.

When the mizzenmast seemed about to fall he got his mate down from his perilous perch, shoved him on hands and knees across that icy, careening deck and lashed him to the mainmast. And once he clambered down, inch by inch, and struggled with the lifeline till it slipped through his weak arms and threw him flat upon the deck.

These were the two men rescued at the fortieth hour—after a desperate trip with the lifeboat. The helpless one died next day in the hospital, where they cut off his legs, which were frozen solid in his boots. The man who had labored so to save him recovered quickly.

He had very little to say—simply that his name was William Stevens and the dead man was his "bunkie." They were Yorkshire lads, born in the same little village, and had always sailed together. He helped bury his mate, scrawled a letter home, and then, thanking each member of the station crew in awkward, homely fashion, he pulled his old cap down over his eyes and went away to hunt another fo'c'sle.

"And I suppose you never heard of him," said the old keeper sarcastically. "Too bad! Wouldn't he 'a' made a fine vawdeville actor?"

Relation of Feet to the Appetite.

WHEN Waiter No. 16 made his fourth trip to the kitchen with an underdone cutlet, the proprietor himself got out of patience.

"That's the trouble," said the proprietor to a friend, "with those people who eat with their feet wrapped around the leg of the chair. It is impossible to please them. Things are either cooked too much or not enough, or else they are not seasoned right. The kinks in their mind correspond with the kinks in their feet. If the Angel Gabriel would drop down into the kitchen and go to cooking they'd kick.

"It's queer, anyway, how closely related a man's feet are to his appetite. They are the index to his general disposition. If a man has any bad habits or nasty turns of temper that he does not want me to find out about he had better hide his feet. It is by them that I read character—not by the shape or the size or the make or the shoes, but by the way a man holds his feet while eating.

A DISPOSITION TO TAKE THINGS EASY

"For instance, I particularly distrust the man who props his left foot up on the tips of his toes and folds his right foot across the heel. One of the meanest men I ever knew arranged his feet just that way at the table. One evening he brought two young women to a suburban restaurant of which I was the manager. They drove up, but the man wouldn't allow the horse to be stabled.

"He ordered a fairly good dinner, but he didn't seem to get much enjoyment out of it. Apparently he had that horse on his mind, for every few minutes he would excuse himself and step out to see if the animal was all right. Well, once when he went out he forgot to come back. He just jumped into that rig and drove away, leaving those two women sitting there, five miles from home, with no car fare and an unpaid dinner bill on their hands.

"Then there is the fellow who lolls back in his chair, stretches his feet out straight in front of him and shows a disposition to take things easy. I have a grudge against him, too. It goes without saying that he is lazy. He eats slowly, drinks moderately, talks incessantly, and sits at the table long enough to eat three big dinners. He takes up room and time that properly belong to other patrons, who also would undoubtedly appreciate good service.

"The biggest eaters I meet sit with their knees crossed. They are not hard to please. They disdain all culinary frills. They want rare meat and vegetables, mostly, and finish up with plenty of strong coffee. I feel sorry for the man with the cross kneed habit if ever he strikes a table built too low for the doubling up process. He can't eat. He may have an appetite whetted by hours of fasting, but unless he can square around and make room to cross himself he is obliged to forego the joy of dining. But when he does finally get fixed, look out.

THE BIGGEST EATERS SIT WITH THEIR KNEES CROSSED

"People who sit with both feet balanced on the tips of the toes are light eaters. They run chiefly to salads and fancy sweets. Incidentally, they are nervous and stingy.

"The fellow that makes a fad of freak meals reverses the tiptoe movement and goes in for heel action. His preparations for a meal consist of digging both heels into the floor and pointing his toes skyward. Then he proceeds to order. About that time look out for surprises. The heeler is an ingenious chap. He hits upon some outlandish combinations.

"On the other hand, there are people who shirk the responsibility of ordering. Just to examine the menu card brings on an attack of gooseflesh. They are bashful and leave everything to the waiter. By their feet shall ye also know these timid souls. They are retiring feet and crawl as far back as possible under the chair. I wouldn't advise any girl to marry a man whose feet continually crept out of sight that way. He'd treat her well, no doubt, but he would lack push, and the chances are that before they had been married five years she would have to hustle around and earn the living.

"The man to tie to sets his feet down flat, directly before him, and keeps them so while eating. He doesn't adopt the flat footed standard because some writer on etiquette tells him he ought to, but because he is a square man who does things in a square, straightforward way. A man who plants his feet like that knows what to eat and how to eat it, and he rarely kicks."

John Tabb, Priest-Poet, Has Gone Blind

FATHER JOHN BANISTER TABB, famed as the poet of the Catholic Church, and one of the sweetest singers in the English language, has gone blind. He now sits in darkness at St. Charles' College, near Ellicott City, and eminent physicians have said there is no hope.

So far as the fame of Father Tabb as a poet is concerned, even though he writes no more and no greater poems, he is entitled to lasting fame for his brief epitome of "Evolution," which is life and the resurrection in itself:—

Out of the dust a shadow,
  Then, a spark;
Out of the cloud a silence,
  Then, a lark;
Out of the heart a rapture,
  Then, a pain;
Out of the dead, cold ashes
  Life again!

Just as he was about to enter the portals, in the estimation of critics, light was suddenly denied him, and he gropes about in darkness. May it not be that through his physical loss the spiritual vision will become keener? May it not be that the poet's soul, unhampered by the distraction of material things, shall, through its loftier perception, yet the better lead men upward and into the beauties of those spiritual things which it is permitted but few men to see? Is there not a touch of prophecy in these lines of his, written before his affliction came:—

Ah, if my grief his guerdon be,
  My dark his light,
I count each loss felicity,
  And bless the night.

Who knows but that blindness has come upon him in order that he might reach greater poetic heights, like blind Milton, of whom he wrote:—

So fair thy vision that the night
Abided with thee, lest the light,
A flaming sword before thine eyes,
Had shut thee out from Paradise.

The blindness of Father Tabb is a pathetic thing, for he is shut off from a sight of the things he loved with a passionate devotion. St. Charles' College is in the midst of surpassing beauty. An old and quaint granite structure, with its lofty minarets, it is in itself a pile to inspire holy thoughts, while the campus in the foreground is in the spring and summer months a garden spot, with its spacious green lawns glowing with the gold and crimson of carefully cultivated flowers. Adjacent are the woods, abounding in nooks to invite a poet's meditation, while nearby are the eternal hills, verdured in the summer months with growing green and radiant in the autumn with the burnished gold of changing leaf.

It was from such environment that Father Tabb drew much of his inspiration. It was his custom to wander forth early in the morning, while the dewdrops yet glistened on the grass, led and allured by flower or bird or fern. It was here that he observed the butterfly—

Leafless, stemless, floating flower,
From a rainbow's scattered bower.

Or the mocking bird—

Heart that cannot sleep for song.

The humming bird he saw as

A flash of harmless lightning,
A mist of rainbow dyes.

He claimed brotherhood with the violet in the following lines:—

And dreamest thou, sweet violet,
  That I, the vanished star,
The dewdrop and the morning sun
  Thy closest kinsmen are?
So near that, waking or asleep,
  We each and all thy image keep?

His idealization of the flower is summarized in his poem "Blossom":—

For this the fruit, for this the seed,
  For this the parent tree;
The least to man, the most to God—
  A fragrant mystery,
Where love, with beauty glorified,
  Forgets utility.

Blindness began to fall upon the poet last December, since which time the darkness has become deeper and deeper. Bitter as the blow is, Father Tabb remains philosophic and cheerful, bearing his cross with true Christian courage. When it became evident that sight was leaving him he wrote this poem, which is remarkable for its philosophic acceptance of a condition which is to most men worse than death itself:—

GOING BLIND.

Back to the primal gloom
  Where life began,
As to my mother's womb,
  Must I, a man,
    Return.
Not to be born again,
  But to remain,
And in the School of Darkness learn what mean
  "The things unseen."

Father Tabb shuns publicity as the violet shrinks from sunlight. Modesty is the leading characteristic of the man. It is said of him that so retiring is his disposition that when high church dignitaries have suddenly visited the college he has been known to run away from the table and hide. In response to a request for an interview he returned the kindly meant answer:—"I would rather submit to an operation for appendicitis." Thus he expressed his abhorrence of publicity. His kindly intent, however, is indicated by the following signed verse which he penned to the interviewers:—

TO A PROPOSED INTERVIEW.

An interview would be to me
  A species of emetic,
Or an appendix to be cut
  Without an anaesthetic.
And why expose to public view
  A man's intestine features?
'Tis outwardly alone we look
  Unlike our fellow creatures.

Such is the modesty of the man who claims no distinction over other men.

By birth Father Tabb is a Virginian. He was before taking holy orders a Confederate soldier and, as he sometimes styles himself, "an unreconstructed rebel." He was a fellow prisoner of the poet Sidney Lanier at Point Lookout during the [illegible] war.

NORWOOD

Special to the Review.

Norwood, June 9.—Miss E. Beavis, of Peterborough, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. J. Laing, Peterborough street.

Miss M. McLaughlin was in Peterborough Saturday.

Miss Georgie Young, of Toronto, is visiting her parents here.

Mrs. Bert has returned after visiting friends in Toronto.

Miss A. Peters visited friends in Peterborough last week.

Mrs. T. Eppick, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with her father, Mr. W. H. Tucker.

Misses Katie Wallace and Annie Rabal visited in Hastings on Wednesday last.

Miss Rose Davidson, of Havelock, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Swain, of Havelock, spent Sunday visiting at Mr. W. R. Howson on Sunday.

Mrs. C. J. Searight is visiting her daughter, Mrs. I. D. Moore, in Peterborough.

Mr. H. Pakenham and Miss McNaughton of Campbellford, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pakenham, Belmont street

Mrs. Breault left on Monday morning for Brooklyn, N.Y., where she will spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. A. Brennan, of that place.

Mr. Fred Beavis, who has been in Winnipeg for the last two years, is visiting his uncle, Mr. Stan. Hendren.

EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT.

The entertainment held under the auspices of the Mission Band in the Sunday school room on Thursday evening, June 3rd, was a decided success, the band realizing about twelve dollars. Mr John, elocutionist, of Peterborough, was heard with much interest, and Miss Tate, of Hastings, gave a solo, which was enjoyed very much by all. At the close of the programme Mrs. Adams, who was a very willing worker in the Band, and who is about to leave us, was presented with a beautiful silver fern pot and cake tray. In a few words Mrs. Adams expressed her gratitude to the members of the Band.

A WEDDING.

The marriage took place on Tuesday morning at St. Paul's church of Miss Katie McCarthy and Mr. M. McGowan, of the "Don," Toronto. After the ceremony, which was conducted by Rev. Father Conway, the guests repaired to the home of the bride, where a dainty dinner was served. The happy couple left on the 4.08 train amid showers of confetti and good wishes. The bride travelled in "taupe" suite with large black hat.

Mrs. Keefer, of New York, is visiting her son, Mr. G. Keefer, of this place.

The band gave their first open air concert on Friday evening last.

Mr. B. M. Robertson left last week for Gravenhurst, where he has secured a good position.

Miss Mollie Johnston, of Havelock, was in town on Sunday.

There will be union services held here next Sunday, the morning service being held in the Presbyterian church, and the evening service in Methodist church. Rev. G. A. McLennan will preach at both services.

Mr. S. Hendren has the cement pillars of his new verandah erected. He will be delayed for a few days waiting for the carpenters, but when the work is completed the verandah will add greatly to the appearance of the street and his house.

A crowd of our young people were entertained at Mrs. Anderson's home

Mr. B. Beavis, of Hastings, was in town on Friday.

The people of Norwood are quite pleased to hear that we are to have an agricultural school here, to be opened the beginning of next term. Mr. Duff, the gentleman engaged by the Board of Education to instruct the school, was in town last week.

"John Dough," "Moon Moon, Moon," "Mazie," "Beautiful Isle of Bon Bon," are a few of the very catchy songs in "The Gingerbread Man." Plan opens to-morrow morning.

LINDSAY BOARD OPENED JUNE 21

The Lindsay cheese market opens on Monday, June 21st, when the cheese for the first half of June will be boarded.

THE FORDS STAY WITH THE RACE

In Transcontinental Trip for the Guggenheim Trophy

Ald. J. J. Duffus, of the firm of Drummond & Duffus, local agents for the Ford Motor Cars, has received the following letter from the head office of the Ford Motor Company;—

Ald. J. J. Duffus,
Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—As you are probably aware, the Transcontinental Trip for the Guggenheim Trophy started June 1st.

The only cars starting were two Fords, an Itala 45 h.p., an Acme, 50 h.p. and a Shawmut. Some fifteen odd cars entered, but owing to bad weather and the fact that the pathfinder was unable to get through the mountains and had to be shipped back, several of them withdrew using as an excuse the fact that the manufacturers were opposed to any such contests with the result that only five started.

These cars ran together as far as Buffalo, where they ran into a very heavy rainstorm, and the two Fords reached Toledo from Buffalo about five hours in advance. Sunday they reached Chicago about seven hours in advance of the other cars. The Ford cars in each case have been ahead of schedule, notwithstanding very bad road conditions.

This morning we are in receipt of the following telegram;—

"Arrived at St. Louis one two, 23 hours from Chicago. No other cars. Roads the limit. Cars and drivers stood it fine. Now for Seattle."

We will advise you from day to day as to the progress of the trip.

From reports which have already been sent out in the "Ford Times" you will understand that from New York to St. Louis the cars were only allowed to go a certain distance each day, but from St. Louis to Seattle it will be one constant driving to see how soon cars can reach there

HOMING PIGEONS TO BE RELEASED

2000 to 3000 Will be Liberated at Midland on June 19th

An interesting event will take place at Midland, Ont, on June 19th when it is proposed by the Atlantic Combine, an up to date organization for racing pigeons for pools and prizes to release about 2000 to 3000 birds at that point. These comprise 300 to 400 lofts that will compete in the contest and the birds will be shipped from Portland, Maine; Boston, Mass. New York, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other points in the United States. The liberation will be effected between 5 and 6 a.m. on June 19th as near the earlier hour as possible so as to give all birds an opportunity to reach their lofts by night—in some cases 500 miles distant. In the event of unfavorable day. Unfavorable weather would be rain or fog, brisk south, southeast or southwest winds.

There will be considerable prize money divided among the sections that will compete. It is the intention of the Combine to fly about two races yearly if this one should prove successful. The idea of the Combine race is new to America and was taken from England where it has been in operation for many years with ever increasing popularity. Last year's entries in England ran over 7000 birds and many thousands of dollars were paid in pools and prizes. This flight will be of interest to the people of Ontario and as the birds will fly direct to their several homes, it is possible that many will be seen by those who watch for them.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Y.W.C.A. girls are making preparations to entertain a large number at their garden party next Tuesday evening. The lawn will be prettily decorated and ice cream, strawberries and home-made cake and candy will be served from dainty tables. This evening is free for all to enjoy. The proceeds from the refreshments will go to placing new books in the library, which is for the use of all association members. Do not forget to call on the young ladies on Tuesday evening, June 15th.

The Cataraqui bridge at Kingston is to be rebuilt.

NEXT TWENTY MONTHS TO BE CRITICAL TIME

For British Empire Says Lord Roberts in Addressing Press Conference

Special to the Review.

London, June 9—The next twenty months will be a critical time for British Empire, declared Lord Roberts, addressing the Imperial Press Conference this morning. Military training did not inculcate the spirit of militarism he maintained. It had made him a man of peace. Arthur Balfour said the signs of the times justified a note of anxiety. The coming struggle would take place in the German Ocean, English Channel or Mediterranean.

On protest of Rev. J. A. MacDonald, Toronto, the solution urging universal training in all overseas Dominions was withdrawn.

NOT CHANGED BUT GLORIFIED

At the conclusion of the church service of the late Wm. Fowler at St. Andrew's church Monday afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Potter quoted the following lines that had been forwarded by Mr. Fowler's nephew, Mr. W. T. Lillico, Toronto—

Not changed but glorified! Oh, beauteous language,
For those who weep,
Mourning the loss of some dear face departed—
Fallen asleep;
Hushed into silence, never more to comfort
the hearts of men
Gone, like the sunshine to another country,
Beyond our ken.

O, dearest dead, we saw thy white soul shining,
Behind the face.
Bright with the beauty and celestial glory
Of an immortal grace.
What wonder we stumble, faint and weeping,
And sick with fears.
Since thou has left us—all alone in sorrow,
And blind with tears.

Can it be possible no words shall welcome
Our coming feet!
How will it look, that face that we have cherished
When next we meet?
Will it be changed, so glorified and saintly
That we shall know it not?
Will there be nothing that will say: I love thee
And I have not forgot?

O, faithless heart, the same loved face transfigured,
Shall meet me there.
Less sad, less wistful in immortal beauty,
Divinely fair.
The mortal veil washed pure with many weepings,
Is rent away;
And the great soul that sat within its prison
Hath found the day.

In the clear morning of that other country,
In paradise,
With the same face, that we have loved and cherished.
He shall rise!
Let us be patient, we who mourn, with weeping,
Some vanished face?
The Lord has taken but to add more beauty,
And a Divine grace.

And we shall find once more, beyond earth's sorrows,
Beyond these skies,
In the fair city of the "sure foundations"
Those heavenly eyes.
With the same welcome shining through their sweetness,
That met us here;
Eyes, from whose beauty God has banished weeping,
And wiped away the tear.

Think of us, dearest one, while o'er life's waters
We seek the land,
Missing thy voice, thy touch, and the true helping
Of thy pure hand.
Till through the storm and tempest safely anchored,
Just on the other side,
We find thy dear face looking through death's shadows;
Not changed, but glorified.

PETERBORO'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterborough a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin running; simply this, more families will of necessity move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase in other words prosperity is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city. ¶ People who are contemplating purchasing homes will do well to see J. IMPERIAL DEFENCE IS A MATTER FOR ANXIETY

Leader of Opposition Addresses Press Conference in London—Roberts is Pessimistic—Rev. J. A. Macdonald Vigorously Opposes Resolution Regarding Military Training for Whole Empire.

London, June 10.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Imperial Press Congress resumed its discussion on imperial defence yesterday morning. Hon. A. J. Balfour presided, and Lord Roberts and Hon. R. Haldane were present.

A grave note was again emphasized in the speeches of the home statesmen. Mr. Balfour declared all local defence, though it was necessary, was subordinate to imperial defence and subordinate from the viewpoint of the particular localities themselves, not from the viewpoint of the Empire only.

Dealing first with the military aspect of the question he laid down two propositions; first, all forces of the oversea states should be under the control of those states; second, they should be organized on a common basis. Respecting the navy he would not regard as useless any local attempt at naval defence, but anything in the nature of coastal protection should be rigidly subordinate to fleet action. The fate of the Empire would be dependent upon fleet superiority, and that superiority must be shown in home waters.

If there were to be an Armageddon, it would take place in the German Ocean, the English Channel, or perhaps the Mediterranean. Mr. Balfour continued:

"Anybody who reads the signs of the times will, I think, agree with the weighty words of Lord Rosebery and Sir Edward Grey, and will recognize that no man can now speak of imperial defence without some note of anxiety — not panic; there is no question of panic, but we have to look round at the gathering forces and armaments of possible foes and the strategic import of possible combinations, and everyone will recognise that the language of the Foreign Secretary is language unusual in the mouths of foreign secretaries, and does not go beyond the necessity of the situation."

Mr. Balfour next humorously, remarked that the British nation was fond of saying about itself that it was not a nation it used to be. In this regard, however, he looked forward, not perhaps without anxiety, but with high, cheerful courage towards the dangers which might menace the Empire, but he urged that responsibility lay upon all.

J. S. Brierly of Montreal assured the conference that Canada was willing to take her share in imperial defence consistent with the maintenance of her autonomy. These two elements were not inconsistent. He expressed pleasure at the full recognition of the home statesmen that the oversea states must be allowed full control of their own affairs. Brierly combatted the idea that Canada had been lacking on the matter of imperial defence.

Mr. Haldane addressed himself particularly to the necessity for homogeneity in the military forces of the Empire with due regard to local needs and local control, and said the next twenty years would be critical years in the history of the Empire.

Lord Roberts thought the next 20 months, not years, would be an important time for the Empire, and the situation demanded the closest attention of all patriotic men. The question is whether we had the spirit and foresight to maintain our Empire. The growth of the oversea states in wealth made them objects of the envy of other nations. We must be prepared for a common effort and common sacrifice.

He desired to correct one idea prevalent overseas, namely, that preparation for defence meant the inculcation of the spirit of militarism. His long soldier's life had made him a man of peace, but the discipline which made a man a competent defender of his country equipped him best for rival duties.

Delegate Fink moved and Mark Cohen seconded a resolution, considering it essential that in each self-governing dominion a systematic universal training of the male population should be strenuously advocated. J. St. Loe Strachey and Leopold Amery of The Times proposed an amendment to include Britain in the scope of the resolution, which produced a warm protest from J. A. Macdonald of Toronto.

He said it was a subject with which the conference had nothing to do. Let each dominion decide what was best for it. For Canadians to advocate what was urged upon them would hurt imperial interests in Canada. Canada need not say it was loyal; it offended him to hear men ask that. There was enough loyalty in Toronto alone to stock a whole dominion.

Let them urge upon their people the importance of the militia and the importance of the fleet. The navy to be one, the fleets to be as many as the Empire would provide. There need be no doubt once it was made plain that a crisis had arrived. Laurier, a French-Canadian Roman Catholic, had declared he would stump Quebec in defence of the Empire if necessary. In saying that he voiced the sentiment of the Dominion. Mr. Macdonald also hinted that some British journalists might refrain from scares.

Concluding, and speaking for himself and other Canadians, he begged that they be not asked to vote on the resolution.

Mr. Balfour intimated that the resolution be withdrawn, which was done with the unanimous assent of the conference.

LATEST NEWS AS TOLD IN DESPATCHES

Castro Plots a Rebellion.

New York, June 10.—It is learned that U. S. Secret Service men, at the instance of and closely co-operating with diplomatic representatives of Venezuela, are exerting every effort to apprehend the directing heads of an extensive filibustering project to smuggle 31,000 rifles into the South American republic, with the evident intention of arming as many men there for an uprising in the interests of Cipriano Castro, the former President.

Another Alderman Accused.

Montreal, June 10.—Formal complaint was made yesterday at the royal commission charging Ald. M. Martin, M.P., of using his position as alderman and member of the police committee to increase the sale of cigars, of which he is manufacturer, by promising saloonkeepers who purchased them he would use his influence to see the police were not too zealous in watching them. The charge will be investigated.

Town Surrounded by Fire.

St. John, N.B., June 10.—At midnight last night word reached St. John that the village of Bath is surrounded by flames and will be utterly wiped out. This place contains about 1,000 inhabitants. Fire engines are being rushed to the scene from Woodstock, Perth and Andover, but it is feared the town is doomed.

The New Potentate.

Louisville, Ky., June 10.—George L. Street of Richmond, Pa., was yesterday advanced from deputy imperial potentate to imperial potentate at the business meeting of the Knights of Mystic Shrine. He succeeds Edwin I. Alderman of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Didn't Prove the Magistrate.

Brampton, June 10.—Farrell, the Streetsville hotelkeeper, was discharged yesterday on a perjury charge because the crown failed to prove that Magistrate Crawford, before whom the offence was committed, was a duly accredited officer.

U. S. Wool Duties.

Washington, June 10.—By a vote of 40 to 30 the Senate yesterday adopted the finance committee's amendment restoring the Dingley rate of 30 cents a pound on wool top waste and other wastes. The House rate was 20 cents. This vote is regarded as a test vote on all amendments to that schedule.

To Ban Licenseholders.

Edmonton, Alta., June 10.—The report of the temperance and moral reform committee was adopted by the Methodist Conference yesterday. It set forth that prohibition is the only solution of the liquor traffic and members will do their utmost to elect tempearnce men to the next Legislature. A request will be made to the Government for a local option law and abolition of intoxicants at clubs.

An effort will be made to prohibit licenseholders securing a seat in municipal councils or in the Legislature.

Killed by Upsetting of Buggy.

Delhi, June 10.—Tuesday night, while John Ferguson of Delhi and Mr. Ellison of Langton were returning home from Walsingham Centre, the horse shied while turning a corner on the road and upset the buggy, throwing the occupants out. Ferguson was instantly killed, but Ellison escaped without injury. Ferguson was in the fire and life insurance business for many years.

Object to Sunday Trains.

Kingston, June 10.—In the Synod of Ontario Diocese, observance of the Lord's Day was discussed, and the fact deplored that people are not giving men Sunday rest. The Lord's Day Alliance and the chairman of the railway committee will be complained to. Clergymen will urge people not to use Sunday trains.

Sues Chief Justice.

Toronto, June 10.—Because Sir William Ralph Meredith refused a writ of habeas corpus to Frank Miller, a prisoner in the jail, J. B. Mackenzie, Miller's lawyer, yesterday issued a writ against the chief justice, claiming $500 penalty under an imperial statute of Charles the Second.

A Police Shake Up.

Brockville, June 10.—A majority of the police committee have recommended the appointment of Wm Rankin, magistrate, of Napanee, formerly of Port Hope and Cobourg, as chief of police, and that Chief Burke be made sergeant.

Imperial Defence Demands Attention

HON. A. J. BALFOUR.

TELEGRAPHERS LOSE THEIR CASE

Toronto, June 10.—The board of arbitrators, before whom the dispute between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the company's telegraphers was argued in Montreal last week, has completed its finding. It is understood that both cases were decided in favor of the company.

The telegraphers wanted an operator, who had failed to notify a station which a train was soon due to pass, and who had given the trainmen their orders to proceed, the result of which was a collision, reinstated.

They also wanted a man who had been promoted from the position of chief despatcher to the position of trainmaster and who had been injured and then put back in the despatchers' office, removed, because his return necessitated the stepping down of the men who had been promoted.

BLACKHAND TO BE EXPOSED

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 10.—Operations in nearly every large city in the United States and the ramifications of the secret service in Italy will be laid bare, it is expected, when the blackhand game, which was rounded up on Tuesday in Columbus and Marion, Ohio, by postoffice inspectors of Cincinnati, are brought to trial.

They show, the officers assert, that hundreds of Italian business men have been paying tribute to the blackhand to secure immunity from death or torture at the hands of members of the society. The names of many active members of the blackhand, together with the names of hundreds of their victims, are in possession of the officers.

G.T.P Not Disgruntled..

Ottawa, June 10.—Hon. Mr. Parent, chairman of the National Transcontinental Railway Commission, denies that the cost of the Port Arthur to Winnipeg section has tripled the estimate, as reported, but there has been an extra $6,000 per mile spent.

The G.T.P. officials at Montreal also absolutely deny the Winnipeg story of dissatisfaction on their part.

Bad Fire In Quebec.

Quebec, June 10.—Fire yesterday did $100,000 damage in St. Roch's district. The heaviest losers are the Belland & Gignac lumber mills, Parisian Corset Co., both practically destroyed. Twenty or thirty houses were burned. All the houses on Lallement street, from Dorchester to Pion, and the leather factory at Caron street, were burned.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Plans are afoot for the reorganization of the Chicago Great Western Railroad Co.

The town of Korinchi, Sumatra, was devastated by an earthquake and 250 persons killed.

Mrs. Peter Lantz of Berlin, Ont., committed suicide by cutting her throat with a razor.

The perjury charge against James Farrell, the Streetsville hotelkeeper, was dismissed on a technicality.

The Russian Douma has accused Dr. Dubrovin, president of the League of Russian People, of organizing political murders.

Thomas Marshall of St. Andrew's, N.B., committed suicide by throwing himself into a well, although his wife tried to hold him back.

At a special meeting of the shareholders of the Lake Superior Corporation at Camden, N.J., two new directors were elected to represent London interests.

At the General Sessions at Hamilton Mrs. Whitehorn lost a suit on a policy against the Canadian Guardian Co. because ten cents of the premium was unpaid.

CANADIAN SOO LOCK DAMAGED AS RESULT OF SMASH-UP

Marine Traffic May be Interrupted for a Month as a Result of the Most Serious Accident That Ever Happened at the Soo—S. S. Perry G. Walker Crashes Into Gates and is Wrecked by Assiniboia.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 10.—The Canadian Soo locks were practically put out of commission yesterday afternoon by one of the worst accidents that ever happened in marine circles in the Soo or vicinity.

At the present time, water from Lake Superior is pouring through the locks in a torrent, and it will probably be a month before the locks are again available for the marine trade. The overflow of water threatens to wash out the piers at the foot of the locks.

Three boats, the Assiniboia of the C.P.R. line, the Perry G. Walker of the Gilchrist fleet, and the Crescent City, all figured in the accident.

At two yesterday afternoon the Assiniboia was in the locks, bound down, followed by the Crescent City, which had not yet entered the upper gate. The Walker was coming up the river, presumably to lock through on an up trip.

Just as the Crescent was entering the canal, and before the gates could be closed at the upper end, the Walker crashed into the lower gates, breaking them and allowing the Assiniboia and Crescent to rush down with the overflow of water.

The Assiniboia missed the Walker, barely grazing her side, but the Crescent dashed into her and received a hole in her side six feet square. The Walker also was considerably damaged.

The Crescent and Assiniboia proceeded to the Michigan side. The Assiniboia seems to have suffered minor injuries, while the Crescent is now lying on bottom. The Walker reached the centre of the river and grounded, and was later towed to the Michigan side by two tugs.

The entire town was excited last evening over the accident, and hundreds have visited the canal. Water is pouring through in a torrent, and unless the flow is stopped soon property below the canal will suffer.

When the boats came down after the accident they traveled at 15 miles per hour through the lock and it is a miracle that they escaped as easily as they did. Had the Assiniboia turned turtle in the locks not a passenger would have escaped.

A movable dam at the head of the locks is being placed in position in an endeavor to have the locks repaired but since it has not yet been tried there is some doubt as to its effectiveness. The four large gates have been swept away, and there remain only the frail emergency gates, which are not of much use, providing the dam refuses to work.

EXTENSIVE REPAIRS TO GUNS OF 24TH BATTERY BEING MADE BY SERGT. WORTH

Armament Quartermaster Sergeant T. Worth, of the subordinate staff, Kingston, is in the city making repairs to the guns of the 24th Battery. He is accompanied by an assistant and they will be engaged in their work here for a few days.

The battery has four guns at their quarters at the armouries and they will be thoroughly overhauled and the necessary repairs made to them.

Sergeant Worth was seen by the Review at the Crown Hotel to-day and informed the reporter concerning the nature of the work he is doing. New brackets for the guard irons are being put on the guns and new clips and spikes also. The work of relieving the hand spike from the case is also being performed. A general overhauling of the tire brakes is taking place and quite a bit of repairing will have to be done in connection with this. All the carriers for the shells have to be relieved, as also have the ammunition wagon carriers and limbers. This is on account of the shells being made a little longer than heretofore.

Before coming here Sergeant Worth made extensive repairs to the battery guns at London. He will go direct to Kingston from Peterborough.

HAVELOCK MAN HIT BY CAR

C. Donnelly, C.P.R. Section Foreman, Severely Injured in Toronto Yesterday

Special to the Review.

Havelock, June 9—Mr C. Donnelly, C.P.R. section foreman on the Havelock division, who went to Toronto this morning, was knocked down by a street car at the corner of Yonge and Queen streets today at 1.30 and sustained severe cuts and bruises about the face and shoulders.

Mr. Donnelly left Havelock this morning to visit his daughter who is in the hospital in that city. He was coming down from the hospital and alighted from a southbound car at the corner of Yonge and Queen Sts. and crossed the tracks behind it when he was hit by one coming in the opposite direction.

He was assisted to St. Michael's hospital by a policeman where his injuries received medical aid.

AN ACCIDENT IN SAWMILL

Man Struck by Slab and Injuries May be Serious—Mr. Davidson of Marmora the Victim.

Special to the Review.

Havelock, June 9—Little's saw mill at Blairton was the scene of a slight accident today. Mr. Davidson, of Marmora was taking the slabs away from the saw when one flew forcibly out coming with severe force against the side of his chest, whereby injuring him, but to what extent, could not be ascertained at the time but it is feared that he has received internal injuries as a short time after the accident he began to spit up blood.

CONTRIBUTION BOX IS ROBBED

Sacrilege Committed at Roman Catholic Church at Hastings

Hastings, June 10.—Last week some miscreant, as yet unknown, broke open and robbed one of the contribution boxes in the Church of Mt. Carmel. This is the second time the box has been robbed and will likely necessitate closing the church earlier in the evening.

STATE OF WORKERS IN HOME FIELDS DISCUSSED

Rev. A. McLaren of Medicine Hat Says Young Ministers Are Only Getting a Small Part of Their Salaries—Better System of Paying the Preachers in the Northwest is Demanded — Quakers Want to Join.

Hamilton, June 10.—"I hear these things with shame and indignation beyond control. I have heard such things before and could not believe them to be true. If these things were known in Montreal you would very soon find the funds would suffer. We must set aside these things at once." Thus spoke Rev. F. M. Dewey, D.D., in the course of the discussion on the payment of home missionary salaries in the Northwest.

An overture from Alberta asking for the whole matter of guaranteeing salaries of home missionaries in full to be taken into consideration brought the matter up. Rev. J. S. Shortt moved the adoption.

G. M. Macdonnell K.C., moved that the assembly instruct the home mission committee to change the system of paying salaries, for one similar to that of Knox College Mission Society.

Rev. A. McLaren of Medicine Hat made a strong appeal for a new method of collecting money in the Northwest for home missions. He had been found fault with for writing to the papers saying that the missionaries received just $250 less than the minimum salary. This was simply the downright, solid rockbottom fact. One of the cleverest men they had, who debited with $550 for his district, received exactly $83 in the year, and was enabled to attend the synod by the generosity of a Baptist. Another man debited with $275 got $22 in ten months from his field.

Rev. Mr. Chisholm endorsed this and declared that young men were driven to taking up homesteads, canvassing for insurance and other expedients to eke out a living.

Dr. McQueen thought the difficulty was due to a lack of proper spirit in the missionaries. It was too bad, he said, that such extravagant and practically untrue statements should be made. It would injure the church and the funds. The fault lay with those who complained. They should go back to their congregation and collect funds to pay the missionaries.

Principal MacKay supported the cause of the missionary. The matter should not be allowed to pass from the assembly till a better system was adopted. He knew an excellent man in his own college who had to drive a stage to pay for his course. He did not get enough from the mission board to pay for the keep of his horse and himself. This view was supported by a number of speakers.

Rev. Dr. McTavish and Rev E. D. McLaren demurred to the position taken. It was the duty of the Presbyteries to look after such cases. Very often it depended on the man who was sent into a field.

The moderator stated that he could make similar statements about augmentation in the east, and he thought from his own experience the presbyteries in the west were very much to blame.

Rev. E. D. McLaren suggested that presbyteries be instructed to make more particular enquiries as to salaries paid within their bounds, and to report to the home mission committee. The amendments were withdrawn and the overture passed.

Rev. W. M. Rochester, on motion of Rev. Dr. McQueen, was accepted as the choice of the synod of Alberta for the position of superintendent of home missions for that synod.

Principal MacKay presented the report on application to receive ministers. Among twenty names passed was one of a member of the Society of Friends, who desired with his congregation, which had representatives of 12 different denominations, to join the Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Dr. McLeod believed young ministers should be encouraged to join the aged and infirm ministers' fund. They were now driven to invest in stocks and trade horses in order to provide for the future, and then they were turned out of the congregations for being worldly minded.

A committee was appointed to which several questions were referred relating to the status of licensed students. The permission to administer the sacrament and to solemnize marriage it was held should only be given by presbyteries when inevitable. Some in the Northwest were given permission without limitation.

PROGRAMME IS ARRANGED

Delegates to Women's Congress Reach Montreal To-morrow—Will be Royally Entertained

Montreal, June 10.—A number of the Norwegian and German delegates to the Congress of the International Council of Women, to be held in Toronto, June 16-30, have arrived in New York, and are visiting in that city, Boston and other places, before coming to Canada. Those across-seas delegates who reach Canada before the day of rendezvous at Montreal to-morrow, will spend the time before that day in visiting Quebec. Great preparations are being made there by the Quebec Local Council of Women to receive and entertain them.

The delegates from abroad and from the United States, 200 in number, meet in Montreal to-morrow, and in the afternoon a garden party and reception will be held. The program for the next day includes an executive meeting in the Royal Victoria College, a luncheon, drive, a garden party, and in the evening, a reception by the governors, principal and fellows of McGill University, in the Royal Victoria College. On Sunday there will be a special service and sermon in Christ Church Cathedral, and probably in some of the other churches also. On June 14 there will be a visit to the Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, a luncheon, given by Principal and Mrs. Robertson at the college, the return to Montreal by boat, in the afternoon, and and in the evening a reception by the Canadian Handicrafts Guild in the Art Gallery.

The next morning, June 15, a special train will convey the distinguished party to Ottawa, and upon their arrival they will be taken to the Experimental Farm, where luncheon will be given by the mayor and city. In the afternoon Her Excellency the Countess Grey will receive the officers and delegates at a garden party at Rideau Hall, and afterwards the Ottawa Local Council will entertain them at high tea in the parlors of St. Andrew's Church. The next day, June 16th, the party will arrive in Toronto, and that evening a public meeting will be held at which the president, Her Excellency, the Countess of Aberdeen, will be in the chair, and greetings will be received from the twenty-three national councils represented in the federation. The sessions open to the public begin on June 23rd.

McMASTER MAN IS APPOINTED

Saskatoon, Sask., June 10.—At a meeting of the board of governors of the University of Saskatchewan, Dr. Edmund H. Oliver, formerly of Toronto University, now lecturer of history at McMaster University, was appointed to the chair of history and economics.

Dr. George L. Ling, also formerly of Toronto, now adjunct professor of mathematics in Columbia University, was appointed professor of mathematics.

REFORESTRY IS DEMANDED

At Meeting Held at Cobourg—Sand Lands in Northumberland and Durham Need Attention

Cobourg, June 10.—A meeting of the counties council of Northumberland and Durham to discuss reforestry of sand lands was largely attended. Conditions were shown to be becoming rapidly worse for agriculture in the area. Resolutions were passed endorsing reforestry for the area, appointing a committee to deal with the situation and arranging a series of meetings next fall.

The speakers included Dr. Fernow, Toronto University; Thomas Southworth, president Canadian Forestry Association; James Lawler, secretary; Prof. Zavitz of Guelph, Thornton and Owens, members of Parliament; Sam Clarke, J. J. Preston and Nesbitt, members of the Legislature; William Richard and Warden Powers, Col. J. Hughes presided.

The question as to whether the lands should be owned by the municipality or the Government was left undecided.

FIREMAN KILLED AT HALIFAX, N.S.

Halifax, N.S., June 10.—James Tynan lost his life and ten other firemen were injured by the collapse of a roof while fighting flames which completely destroyed the upholstering and packing building of the Nova Scotia Furnishing Co. yesterday.

Tynan, with twenty other firemen, was stationed in the building when the roof suddenly gave way. Suffering from terrible burns and other injuries they were all rescued with the exception of Tynan, who was pinned down by a 10-inch beam, which pressed across his chest. The fire loss was $10,000 insured.

BERLIN HAS A BAD FIRE

Berlin, June 10.—There was a $100,000 fire last evening when J. Y. Shantz & Co.'s large button factory was totally destroyed. It is supposed the fire started in the drying-room, where a farming machine is in operation all night. Night Watchman Ziehm sent in an alarm by sounding his whistle, while a passer-by ran several blocks to the nearest alarm box.

It is one of Berlin's oldest establishments, being founded over 60 years ago by Jacob L. Shantz. Insurance will amount to about $50,000.

The Daily Review

THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1909.

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

"Collegiate Echoes," the excellent organ of the Collegiate Institute pupils, avers that "the progress of the school" has been very noticeable this last year. The change of quarters is supposed to have had an effect upon the young mind like that of a stimulant. There are several choruses, an orchestra and a dramatic society and notwithstanding all these, the school has progressed. Mr. Kenner and his excellent staff have evidently "filled the bill." The institution of a new library will no doubt in time have a good effect. Congratulations all round.

HOPE IN THE SICK ROOM

No doubt the following article quoted from "Hospital," will appeal to the "perfesh," but that it appeals to the patient is doubtful. The practitioner who inspires hope and fails to back it up becomes an object of the deadliest hate. For is it not true that "Hope deferred maketh the heart sick," and a sick heart is not productive either of admiration or sympathy. The public looks at medical pretensions with a doubtful eye. It grants the great gifts and even the nobility of the medical world. The unselfishness of the latter is sometimes so amazing as to be unbelievable, hence it is not generally believed. But all that is a different thing from looking wise and thinking of fat fees. It is all very well for a doctor to say, "You'll be up in a few days," or "I think your final recovery is assured," when the patient gets nothing out of it but a staggering bill and a notice that the courts will deal with the claim if it is not paid. And why has all this come to pass? Simply because another Hippocrates having been called in says that his predecessor was a fool. Why should we pay fees? The question is a complicated one. Perhaps the Chinese method is the best. A few amputations at the neck might help to clear the air. Still being mortal and kindly, we are grateful.

"Of the qualities which make for success in the practice of medicine, using the word in its most comprehensive sense, it is recognized that none is more vital than the faculty of inspiring hope," says the Hospital. "We are ready enough to accept the truism, but in daily life many of us treat it cavalierly, as a pious resolution which it is respectable to profess, but tiresome to materialise in conduct.

"Nevertheless, the practice of optimism is far better able to stand alone than is the pure practice of technical healing. The inveterate optimist whose technical knowledge is minimal, will do more good in the world than his professional brother who stultifies an immeasurably superior technical ability by exercising it with an air of gloom.

INFLUENCES OF THE EMOTIONS

"It is something of a blot upon us that our text-books of materia medica, which dwell lovingly upon pharmacological excitants and depressants, have never a word to say about the somatic influences of the emotions. Yet these agents are unceasingly operative, and may be so potent as to neutralise, to no small extent, the effects of their pharmacological opposites. For example, it needs a larger dose of narcotic to quiet an individual labouring under intense mental excitement than would suffice for the purpose were he in a state of composure; and a man under circumstances of mental stress can take with impunity a quantity of alcohol which ordinarily would leave him maudlin.

"The capacity for diffusing hope is not given to all equally. Some are temperamentally so endowed that their gaze falls instinctively upon the brighter elements in any conjunction of circumstances, to the exclusion of the more sombre. This mental equipment evolves the type of medical man commoner on the stage than in real life, yet not entirely fictitious. He strides, beaming, into the sick-room, and if it is physically possible, slaps the patient on the back.

THE CHEERY DOCTOR.

"If the back is pre-occupied by pillows or a mattress, he proceeds verbally in the same direction, endeavoring by a gust of jovial talk and banter to dissipate the greyness of atmosphere which so readily envelopes a sick-room. Often enough his robust cheeriness proves infectious, and leaves the patient with a sense of well-being which the cleverest combination of drugs is powerless to impart.

"But the danger which threatens such a practitioner lies in a lack of intuitive delicacy, of tact. This defect is a common, if not essential, accompaniment of the cheeriness and bonhomie which characterise the type whose explosive joviality represents an absolutely natural overflow of animal spirits. For those who command such blessings, in abundance and continually, are proportionately incapacitated from seeing with the peevish eye of an invalid. Thus it happens, on exceptional occasions, that the cheery and good-natured doctor is written down an uncouth and callous boor.

THE DISSEMINATOR OF HOPE.

"For this reason the most uniformally successful disseminator of hope is he who practices optimism, not because he is blind to all other considerations, but because contemplation and experience have persuaded him of its remedial power. Such a man, recognizing that his demeanour is a therapeutic asset capable on occasion of transcending the virtues of his strychnia and bromides, will temper his geniality to the humor of the patient."

SIR WILLIAM McDONALD

It is true that the only distinction a man should wish is the approval of a good conscience. Some say the approval of his fellow-citizens but that has its limitations, manifestly. The approval of the fellow-citizens may depend as in New York, on how much they are "going to get out of it." The commendation of the finest characters and noblest minds is, probably a surer test of the true nobility of mankind. Be all that as it may where is the man who does not applaud the quiet, persistent beneficence of Sir William McDonald of Montreal whose benefactions to McGill have to a very large extent, placed that splendid institution on the high pedestal it occupies. Indeed, it may be said that, if it had not been for him McGill would now be in dire straits. His latest gift is of the property opposite the College which the new hotel company was about to acquire, to the consternation of the university authorities.

Sir William is a man above the petty grafting spirit of sectionalism and all through his life he has builded upon principles much more than upon self-interest. Of course it is open to few to be of such superb material as that but the fact that the quality exists even in the few, goes far to redeem humanity from the taunt of selfishness and animalism. The gratitude of a whole Dominion founded though it may be on what it has been the lucky recipient of, is not greater than the respect and affection which such noble actions call forth on their own account. What he has given, has been given without an ulterior object and so is free from the taint of being worse than no gift at all for such a "gift" condemns utterly both him who gives and him who receives. Although brought up a Roman Catholic, Sir William devotes his gifts to his countrymen at large and his countrymen at large, gratefully acknowledge the obligation

GEORGE MEREDITH

The death of this great novelist of the Victorian Era has called forth almost a surfeit of comment and praise. His subtlety, his depth, his finish—in a word his genius stands unrivalled, according to all criticisms, amongst present-day novelists. The flood of comment has been devoted largely to an appreciation of Meredith's greatness. It is instructive to change off to the novelist's account of himself;—

"I have seen the illusion of it all, but it does not dull the zest with which I enter into it, and I hold more firmly than ever to my faith in the constant advancement of the race. My eyes are as good as ever they were; only for small print I need to use spectacles. It is only in my legs that I feel weaker.

"I can no longer walk, which is a great privation to me. I used to be a keen walker; I preferred walking to riding; it sent the blood coursing to the brain, and, besides, when I walked I could go through woods and footpaths which I could not have done if I had ridden. Now I can only walk about my own garden. It is a question of nerves. If I touch anything however a lightly, I am afraid that I shall fall—that is my only loss. My walking days are over.

"I do not feel in the least lonely. I have my books and my thoughts, and, besides, I am never lonely, with Nature and the birds and the beasts and insects, and the woods and the trees, in which I hold as strongly as ever I did to the reality of the general onward sweep of the human race, but as to whether the English are keeping pace in that movement I have my doubts. Close knowledge of our fellows, discernment of the laws of existence, these lead to great civilization. I have supposed that the novel exposing and illustrating the natural history of man, may help us to such sustaining roadside gifts. But I have never started on a novel to pursue the theory it developed. The dominant idea in my mind took up the characters and the story midway. Why my name should be blown about, whether I am well or ill, I do not know.

"All attestation favors the critical dictum that a novel is to give us copious sugar and no cane. My philosopher's error is to deem the sugar born to the cane, inseparable from it. The which is naturally resented, and away flies my book back at the heads of the librarians, hitting me, behind them, a far more grievious blow.

"I am never bored; why should I be bored if I have the intelligence to think?"

"I was a very timid and sensitive boy. I was frightened of everything. I could not endure to be left alone. But when I came to be eighteen, I looked around the world and determined not to be afraid again. Since then then I have had no fear of death. Every night when I go to bed I know I may not rise from it. That is nothing to me. I hope I shall die with a good laugh, like the old French woman—the cure came wailing to her about her salvation, and she told him her best story and died. The God of Nature and human nature does not dislike humor, you may be sure, and would rather hear it in extremity than the formless official drone."

"People talk about me as if I were an old man. I do not feel old in the least; on the contrary, I do not believe in growing old, and I do not see any reason why we should ever die. I take as keen an interest in the movement of life as ever, I enter into the passions of youth, and I watch political affairs and intrigues of parties with the same keen interest as of old."

EDITORIAL NOTES

It seems to be clear from Bishop Mills' quotations from Scripture that church union is impossible till the second coming. This view is based upon the persistence of every form of evil—church disunion being included, apparently—till the dawn of the millenium. We agree with this view.

The German Chancellor of the Exchequer is quite unable to raise the £25,000,000 needed to balance Germany's accounts. All his suggested taxes are opposed. The Reichstag has therefore been given a holiday till June 15. How the money is to be raised is, says the Times, more uncertain than ever!

The Globe of Wednesday says, regarding the Whitney Government's hydro electric policy:—

"The Government must be credited with having gone into the whole matter with scrupulous care and farsightedness, and on that assumption the various municipalities have thrown in their lot with the public ownership idea. It only remains to express the sincerest hope that their most sanguine expectations will be realized."

LONDON, June 9.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 13c to 14½c per lb for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 10¾c per lb.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 9.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market this morning, the offerings were 225 steers, 125 cows, 50 bulls, 200 sheep, 150 lambs, 500 hogs and 1200 calves. A feature of the trade to-day was the strong undertone to the market for cattle, and prices scored a further advance of ⅛c to ¼c per pound, which was due to another small run and the scarcity of good to choice beeves. The demand was good from local buyers, as they all wanted some beef to carry them thru for the balance of the week, and a fairly active trade was done. A few extra choice steers sold at 7c to 7¼c per pound, making a new high record price, and the indications are that, unless supplies increase materially in the near future, they will go still higher, as the number of cattle coming forward just now is not sufficient to fill the requirements of the trade. Choice steers sold at 6¾c to 6⅞c; good at 5¾c to 5⅞c; fair at 5c to 5½c, and common at 4c to 4¾c; good cows at 5c to 5½c, and lower grades at 3c to 4½c, and bulls ranged at from 3c to 5¼c per pound. Owing to the increased offerings of sheep and lambs, a weaker feeling developed in the market, and prices declined. At the reduction the demand was good, and sales of sheep were made at 4c per lb., and lambs at $3.25 to $5 each. The supply of calves was also large, and prices ruled lower, with a fair demand at $1.50 to $6 each, as to quality. Supplies of hogs were small, and the tone of the market was firm, with sales of selected lots at $8.50 to $8.60 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Calves—Receipts, 4733; market slow and lower; veals, $6 to $8.75; general sales, $7.50 to $8.50; buttermilks, $4 to $4.50; cull veals, $5 to $5.50; dressed calves slow and weak; city dressed veals, 9½c to 13c; country dressed calves, 7c to 11c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5452; sheep and yearlings slow; lambs active, on scant supply and firm to 25c higher, quality considered. Sheep, $3.00 to $5; few choice, $5.25 to $5.50; culls, $2 to $3; yearlings, $4.75 to $6, lambs, $9 to $9.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 1900; quoted firm, at $7.60 to $7.90.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at 13,000; market steady to shade higher; beeves, $5.25 to $7.20; Texas steers, $4.60 to $6.30, western steers, $4.75 to $6.40; stockers and feeders, $3.60 to $5.50; cows and heifers, $2.40 to $6.25; calves, $6 to $8.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at 26,000; market steady to shade higher; light, $7 to $7.50, mixed, $7.20 to $7.75; heavy, $7.25 to $7.85; rough, $7.25 to $7.45; good to choice heavy, $7.45 to $7.85, pigs, $6.10 to $7; bulk of sales, $7.40 to $7.70.

Sheep—Receipts, estimated at 15,000; market steady; native, $4 to $6.20; western, $4.25 to $6.40, yearlings, $6.25 to $7.15; lambs, native, $6.50 to $8.35; western, $6 to $8.30.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

A Cream Puff Cure.

A young woman teacher in a school in one of the poorer parts of the city was overcome by a sudden attack of illness one day. She dismissed the class, telling the boys she felt too ill to continue, but hoped to be quite well by the next day. The teacher rested her head on her arms and sat at her desk a few minutes waiting for strength to start on the journey homeward. She was only dully conscious of what was going on about her and did not notice a group of the ragged youngsters gathered by the door in deep consultation.

In a little while she heard some one softly say, "Teacher," and looked up. It was the raggedest boy of the lot, and he was holding out a paper bag full of something.

"What is it, Jimmie?" she asked.

"Somethin' t' eat," replied Jimmie.

"But I'm not hungry."

"Yes, you are," insisted the ragged philanthropist, winking at her gravely. "Nobody's sick except when they're hungry. We took up a c'lection an' got these cream puffs fur youse. Eat 'em quick, ma'am, an' you'll feel better."—New York Press.

The Restaurant Bluffer.

"Of all the bluffers one meets socially and in business, and their name is legion," remarked a minor cynic, "none amuses me more than the restaurant bluffer. This brand is numerous. I met one today, and his embarrassment was ludicrous.

"This chap, you know, is a living lie. He lodges in a rather high priced house, but occupies a cheap little room up under the roof, to which he is careful not to invite any acquaintance. He's an under clerk somewhere, but talks familiarly of high finance. He pretends to be on friendly terms with influential men who wouldn't know him from Adam.

"Several evenings ago he was impressing me with the frequency with which he lunches at one or two places famous in the Wall street section. When I met him today bending over coffee and rolls in a place where his check was 10 cents you should have seen his face. It was a study.

"Of course I wasn't surprised, but he was. I enjoyed the encounter, but he didn't."—New York Globe.

In Bacon Ridge.

Mrs. Ryetop—Now, thar's that Judson Tassel. He's a likely looking chap, but he's been calling on Nancy Squires for nine years and he hasn't proposed yet.

Mrs. Hardapple (sarcastically)—Oh, give the boy a chance, Cynthia. Maybe he's afraid he'll break the speed laws.—Chicago News.

Canadian Railway Earnings.

Mr. I. G. Ogden, fourth vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, says of the commercial situation and the railways that there is plenty of blue sky ahead, and that business conditions are looking promising all over. The earnings of all the large railways are increasing, which is evidence of larger movement of merchandise generally. To meet the demands of its growing business at Montreal the Canadian Pacific has decided to proceed with enlargements that will double its facilities for handling passengers at the Windsor Station. It has also bought property for the extension of its freight yards in the East End.

"Ham."

Thus is the Earl of Desart, who has just been made a baron of the United Kingdom, known to his intimates, the nickname arising from the fact that two of his Christian names are Hamilton and Agmondesham. Lord Desart is well known as a traveler, cricketer, and shot, and is not at all the sort of man who might be looked for in one who has filled the position of solicitor to the treasury, director of public prosecutions, and King's proctor.

NOT A BLUFF.

He Did It on Purpose and Was Willing to Back It Up.

The tall, slender citizen in the frock coat, who had been riding in the smoking car of the elevated railway train, was making his devious way out of it through the narrow space left by the passengers on the side seats who had crossed their legs.

One man whose foot blocked the passage almost entirely refused to surrender an inch of space, and the tall man, after waiting a moment, raised his own foot and brought it down with emphasis on the other man's ankle and instep, crushing the offending foot to the floor and stepping on it with his whole weight, after which, with the serene consciousness that he had performed a public duty, he left the car, went down the stairway to the street and proceeded on his way.

He had walked about a block when he felt a slight tap on his shoulder. He turned around and found himself facing a wrathful looking person, whom he recognized as the man whose foot he had just ground and who had limped after him as fast as he could.

"I should like to ask you sir," said the wrathful person, "if you stepped on my foot on purpose back there in the car."

"Most undeniably and emphatically I did, sir," answered the tall man, "and if you feel like starting anything on account of it you won't find a better time or place to start it than right here and now. Don't hesitate a second if you feel inclined that way. Sail right in. Anything goes."

"I'm going to tell you that you're a ruffian and a brute anyway!" snorted the indignant person.

"Just so. And you're such a contemptible, infernal hog that I don't care a straw what your opinion of me is," retorted the other, knocking the ashes out of his pipe, putting it in his pocket, buttoning his coat around his slender but muscular form and standing at ease. "Have you any further business with me?"

"I'd like to know who you are, that's all."

"My name is Gwilliams. Here is my card. Ready to answer a call at any time."

"Well, sir, you'll get it in the neck some day!"

"Thanks. You'll get it in the foot every time you give me such a chance as you did this morning. Want to start anything? No? Well, good morning."

Onions and Pneumonia.

Hot onions, according to a French physician, are said to be a sure cure for pneumonia. The remedy is as follows: Take six or ten onions, according to size, and chop fine, put in a large pan over the fire, then add the same quantity of rye meal and vinegar enough to make a thick paste. In the meantime stir it thoroughly, letting it simmer for five or ten minutes; then put in a cotton bag large enough to cover the lungs, and apply to chest as hot as the patient can bear. In about ten minutes apply another, and thus continue by reheating the poultices, and in a few hours the patient will be out of danger. This simple remedy has never failed to cure this too often fatal malady. Usually three or four applications will be sufficient.

Diagnosed.

"My little boy," said a matron, "used to bite his nails."

"'Now, see here,' his nurse said to him one day, 'if you keep on biting your nails like that, do you know what will happen to you?'

"'No. What?'

"'You'll swell up like a balloon and burst.'

"My little boy believed his nurse. He stopped biting his nails at once. That was about a month ago, and yesterday we had a very corpulent friend at luncheon.

"Jimmy, when our guest entered the room, looked at him with stern disapproval. Then he walked over to him.

"'You bite your nails,' he said.

Sound Absorbers.

Objects and materials in an auditorium absorb sound in a striking degree. The standard of perfect absorption taken is an open window, through which sound passes and does not return. A large audience absorbs 96 per cent. of the sound; a Persian rug, 29 per cent. of the incident sound; upholstered furniture or oil paintings, 28 per cent.; curtains, 23 per cent.; linoleum on the floor, 12 per cent.; pine flooring, 6 per cent.; glass, 3 1-2 per cent.; brickwork or plaster, 2 1-2 per cent. This explains why it is necessary to speak louder to a large than to a small audience; also why a hall with unpleasant echoes when empty may become easy to speak in when filled.

Perfectly Natural.

It is recorded that a certain Hibernian upon being asked how his father was getting along replied, the latter being a shoemaker: "Th' ould mon is still peggin' away at th' binch iv life preparin' his sowl fur th' mar-r-ch through eternity. But th' thread iv thot same life won't lasht long, fur it do be waxin' towward an end now. An' besides th' wound he rayceived in th' war can't be healed."

The questioner, it is further recorded, felt half sold at the reply, but the wit of it made a lasting impression upon him. That's all.

George Taylor of the London fire brigade fractured his skull by a fall from a ladder while painting his house.

Ottawa militia corps may refuse to go to camp because of the insufficient allowances.

OF INTEREST

What Men are Saying

WHEN THERE WAS TIME FOR PLEASURE.

"A world in which the handful of pleasure-loving folk who rush from Newmarket to Ascot, from Cowes to Marienbad, from Paris to Monte Carlo, in frank pursuit of their own fancy, with their happy indifference to leagues and to societies, to associations and to guilds, appeals to one's sense of humor as the only survival from a period when there was a time for pleasure and a time for work, a survival of a world that was once joyful!" So writes Gertrude Kingston, in the Daily Chronicle.

A WICKED DECISION.

A decision of Judge Dugro in the New York Supreme Court affords a striking exhibition of race bias. In the case on which he had to adjudicate a negro had successfully brought an action for wrongful imprisonment and had been awarded substantial damages.

An appeal, however, was lodged, it being argued that, in view of the claimant's color, the compensation was excessive, and it was this view which Judge Dugro upheld. His finding was that wrongful imprisonment in the case of a negro, was less of a humiliation than it would have been had a white man been concerned. He accordingly ordered a reduction of damages.

THE "SATURDAY REVIEW'S" STYLE.

These are the terms which the Saturday Review uses about the Budget: "Unfortunately what one Chancellor of the Exchequer writes on, right or wrong, his successor has a way of sticking to. We cannot forget that Sir William Harcourt's successor, though a Conservative, stuck to the death duties as if he loved them. However, we trust that the ill Mr. Lloyd George does will not live a great while after him. The first thing a Conservative Government should do when it comes into office is to put a sponge over his dirty Welsh slate."

"A squabble which only a few months ago was near to being the cause of a European war was quietly disposed of on Saturday. The Court of Arbitration at The Hague has given its decisions on the questions arising out of the arrest towards the end of last September of deserters from the French Foreign Legion. As is usually the case in such international disputes, the court has succeeded in taking a middle line between the contentions of the two opposing parties," says the Times, London.

THE WAIL OF WEALTH.

"Since the introduction of the Budget the correspondence columns of the Times have afforded remarkably good reading," says the Nation. "Eloquence, invective, sarcasm, pathos, every versatile faculty of the pen is there deployed before the reader, and the workings of what we may call the Mind of Property, are exposed to the day. There is the stern denunciation of the Anti-Socialist Union, liberally be-sprinkled with highly-seasoned epithets, wherein the State, embodied in Mr. Lloyd George, figures as a "common highwayman," waiting on the investor in land to plunder him, where the Government fleeces the liquor trade, robs recipients, and foots dead men's possessions.'"

THE HONOR OF THE CROWN SAFE

Lord Grey, addressing the Australian Press delegates to the Imperial Congress, said; "The fact that a Labor Ministry in Australia should require all young men to undergo military training until they reached the age of twenty proclaimed to the world that the honor of the Crown was as safe in the keeping of the humblest sons of toil as it had been in the hands of the proudest and noblest of the land."

CO-PARTNERSHIP IN COAL TRADE

Sir Christopher Furness, M.P., has outlined another notable scheme of labour co-partnership at the Wingate Colliery, near Hartlepool. Sir Christopher, with Sir Walter Scott and Mr. J. S. Barwick, has bought the colliery, and he now proposes to take the workers into partnership by making them shareholders in the concern on lines similar to his shipbuilding co-partnership.

Five per cent. is to be deducted from the men's wages until they have paid in the amount necessary to cover the shares they have applied for. In order to obviate any difficulty in the way of raising the money, Sir Christopher and his partners have offered to find a sum of $50,000—which is the part of the capital allotted to the workmen—until they have paid for their shares. While the control of the company's affairs will be vested in the board of directors, a colliery council is to be created to settle all matters of controversy.

MR. BALFOUR AND THE EMPIRE.

"Without something higher and greater than material considerations you cannot manage an Empire like the British Empire," said Mr. Balfour in the St. James' Theatre. "If you will not admit sympathy and imagination side by side with hard material calculations into the forces which mould your opinion and direct your policy, then I say you are not fit to be the head of an Empire like this; and you are well advised not to allow yourselves to be driven into the merely material considerations raised by the fiscal controversy, important though, as I admit, those considerations are.

"The necessity of drawing closer the bonds which unite together the different parts of the Empire is plainly a growing necessity. I do not think anybody can contemplate the world forces which are slowly shaping themselves in one or another quarter of the world without seeing that it is of vital necessity for this Empire to organise itself, to draw its different members closer together, to make it conscious of common needs, common destinies, aye, and of common perils.

"I am no pessimist, yet I say quite distinctly I do not think that in the lifetime of many, of most, perhaps of all, of those I am addressing now, we may be face to face with great national difficulties in which it will be of absolutely vital importance that every fraction, every portion of this Empire should work together with a united soul, towards preserving everything that we hold dear in common."

MR. ASQUITH AND UNEARNED INCREMENT.

"Tariff reform means, remember, this; it means the taxation of bread and cheese, it means the taxation of the first necessities of life; it means further, the creation and the fostering at the expense of the taxpayer of favored industries.

"People talk about the unearned increment. We are taking toll for the benefit of the community from those who have not earned it, increment which the community has created. What does tariff reform mean? It means the creation at the cost of the community of an unearned increment which is to go into the private pockets of protected interests. It is for you, the electors of this country, to choose between the two, and we submit the issue with the utmost confidence to your decision."

LUCKY MR. BROWN.

If it had not been for "Fruit-a-tives," Mr. Lemuel Brown, of Avondale, N.B., would still be living on stale bread and porridge, and suffering tortures with Indigestion.

His stomach was so weak that he had to give up all kinds of meats, potatoes and other vegetables, and even deny himself the comforts of a cup of tea. Fortunately, Mr. Brown read about "Fruit-a-tives," bought a box and was so much improved by taking the tablets, that he used four boxes altogether. "I have been a great sufferer from Indigestion for fifteen years. About two years ago, I read about Fruit-a-tives and concluded to give them a trial. I used nearly four boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and they have made me feel like a new man. I can eat all kinds of hearty foods and enjoy tea and coffee." This is not a rare case, but the regular experience of everyone who uses "Fruit-a-tives" for Weak Stomach, Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Try them. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

DOURO DOINGS

Douro, June 9.—Mr. R. Greer, barrister, of Toronto, and Mrs. Greer, are visiting Mrs. Greer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walsh.

Miss Maggie O'Leary, of Toronto, and Mrs. Hodship, of Montreal, are spending a few weeks with their Mother, Mrs. John O'Leary, at Indian River.

Mr. Thos. F. O'Brien, of Peterborough, and Mr. Leo Walsh, of Keene, spent Sunday with friends in Douro.

Mr. B. Condon and Mr. Jas. T. Leahy left on Tuesday for Nebraska, where they will spend a month visiting friends.

Miss Katie Sheehan, of Peterborough, is home on a visit.

Mr. W. J. O'Brien, traveller for the Shamrock Tobacco Co., paid a business visit to the village on Wednesday. "Will" reports business booming.

Mr. Joe Dongo, of Peterborough, passed the evening of Victoria Day in Douro.

Miss Rose Coughlin, of Peterborough, is visiting friends here.

Miss Katie McMahon, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Young, at Young's Point, is home again.

Mr. Wm. Gould, of Peterborough, spent Thursday in Douro. "Billy" looks fine and dandy.

Mr. P. O. Towns had the misfortune of being kicked by a horse last week. Fortunately, however, he had no bones broken, and is able to be around again.

We regret to hear of the death of Miss V. Caney, who died in Peterborough on Sunday, and we extend our sympathy to her many sorrowing friends.

Mr. Ed. Conroy, of Peterborough, took a business tour through Douro with his automobile on Saturday. The roads were very dusty and many of the villagers thought from a distance a cyclone was sweeping through the country.

HE FOUND THEM THE BEST OF ALL

What Rufus Harris Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills

After Trying Five Doctors for His Kidney Disease He found Relief in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy

Hurdville, Ont., June 9.—Special.—"After trying five doctors for Kidney Trouble, from which I had suffered for three years, I find that Dodd's Kidney Pills relieve me best of all. If I keep on feeling as I have since I began taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I shall be well pleased, and I am hoping they will cure me."

So says Rufus Harris, well known in this village. "I had stiffness in the joints," he continues, "cramps in the muscles, backache and was heavy and sleepy after meals. I was depressed and low spirited perspired freely, was often dizzy and always thirsty, but since taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I am feeling very good."

If you have any of the symptoms, Mr. Harris tells of, it is time for you beware. They are the symptoms of Kidney Disease, and may be the forerunners of Rheumatism, Dropsy, Lumbago, Heart Disease, or even the dread Bright's Disease itself. Take warning and guard against suffering or even death itself by putting the Kidneys in good working order with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

JUNE

And what is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come perfect days;
Then Heaven tries earth if it be in tune,
And over it softly her warm ear lays;
Whether we look, or whether we listen,
We hear life murmur, or see it glisten;
Every clod feels a stir of might,
An instinct within it that reaches and towers,
And, groping blindly above it for light,
Climbs to a soul in grass and flowers;
The flush of life may well be seen
Thrilling back over hills and valleys;
The cowslip startles in meadows green,
The buttercup catches the sun in its chalice,
And there's never a leaf nor a blade too mean
To be some happy creature's palace;
The little bird sits at his door in the sun,
Atilt like a blossom among the leaves,
And lets his illumined being o'errun
With the deluge of summer it receives;
His mate feels the eggs beneath her wings,
And the heart in her dumb breast flutters and sings;
He sings to the wide world, and she to her nest,—
In the nice ear of Nature, which song is the best?

BEFORE THE FIRE--- OR AFTER?

WHEN are you going to find out whether the fire insurance you have paid for is a really good or not—before or after the fire which makes it due or payable? You cannot change it after the fire. It will be too late then; but before the fire, you can readily at no extra cost select an insurance company whose record and strength guarantee the liberal fulfillment of its obligations.

Hastings Canal Notes

The machinery of the new dredge is being rapidly installed at the ship yards and will likely all be placed this week. A drill scow was started this week for drilling large boulders before removing from the river, and the two dump scows are rapidly nearing completion.

On account of the logs all being in at the dam here, and all out at Healeys Falls the water below the dam has dropped to almost a foot below summer level already.—Hastings Star.

THE LIGHT AND POWER CO.'S THIRTY YEAR FRANCHISE

Was the Proposition Under Discussion at Last Night's Meeting of Manufacturers' Committee—Sub-Committee Appointed to Look Into the Matter.

The application of the Peterborough Light and Power Company for a franchise granting them the use of the city streets for thirty years was heard at last night's meeting of the Manufacturers committee.

Ald. Gillespie, the chairman of the committee presided at the meeting, and the others present were Ald. Hicks, Morrow, Duffus, Metherall and Mayor Rush.

The proposition of the Power Company has been under consideration for some time and City Clerk Armstrong read letters from outside towns concerning the electric light rates prevailing there and from the information it was found that the light supplied to Peterborough citizens is secured at a lower figure than in the majority of places. In fact in only two towns that were heard from by Mr. Armstrong were the rates lower than here.

The discussion of the proposition was taken up at some length during which Mr J. H. Larmouth, manager of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, withdrew as the committee wished to discuss the matter in private.

Before the adjournment a sub committee was appointed to look thoroughly into the proposition.

The franchise will not interfere with the city going in for the lighting of its own streets and in case it does so the poles of the Peterborough Light and Power Company will be available.

DR. MacPHERSON IS NOW MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER

Appointed by City Council to Succeed Dr. Bingham Who Resigned—Selection of Council Regarded as Good One.

Dr. Bingham has resigned the dual position of Medical Health Officer and City physician for Peterborough, and Dr. A. W. MacPherson has been appointed his successor. Dr. Bingham's resignation was accepted at a special meeting of the City Council held yesterday afternoon, when the appointment of his successor was also made.

Dr. Bingham's resignation was contained in the following letter:

Peterborough, June 9, 1909.
To the Mayor and Council of the City of Peterborough:

Gentlemen.—I take this opportunity of resigning the offices of Town Physician and Medical Health Officer for the City of Peterborough.

I desire also to thank this council and all preceding councils since I took office, for the very generous support which I received from them in my endeavor to serve the good citizens of Peterborough.

Respectfully,
J. BINGHAM, M.D.

Dr. Bingham's resignation was accepted on motion of Ald. Morrow and Ald. Phelan.

Dr. Young and Dr. MacPherson were applicants for the position made vacant.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Ald. Morgan Dr. MacPherson was given the appointment. The salary is $400 per year.

Although a young physician, Dr MacPherson has had an extensive experience in contagious disease work, and should make an excellent Medical Health Officer.

NEW MATRON SUPERINTENDENT FOR "MARGARET COX HOME"

Miss Pierce, who for the past four years has occupied the position of Matron Superintendent of "The Margaret Cox Home," is compelled to resign her post on account of family matters that require her presence in England. Her place has been filled by Miss Elliott. This lady, who is a Canadian by birth, has been engaged for many years under the Provincial Government and has occupied several responsible and important posts at various Provincial Institutions. There is every reason to believe that her appointment will prove a source of strength to the work and that great benefit will result from her wide experience of institutional management and of work amongst young women and girls.

DID SOME ONE SUPPLY WHISKY FOR BLACKLISTER?

A young man was fined $10 in the police court this morning for being drunk after he had been served with the blacklist notice by Inspector Stewart. The accused pleaded guilty. He stated to the Magistrate that while going to work last Sunday morning at 6.30 he had found a flask of whiskey, a ten cent piece and three two cent stamps under a tree at the corner of London and Stewart streets. He had consumed the liquor during the day.

Chief Rossel was suspicious and asked the young man if he knew who placed the whiskey there but the reply was, "I do not."

The fine will have to paid within the next five days.

HIGH PRICES WERE PAID FOR LAND FOR NEWMARKET DITCH

Cheques Issued Before Election Day—Plums for the Farmers—Liberals Fared Much Better Than Conservatives.

The Toronto News has the following special correspondence from Newmarket;—

Newmarket, June 9.—When the happenings of the Federal elections last October were being chronicled, North York was not given the attention that it warranted.

Perhaps it was because there were over 200 others in Canada at the time that a most interesting side-line of Hon. A. B. Aylesworth's campaign was overlooked.

This was unfortunate, as it threw a strong light on the kindly, helpful impulses that determined the conduct of the Minister of Justice in those days of political stress.

Mr. Aylesworth stands out in fine contrast to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. The investigation under Mr. Justice Cassels is too recent to forget the painful exigencies to which some of the Minister's staff were put to find money for their men, when payment was delayed by the Government. Advances, notably at Quebec, were of frequent occurrence, while the hard-hearted Minister, absorbed in his study of 'book-keeping in his inner office' at Ottawa, heeded not the cries of men whose salaries were long past due.

CHEQUES WARMED THEIR HEARTS.

But Mr. Aylesworth was not all-absorbed in this. A long line of constituents, extending from Newmarket to Lake Simcoe, right in the path of his canal, wanted their money. Each had sold a right of way to the Dominion Government. Each had declared his willingness to accept the estimates of two Liberal stalwarts. These estimates had been sent in. Some had been paid. Some had not. To those who had not Mr. Aylesworth brought down his fist and crossed his heart and said: "Friends and fellow-electors, it shall be done."

And it was done.

The cheques that arrived from Ottawa in those pre-election days warmed the heart of many a man. What wonder that he redoubled his energy and kindled a feeling in the heart of many a friend and relative! What wonder that gratitude for Hon. A. B. Aylesworth swept from one end of that ditch's winding course to the other, and carried into power the man who had made the gratitude possible!

Hon. Charles Marcil has been held up as the man who did so much for his constituents, and it has been told of him that he carried with him in his pre-election suite an engineer who took orders for all the docks, roads, bridges, customs houses or canals that were showered upon him.

Mr. Aylesworth did more. He gave orders. He dealt not in promises but deeds. He gave before the election, where Mr Marcil promised to give after election. He stands alone—far and away he out-Marcilled Marcil.

Another point should be noted. The prompt payment of the checks did not result in any trimming of the sum totals. The amounts were not niggardly. Such had not been the instructions of the Liberal assessors.

They were buying pasture land; land in the valley of the Holland Creek; land that was low; much of it under water for weeks in the spring; some of it covered with poor second growth timber or stumps; land that, save for a very few acres, had never felt a ploughshare; land that in any but a Government market, would not bring more than forty dollars an acre.

There was an amazing degree of impartiality as to situation shown by these Liberal valuators. When the Metropolitan Railway's assessors passed through they figured the land near Newmarket as worth $100 or so an acre, but tapered it down as it receded from the town until some had to be content with as little as $40, although unlike the canal land part of it was tilled. No, these valuators were impartial in valuing the land.

To their qualities already mentioned should be added that of tender heartedness. It was not so hard upon their feelings in setting down the value of the land but the "damages" tried them sore. Here was a man whose pasture would be destroyed; or who, losing the muddy stream at the bottom of his farm, must hereafter water his stock at the barnyard pump.

The damage was great, and would figure up $100, $200, $500, 1000 an acre.

Sometimes they were prompted to soothe the damaged feelings by recompensing the owner for his loss by allowing him as much for 20 acres as he paid for 80. One man whose 30 acres, his all, were bought received more than double what he had paid for them, clearing $1500.

Feelings seemed to rule, and so it is not surprising that when some Conservatives were being dealt with, try as they would, generosity could not be called so suddenly into play. They had to struggle against life long convictions many of them longer, for they were hereditary.

Accordingly it happened that when the farms of Mr W C Howard, one of the most prominent Liberal workers and Mr Henry Hulse, one of the prominent Conservative workers stood side by side the damages must needs be different.

For 18.97 acres Mr Howard's damages were set at $1725; for 20.07 acres Mr. Hulse's at $300. Mr Howard accepted his award. Mr Hulse did not.

Herein might the moralist find a text to discourse upon the painful strength that party affiliations exert upon the conduct of human beings.

WEDDING BELLS

MELLEN—FOX

On Wednesday evening, June 9th, at the residence of her uncle, Mr John Wilson of Otonabee, Miss Mary (Minnie) Fox, daughter of the late John Fox, of Madoc, was married to Mr. Caleb Mellen, son of the late William Mellen of North Monaghan. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. John Fee in the presence of the relatives of the bride and groom.

RYAN—DOUGHERTY

A very pretty wedding took place at nine o'clock on Tuesday morning, at St. Joseph's church, Douro, when Miss Elizabeth Dougherty, one of Douro's most popular young ladies, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Ryan, son of Mr. Patrick Ryan, of this township. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Regina Dougherty, while the groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. John Ryan. The bride was charmingly attired in a suit of brocaded cream silk, finely trimmed with white silk ribbon and cream lace and wore a beautiful cream hat trimmed to match. She carried a large bouquet of white lilies. The bridesmaid was dressed in white and wore a beautiful white hat tastefully trimmed with a wreath of flowers. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Keilty in the presence of a few of their friends and relatives.

After the marriage the wedding party drove to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty, where they partook of a sumptuous wedding breakfast. Many invited guests were present in the evening. Over 200 relatives, friends and neighbors enjoyed a hearty wedding supper. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and expensive presents. The young couple will reside in Otonabee and their many friends wish them a long life in married bliss and happiness.

Praises C. P. R

On his trip out to Iowa some days ago, Mr. R. F. Houston, of this place, passed over several lines of railway. Mr. Houston says the C.P.R. line from Tweed to Toronto was the finest stretch of railroad he travelled over. None of the Yankee roads can touch it for solidity and smooth running. There is none of that jarring, jerking jolting, nerve-racking tremor and motion which is the result of poor roadbeds, light rails and poorly constructed rolling stock.—Tweed News.

THE HEALTH-OFFICE

Dr. Bingham, the Medical Health Officer, has resigned. He felt at his age, which we suspect to be considerable, that the time had come for him to take a rest. He leaves office with the respect which long years of the practise of his profession and an honorable career entitle him to. All will join in wishing him continued happiness in his retirement.

Dr. MacPherson, his successor, is young, active and efficient. He is well-equipped in every way for the office and doubtless will make a highly satisfactory health officer.

TO BE DISCONTINUED

St. Peter's T.A.S. decided last night at a meeting preparatory for their usual Dominion Day picnic that it would not go about as in former years asking the merchants of George street, etc., for "contributions." It has come to be recognized by everybody that this persistent calling upon the merchants for "gifts" is nothing more or less than a hold-up. Everybody did it.

The gift nuisance is probably not so bad as the ticket nuisance, since the donor's name appears in the one case but not in the other. It is more expensive, however. Gifts in future are to be voluntary or not at all. One by one the shams that have been built up in the name of sport, etc., are going to the wall. The policy of begging has been strained too far. The merchants have been like people acting under duress unwilling to give and unable to refuse. Not that they do not do far more than their share to "keep everything going and willingly too, but the close season for hold-ups of all sorts is at hand and let the unwritten law be observed. We are off to a good start. The T.A.S. has done well and set a good example.

WEDDING BELLS

CHRISTIE—WILSON

Miss Kathleen Mabel, daughter of Mr. James Wilson, of Otonabee, was united in marriage yesterday to Dr. Christie, of Webbwood, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt at the home of the bride, at one o'clock, and was witnessed by only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bridesmaid was Miss Violet Christie, sister of the groom, and the groomsman was Dr Simpson, of Stroud, Ont. Little Helen Davidson, a niece of the bride, was maid of honor, and two other nieces, Kathleen Munro and Grace Wilson, were flower girls. The bride wore a beautiful dress of lace over ivory silk, and carried a bouquet of white lilacs and lilies-of-the-valley.

After a dainty wedding dinner Dr. and Mrs. Christie left on the 4.38 train at Peterborough for a wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points, after which they will reside in Webbwood.

The bride received many beautiful presents, testifying to the high esteem in which she is held by a host of friends.

CRUICKSHANK—McALLISTER

A quiet wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at St. Paul's Presbyterian manse, when Miss Maud E. McAllister became the wife of Mr. Hugh Cruickshank, the Rev. R Hogue officiating. The bride was attended by Miss L McIlroy and Mr Robt Delahey supported the groom. Both of the contracting parties were of this city.

SMITH—TIPPETT

At St. Andrew's manse yesterday afternoon the marriage took place of Miss Mabel Tippett to Mr. C. W. Smith, both of Garden Hill. The contracting parties were unattended, and Rev. J. G. Potter officiated. The newly wedded couple will reside in Garden Hill.

BLACK FLIES ARE FEROCIOUS

Hungry as Summer Boarders and Very Annoying at Stoney Lake

The black flies at Stoney Lake are as hungry as boarders at a summer resort. In addition to being hungry they are plentiful, and are making life miserable for the people there

A Peterborough man who returned from the lake last night says he never knew the black flies to be so plentiful before. They are no respectors of persons, but seem to have a preference to thin-skinned people. Liberal politicians should note this carefully.

Between mosquitoes and the black flies life is anything but pleasant at some parts of Stoney Lake at present. The mosquitoes are active in the morning and evening, and the flies do their work when the sun is hot. Several parties have been driven out of their camping places along Eel's Creek by the activity and ferocity of the flies, mosquitoes, et al.

DENNIS SHANAHAN

The death occurred last evening at his late residence, Ennismore, of Dennis Shanahan, aged 53 years. The deceased had been ailing for some time.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at nine o'clock to St. Martin's cemetery, Ennismore.

HERBERT SCORE FORSTER

Sympathy will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Forster of North Monaghan in the death of their infant son, Herbert Score Forster, which occurred this morning at 187 Rubidge street.

NEW LOCALITY FOR Y.M.C.A. CAMP

Messrs. George Evans, YMCA boys secretary and P. Kerr went up to Stoney Lake this afternoon to locate a new place for the annual camp for the boys of the YMCA.

In the past the camp has been held at Sandy Point but new cottages have been recently built near this place, and as it is the intention to indulge in many branches of sport this year it will be necessary to secure a large and suitable property.

The camp will be held in July and should be a better success than ever before.

MANY WENT TO OTTAWA TO-DAY

Many Peterborough people went to Ottawa to-day on the Farmers' Institute excursion. The train passed through here at 7.20, and it was expected that there would be eight hundred on board from the district included in the excursion. The return fare from Peterborough was $2.55.

"OUTDOOR CANADA"

The June issue of Outdoor Canada, just from the press is a splendid specimen of the sort of literature that should go into the hands of Canadians, young and old at this season of the year. It is an outing number and the forty-eight pages with handsome colored cover are laden with articles and illustrations that have in them the lure of the open and the spirit of the great outdoors. You cannot read this month's issue of Outdoor Canada without feeling that not only is Canada a good country to live in but that every Canadian owes it to himself to live, not exist. Holiday trips are suggested, the experiences of others who have travelled the great green wood ways and the sparkling water routes are given and the illustrations used simply make one hunger to go and do likewise. The regular departments of the magazine are as usual up to the mark, not the least interesting article being the last of the series from the pen of Prof. D. M Barton, on athletics. The magazine is on sale at newsdealers everywhere or may be secured from the office of publication, Spectator Building, Hamilton. It is a big ten cents worth.

REPORT WAS EXAGGERATED

Dr. Bell, Provincial Health Officer, who is in the city today states that the report that he and his assistant were driven out of Port Severn by those opposed to vaccination, was much exaggerated. He informed the Review that a number of "drunks" offered some opposition the first day, but after that there was no trouble.

The body of Roswell Frost, who disappeared from Belleville in April was found in the harbor.

KETCHEL DEFEATED JACK O'BRIEN IN THREE ROUNDS

The Philadelphian Was Fast and Fought Gamely But Ketchel Was Faster and Hit Hard Telling Blows---The Fight by Rounds.

Philadelphia, June 9.—Stanley Ketchel earned the right to have first chance at Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, by practically stopping Jack O'Brien in the third round at the National A. C. here to-night. Ketchel rushed the fight from the moment the first gong rang. He kept at close quarters, hammering away with fearful punches, which broke through O'Brien's defence and made the latter run. So aggressive was Ketchel that O'Brien had no time to try his quick-jabbing tactics. He poked a few lefts into Ketchel's face, and for a moment the latter wabbled. But, as in the recent battle in New York, Ketchel paid no attention to these blows and continued to bore in like a bulldog and practically beat him down.

O'Brien and Ketchel weighed in at 12 o'clock to-day, according to the articles of agreement, and both scaled at 160 pounds. Ketchel looked as strong as a lion, and told his friends that he would win by a knockout before the end of the sixth round. O'Brien also seemed in better trim than when he boxed Johnson, and was confident he would win on points.

It was conceded that if Ketchel scored a knockout he would have first crack at Johnson's title in October, as the latter's proposed fight with Kaufman would probably be sidetracked because of a lack of public interest.

The arena was crowded, even the standing room being all taken up. The gross receipts were said to be more than $12,000. There were nearly 4,000 in the house when the first preliminary bout was put on.

O'Brien entered the ring at 10.20 o'clock and received a rousing welcome. Ketchel followed a moment later and was wildly cheered. O'Brien examined the bandages on Stanley's hands and pronounced them all right. Ketchel laughed as he sat down and started to draw on the gloves. He looked cool and self-possessed. Before they shook hands Dr. B. F. Roller of Seattle was introduced, with the statement that he was anxious to meet the winner.

FIRST ROUOND.

Ketchel began boring in with terrific swings. He reached the body with a right and shot a left for the jaw which O'Brien blocked. O'Brien began to run away from Ketchel's rushes after that, but the latter followed closely, and O'Brien clinched. A hard left swing caught O'Brien over the right eye for first blood, and another clinch, in which Ketchel hammered the kidneys. O'Brien then stood off and jabbed Ketchel in the face with his left, but Ketchel came again with a fierce rush that made Jack take the defensive. Ketchel's round.

SECOND ROUND.

Ketchel dashed in with a drive into the stomach. O'Brien danced away and met Ketchel's rush with left-handers in the face. Ketchel bored in again and was jarred with left and right on the head. But Ketchel came again with terrific swings, which made O'Brien run away. Then, as Ketchel bored in again, O'Brien jabbed him in the mouth. Ketchel rushed and with a left on the jaw he made Jack reel. Then a right put O'Brien down for six seconds. Ketchel scored another knockdown and O'Brien was on the floor at the bell.

THIRD ROUND.

Ketchel rushed like a tiger. He caught O'Brien on the jaw with a left, and Jack reeled into the ropes. Ketchel sailed in like a cyclone, and, with punches on the neck and jaw, he had the Quaker on the ropes. O'Brien was game and fought back, but he did not have a chance with the Michigan Lion. Then Ketchel rushed in full tilt, and, with a tremendous right hand swing, he caught O'Brien squarely on the jaw. O'Brien staggered like a drunken man and clutched the ropes to save himself. Another wallop in the stomach made him double up while a smash on the neck sent him to the floor for the count, but he was still game and struggled to his feet. O'Brien was tottering and unable to defend himself. Before Ketchel could finish him, however, Referee McGuigan interfered, and Ketchel walked to his corner in triumph. The round lasted forty seconds.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

SCORING OF BASE HITS

When the ball is hit so slowly towards a fielder that he cannot handle it in time to put out the batsman or force out a base runner.

In all cases where a base runner is retired by being hit by a batted ball unless batted by himself, the batsman should be credited with a base hit.

When a batted ball hits the person or clothing of the umpire as defined in Rule 55, Section 6,

St. Andrew's and St Peter's are scheduled to play a junior church league game tonight at Boswell's field.

Strathconas will practice on the Oval this evening when all players are asked to be out in uniform.

Ike King may not be in the game for the West Ends on Saturday as a result of an injury to his hand.

President Taft says: "Baseball appeals to me as the one clean sport. There is no jockeying, no flimflamming, no chicanery as in some other sports, horse racing for instance and I enjoy baseball."

The YMCA team will be strong for the game with the Rovers on the Oval next Saturday and are confident of getting the big end of the score.

The lack of baseball games these fine nights leaves many with very little amusement in the evenings and walking the streets is generally reverted to. Too bad!—Lindsay Warder.

The Victor Baseball Club of Bowmanville journeyed to Whitby on Saturday last and defeated the ball team of that town to the tune of 6—3. The all round playing of Pitcher Robinson of Bowmanville and the catching of Blanchard, of Whitby, were the features. The battery for the winners was Robinson and Gibson; for the losers, Gimblet and Blanchard.—Bowmanville Statesman.

The Y.M.C.A. baseball club will practice at Nicholls Oval on Friday at 6.30.

Durham made good yesterday with the Leafs, but poor work by the fielders gave the game to Montreal by the score of 7—5.

Dummy Taylor, pitching for Buffalo, lost to Rochester by 2—1, in a pitcher's battle.

Rudolph will pitch the concluding game for Toronto against Montreal to-day.

THE RING

Chicago, June 9.—Packey McFarland now believes he has a good chance for a bout with Battling Nelson, the lightweight championship as a prize, in Coffroth's arena, Sept. 18. A telegram was received yesterday by him, in which Coffroth stated that he would be glad to put the boys in the arena on that day.

Hoist With His Own Petard.

A certain gentleman, who was somewhat officious, went one day to see a football match. While he was there his lynx-like eyes caught sight of some youths playing cards, and, being himself of an anti-gambling nature, he quietly informed a policeman of what he had seen.

"Playing cards? No fear," replied the constable. "I know them chaps very well; they are quite respectable."

"But," persisted his informant, "I saw them doing so, and when they saw I was looking they hid the cards, and I'll bet a sovereign to a penny that that little chap with the bowler hat on has got them in his pocket."

"Want to bet, do you?" said the constable, with a twinkle in his eye; "and that board over there says, 'Betting strictly prohibited!' So I think I'd better make sure of one job today, and run you in for betting."

And click went the cuffs.

The Duffer's Record.

Mark Allerton in London M.A.P. tells this story from the golf links: A duffer inquired of his wearied caddie, "How many's that, Sandy?" The caddie replied: "Ye're playin' yer ninth. Ye tappit it aff the tee in yin, ye missed it a'thegither in twa, went intae the bunker in three. Ye didna get oot in four, but ye got oot in five. Ye gaed intae the whins in sax, ye didna get out in seven. But ye got oot in acht, and noo yer playin' yer ninth."

Montreal YMCA. has begun a two-weeks' campaign to raise $500,000.

The employees of the Dominion Textile Co. Montreal will not strike.

The GTR. new route from Millbrook to Cobourg is being surveyed.

THE CANADIAN PASHA

THE CAREER OF TURKISH VICE-ADMIRAL BUCKNAM.

Nova Scotia Lad Who Went to Sea and Became a Sea Captain at Seventeen Was Sent From Cramp's to Train Turkish Sailors and Saved Abdul's Life Is a Fighter Throughout and Has No Idea of Fear.

Bucknam Pasha, Vice-Admiral of the Turkish navy, is described in The New York Post as an American. Canada has a claim upon him, for he was born in Nova Scotia, and his first experience in sailing was on the Great Lakes. At fourteen he became cabin boy on a schooner, and he pleased the captain and his wife so well that they adopted him. At sixteen he sailed from New York as quartermaster of a schooner bound for the Pacific. At Manila the captain and mates died of cholera. Bucknam was the only one on board who had studied navigation. He passed the requisite examination, became a captain at 17, and brought the ship home.

Early in the nineties he was in command of a steamship that sailed from Tampico to New York, laden with hemp and silver. The ship struck a sunken wreck, and the propellor was smashed. After drifting about for twenty days, the ship was towed into Key West. Instead of having her dry-docked, Bucknam shifted all the cargo forward, so as to elevate the stern, and attached the new propeller. An admiral of the United States navy who witnessed the work said it was one of the cleverest feats he had ever heard of.

Later on he received an offer from the Cramps to become their nautical expert. In this position he got into touch with naval officers. He was passed into the employment of the Government and commanded the Maine on her trial runs. When the Turkish cruiser Medjidia was finished, he was sent to Turkey to train her crew. The Sultan took a fancy to him, and made his Naval Adviser to the Porte. He grew steadily in favor. The story is that he once rendered a signal service to the Sultan. A bomb loaded with tremendously powerful explosive was thrown into the mounted escort that surrounded the royal carriage. Scores of men and horses were killed, the ground was rent and torn, and nearby buildings felt the shock; but the Sultan was unhurt, although his carriage was surrounded by the injured. Bucknam Pasha took his post by the carriage step, with sword drawn, and announced that if a hand laid on the Sultan it would be lopped off. Sword in hand, he walked beside the carriage all the way to the gates of Yildiz.

In an interview published in The New York Post Mr. Lewis Nixon said: "He is a splendid fellow—Bucknam Pasha. And he is one of the best friends I have. If you knew him the way I do, you wouldn't be surprised at what he has done. I know something about his life, but if I knew it all I could write a book that for excitement and swing and dash would beat anything that has ever been turned out. The last word I had from him was a postcard mailed in Lisbon. He was then taking two mentinople. In the last year I haven't heard from him as much as I used to, and I must admit that I'm anxious about him—although, if anybody is capable of taking care of himself, Bucknam is.

"He is fearless—absolutely. I'll tell you a story to illustrate that: The terminal of the Pacific Steamship Co., at Panama, is on the Island of Naos. Bucknam was the captain of Naos; that was his title. He had a good deal of difficulty in keeping whisky off the island, for the pango-men, the men who sail the little pangos, were skillful smugglers. I happened to be with him the night he broke up the practice for good and all.

"We were sitting, smoking on the balcony of his house at Naos. It was a moonlight night, and presently we made out a boat sneaking through the shadows of the floating wharf, apparently with the intention of landing something. There were three men in it. Bucknam observed their movements until he was convinced that they were whisky-smugglers, and then he said 'Come along.' We went down to the wharf, and he began to take off his shoes, coat, and hat. 'What are you going to do?' I asked. 'I'm going to teach those fellows that I mean what I say when I forbid whisky on the island,'" he replied.

"By this time the boat was underneath us, in the shadows of the wharf. Bucknam climbed the railing and dropped over right into the middle of the three pango-men. One of them he knocked overboard with his fist. Another came for him with a paddle, but Bucknam grabbed the paddle before the man could strike, and threw him over the side, too. That left one smuggler to deal with, and Bucknam knocked him endwise with his fists. For the next few minutes he was kept busy pushing the three men under water every time they tried to get aboard.

"All the time I was up on the wharf, shaking in my shoes, for any one of the three would have killed him had the chance come. When he thought he had punished them enough, Bucknam rowed around to the landing stage, climbed out of the boat, and kicked it toward the smugglers. 'Now you can go,' he told them, 'but don't let me catch you trying to smuggle whisky into Naos again'."

The story suggests the question how much undeveloped talent there is among the hardy seamen of the Maritime Provinces of Canada.

Huge Land Deal.

One of the largest land transactions ever made in the vicinity of Winnipeg was recently carried through. An American purchased a block of 70,000 acres of land, situated thirty-five miles southwest of Winnipeg. The lands when properly drained will be suitable for agricultural purposes.

The CNR. crop report says wheat is making fine growth.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is in Quebec arranging for the GTP terminal.

FINES IN GERMANY.

Every Little Misstep Has Its Penalty Attached.

Police fines to the amount of $2,500,000 are annually inflicted in Germany. To explain how this large sum is accumulated, the Munich humorous journal Jugend enumerates the misdemeanors committed in a single day by a respectable tradesman, costing him $30.75 and a week's imprisonment.

On rising in the morning he opens the window. The window is violently blown back by the wind, breaking the glass, which falls into the street. Fifty cents fine.

While at breakfast he fills in the necessary forms to report to the police that he had engaged a maidservant a week previously. For not having reported her within the specified time of three days, $1.25 fine.

On his way to business he runs after a tramway car. For jumping on to the car while in motion, $1.25 fine.

His goods are so effectively displayed in his shop windows that an obstruction is caused by the crowd in the street. Two dollars and a half fine.

His window dresser had displayed some articles in such a manner that the merchant's Christian name on the signboard was hidden. One dollar and a quarter fine.

At noon he returns home by railway and loses his season ticket. One dollar and a half fine.

He is awakened from an after-dinner nap by the Government inspector of the Old-age Pension and Insurance Department, to whom he has to produce the insurance card of his servant. He has affixed all the adhesive stamps correctly, but has forgotten to cancel them. Two dollars and a half fine.

Then he receives a visit from a constable, who informs him that his child was vaccinated two days after the regulation time. Five dollars fine.

Cycling back to business he is stopped by a constable for having forgotten his cyclecard (75 cents). He is stopped again for riding too fast (75 cents). A third constable stops him for riding through a street not opens to cyclists (75 cents). A fourth stops him for not sounding his bell properly (75 cents). A fifth, because he had no brake (75 cents). A sixth, for having removed his feet from the pedals (75 cents). By a seventh constable he is stopped for not holding the handlebars (75 cents).

He returns home from business in the twilight and is reported for having no light (75 cents).

After supper he plays piquet with his wife, using cards which do not bear the imperial duty stamp. Seven dollars and a half fine.

Having omitted to appear at the drill of the fire brigade ($2.50), he retires to bed tired out, and forgets to draw the blind of his bedroom window. One week's imprisonment.

Dangers Sealers Face.

The annual hunt for the hair seal off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland is on. This is an industry which lasts only two months, but employs about 25 stout steamers and 4,000 men, whose home is the rock-ribbed coast of Newfoundland. These seal hunts have been prosecuted for hundreds of years. It yields a harvest of from $500,000 to $750,000 annually, and like the codfish in the same waters the seal has defied all attempts of extermination.

The industry is one where men walk in daily and hourly danger of death. Within the last two years five ships were lost; the Leopard was driven ashore and 120 men narrowly escaped death; the Greenland broke her shaft and was carried seaward, her crew being rescued in the last extremity; the Grand Lake was crushed and went down, her crew being 36 hours on the floe before rescue came; the Panther and the Walrus had a similar experience. Every ship that returned last year was more or less seriously wrecked, some of them so badly that they could scarcely limp into port.

The loss of so many of the old-style boats enables the owners to replace them with ships of the modern type, and this year sees four of them in commission—the Bonaventure, the Bellaventure, the Boethic and the Florizel. The first three are designed to serve as ordinary freighters during the year. The Florizel is a still more ambitious departure; she is a ship of 2,000 tons, with accommodations for 100 saloon and as many steerage passengers, and intended to be run as a tourist craft between St. John's, Halifax, and New York, when not employed in the seal fishery. She is fitted with wireless telegraph apparatus.

A Feat of Swordsmanship.

Napoleon, it is said, one day met an old one-armed soldier and asked him where he lost his arm.

"Sire, at Austerlitz."

"And were you not decorated?"

"No, sire."

"Then here is my own cross for you. I make you chevalier."

"Your majesty makes me chevalier because I have lost one arm. What would your majesty have done had I lost both?"

"Oh, in that case I should have made you officer of the Legion."

Whereupon the soldier immediately drew his sword and cut off his other arm.

On the Car.

"Will you have my seat?" he inquired politely.

"On the ground that I am aged and discrepit?"

"No, indeed, madam."

"That I am young and beautiful and possibly not averse to a flirtation?"

"Certainly not that is"—

"Then it's simply because you are a gentleman, in this respect differing from the fat person on the left and the scrawny specimen at the right. I am glad to learn of your principles, sir, but this is where I get off."

What Else Could He Do?

A stranger in a western town asked his friends where he could find a faro layout. They told him there was one in town and it was crooked. In the evening they missed him, and after a long search through the most likely places they thought to look in the most unlikely of all—the crooked faro place—and there he was. Leaning over him at his play, they whispered, "Didn't we tell you this game was crooked?" "Yes," he said, whispering back, "but you say it's the only one in town."

The Woman In the Alcove

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,

Author of "The Millionaire Baby," "The Filigree Ball," "The House in the Mist," "The Amethyst Box," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY.

"The lights in the alcove and in the several parlors are all hung with shades, as you must perceive, but the one in the hall, beyond the arch, is very bright, which accounts for the distinctness of this double reflection. Another thing—and it is a very interesting point—it would have been impossible for this reflection to be noticeable from where you sit if the level of the alcove flooring had not been considerably higher than that of the main floor. But for this freak of the architect the continual passing to and fro of people would have prevented the reflection in its passage from surface to surface. Miss Van Arsdale, it would seem that by one of those chances which happen but once or twice in a lifetime every condition was propitious at the moment to make this reflection a possible occurrence—even the location and width of the several doorways and the exact point at which the portiere was drawn aside from the entrance to the alcove."

"It is wonderful," I cried, "wonderful!" Then, to his astonishment perhaps, I asked if there was not a small door of communication between the passageway back of the alcove and the large central hall.

"Yes," he replied. "It opens just beyond the fireplace. Three small steps lead to it."

"I thought so," I murmured, but more to myself than to him. In my mind I was thinking how a man, if he so wished, could pass from the very heart of this assemblage into the quiet passageway, and so on into the alcove, without attracting very much attention from his fellow guests. I forgot that there was another way of approach even less noticeable—that by the small staircase running up beyond the arch directly to the dressing rooms.

"And Mr. Durand?" I stammered as I followed the inspector back to the room where he had left that gentleman. "You will believe his statement now and look for this second intruder with the guiltily hanging head and frightened mien?"

"Yes," he replied, stopping me on the threshold of the door and taking my hand kindly in his. "If—don't start, my dear; life is full of trouble for young and old, and youth is the best time to face a sad experience—if he is not himself the man you saw staring in frightened horror at his breast.

With a quick jerk he bared his shirt front.

Have you not noticed that he is not dressed in all respects like the other gentlemen present—that, though he has not donned his overcoat, he has put on, somewhat prematurely, one might say, the large silk handkerchief he presumably wears under it? Have you not noticed this and asked yourself, why?"

I had noticed it. I had noticed it from the moment I recovered from my fainting fit, but I had not thought it a matter of sufficient interest to ask, even of myself, his reason for thus hiding his shirt front. Now I could not. My faculties were too confused, my heart too deeply shaken by the suggestion which the inspector's words conveyed, for me to be conscious of anything but the devouring question as to what I should do if, by my own mistaken zeal, I had succeeded in plunging the man I loved yet deeper into the toils in which he had become enmeshed.

The inspector left me no time for the settlement of this question. Ushering me back into the room where Mr. Durand and my uncle awaited our return in apparently unrelieved silence, he closed the door upon the curious eyes of the various persons still lingering in the hall and abruptly said to Mr. Durand:

"The explanations you have been pleased to give of the manner in which this diamond came into your possession are not too fanciful for credence, if you can satisfy us on another point which has awakened some doubt in the mind of one of my men. Mr. Durand, you appear to have prepared yourself for departure somewhat prematurely. Do you mind removing that handkerchief for a moment? My reason for so peculiar a request will presently appear."

Alas, for my last fond hope! Mr. Durand, with a face as white as the background of snow framed by the uncurtained window against which he leaned, lifted his hand as if to comply with the inspector's request, then let it fall again with a grating laugh.

"I see that I am not likely to escape any of the results of my imprudence," he cried, and with a quick jerk bared his shirt front.

A splash of red defiled its otherwise uniform whiteness. That it was the red of heart's blood was proved by the shrinking look he unconsciously cast at it.

CHAPTER IV.

MY love for Anson Durand died at sight of that crimson splash—or I thought it did. In this spot of blood on the breast of him to whom I had given my heart I could read but one word—guilt—heinous guilt, guilt denied and now brought to light in language that could be seen and read by all men. Why should I stay in such a presence? Had not the inspector himself advised me to go?

Yes, but another voice bade me remain. Just as I reached the door Anson Durand found his voice, and I heard, in the full, sweet tones I loved so well:

"Wait! I am not to be judged like this. I will explain!"

But here the inspector interposed.

"Do you think it wise to make any such attempt without the advice of counsel, Mr. Durand?"

The indignation with which Mr. Durand wheeled toward him raised in me a faint hope.

"Good God, yes!" he cried. "Would you have me leave Miss Van Arsdale one minute longer than is necessary to such dreadful doubts? Rita—Miss Van Arsdale—weakness and weakness only has brought me into my present position. I did not kill Mrs. Fairbrother nor did I knowingly take her diamond, though appearances look that way, as I am very ready to acknowledge. I did go to her in the alcove, not once, but twice, and these are my reasons for doing so: About three months ago a certain well known man of enormous wealth came to me with the request that I should procure for him a diamond of superior beauty. He wished to give it to his wife, and he wished it to outshine any which could now be found in New York. This meant sending abroad—an expense he was quite willing to incur on the sole condition that the stone should not disappoint him when he saw it and that it was to be in his hands on the 18th of March, his wife's birthday. Never before had I had such an opportunity for a large stroke of business. Naturally elated, I entered at once into correspondence with the best known dealers on the other side, and last week a diamond was delivered to me which seemed to fill all the necessary requirements. I had never seen a finer stone and was consequently rejoicing in my success when some one, I do not remember who now, chanced to speak in my hearing of the wonderful stone possessed by a certain Mrs. Fairbrother—a stone so large, so brilliant and so precious altogether that she seldom wore it, though it was known to connoisseurs and had a great reputation at Tiffany's, where it had once been sent for some alteration in the setting. Was this stone larger and finer than the one I had procured with so much trouble? If so, my labor had all been in vain, for my patron must have known of this diamond and would expect to see it surpassed.

"I was so upset by this possibility that I resolved to see the jewel and make comparisons for myself. I found a friend who agreed to introduce me to the lady. She received me very graciously and was amiable enough until the subject of diamonds was broached, when she immediately stiffened and left me without an opportunity of proffering my request. However, on every other subject she was affable, and I found it easy enough to pursue the acquaintance till we were almost on friendly terms. But I never saw the diamond, nor would she talk about it, though I caused her some surprise when one day I drew out before her eyes the one I had procured for my patron and made her look at it. 'Fine,' she cried, 'fine!' But I failed to detect any envy in her manner, and so knew that I had not achieved the object set me by my wealthy customer. This was a woeful disappointment; yet, as Mrs. Fairbrother never wore her diamond, it was among the possibilities that he might be satisfied with the very fine gem I had obtained for him, and, influenced by this hope, I sent him this morning a request to come and see it tomorrow. Tonight I attended this ball, and almost as soon as I entered the drawing room I hear that Mrs. Fairbrother is present and is wearing her famous jewel. What could you expect of me? Why, that I would make an effort to see it and so be ready with a reply to my exacting customer when he should ask me tomorrow if the stone I showed him had its peer in the city. But she was not in the drawing room then, and later I became interested elsewhere"—here he cast a look at me—"so that half the evening passed before I had an opportunity to join her in the so called alcove, where I had seen her set up her miniature court. What passed between us in the short interview we held together you will find me prepared to state, if necessary. It was chiefly marked by the one short view I succeeded in obtaining of her marvelous diamond, in spite of the pains she took to hide it from me by some natural movement whenever she caught my eyes leaving her face. But in that one short look I had seen enough. This was a gem for a collector, not to be worn save in a royal presence. How had she come by it? And could Mr. Smythe expect me to procure him a stone like that?

"In my confusion I arose to depart, but the lady showed a disposition to keep me and began chatting so vivaciously that I scarcely noticed that she was all the time engaged in drawing off her gloves. Indeed, I almost forgot the jewel, possibly because her movements hid it so completely, and only remembered it when with a sudden turn from the window, where she had drawn me to watch the falling flakes, she pressed the gloves into my hand with the coquettish request that I should take care of them for her. I remember as I took them of striving to catch another glimpse of the stone, whose brilliancy had dazzled me, but she had opened her fan between us. A moment after, thinking I heard approaching steps, I quitted the room. This was my first visit."

As he stopped, possibly for breath, possibly to judge to what extent I was impressed by his account, the inspector seized the opportunity to ask if Mrs. Fairbrother had been standing any of this time with her back to him, to which he answered yes, while they were in the window.

"Long enough for her to pluck off the jewel and thrust it into the gloves if she had so wished?"

"Quite long enough."

"But you did not see her do this?"

"I did not."

"And so took the gloves without suspicion?"

"Entirely so."

"And carried them away?"

"Unfortunately, yes."

"Without thinking that she might want them the next minute?"

"I doubt if I was thinking seriously of her at all. My thoughts were on my own disappointment."

"Did you carry these gloves out in your hand?"

"No, in my pocket."

"I see. And you met"—

"No one. The sound I heard must have come from the rear hall."

"And there was nobody on the steps?"

"No. A gentleman was standing at their foot—Mr. Grey, the Englishman—but his face was turned another way, and he looked as if he had been in that same position for several minutes."

"Did this gentleman—Mr. Grey—see you?"

"I cannot say, but I doubt it. He appeared to be in a sort of dream. There were other people about, but nobody with whom I was acquainted."

"Very good. Now for the second visit you acknowledge having paid this unfortunate lady."

The inspector's voice was hard. I clung a little more tightly to my uncle, and Mr. Durand, after one agonizing glance my way, drew himself up as if quite conscious that he had entered upon the most serious part of the struggle.

"I had forgotten the gloves in my hurried departure; but presently I remembered them, and grew very uneasy. I did not like carrying this woman's property about with me. I had engaged myself, an hour before, to Miss Van Arsdale, and was very anxious to rejoin her. The gloves worried me, and finally, after a little aimless wandering through the various rooms, I determined to go back and restore them to their owner. The doors of the supper room had just been flung open, and the end of the hall near the alcove was comparatively empty, save for a certain quizzical friend of mine, whom I saw sitting with his partner on the yellow divan. I did not want to encounter him just then, for he had already joked me about my admiration for the lady with the diamond, so I conceived the idea of approaching her by means of a second entrance to the alcove, unsuspected by most of those present, but perfectly well known to me, who have been a frequent guest in this house. A door, covered by temporary draperies, connects, as you may know, this alcove with a passageway communicating directly with the hall of entrance and the upstairs dressing rooms. To go up the main stairs and come down by the side one, and so on, through a small archway, was a very simple matter for me. If no early departing or late arriving guests were in that hall, I need fear but one encounter, and that was with the servant stationed at the carriage entrance. But even he was absent at this propitious instant, and I reached the door I sought without any unpleasantness. This door opened out instead of in—this I also knew when planning this surreptitious intrusion—but, after pulling it open and reaching for the curtain, which hung completely across it, I found it not so easy to proceed as I had imagined. The stealthiness of my action held back my hand; then the faint sounds I heard within advised me that she was not alone, and that she might very readily regard with displeasure my unexpected entrance by a door of which she was possibly ignorant. I tell you all this because, if by any chance I was seen hesitating in face of that curtain, doubts might have been raised which I am anxious to dispel." Here his eyes left my face for that of the inspector.

"It certainly had a bad look, that I don't deny, but I did not think of appearances then. I was too anxious to complete a task which had suddenly presented unexpected difficulties. That I listened before entering was very natural, and when I heard no voice, only something like a great sigh, I ventured to lift the curtain and step in. She was sitting, not where I had left her, but on a couch at the left of the usual entrance, her face toward me and—you know how, inspector. It was her last sigh I had heard. Horrified, for I had never looked on death before, much less crime, I reeled forward, meaning, I presume, to rush down the steps shouting for help, when, suddenly, something fell splashing on my shirt front, and I saw myself marked with a stain of blood. This both frightened and bewildered me, and it was a minute or two before I had the courage to look up. When I did do so, I saw whence this drop had come. Not from her, though the red stream was pouring down the rich folds of her dress, but from a sharp needlelike instrument which had been thrust, point downward, in the open work of an antique lantern hanging near the doorway. What had happened to me might have happened to any one who chanced to be in that spot at that special moment, but I did not realize this then. Covering the splash with my hands, I edged myself back to the door by which I had entered, watching those deathful eyes and crushing under my feet the remnants of some broken china with which the carpet was bestrewn. I had no thought of her, hardly any of myself. To cross the room was all; to escape as secretly as I came, before the portiere so nearly drawn between me and the main hall should stir under the hand of some curious person entering. It was my first sight of blood; my first contact with crime, and that was what I did—I fled."

The last word was uttered with a gasp. Evidently he was greatly affected by this horrible experience.

"I am ashamed of myself," he muttered, "but nothing can now undo the fact. I slid from the presence of this murdered woman as though she had been the victim of my own rage or cupidity and, being fortunate enough to reach the dressing room before the alarm had spread beyond the immediate vicinity of the alcove, found and put on the handkerchief, which made it possible for me to rush down and find Miss Van Arsdale, who somebody told me had fainted. Not till I stood over her in that remote corner beyond the supper room did I again think of the gloves. What I did when I happened to think of them you already know. I could have shown no greater cowardice if I had known that the murdered woman's diamond was hidden inside them. Yet I did not know this or even suspect it. Nor do I understand now her reason for placing it there. Why should Mrs. Fairbrother risk such an invaluable gem to the custody of one she knew so little? An unconscious custody too? Was she afraid of being murdered if she retained this jewel?"

The inspector thought a moment, and then said:

"You mention your dread of some one entering by the one door before you could escape by the other. Do you refer to the friend you left sitting on the divan opposite?"

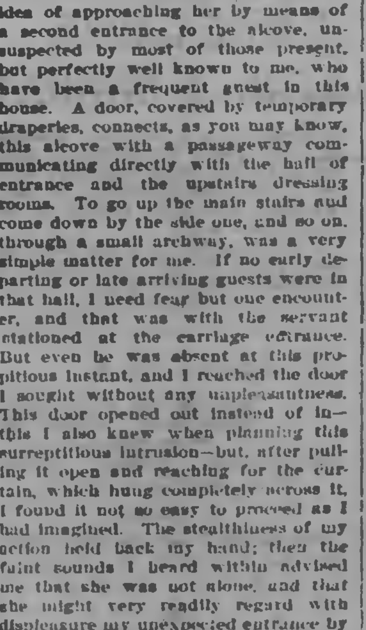
"No, my friend had left that seat. The portiere was sufficiently drawn for me to detect that. If I had waited a minute longer," he bitterly added, "I should have found my way open to the regular entrance and so escaped all this."

"Mr. Durand, you are not obliged to answer any of my questions, but if you wish you may tell me whether, at this moment of apprehension, you thought of the danger you ran of being seen from outside by some one of the many coachmen passing by on the driveway?"

"No; I did not even think of the window—I don't know why—but, if any one passing by did see me, I hope they saw enough to substantiate my story."

The inspector made no reply. He seemed to be thinking. I heard afterward that the curtains, looped back in the early evening, had been found hanging at full length over this window by those who first rushed in upon the scene of death. Had he hoped to entrap Mr. Durand into some damaging admission or was he merely testing his truth? His expression afforded no clew to his thoughts, and Mr. Durand, noting this, remarked with some dignity:

"I do not expect strangers to accept these explanations, which must sound strange and inadequate in face of the proof I carry of having been with that woman after the fatal weapon struck her heart. But to one who knows me, and knows me well, I can surely appeal for credence to a tale which I here declare to be as true as if I had sworn to it in a court of justice."



"Horrified, I reeled forward."

"Anson!" I passionately cried out, loosening my clutch upon my uncle's arm. My confidence in him had returned.

And then as I noted the inspector's businesslike air and my uncle's wavering look and unconvinced manner I felt my heart swell, and, flinging all discretion to the wind, I bounded eagerly forward. Laying my hands in those of Mr. Durand, I cried fervently:

"I believe in you. Nothing but your own words shall ever shake my confidence in your innocence."

The sweet, glad look I received was my best reply. I could leave the room after that.

But not the house. Another experience awaited me, awaited us all, before this full, eventful evening came to a close.

CHAPTER V.

I HAD gone upstairs for my wraps, my uncle having insisted on my withdrawing from a scene where my very presence seemed in some degree to compromise me.

Soon prepared for my departure, I was crossing the hall to the small door communicating with the side staircase where my uncle had promised to await me, when I felt myself seized by a desire to have another look below before leaving the place in which were centered all my deepest interests.

A wide landing, breaking up the main flight of stairs some few feet from the top, offered me an admirable point of view. With but little thought of possible consequences and no thought at all of my poor, patient uncle, I slipped down to this landing and, protected by the unusual height of its balustrade, allowed myself a parting glance at the scene with which my most poignant memories were henceforth to be connected.

To be continued.

Fires swept the Gillies limit on Saturday and Sunday.

PROTECTING WOOD BUFFALO.

Effort Is Being Made to Save Last Remaining Species.

Numerous complaints have come in from time to time from the Far North that the wood buffalo, the only wild specimens on the North American continent, are being killed by Indians and by timber wolves. The taking or killing of these animals is prohibited by the Dominion Government, who realizing the depredations likely to be committed by wolves if the latter are allowed to become too numerous in the buffalo country, have offered a bounty of $20 for each timber wolf pelt. Strange to say, this generous amount has not had by any means the result expected of bringing in increased quantities of wolf skins by the Indians, a reason for which is offered by Supt. Routledge in his report. Supt. Routledge was last year sent out from the Mounted Police headquarters with instructions to investigate thoroughly the reports of depletion of the herd, and to take the necessary action to punish the offenders.

He left Fort Saskatchewan on Feb. 2 and reached Smith's Landing on March 1st. He made a careful investigation, but could not find that any buffalo had been slaughtered in the past two years. He visited the grazing grounds, and saw numerous buffalo, besides many tracks. Sergt. Field patrolled the country in a different direction, and found traces of a large herd, which he estimated at 100, but was not able to come up with them. He saw the tracks of many wolves. Sergt. McLeod also patrolled the west side of the grazing grounds, but saw no buffalo, nor could he find that any had been killed. He, as well as Sergt. Field, reported wolves very numerous.

Supt. Routledge's report and recommendations are as follows: "The adequate protection of the remnant of the far northern herds is an important matter. The laws at present on the statute book, and the wolf bounties are steps in that direction, but, when the remoteness of the grazing district is considered, the ravages by timber wolves, and the fact that small native settlements are situated at out of the way places along the waterways surrounding the grazing lands on three sides, miles from principal centres, and that in several instances during the past ten years Indians have been punished by fine for killing buffalo it will be seen that more direct supervision is necessary.

"During my stay at Smith's Landing I was unable to obtain evidence of the Indians at those places having killed buffalo during the past two years and that they have done so during the years immediately preceding that period was a matter of suspicion only. Traders and others who understand the Indian character stated that had such taken place they would likely have heard of it.

"Timber wolves are numerous, as the many tracks observed in the Upper Slave country south of Smith's Landing, and the animals seen by my party west of Salt river, serve to show, and they undoubtedly destroy many calves and young buffalo.

"The Indians stated that it is next to impossible to trap the wolves, the brutes being so wary that it is difficult to get at them with a rifle; and the results following the application of strychnine would be too serious in a game and fur country to permit its use except under very careful supervision.

"The buffalo appear to move about in small bands, and it is therefore impossible to arrive at a correct estimate of the number: but from all I could learn, I would judge there are between 250 and 300 head."

The Coroner's Authority.

In connection with the Kinrade inquest, which has puzzled the public in the courts, it is worth while recalling that the coroner, whose powers are historic and wider than those of a judge, has been a popular subject for criticism for a thousand years. If any one will take the trouble to turn up his Shakespeare he will find at the opening of the graveyard episode, Act V., Scene I., of "Hamlet," when the clowns are digging the grave of Ophelia, that the first questions the right of the unfortunate girl to christian burial, and the second replies:

"I tell thee she is * * * the coroner hath sat on her, and finds it christian burial."

And finally after much chop logic between the two about Ophelia's suicide, the second clown winds up with the proverbial fling against coroners: "Will you ha' the truth on't? If this had not been a gentlewoman, she should have been buried out of christian burial."

Farm Hands Wanted.

Experienced farm laborers (single men) are needed in Ontario and in Western Canada; the wages range between $175 and $225 a year. The demand for married men as farm laborers is limited.

Government 'Phones.

The Provincial Government of Alberta propose to construct 800 miles of new telephone lines this year.

Hamilton dog catchers have applied for police protection.

SALE OF LANDS
IN GILLIES LIMIT

Under authority of an Order-in-Council dated 22nd April, 1909, the northerly portion of that tract of land generally known as the Gillies Limit, situated in the District of Nipissing, and Province of Ontario, containing about [illegible] acres, is offered for sale by tender in parcels containing 20 acres or thereabouts, such tenders to be addressed to the undersigned, at the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines, Toronto, marked on the envelope "Tender, Gillies Limit," and to be receivable at the said Department up to one o'clock p.m. on Tuesday, the 15th day of June, 1909.

Tenders are to be for each parcel separately, and to name a lump sum of bonus therefore. An accepted cheque for ten per cent. of this amount to accompany the tender, and the remainder to be paid in full within twenty days of acceptance of the same.

A royalty of ten per cent. on the gross proceeds (less freight and smelting charges) of all ores, minerals or concentrates taken from the land will be payable to the Crown, and purchasers will be required to enter into a satisfactory agreement with regard to the same.

Working conditions will be attached to the sale, and certain lands and rights will be reserved, full particulars of which, together with a map or plan showing the said tract, and the subdivisions thereof, may be obtained on application to the Department.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

F. COCHRANE,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

DECIDE TO DISCONTINUE SOLICITING MERCHANTS

T.A.S. Picnic Committees Will Not do so This Year—Various Committies Appointed at Meeting Last Night

A meeting was held at the T.A.S. rooms last night to make arrangements in connection with the society's annual picnic to TAS park on Dominion Day. The several committees were chosen and other arrangements made.

It was decided unanimously to discontinue the practice of soliciting the merchants for prizes. It is recognized that in the past this privilege has been abused and it was thought desirable not to continue it this year. The society will be much indebted to friends who wish to contribute to the list of prizes if they leave their prizes with Mr P. Kane at the TAS rooms.

The TAS picnic is always one of the most popular outings of the year and the one this summer should be the most successful held under the auspices of the society. The committees have been thoroughly organized and will work energetically in making the preparations.

An attractive programme in the different branches of amusements will be arranged.

CHILDREN MUST HAVE PLAY

Buffalo, NY, June 10—At the opening of the second day's session of the sixth annual conference on the education of backward, truant, and delinquent children here yesterday, Rev. C W. Skinner, superintendent of the Industrial Home School of Washington, DC. in an address on "The effect of play in the development of a child" made some rather striking comments upon the value of play.

He said that play is too deeply inset among the instinct of the human race to be taken out of the constitution of children.

"Extirpate play," he said "and the residue will be an idiot —idiots do not play.

It would mangle humanity more to extirpate play than religion or the instinct of procreation. Play is intrenched next to life itself, with precedence over the family and church. Next to the State, which cares for life should come care for play.

"Suppress play and you have the weasened-faced cotton mill boy of the South and the coal-breaker boy of Pennsylvania for the present generation, and devitalized humanity for the following.

"But it is a crime against society to omit the proper direction of play. Properly directed, play makes captains of industry, or rather, it promotes what makes true captains—character."

"OUTDOOR CANADA" FEARS FOR LONG DISTANCE GAME

Strong Article on Suspected Crookedness—Will the Public Confidence in the Marathon Sport Continue?

Outdoor Canada says;—Besides his unfortunate falling out with Hon. Thomas Longboat, Pat Powers saw his bank account in no wise improved as the result of his big all-star professional race at New York. The people who were expected to turn up in sufficient numbers to contribute $30,000 to the Powers bank roll were remiss in their duty. They contributed only $15,000, which barely met the expenses of the event. Baseball is on nowadays, and the fan will not abandon this favorite sport to see a polyglot procession chase around an oval several times. This condition is a matter of taste. There is another consideration that may have something to do with the slump in long distance running. Down in Quebec City, not long ago, Meadows, an Ontario professional, met Homer, an eastern pro., in a fifteen mile race. Meadows won handily, and, according to an admiring Toronto sporting reporter, he worked an in-and-out game that was not all to his credit. Here is the story as related by the Toronto writer;—

"Incidentally Meadows cleaned up a whole lot of bets, and did the distance in 1.24.56. Now, 1.24.56 compares very favorably with Alf. Shrubb's 1.23.57 at Montreal, when you consider that Meadows ran on a track like an ash heap and Shrubb ran on the best track in America. In addition, Meadows went back at five miles and lost half a lap to enable his backers to get down their wagers. Once the Guelph lad commenced to show his real form he ran Holmer into the woods in a hurry."

This is a glorification of dishonest work if ever there as one. Men have been ruled off the track for less offences than this. The primary object of the race, it seems, was to give certain gamblers and friends of Meadows a chance to win some money. The in-and-outer on the horse-racing track is very speedily shown where he is at. There is no disposition to charge all professionals or their managers with jockeying of this kind. Nothing of the kind has previously been alleged against any of the first-rankers in the game. But if sporting reporters are not to glorify such tactics the public taste will be debauched and the long distance race will soon become a thing of the past. Twenty odd years, when Harry Bethune, Quirk, McIvor and the others were at work on the hundred and twenty yard tracks they killed the game so dead that it never has been resurrected. Crookedness did the work. Crookedness will do the same thing in respect of long distance racing unless the promoters are careful."

THE LATEST CLAIMANT FOR LONG DISTANCE HONORS

A new Marathoner, according to himself, has loomed up on the local horizon in the person of Mr. William Boyston, of Chicago. Boyston was seen by the Review at the American Hotel this morning and explained that he could beat Longboat and the rest of the fast ones.

To entertain and convince his interviewer he trotted a few steps with the orthodox swing and said some money could be cleaned up on him in case he and Longboat met. Mr. Boyston is pretty well advanced in years, but acted in a very coltish manner. The question is whether he could keep up the jog for the long long journey of 26 miles plus 385 yards. He claims he can and would like a race with the celebrated redskin. In the meantime nobody will make any books on him against the fleet Onandaga.

WOULD HAVE WATERING CARTS SPRINKLE STREET SUNDAY

Peterborough, June 10.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—Sunday is a day on which people like to stroll about the streets or sit on their verandahs and with the numerous buggies and automobiles raising such an amount of dust it is most desirable that some measures should be taken to abate the dust nuisance.

Why not get the watering carts out on Sunday for a short time. It is the day when people are dressed in their best attire and when they don't want their week end relaxation on their verandahs and lawns spoiled by the ever-present dust.

Of all days in the week when the dust should be kept down, Sunday is the most important one.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

CLIMBED FIRE ESCAPE AND ROBBED RIVAL

Strange Action of Girl in New York—Under the Influence of Love Philtre

Special to the Review.

New York, June 8—Here's a new sort of love philtre.

According to Anita Sandron, a pretty twenty year old girl of No 364 West Fifty-eighth street, it does not compel the return of a recreant lover but prompts the pilfering of the best clothes of the girl who stole him away. Anita was in the West Side police court yesterday charged with stealing a dress, a feather boa and a gold watch worth $85 belonging to Minnie Henry, her former friend. In pleading guilty Anita told this strange tale of fortune telling and the influence of the love philtre;

"When I found that the man I loved was in love with Minnie it drove me almost crazy. I went to a Hindu fortune teller in Forty-second street near Broadway. I paid him $5 the first time and $35 in all. First he read my palms to find out about my past life and to get a glimpse of my future. Then he gave me the love philtre to make my lover come back to me. I was to take it every night and it was to make me think of my love and will him to come back.

"I took it, but I didn't think of my lover. I couldn't think of anything except Minnie's good clothes. The influence was so strong that it led me to climb into Minnie's room by the fire escape and take her things. I didn't know what I was doing because the red stuff the fortune teller gave me had made me crazy.

"He said I could not be held responsible for anything I did after taking the love philtre. I didn't care whether he was in love with Minnie or not. I don't want to see him any more and Minnie can have her clothes.

Magistrate Corrigan held Anita in $1000 for burglary and directed the police to investigate the fortune teller.

ORGANIST IN A BERLIN CHURCH

Congregation Greatly Pleased With Playing of Mrs. T. J. Mowat

The Berlin Telegraph says;—An interesting feature of the services at Trinity Methodist church yesterday was the fine organ work of Mrs. T.J. Mowat, the newly appointed organist of the church. Mrs. Mowat has been much sought after since her arrival in Berlin last year as organist for a number of churches in town, but for many reasons was unable to comply with these requests, flattering as some of them were. Mrs. Mowat has had wide experience as organist, having filled positions in the most imporatnt churches of Peterborough, London, Brockville and Lindsay, and the congregation of Trinity church are to be congratulated.

CANOE COMPANY REFUSED GRANT

And Fixed Assessment at Manufacturer's Committee Meeting

The Peterborough Canoe Company's request for a grant of land and fixed assessment was taken up and discussed at the meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee last night. The aldermen did not take to the application very favorably, and it was decided to leave the matter over until the company puts in a different proposition. At present they will not guarantee to enlarge their premises or to employ any more men, or they do not offer any compensation to the city for the land or privileges.

CHILDREN WERE TAKEN TO SHELTER

Mother Has Been Been Forced to go Out Working and Children Were Neglected

Six young children were taken to the Children's Aid Society to-day from an Edinburgh street residence by Mr. Geo. Cochrane and P. C. Newhall. The youngest is an infant and the eldest a boy of eleven years. The boy has been warned several times about going to school, but he cannot be controlled by his mother. The father cannot be found and as the mother has to go out working to support the children the result is that they have been neglected.

A steamer for the first time in 28 years, has arrived at Winnipeg from Grand Forks.

HASTINGS TO CELEBRATE DOMINION DAY

At a meeting held last Wednesday night composed of representatives of the Fire Brigade and Ball League, it was decided to celebrate Dominion Day this year. There will likely be a list of sports in the morning, a Calithumpian parade and sports after dinner as last year. The committee are busy working on the scheme and everyone should turn in to help a real good time along.—Hastings Star.

FIFTY CENT COWS

Cow testing association members are astonished to put it mildly, at the revelations of the scale and test. In one herd of 17 cows the average yield was 4,380 lbs milk, 4.2 test, and 183 lb fat. The highest yield of milk and fat from a seven year old cow, whose test was only an average of 3.8 for the full period of lactation. Her total yield was 7200 lb milk and 274lb. fat. Notice how high this is above the average, 2820 lb milk more. The yield of the poorest cow, a ten year old, was only 3050 lb milk, 3.7 test, and 111 lb fat. Notice how much this is below the average yield, 72 lb of fat less. But this ten year old cow gave much less than half what the seven year old cow gave; there is practically a difference between the two yields of 4,150 lbs. milk, and 163 lb fat. Is the one cow worth twice as much as the other. Carry the figuring one step further in order to ascertain profit. Valuing milk at $1 per 100 lb. and even putting the cost of feed at only $30, one cow made just 50 cents profit on the year's business. Did that pay labor, or interest, or any return for supervision or supply any incentive to keep cows? But even assuming that the first cow consumed feed to the value not of $30 merely, but fifty dollars, the profit is $22, or just 44 times as much as with the second cow. Supposing one could just deposit the profit made on each cow; with the kind that makes $22 profit, one could obtain a bank balance of $1000 by keeping 46 cows, but with the other kind it would necessitate keeping two thousand. Who could afford that? Farmers, the point is evident; test your cows and ascertain definitely whether the fifty cent cow boards in your stables.

Ottawa, June 1909.

SURE CURE FOR FRUIT SCALE

(Ukial correspondence of San Francisco Call).

Prof. Harlan has discovered that the ordinary black ant will remove the scale from the fruit trees without injuring the trees or leaves in the least. He says their work is more complete than that accomplished by spraying or by any of the imported insects. The ants are captured by placing a plate of sugar near an ant hill and when covered with ants the plate is put in the forks of the infected tree. The ants leave the sugar and go to work on the scale. As soon as they all leave the sugar the plate is placed at the foot of the tree and as the ants come down after having cleaned the tree of scale they again assemble on the sugar and are thus easily removed to another tree.

Several ranchers in this section have tried the scheme and estimate that it will be worth millions to the fruit growers.

Frank Sleeth and Joe Saunders of Vancouver were drowned in the Fraser from a canoe.

PETERBORO'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterborough a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin running; simply this, more families will of necessity move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase in other words prosperity is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city.

¶ People who are contemplating purchasing homes will do well to see J. T. O'CONNELL & CO'S list now and get terms. We have a choice selection of properties at moderate prices and easy terms. LORD MORLEY PRESIDES OVER PRESS CONFERENCE

Famous Statesman and Litterateur Makes a Plea for Simplicity and Directness—Press More to Blame for International Trouble Than Any Other Institution—Winston Churchill and Lord Milner Speak.

London, June 11.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At the Imperial Press Conference yesterday Lord Morley presided. Mr. Birrell, Lord Milner, and Winston Churchill were present. The subject was "Literature and the Press."

Lord Morley asked the editors to strive for two moderate aims—simplicity and directness.

"I know of no more stupendous and overwhelming fact," said Lord Morley, "than the supreme dominance of the English tongue over the millions in the new worlds in the west and the ancient worlds in the east."

Referring to what he called the "rebarbarism of Europe—the rattling back into arms and the preparation to use arms," of which so much had been heard in the course of the conference, Lord Morley said he thought the press was more answerable for this than all the Ministers, officials and diplomatists taken together, and he pleaded for a systematic and persevering work on the part of newspapers on behalf of peace among the nations.

Winston Churchill reminded the pressmen that confidence bred confidence between nations, and hatred and suspicion bred the very dangers wherefrom they originated.

Lord Milner said they had heard much about the re-barbarization of Europe. He thought it dreadful nonsense. If they reflected they would remember that disputes between nations now were settled less by war than ever before. One of the most powerful reasons was that nations were organized on the system of national armies, and it was the citizen armies which made for peace.

Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, presiding at a lunch at the Constitutional Club to the press delegates, said: "We are all parochial in our instincts. Unless we can cultivate amongst the populations of the Empire the imaginative, sympathetic insight, based upon knowledge, which is the only solid bond of unity, we shall deprive ourselves of the greatest of all aids to unifying the Empire into an organic whole."

He was sure the press would preach that local security must fundamentally depend on imperial security. In the Government of the Empire the parental stage was over. We now had reached the stage of formal equality. No one desired to disturb it. He was proud to belong to an Empire, the parts whereof found absolute independence no bar to higher unity.

Lord Charles Beresford has intimated that he will visit Canada in the autumn.

MAY HAVE TO USE ORE TO STOP FLOOD AT SOO

Great Doubt Felt at Scene of Disaster Whether or Not Wickets Will Stand Against Stream—Hon. G. P. Graham Returns from Quebec Bridge Conference and Hurries at Once to the Soo to Hasten Repairs.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 11.—The loading of hundreds of tons of pig iron on cars at the Algoma Iron Works and dumping it into the canal from the swing bridge appeared the only method of stopping the torrent which continues to sweep through the Canadian lock. At noon all the wickets except one had been placed. This concentrated the current on the narrow space where the wicket was to fall. After much labor the wicket was lowered a short distance only to find a huge boulder impeding it. In the effort to raise the wicket again the frame work was bent so that it cannot be raised or lowered. The crucial test is now on; the entire nineteen-foot fall is concentrated in the small place to be occupied by this wicket. A question arises, too, whether the other wickets will be able to hold, as the last one is lowered and the strain is put upon them as well.

Those who witnessed the accident claim that the boats escaped by a miracle. The Walker came into the lower gates at great speed, and the high wall of water held behind the gate came down with tremendous velocity. The lines of the Assiniboia were snapped like strings, and she barely missed the Walker as she came out of the chamber. The Crescent City followed, and marine men cannot understand how she escaped the sill of the lock. She stuck there for a short time and teetered like a seesaw until she finally tore loose and came down, crashing into the Assiniboia and later into the Walker. Had the Walker crossed the channel and the two boats piled into her a record wreck in the history of North American marine would have occurred. The Assiniboia was crowded with passengers, and there is no doubt that hardly a soul would have escaped.

Outside of the damage to the canal the disaster had no bearing on the other industries in the Soo. The water in the power canal, which feeds the pulp mill and the dynamo rooms, lowered nearly a foot just as the accident occurred, and after that regained its level.

Hon. Mr. Graham returned yesterday afternoon from New York, where he was for several days conferring with the commission of expert engineers which has in hand the preparations of plans for the Quebec bridge.

Mr. Graham left at midnight for Sault Ste. Marie, to personally inspect the damage to the locks on Wednesday. Experts of the Department at Toronto will meet him here.

A telegram was received from J. W. Ross, superintending engineer of the canal, that the locks might be in shape to accommodate traffic as early as Monday night, though the work might require a longer time.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

Forest Fires In Nova Scotia.

Guysboro, N.S., June 11.—Destructive forest fires are devastating eastern Guysboro County. The drought of the past three weeks has made the forest as dry as tinder and within the last two days fires have started in six different places within sight of Guysboro town. Whole belts of valuable timber have been wiped out.

Dunsmuir Begs Off.

Victoria, B.C., June 11.—Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir has asked to be relieved of the duties of his office. He has written the Governor-General-in-Council to this effect, but has consented to remain in office until a successor can be found. His terms of office of five years had another year yet to run.

Sold Ring For a Quarter.

Belleville, June 11.—A few days ago a stranger sold a ring to a hack-driver at the G.T.R. station here for 25 cents. The ring was solid gold with a diamond, valued at $150. The police yesterday received word that the ring had been stolen from the store of J. S. Gill, jeweller, Sudbury.

Ex-Banker Roy is in the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary hospital with diabetes.

Peter Welch, an M.C.R. sectionman, was killed by a train at West Lorne yesterday.

C.P.R. traffic for the week ending June 7, was $1,424,000; for the same week last year, $1,222,000.

Charges preferred against Charles and John Little, hotelkeepers of Maidstone, of inducing witnesses to commit perjury, were dismissed yesterday.

The world's record for a day's run by a trans-Atlantic liner has been moved up a couple of miles by the Mauretania and now stands at 673 nautical miles for the day.

"The Girl in Blue," a burlesque dancer recently sentenced to eight days imprisonment in Montreal, is now out on $500 bail in New York City for "offending public propriety." Joseph Hurtig, the theatre manager, is similarly accused.

WEST PETERBORO' ELECTION PROTEST

The examination for discovery of the respondent, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., was held yesterday afternoon before Mr. W. F. Johnston, barrister, the special examiner appointed by the election court judges for the occasion. Mr. Watson, K.C., and Mr. R. R. Hall were present with Mr. Stratton, while Mr. Du Vernet, K.C., Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., and Mr. Burnham, the petitioner, appeared on the examination. The examination lasted for two hours and three-quarters. The trial of the protest will take place on September 7th next in the court house, Peterborough.

AUSTRALIA WANTS HIGH COMMISSIONER

Melbourne, June 11.—Premier Deakin will introduce into Parliament a bill to constitute the office of high commissioner for the Commonwealth in London. Col. J. F. G. Fexton, who holds the rank of honorary Minister in the Deakin Cabinet, will represent the Commonwealth at the Imperial conference on defence.

DRUGGISTS HAVE THEIR TRUUBLES

Montreal, June 11.—As the result of an action taken by the Pharmaceutical Association against Hanfield, the druggist, a thousand actions are entered. Hanfield was charged with selling cocaine, and his brothers, lawyers, have entered eight actions against 150 druggists for selling calomel illegally. These failed on a technicality. They are bound to get their revenge, and have entered a test case, to be followed by 150 others for selling liquor illegally. The practice is general by all the druggists, and the only defence can be that the offence is technical. The penalty is $50 or $100, of which the informer gets a quarter.

LADY ABERDEEN HIRED A SPECIAL

Boston, June 11.—Wednesday night a special train on the Boston & Maine Railroad, carrying Lady Aberdeen and party, took 63 minutes to reach Manchester, N.H., 57 miles distant from Boston. The first 26 miles of the trip was made in 26 minutes. Lady Aberdeen and her party missed the regular train to Montreal, en route to Quebec, and a special train of a combination car and the Grand Trunk private car Violet was chartered at the regular rate of $3 a mile for the special for the trip to Concord, 74 miles away. Here the regular train was caught. Lady Aberdeen will arrive in Toronto Tuesday.

THREE TRAINMEN KILLED OUTRIGHT

Vancouver, June 11.—Two engineers, Bob Nicholl and A. E. McPheters, were killed outright and a fireman, name unknown, also met instant death yesterday afternoon in a head-on collision on the Great Northern Railway near Burnaby, five miles out of Vancouver. The Ladner train was delayed in leaving Vancouver by an open drawbridge. Five minutes late, she was just entering Wolf's siding, when the Vancouver bound train thundered around a curve. Nicholl had a few minutes before obtained leave to go on his holidays to-day.

BOY DROWNED IN TORONTO BAY

Toronto, June 11.—While throwing stones into the water from the Queen's Wharf, six-year-old Tommy Patterson of 18 Portland street fell into the bay yesterday morning and was drowned.

He had gone to the wharf with Eddie Brown, who rushed to a coal yard nearby and gave the alarm. A number of men went to the spot and Matt Ackroyd was sent for, but before he arrived the body was recovered. The boy was quite dead when he was taken from the water.

PROBABILITIES.

Saturday, moderate variable winds; fine and warm.

HEAVY PEACHBASKET HAT UPSET CANOE

Woman Put Hat at One Side of Head and Over Went Boat

New York, June 10.—Peter Sneeringer, of No. 1445 Westchester avenue, took Mrs. Peter Sneeringer, of No. 1445 Westchester avenue, to Bronx park yesterday afternoon and together they strolled through the zoological gardens to the long wharf of the Zoological Society's boat house on the Bronx river. Young sweethearts and happily married couples were out in the stream in rowboats, canoes and launches and Mrs. Peter asked Mr. Peter to take her out in a canoe.

Mrs. Peter's large peachbasket hat sat squarely on the young woman's head, but she wanted it to assume a rakish yachting angle. Just as Mr. Sneeringer paddled out to a point where the water is eighteen feet dep his wife got her hat on the side of ben head. This caused the canoe to take such a decided list to port that it overturned and the two Sneeringers went into the water.

Everybody in a nearby boat reached the scene first, according to their stories, and dragged the Sneeringers into the launch Albatross, guided by H. P. Mitchell. After they had squeezed most of the water out of their clothes the Sneeringers went home with their right hands raised.

SUFFRAGETTE TALKS AT THE CAPITAL

Ottawa, June 11.—Miss Keegan, a Canadian girl who suffered imprisonment in London along with other English suffragettes, addressed an open air meeting at the residence of George Holland last evening. She is an excellent speaker and fairly captured her audience, which included as many men as women.

A feature was the heckling to which Miss Keegan was subjected to by some old country men in the audience. So skilfully did she handle them that they left before the meeting was over.

Bishop Mills Holds On.

Kingston, June 11.—At the closing session of the synod of Ontario, a resolution was offered to change the patronage system, as held to be detrimental to the clergy, but the bishop said that as long as he was in office he would not surrender the canon, and the resolution was withdrawn. A Sunday school commission was elected as follows: Canon Starr, Rev. H. H. Bedford Jones, Chancellor Judge McDonald and Dudley Hill. Nov. 17 was set for missionary day.

Douma Invited to England.

St. Petersburg, June 11.—The news of the invitation extended by English politicians to representatives of the Douma to visit England has produced an excellent effect. M. Khomiakoff, president of the Douma, and twenty members of the Council of the Empire leave for England, June 15.

Boy Loses Three Fingers.

Kingston, June 11.—Patrick Melleville, aged 10, found a cartridge loaded with dynamite and struck is with a stone. He has an ugly wound in the forehead, and the tops of three fingers blown off.

A Seizure of Furs.

Belleville, June 11.—Capt. Hunter, fish and game inspector for Eastern Ontario, has made a big seizure of hides and furs near Pembroke. They are supposed to belong to poachers in the Algonquin Park district.

The C.P.R. has a fireproof paint for wooden bridges.

The police force of Enthwhistle, Alta., has been doubled.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE ARCHBISHOP

Impressive Ceremony at Ottawa—Many Notable Personages Present

Ottawa, June 11.—The funeral of the late Archbishop Duhamel yesterday morning was the most notable ceremony of the kind witnessed in Canada since the funeral of Cardinal Taschereau. The requiem mass was sung by Mgr. Sbarretti, the Papal ablegate, the French sermon was preached by Archbishop Bruchesi, of Montreal, while the English sermon was delivered by Archbishop McEvay of Toronto.

Federal Ministers present were: Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Hon. Chas. Murphy, while Hon. R. W. Scott was also present. The Quebec Government was represented by Hon. J. A. Decarie and Hon. C. R. Devlin.

ATE BEER GLASS IS NOW DEAD

New York, June 11.—The World says: James Shea, laborer, 28 years old, who lived with his wife and six small children at 23 Huntington street, Brooklyn, died Wednesday afternoon, at his home as a result of eating a beer glass on Feb. 10 last. On that date he was in a saloon in Brooklyn and made a small bet that he could break a beer glass and eat it. He did so.

Ever since then Shea has been suffering pains in all parts of his body, and pieces of glass have been coming out of his chest, back, arms, legs, hands and feet. He had glass all through his system, and many doctors in the hospitals told him he would die if he did not undergo an operation. He refused, and Wednesday the end came.

LITTLE CHILD BADLY BURNED

Set Fire to Her Clothes While Mother Was Away and Will Likely Die

Special to the Review.

Toronto, June 11.—Nellie Adams, a four-year-old child, got matches while her mother was away. She set fire to her clothing and ran screaming out of the house. She inhaled the flames and was terribly burned and will likely die.

NEW YORK SHOCKED BY FIENDISH ACT

Special to the Review.

New York, June 11.—Samuel Beran, a painter of 221 East 98th street, was the man whose dismembered and headless body was found in a bundle at the corner of Oliver and Henry streets last night.

The head was found to-day under an arch of the Brooklyn bridge by a policeman shortly after the body had been identified by Beran's brother and sister.

While a number of arrests have been made in the case, the police do not say they have the actual criminal and are working on the theory that a woman was at the bottom of the bottom of the slaying.

One hundred picked detectives are working on the case.

IS THE NORTH COUNTRY IN A STATE OF MORAL DEPRAVITY?

Peterborough Man Says That There is a Good Field for Missionaries—Something Should be Done to Improve Conditions.

A local man, who has been on a trip through the northern part of the country, says that the conditions there are really startling and something should be done to see if a better state of affairs from the standpoint of morals, could not be attained. He says the state of affairs is shocking and immediate steps should be taken to promote more desirable conditions.

"The details of my complaints are not such," he stated, "that they would make acceptable public reading matter but I think it is the only humane thing to do to call attention to the condition of things. What in the name of Heaven is the use of sending missionaries 10,000 miles away when religious and moral reform work is needed right in our county."

SIX CHILDREN HAVE NOT HAD HAPPY SURROUNDINGS

The children who were taken from the Edinburgh street residence yesterday to the Children's Shelter, were present in court this morning and the father was also on hand. Considerable evidence was heard in regard to the case, after which the Magistrate ordered that the house be thoroughly cleaned by the father and if the conditions meet with the approval of Mr. Cochrane, the children will be returned to the home, but in the meantime they will be taken care of by the Children's Aid Society.

Mr. E. L. Goodwill was present in the interests of the Children's Aid Society.

P. C. Newhall and Mr. Cochrane gave evidence to the effect that the house was in a filthy and unhealthy condition. The floors were dirty and there was a bad odor about the place. Dirty clothes were strewn around and the food did not appear to be up to the choicest. The eldest of the girls attended school and was well thought of by the teacher. A thirteen months old baby was left in the hands of a little girl of three most of the time and frequently it was left alone. One boy, aged eleven, was incorrigible and wandered around the streets, and had slept out in barns at times. The mother worked at an hotel and was away from home at seven in the morning until half-past eight in the evening. The father worked in the country and very seldom visited his children or sent the mother any money.

The father stated that he had worked in the woods during the winter but was now employed at Chemong. He had sent money at different times during the winter, through his brother and $23.00 had been sent by himself. He did not spend much money on liquor nor did he know of the circumstances in which his family was placed. If given a chance to clean up the house and be allowed to keep the children there would be no further trouble, and on this condition the case was allowed to rest for a few days.

DR. PRINGLE TALKS VICE AT THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

In Slashing Speech at the Presbyterian General Assembly Yukon Minister Scores Liberal Administration—Could Have Made Money Campaigning—Gathering Concludes Its Work—Reports Read.

Hamilton, June 11.—The Presbyterian General Assembly closed yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Somerville reported for the finance committee, eastern section, which had a balance of $812,285. Rev. J. S. Sutherland, Halifax, reported for the western section, an increase of $11,761 in receipts.

The committee named to offer Rev. W. Rochester the position of mission superintendent of Alberta reported that he had declined the offer, as he is receiving $500 a year more now as secretary of the western section of the Lord's Day Alliance.

J. C. James, Charlottetown, reported for the eastern section of the widows' and orphans' fund, which had receipts of $11,517 and disbursements of $5,032; capital account now amounts to $171,700. Rev. Dr. Campbell, Winnipeg, reported for the western section receipts of $26,266, and a balance left of only $1,057.

Moral and social reform came up yesterday morning in such portentous shape that the assembly could do nothing but sit still and listen. There was no word of protest or question of fact.

"That this assembly deplores and condemns the evils which are found in our political life to-day, which are rapidly lowering the moral sense of our people; urges upon its ministers and people the duty of earnestly and courageously combating these evils by voice and vote whenever they manifest themselves."

Such was the amendment moved by Rev. Dr. Pringle — of Yukon fame — and which was later carried unanimously. His statements were received in general with silence, though applause occasionally broke out.

Dr. Pringle began by asserting that the assembly expected some reference in the report to the evils apparent in political life.

"They exist — unless all men are liars. Unless the papers on both sides of politics are edited by men who are writing what they know to be untrue.

"I think I have some right to speak. For a year I was a notorious storm centre in the Presbyterian Church. It has been said, 'John writes his letter for the purpose of advertising himself.' The Government had been giving church sites and other favors in the Yukon, and the objectors said, 'What business had a home missioner causing the Government to withdraw support?'"

"I am not talking politics. I do not want to make an attack on any Government, but simply to illustrate my notion that there is corruption in the political life of Canada," he continued. "You can hear that men can be bought for $5. I can go down to Nova Scotia any day and trot you out half a dozen men who can be bought for $5.

"I will take a text from the blue book," said Dr. Pringle in his whimsical way. "From the Department of Marine and Fisheries." He quoted several passages of comment from Judge Cassels, and his declaration, "the chief remedy lies in the awakening of the public conscience."

"Judge Cassels, mind you, not a crank from the Yukon or Nova Scotia! Will the public conscience be aroused by the politicans? Not much? Who were ordained and trained and called to do it but the ministers?" he asked.

"Put this thing down, whether it is found in the ranks of Conservatives or Liberals. Right when Judge Cassels was making his investigations there was appointed a fishing warden for every 25 persons in one little county. A hundred and nine wardens were appointed, and they were appointed between July and December. These men were paid from $10 to $65. I assert that was a direct bribe, and the man who was elected for the Government had only 30 votes majority."

Next he told the story of the three wharves at Tony River, Caribou and Pugwash. Since 1904 nothing had been done on these structures until the Saturday before the last election. On that Saturday men were as busy as ant hills. On Monday and Tuesday and ever since they were as dead as before.

"Don't get afraid. I'm not going to discuss it at all," he observed, referring to the Pugsley scandal. "It is known nearly a million was expended in connection with the railway. A commission was appointed. What did they find. I don't know what they found, but this is what they reported—$134,000 had gone out of sight, due either to dishonesty or culpable negligence. This is denied and the finding was not true it is said. Very well. You can take either horn of the dilemma. If one is right, then Dr. Pugsley and his friends ought to go where people who steal usually go, or if it is not true, then you have a judge of the Supreme Court, a prominent banker and a prominent lawyer come to a finding such as that on account of political leanings."

"I could have made more money in three months before the last election than I will make in five years. I could have had more for four addresses than I will make in a year," he affirmed. He repeated that he was not talking politics, but political corruption. "Take Weston, N.B., where Emerson is. I know a prominent man there who would not vote for Emerson, but he would not vote for the other man either, because the one was as bad as the other."

LATEST NEWS AS TOLD IN DESPATCHES

C.P.R. Conductors.

Winnipeg, June 11.—Eight C.P.R. conductors representing the unions of this body from the Atlantic to the Pacific, who have been in session in Winnipeg for the last two weeks, left Wednesday for Montreal, where they will take their troubles before Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. The committee came to Winnipeg in the first instance because of the fact that the trouble was principally on the western lines. The visit to the president would indicate that they are of a seriou nature.

Capital May Flee to Canada.

London, June 11.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, attacking the budget, said there were two great portions of the Empire which were in no fear of the income tax—Canada and India. High authorities had told him that as a result of that kind of legislation capital would find its natural use in those countries. He was afraid that was so.

Mustn't Smoke Cigarettes.

Seattle, Wash., June 11.—The new anti-cigarette law went into effect at midnight on Wednesday. Any person who has them in his possession is subject to a fine and imprisonment. The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition police will enforce the law strictly.

EDUCATION

The question of to educate or not to educate, has been so often debated that the following article appearing in the Contemporary Review, will doubtless be of great interest. The two sides of the debate are fairly stated and fairly answered. The objection of the "limited" educationist is set aside by a plain, simple and obviously true and correct statement of the case;—

"The real object of education in the life of men and women is forcibly pointed out by Mr. J. E. G. deMontmorency in the Contemporary Review. It is to raise entire classes, and not to impoverish them by taking away their best.

"In fact, taken by itself, the principle involved is incapable of solving any great national problem of education. Machinery that can detect and capture a brilliant intellect and from the poorest class and can give that intellect an open-sesame from the slum to the Royal Society is no doubt machinery that appeals to the dim sense of justice possessed by most of u. It gives the brilliant intellect its just opportunity, and supplies the community with one thinker more. The village Hampdens the mute, inglorious Miltons, the illiterate Newtons are provided for, the world's sense of justice is satisfied, and the accumulation of knowledge receives an accession.

"But it is to be noticed that the educational problem of the country at large is not solved. On the contrary it is intensified. We take away from the poorest classes their best intellects; we translate these intellects into other classes; but the process as such only leaves the classes from which the great intellect is drawn the poorer unless another principle as well as that of the educational ladder is at work. If the local University merely exists as a rung in an educational ladder its existence is not justified; it is a very costly expedient to secure results that can be better secured by Oxford and Cambridge.

"It must not be supposed that I do not realise and appreciate the value of the principle involved in the idea of the ladder from the elementary school to the University and the professions." But I have no doubt whatever that, standing alone, it is capable of great injury to the community. To set up as an educational ideal before before the eyes of a vast community the doctrine that the duty of every boy and girl is to rise out of the class in which they are born, seems scarcely to partake of those moral principles which ought to be at the root of every educational system. To base national education on the doctrine of intellectual scramble for place and power is neither good economics nor good morality.

"That men and women of character and genius should be given the opportunity to rise is essential, but that a vast educational system should have as its chief end the creation of those opportunities is totally unsound. The principle of the ladder is, or should be, but a subordinate part of a much wider principle: the principle that the chief end of an educational system is to raise the moral and intellectual standard of entire classes of the population by the process of developing to its utmost limits the peculiar and individual gifts of each member of each class. This principle necessarily involves rapid movement between various sections of the community, but it impoverishes no class, and steadily raises the social standard of all classes."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The "man with the petition" should bear in mind Judge Monet's address to Roy;—

"I want to render the sentence in so very few words that all bankers who could be tempted to act the way you did, can learn it by heart and always remember it. You will have time during your detention to think of the clients of the bank you have ruined. Some of them are dead from the sorrow suffered by your crime and some others have lost their mind. The verdict rendered against you was just and impartial. You could not be more guilty than you are. I condemn you to the maximum term, five years' imprisonment in the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary."

The pity that is extended to those who deliberately and selfishly ruin others is akin to that which showers bouquets on malefactors, and not one whit more justifiable.

The making of drunkards is a process almost entirely dependent upon the victims themselves. It is due in the first place to carelessness. Men let themselves drift aimlessly and carelessly into drinking early and often. After a bit alcohol gets to be a necessary stimulant for jaded nerves. Then in all probability, the innate weakness of the character of the man shows itself and he fails to pull up. Drunkenness is due in the last analysis to lack of self-control. Many a man is good enough for a spurt and may be furious enough at times, but the cool, determined, enduring man is rare. Such a man could drink at the mouth of the bottomless pit without danger. He must be left out of the reckoning however, being in a class by himself. It is always the weak who go to the wall, and it is for them laws are made.

The statement of the Scotsman a few days ago that a plague of locusts has caused incalculable damage to the crops in the neighborhood of Odessa, recalls to my mind an experience I had in North America in 1876. I had crossed over from New York to Staten Island very early one Friday morning during the very hot summer of that year, with the object of tramping across the island to the last home of Aaron Burr (1757-1836), where that unfortunate American statesman died in a miserable "frame (wooden) house in abject poverty. It was a "trifling" pedestrain journey of about thirty-five miles. At a "saloon" (lager beer shop) I was strongly advised by the landlord not to proceed any farther, as "the locusts were around." I persisted, and entered the (then) deep forest that stretched for over fifteen miles in an eastern direction. The trees tempered the heat—for a time. But the locusts came up, and by midday I could hardly see my way. First, the heavens were obscured by black masses of them; then they descended on the trees, and fell around me.

"Thick as autumnal leaves that strew the brooks in Vallombrosa," but not so pleasant. As I proceeded the trees became absolutely bare of leaves, preyed upon by the countless myriads of these destructive insects. My pathway became obscured, covered with them, and as I struggled on I literally waded through layers of insects. The heat and the stench were appalling, and it was very late in the afternoon before I arrived at a clearing on the east side of the island, and was welcomed at a saloon as if I had just escaped from the jaws of a horrible death. No language can describe the terrors of a plague of locusts.—G. W. M.—The Scotsman.

Life is not lonely or dull on a South African farm, although town folk, who get up at nine o'clock in the morning and dawdle through the day, pretend to think it is. There is always something to be done. Before sunrise my brothers were up and out with the men looking after the flocks, mending fences, inspecting here, improving there. Our farm has 30,000 acres, and carries roughly 9,000 sheep and perhaps 1,000 head of horses and cattle. It might carry more, for at times the grass is more than the animals can eat, but we have to be prepared for the sudden summer droughts. Then the uneaten grass dries in the hot sun like hay and carries the stock over till the next rains. Such rains—in England they do not know what rain means! Last year the river—just a fine stream, flows through the farm—came and washed away half our garden. But such things are only part of the unexpectedness of South African life; they do not worry us much.

There is no place for children like a South African farm. We were out in the open all day long. Every tree on the farm we climbed and in the orchard, too, eating the apples before they were ripe, for which we were soundly whipped. That also was good, for the green apples did us no harm, and the whippings taught us to respect our elders. In a creek by the river stood a willow tree which we used like a flip-flap. Bending its point over to the bank, one of us would get on and be switched across but if on the other side the branch was not caught and held, then the luckless rider would oscillate like the pendulum of a clock put upside down till at last he—or she—must fall into the water. Then he would be fished out and we would all sit on the bank while his clothes dried in the hot sun. —Exchange.

"Professor Stalker, taking as his subject 'Calvin and his Ideals' said that when one read back into the Reformation period one became conscious that all the Reformers were busy about the same things. Each was trying his best to make a Confession of Faith, a prayer book, and a book of discipline. And it was not difficult to understand the reason why the Reformation was at bottom, a new conception of the universe, a new view of God and of man and this was naturally expressed in a Confession of Faith. But the new view of God rendered necessary a new mode of approach to Him, and this was expressed in a prayer book. Similarly the new view of man rendered necessary a new kind of conduct towards Him, and this was embodied in a book of discipline. They must study his activity in these three respects. He should pass by the first—the Confession of Faith, as it had been assigned to his eloquent colleague. As to the second, the prayer book, the simplicity of Calvinistic worship was usually traced to the principle adopted by Calvin that nothing must be admitted into the service of God but what was commanded in Scripture. But Calvin recognized exceptions to this rule expressed in well known words to the Confession of Faith—"There are some circumstances connected with the worship of God common to human actions and societies, which are to be ordered by the light of nature and Christian prudence," and that was a door wide enough to admit innumerable innovations. The true reason for the simplicity of Calvinistic worship was really much deeper. The system the Reformers were opposing was one of salvation by works. For so much work there was so much cancelling of demerit. Calvin in his own conversion had been taught from above that life eternal was to be obtained in a totally different way, not by the works of man but by the grace of God. Hence the best worship was that which allowed God to act on man most freely and fully with as little as possible, which might distract the worshipper from the object of worship. That accounted, too, for another peculiarity of Calvinistic worship, the prominence given in it to preaching. In prayer man spoke to God, but in preaching God spoke to man, so that this was one of the ways of letting God have access to the soul of the worshipper. They could not be too thankful for the line Calvin was led to take in reference to another portion of divine worship. While Zwingli rejected the singing of the congregation and others of the Reformers were indifferent if not hostile to it, Calvin made himself its champion not only calling upon his associates to employ their talents in versifying the Psalms, but translating several of them into metre himself. He placed at the very heart of worship the grateful response of man to the grace of God, and this was what created singing. If anyone found the actual prayer book produced by Calvin and used at Geneva, brief and meagre, let him remember that it was only a seed which Calvin sowed. If it had not grown it was not to him that the blame attached, but to those who had not cultivated it. It was, however, growing. There was hardly a Calvinistic church in the world, where at the present moment efforts were not being put forth for the improvement of worship, and there was no reason why these should not be carried out in this spirit.'—Scotsman.

Couldn't Lift It.

It was on board the peerless liner Hurrytania, and the lady was in tears.

An officers paused and asked the cause.

"W-why," she stammered, "I noticed that everybody on board was taking all sorts of things for souvenirs, and I thought I'd like that nice looking anchor over there, and when nobody was looking I stooped down to lift it and broke sixteen tapes and lost seventeen buttons—and the horrid thing wouldn't come up!"

And she wept afresh as she walked away.

The Smart Verger.

The church possessed a valuable Bible, which was only used on Sundays, says a writer in an English magazine, speaking of an English country parish. During the week it was kept in a box which rather curiously formed the stand upon which the reader of the lessons stood. On one occasion when this was being shown to a visitor the remark was made that it did not seem very reverant for even a clergyman to tread upon the Bible. "Pardon me," the old verger replied. "In this church, sir, we take our stand upon the Scriptures."

OF INTEREST

Apathy Towards Armenia

The painful slowness with which aid has been sent to the suffering Armenians, and the apparent international apathy toward the renewal of Turkish massacres in Asia Minor, are drawing forth indignant comments from the American press. One editor warns his readers that "murder in Armenia is only out of breath," and a second makes a plea for "one single, sincere concerted demonstration on the part of the alleged Christian countries to forever guarantee the lives of the vanishing Christians."

It is conservatively reckoned now that 25,000 Armenians have been murdered in the region about Alexandretta Bay in Asia Minor, and as many more are said to be homeless and in grave danger of starvation. In the province of Adana, the newspapers tell of what closely approaches a complete extermination of male Armenians while many small villages were actually wiped out. "The massacres are doubly distressful because there has seemed to be so little that we can do," says Harper's Weekly and this seems to be the complaint from every quarter. The European nations are reported to be too much occupied watching each other's territorial ambitions in Turkey to be unduly disturbed at this time, over the massacres. The United States, after some delay and finally aroused by the murder of two of her missionaries, has dispatched armored cruisers to Turkish waters to protect American life and interests, and the Young Turks themselves have appointed a military commission to restore order in Asia Minor and to investigate and punish those responsible for the atrocities. The Governor of Adana has been dismissed and is to be tried for complicity in the massacres. The Armenians themselves have formulated a series of requests and submitted them to the Government at Constantinople. They call for the punishment of the Moslem fanatics, and, as far as possible, for restitution of property taken and of rights destroyed. They ask a return of the women and children who were abducted and a renewed and strengthened permission to worship according to their own methods.

The Atlanta Constitution brands the international apathy as an "indictment of twentieth century civilization." We read further:

"Because the European nations fear the political effect of intervention, because they are jealous of the threatened ascendency in Turkey of one or the other, they connive at murder and blink at rapine; the traditional hands off policy of America, places this nation in the same disreputable category."

The New Orleans Times-Democrat makes an impassioned plea for international action and says:;

"An international convention whereby the powers themselves will openly acknowledge their responsibility and undertake to police the danger points on their account is sorely needed. Imaginary boundary lines should not prevent the rescue of human beings from torture and intolerable outrage. A plainly worded notice to semi-civilized governments that the civilized nations, of their own initiative, will take steps to suppress these outbreaks and to punish their inciters, backed by ships and troops specifically detailed for that service at convenient points would go very far, we apprehend, to put a stop to these atrocities whether they are inspired by religious frenzy or by political intrigue."

The Chicago Tribune warns its readers that Turkey is now at a crisis in which the intervention of foreign influences would be of very doubtful wisdom.

It continues thus:

"With the abolition of the Hamidian rule there is hope for Turkey's progress toward freedom and good government and upon the establishment of the new forces and the new ideas very largely depends the end of such barbarities as have taken place within the last few weeks. The Young Turks stand for amity and cooperation among the races, and if their power is confirmed there is good reason to believe that the Armenian atrocities will end.

"On the other hand if while they are a sect in the critical stage of their reform they are embarrassed by foreign demands for immediate and drastic action against the Moslems it might very well foment a fanatical reaction against them. The result of this would be the restoration of Hamidian tyranny, more slaughter, and a series of complications involving endless considerations of international politics."

Scientific Experts in the Kitchen.

"But," says the lady of the house to the applicant, "you really should not ask such high wages from me when you consider the conveniences with which my house is equipped—electric cooking range, electric washing and ironing machines, vacuum sweepers and dusters, pneumatic carriers from and to all floors and rooms, 'phones and annunciators in each room, sanitary wall and floor finishes, filtered air, filtered water, antiseptic refrigerator"—

"Yes, mum," interrupts the applicant, "but the likes of you ought to know that a scientific expert draws a lot more money than a kitchen mechanic."

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleriver, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—Mrs. EMMA CHATEL, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec.

Another Operation Avoided.

Adrian, Ga.—"I suffered untold misery from female troubles, and my doctor said an operation was my only chance, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me without an operation."—LENA V. HENRY, R.F.D. 3.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases.

NATIONS THAT DIED.

Most of Them Went to Their Doom Fighting, as Did Rome.

Most countries which have died have gone down fighting. The Roman empire perished like that.

The empire of the west became so weak at last that it could make no stand against its enemies. Rome was sacked by the barbarians and eventually became not the capital of a vast empire, but the city of the popes, over which the pontiffs reigned as kings. Finally the city was taken without a real fight by the soldiers of the king of Italy.

The empire of the east had its capital at Constantinople. For centuries it was the greatest power in the world. But it became honeycombed with vice and enervated with pride and luxury; also it grew old and weak.

Then the Turks made a tigerish spring on Constantinople and took it by storm. The last of the Greek emperors died sword in hand, and his descendants are living in England to-day in very humble situations.

Egypt, once so powerful and famous under the pharaohs, was conquered by Rome and was afterward swamped by the Moslems.

The great moguls used to reign in India. In the days of Queen Elizabeth the mogul, or emperor of Delhi, as he was sometimes called, was so powerful that he thought it a vast condescension on his part to receive an embassy from the maiden queen.

But as time went on the great rajahs, or tributary kings, rebelled against the moguls. India was rent asunder by the wars between rival rajahs. This gave the Europeans a chance.

France at first held the upper hand and nearly conquered the land. But then England drove France back and seized the empire of the great moguls for herself. The heir of the moguls still enjoys a pension given by the British Government.

Poland used to occupy a big place on the map of Europe. At one time it was much larger and stronger than Russia.

But Poland perished through her own faults and follies. The mass of the common people were slaves in all but name; hence the nobles and the people never stood together in times of danger or disaster.

Poland was a big country, but it was divided against itself, and Russia, Prussia and Austria combined were more powerful. They all three joined hands, and each took a large share of Poland in 1772.

In 1793 the trio of robbers made a second swoop. Only the ghost of Poland was left. Another year saw the end of the tragedy. The last remnants of Poland were swallowed up by Russia, Prussia and Austria.

The fate of the republic of Venice is one of the most dramatic in all history. Its doges ranked as the equals of the proudest kings. Its alliance was coveted by the greatest powers. All real power rested in the hands of the dreaded council of ten and the secret three. The latter was a trio of living mysteries and were known by name to practically no one in Venice.

So the Government of Venice was a terror to its own people and the outside world. Then Napoleon came upon the scene, and "the Lion of St. Mark licked the dust."

Settled the Surgeon.

The surgeon of a military station during the civil war was noted for his flowery language, which never wailed even under the most trying circumstances. He was not popular, and the officers treated him at times with scant courtesy. On one occasion the colonel appropriated the surgeon's tent for a mess table without the formality of stating his intentions. The surgeon sent a complaint to the general in command, in which he said, "I have not so much as a fly to interpose between my head and the star-decked heavens above me." This document went through the usual routine and was at last returned to the surgeon with the following indorsement: "Colonel B. will cause a fly to interpose between the head of the complainant and the star-decked heavens above him as soon as possible."

MARKET FOR PLEASING FACES.

Where Most of the "Pretty Girl" Post Cards Come From.

The craze for photograph postal cards, more highly developed in Paris than elsewhere, has set every one searching for pretty girls, and so the French metropolis has suddenly awakened to its extraordinary wealth in this delightful commodity. There were two girls living at Neuilly who first tapped the gold mine, and for awhile they led the strenuous life, posing not only for postal cards, but for valentines and for the charming little advertising cards that accompany boxes of chocolate and such like dainties. A Paris correspondent tells us of the fad and how it spread from the Neuilly girls until all Paris was ransacked for pretty faces:

Then, one day, the post card trade of Paris told them:

"We have seen your pretty faces lots!"

It was a shock, coming in the same month from half a dozen publishers; but the girls finally cheered up at the suggestion:

"Find us other pretty faces, while yours rest?"

The two Neuilly houris made their contracts for so much per pose and subject, and they started in among friends and acquaintances of friends.

And thus they made a queer discovery; while of real beauties there are few in any given city block, the mass of pleasing faces, piquant, reviving, troubling, interesting, mocking, defying, challenging with questions, promises, pardons, and mysteries, how tell it?—bright faces waked to pretty audacity by the magnificent discovery that they are not plain, that some one wants to photograph them—these are rather plenty!

I repeat, they are not actresses or models.

They are Paris girls who were neglected.

At this moment they are having vast appreciation. "Who has not her post card?" runs the slang phrase. In great factories—where they make shirts, pants, or what not—half the girls have been post-carded!

They are posed not for Parisian subjects only. Every province has to have its "types," its pretty faces under local "coiffes," genre groups in local costumes.

All these are posed in Paris—where the pretty subjects are in hand already, saving all expensive hunting!

Old Time Sea Food.

A glance at the fish shops to-day arouses the reflection that one could have fasted with far more variety in the middle ages. Where is now the whale of yesteryear that was roasted and served on the spit or boiled with peas, the tongue and tail being the choicest parts? The porpoise, too, was a royal dish, roasted whole and eaten with mustard, when Henry VII. was king, and so was the grampus or sea wolf. The lamprey, after its one dramatic and regicidal performance, seems to have lost its popularity, and nobody nowadays is anxious to eat the limpet. Many fish, however, seem to have endured throughout the ages, such as the sprat and herring, eaten especially in Lent; the oyster (officially a fish) and the anchovy, sternly anathematized by old Tobias Venner in 1620 as "food for drunkards."—London Standard.

The Kaiser's Marvellous Shooting.

Count Zeppelin tells an amusing story of the ease with which the German Emperor is in the habit of breaking records. On one occasion he was out shooting with the Kaiser. At the end of the day it was announced that the Kaiser had broken all records. His deer were laid before him in a long line. The photographers began to get their cameras ready. His Majesty had shot, the head keeper said, sixty-four deer. The Kaiser made no public contradition, but, as he took up his position behind his deer for the photographs, Count Zeppelin heard him murmur to the head keeper, with a smile: "Sixty-four deer, eh? That's very odd. Indeed, it's almost inexplicable. I only fired, you know, thirty cartridges."

Six elevators are in progress or are contemplated for Fort William.

MOUTH EXERCISES.

Good Expression of This Facial Feature Makes Plain Women Attractive.

The woman of today who would exercise the full limit of her charms must educate her features.

It is not enough that she be young, pretty and know how to dress. Unless she is mistress of all the changing shades of countenance she will fall short in attraction of another woman not so well equipped in the essentials, but who knows how to make a mirror of her face.

By the education of the features the plainest woman may take on a certain amount of good looks, while a beautiful woman may become absolutely radiant.

The face is capable of an infinite variety of expressions. A good part of the art of the actor consists in knowing how to so dispose his features as to give them the varied expression of grief, horror, amusement, whimsicality or affection.

The best things can be done with the eyes and the mouth. Not much is possible with the nose. That is fixed and rigid. It cannot be made to dimple, nor can a tilt be turned into classic Grecian.

As if to compensate for this is the fact that almost any shade of expression can be thrown into the mouth and eyes.

The mouths of those who are sullen, morose or unhappy are nearly always turned down at the corners. Unconsciously they have in years of habit posed this expression till it has become habitual. By constant use of the muscles that pull down the corners of the mouth a forbidden appearance has been imparted to a face that ought to be cheerful and happy.

AS IN A LOOKING GLASS.

The remedy for this is not to twist the mouth into a perpetual grin, for this is just as ugly as a fixed frown, but keep the lines of the mouth straight normally, so that the occasional smile may seem to spread sunshine over the whole face.

The brows also twist materially in this performance, and if a woman has only average good eyes she can get wonderful effects from them merely by understanding just what set of muscular actions can produce at will the varied shades of affection, surprise, coyness, the roguish, the vivacious, coquettish or appealing.

These muscles can be trained just as readily as those of the arm or leg, but not many women have had the wisdom or the energy to attempt the work. The method is easy, and no instructor is needed. The only equipment is always to be found in the boudoir of any woman from queen to peasant, a mirror.

Seated in front of this, the woman who aspires to train her features should let her face take on its various expressions. She can make them natural by thinking of some events that have especially pleased and then indulging the expression that is evoked instinctively at the thought of pleasure.

The Shirred Sleeves.

In this day of mousquetaire sleeves it is a problem how to make them so that they will look shirred and yet be quite secure. Furthermore, when they are made of wash net or other washable fabrics it is almost impossible to launder them if they are made in the usual way.

One clever woman has found that the inside seam of the sleeve may be made like a French seam, through which a tape may be run. The tape should be a little longer than the sleeve is when pulled out to its full length. The seam for the second draw string may be taken up on the outer side of the sleeve, and through this also a tape may be run. When the dress is worn the string may be drawn up to the armhole until the sleeve is the correct length, and then the cord may be tied up inside. When it is time to launder them the strings may be untied, the sleeves pulled out to their full length and the work thus made easy.

Bleaching Muslin.

If you want to bleach unbleached muslin at home place a boilerful of deep blue water on the stove and, unrolling the muslin, put it in and let come to a steady boil. Remove from boiler without wringing and hang on line to drip dry in full sunlight.

When dry iron and depend on the first washing to make it a clear white, or wash again in the ordinary way before using.

James Farrell, a Streetsville hotell was indicted at Brampton of perjury,

THE BAROMETER.

Li Hung Chang Found It a Delusion and a Snare.

One day many years ago Li Hung Chang was making a journey from Tientsin to Shanghai on a steamer of his Chinese Mutual Co. Being of an inquiring disposition, he asked many questions about the machinery and the furnishings of the ship. What interested him most was the barometer, and Capt. Baker explained it with great care and described the minutest details.

Several months after, when Capt. Baker arrived at Tientsin at the end of a voyage, he was informed at the steamship office that Earl Li wanted to see him at the viceroy's yamen. The captain, judging from the experience of other men, expected to receive a reward for faithful service and, dressing himself with care, took a rickshaw for the residence of the greatest man in China. Upon his arrival he was shown into the reception room, and pretty soon Li Hung Chang made his appearance, followed by a servant carrying a handsome mounted mahogany box. He put it on the table, opened it and took out a beautiful barometer, which had just arrived from Paris. After Capt. Baker had admired the mechanism of the instrument Earl Li turned to him and said:

"Now I want you to show me how you foretell events with this thing."

"You cannot foretell events with a barometer," said Capt. Baker in surprise.

"You told me you could," retorted Earl Li.

"I never did anything of the kind," exclaimed the astonished seaman. "I told you that by comparing the changes in the temperature and direction of the wind with the movements of this instrument we could anticipate a storm, but I did not say anything about foretelling events, because that is impossible."

The viceroy stared at the sailor with astonishment and exclaimed:

"You are an ignorant, incompetent fellow. Don't you know that the weather is the most uncertain thing in the world? Other events are governed by laws and arbitrary conditions, from which the weather is entirely free, and anybody who can find out what the weather is going to be ought to be able to foretell ordinary events."

Then, with a contemptuous motion, he dismissed Capt. Baker from his presence and never spoke to him again.

THE BANANA TREE.

Each Piece of Fruit Represents a Single Flower.

Tropical trees and plants, with their luxurious growth and brilliant flowers, are very interesting. In Hawaii there is not the boarding or niggardliness of slow growth. Nature does everything with a lavish hand. Small annuals in colder climes do not seem remarkable when they have their full growth but to perfect their flower and seed, but in the larger growth of the tropics this does seem a remarkable feature.

During my stay on the windward side of the island of Oahu I have been studying the banana tree. In growth and habit it is exceedingly interesting. Very truly does it live but to produce its fruit, for, though a stem attains a height of from 12 to 18 feet, as soon as one bunch of bananas ripens it is "pau" in Hawaiian parlance, "finished" in English. It is cut down and another tiny shoot starts from the ground to pursue the same course.

Each banana represents a single flower, and we eat the fleshy seed pod or ovary, something as in the apple, only that the seeds have no covering, as in that fruit. The large cluster of flowers is inclosed in leaflike coverings, which roll back and fall off, one by one, as a hand of the flowers is ready to open. By a hand one means two rows of flowers going half around the stem. I have often wondered what was meant in the oriental stores by a "hand" of bananas. Now I understand by looking at the empty stem from which we have just finished eating the delicious fruit. As soon as the fruit first begins to turn the stem is cut and hung up to ripen. Bananas hanging in the porch to be used at will are a very good substitute for the apple of colder climes.

But to return to the flowers. The first hand of flowers turns very soon into tiny green bananas, and then the next leaflike bract rolls back and falls off, and a hand of flowers comes to light, till, one after another, these hands have made a large bunch of bananas. In those that I have examined the last flowers have not come to perfection, and there is often seen hanging a folded bunch at the extreme end of the covering.

Red Bean Fricassee.

Take a pint of red beans which have been soaked overnight and drained. Cover with plenty of fresh water, bring them slowly to boiling point, then let them cook gently until tender. Put two tablespoonfuls of minced white onion in a saucepan with one tablespoonful of butter and cook until a pale straw color. Then put in the drained beans, add a level tablespoonful of flour, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley and half a pint of water in which the beans were cooked. Simmer for half an hour, then add a tablespoonful of lemon jiee beaten up with the yolks of two eggs. Stir gently and let get steaming hot and serve with stuffed green peppers.

Subtle Advertising.

"A temperance society in the middle west," said a temperance worker, "once had a splendid lecturer, a reformed drunkard. This lecturer, after a year or so, was discharged. An admirer asked why he had been released, and the society's president answered:

"'Don't you remember how he continually referred to the irresistible seductions of a certain brand of beer, attributing his downfall to it? Well, it turns out that the brewer paid him a quarter for every time he rang in the beer's name.'"

CRANBERRY LORE.

Several Delicious Ways of Preparing This Much Used Berry.

There are all kinds of ways of preparing cranberries. Some cooks serve them as a very acid, thin sauce and take the trouble to strain it. This is a mistake. Cranberries should be heavily sweetened and cooked with little water, so that they can be molded in pretty individual molds.

A quart of cranberries require only a cupful of boiling water. Boil steadily rather rapidly for twenty minutes, add two cupfuls of sugar and cook for ten minutes longer. An exact time must be given in cooking cranberries if one wishes to have them jelly properly. Almost any cranberries will jelly perfectly if cooked exactly according to these directions. Do not strain them. Pour into small china molds. This gives a dark, rich looking mold that is not too acid, yet preserves all the individuality of the fruit.

Spiced cranberries are something like spiced currants. Put two even tablespoonfuls of ground cinnamon, one of ground cloves and half a tablespoonful of ground allspice into a muslin bag and tie it up. Simmer it in a cupful of cold water for half an hour. Then add the spiced water to seven pounds of cranberries, three and a half pounds of sugar and two cupfuls of cider vinegar. Cook slowly until thick and then seal up in jars. Some housewives serve this in place of the ordinary cranberry sauce as a novelty.

Cranberry sherbet is a refreshing dessert. When not frozen very stiff it is sometimes used as a unique sorbet to serve at an elaborate turkey dinner. This ice melts easily, so that it should be served immediately. To make it, boil a quart of cranberries with two cupfuls of water until soft. Add two cupfuls of sugar and stir until dissolved. Let it cool, add the juice of one or two lemons and freeze. Some housewives may prefer the ice sweeter.

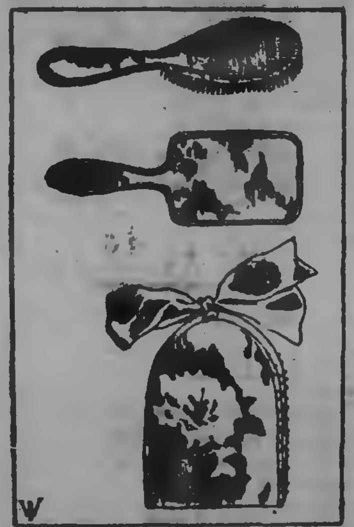
For a novel cranberry pie have at hand a cupful of cranberries, half a cupful of seeded raisins, a cupful of sugar, a cupful of boiling water, a tablespoonful of flour and a teaspoonful of vanilla if you like the flavor. The pie will be just as good, if not better, without it. Cut the berries in half and cover them with cold water. Let them stand while you chop the raisins and mix them with the flour, sugar, boiling water and flavoring. Lift the berries from the water and stir them into the mixture. Bake it between two crusts.

NEW BUREAU FITTINGS.

Dresden Silk Covered Articles For Milady's Dressing Tables.

Dresden silk is so much liked nowadays that it is even used to cover the backs of hairbrushes. Hand mirrors and hairbrushes with Dresden silk backs are beginning to supersede the silver backed articles on some women's toilet tables. There is a certain ingenious and industrious woman who has built up a flourishing business—a business in which she employs several girls—just backing brushes and making toilet table articles with Dresden ribbon.

Backing a brush or a hand mirror with Dresden silk is really a very simple matter, and any one with deft fingers can manage it. The silk is glued to the wooden backed brush, and gold braid is glued around the edges. A comb and brush tray and a powder box can be covered in the same manner, and the set makes a dainty present for a woman. The Dresden silk pincushion is shaped a little like a pair of bellows. The sides are of silk covered cardboard, and the cushioned edge holds the pins.



TOILET SET COVERED WITH SILK.

Waffles in Style.

"Isn't it good news that waffles are really in style? Every one has always known that waffles with sirup were extremely good, but until recently they have been half forgotten. Now they are actually fashionable, and it is quite the thing to serve them with brown sugar or maple sirup as a separate course at a luncheon.

This being the case, it is well to know just how to make them. Made with rice, they are delicious. A good recipe calls for a cup of boiled rice, three eggs, one ounce of butter, two cups of sour milk and one teaspoonful each of salt and soda.

Stir into the rice the creamed butter and the eggs, which have been beaten to a froth. Add the salt and soda, stir in the milk and add flour enough to make a thick batter.

Be sure that the waffle irons are very hot and buttered. Fill them three-quarters full with the batter and bake carefully.

BROWNING'S "SORDELLO."

The Critics Had Lots of Fun With the Famous Poem.

When Robert Browning was twenty-eight years old and after he had written "Paracelsus" and his tragedy of "Strafford," he wrote "Sordello," about which there has always been such a variety of opinion. Dante in his "Purgatory" wrote of Sardello, who was a poet of Provence.

"When "Sordello" appeared it made a sensation. Punch said it had offered £100 to any person who would reasonably explain one single line and that after a year no one had claimed this reward. Burlesques were written on it, and in one of these it was claimed that the funniest lines were some of the exact original ones.

A story is told of witty Douglas Jerrold, who met a friend one day and asked, "Have you read 'Sordello?' Does it mean anything?"

The friend replied that it meant nothing whatever. "Thank heaven!" said Jerrold. "Then I am not mad! I read it yesterday and feared I had lost my wits. It is only Browning who has lost his."

Another story was that criminals at Newgate prison who were condemned to death were offered full pardon if they would listen to the reading of "Sordello," but in every instance they hastened with glee to the gallows. Browning once said that he blamed nobody but himself for the work and that it had many faults of expression; that he meant to lay stress on incidents in the development of a soul and that little else is worth study. This estimate of his work was given twenty-five years after it was written, when he had revised it and dedicated it to a friend. He rewrote very little of it, and his followers have a belief that he considered "Sordello" his best literary work. It certainly has many beautiful lines, and in particular there is a word picture as striking as anything in our language:

That autumn eve was stilled.
A last remains of sunset dimly burned
O'er the far forests like a torch flame turned
By the wind back upon the bearer's hand
In one long flame of crimson; as a brand
The woods beneath lay black.

Diocese of Toronto.

Toronto is within one of being the smallest Anglican diocese in Canada, only Ontario and Huron being smaller. Toronto diocese was founded in 1839. It has an area of 1,080 square miles, its greatest length being 84 miles and greatest breadth 120 miles. This holds a population of 584,000, of whom 95,187 are Anglicans. The diocese is subdivided into eight rural deaneries, viz.: West Simcoe, Peel, East Simcoe, West York, East York, Durham, Northumberland and Haliburton.

Orientals Admitted.

A despatch from Lethbridge, Alta., is significant. The recent district convention of the United Mine Workers of America will go on record as being a very important one. The constitution has extended to all miners without regard to nationality, except Chinese and Japanese, to unite with the union. After a hot debate a resolution was passed striking out the words "except Chinese and Japanese." This admits all Asiatics to the union.

Mr. G.L. Hurl of Eel's Creek Says Bass and Lunge Should be Plentiful This Summer

Mr. G. Hurl, of Eel's Creek, was in the city to-day and says he expects that the fishing in the Kawartha Region will be splendid this year. Mr. Hurl says from indications in the spawning and other ways from which the experts draw deductions the lunge and bass will be plentiful this summer.

He states the weather in the north country is very cool, but that everything is growing beautifully.

LINDSAY SHOEMEN ISSUE A NOTICE

That They Will No Longer Send Out Goods "on Approval"

The Lindsay Warder says:

In another column the shoe merchants of the town announce that beginning with July 1st, the practice of sending goods out on "approval" will be discontinued. The custom has many bad features. The dealers claim that in many instances shoes are returned mismated, sometimes damaged and the cartons often broken, and in some cases the customers not properly fitted.

The extent to which the approval custom has grown may be gathered from the statement of a dealer who recently found at the close of a day's business that goods to the value of $150 were distributed over the town in this way.

The result is that the shoeman has to carry just that much surplus stock in order to accommodate those who prefer being fitted at home.

BUSY READING AT GOWGANDA

Half a Ton of Newspapers Just Arrived—Supplies are Plentiful

Gowganda, New Ontario, June 11.—Half a ton of papers have just been brought into Gowganda, and miners and prospectors are busy reading to see what has happened in the outside world since April 3rd, the last date upon which papers were received. Since the breaking up of the roads no papers have been brought in as on account of the great difficulty of transportation the mail carriers have had all they could do to bring in the letters.

Hundreds of prospectors are now coming into Gowganda nearly all bringing in a lot of supplies. It has been the general belief that supplies were scarce, but there is no foundation for this belief as all the stores are well stocked. Breakfast bacon and hams sell here for 25 cents per pound, and ordinary bacon at 20 cents per pound. Flour is plentiful and sells at $8.50 to $9 per bag and sugar at $12.50 per bag.

LAID AT REST

A most estimable young lady passed away on the 3rd inst., in the person of Miss Evelyn Matthews, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Matthews. She had been ill for some weeks, but seemed to be improving until Tuesday when she was taken suddenly worse and died Thursday afternoon. She was a thoroughly good girl, and there is the warmest sympathy for the parents and family, the more so that this makes the third death in the family in a little more than a year. The two youngest children were taken away, and now death has claimed the eldest, who as the mother's support, the father's comfort, and the unselfish helper of all. She was 20 years of age, and soon to be married.

The funeral took place at Burnbrae, on Saturday afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. J. E. Smith preached a helpful sermon from Isa. 43—2. The choir rendered appropriate music. The bearers were H. Hoover, C. Morton, D. Wellman, W. Snarr, B. Linn and F. Hay. The flowers were carried by four young ladies who were formerly school friends of the deceased, viz., Misses Grace Thain, Gertrude Fletcher and Edith and Clara Linn.

The following is a list of floral tributes:—Wreath and sash, inscribed with the name Evelyn, from H. G. Jones, North Bay; wreath with dove, from the Kitchen family, Havelock; pillow, from the Women's Institute of Wellman's Corners; wreath, from the Normal School, Peterborough; sheaf from the roommates of Miss M. Matthews, Normal School, Peterborough; Lillies of the Valley, from Miss Belford, Burnbrae; star, from Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Totten, Burnbrae; wreath, from Miss Clara Linn, Burnbrae.

The funeral cortege was a very large one, and the remains were laid to rest in Burnbrae cemetery.—Campbellford Herald.

MARRIED IN THE WEST

The following from the Davidson, Sask., Leader, refers to the wedding of a former resident of Lakefield:—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sanderson, on Wednesday, June 2nd, at 1.00 p.m., when their eldest daughter, Ruby M., was united in marriage to Duncan Leroy Hutcheson. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lloyd Sanderson, and Mr. J. H. Stewart supported the groom. Rev. P. Fisher performed the pleasant ceremony. Only the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in an empire gown of white silk, trimmed with embroidered chiffon and lace. The bridesmaid wore a very becoming gown of cream nunsveiling. Each carried a bouquet of pink carnations and maiden hair ferns. After the ceremony all sat down to a dainty luncheon and the happy couple took the afternoon train en route to Seattle and the coast cities. The bride was the recipient of a number of beautiful presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain, while to the bridesmaid he gave an opal ring.

WANTS CARTS ON SUNDAY

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In yesterday's Review I saw a letter from a citizen advocating the use of the watering carts on the city streets to lay the dust on Sundays. I am a sufferer from dust the same as the writer, and endorse his plan as being an excellent one. People who work all week want to be as comfortable on Sunday as possible.

Its up to the Board of Works to get the cart out on Sundays and keep down the dust nuisance.

IS WELL KNOWN IN THIS CITY

Citizens of Peterborough will be pleased to hear of the appointment of Dr. George L. Ling, as professor of Mathematics in the Columbia University of Saskatoon, Sask., as his wife is well known in this city. She was formerly Miss Effie Sherry, daughter of Mr. G. J. Sherry, of Norwood, and was married to Dr. Ling three years ago.

Go with the crowd to the city of Toronto, Saturday, June 12th, by special train, which leaves C.P.R. station 7.30 sharp, before the local train and only stops once. Tickets good to return by any train up to Monday night. The Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, No. 17, of city of Peterborough.

HORSES ARRIVED IN GOOD CONDITION

Carload Shipped by Mr. R. H. Leary Reached Crow's Nest Pass Yesterday

Mr. R. H. Leary received a telegram from the Crow's Nest Pass Company to the effect that the carload of horses shipped from here on May 31st had arrived yesterday. All the animals—eighteen in number—were in good condition, and the trip across the continent was made in very fast time. Mr. Henry Stewart, of Peterborough, was in charge of the horses. They were shipped on the C.P.R.

Real Estate Changes

Mr. E. P. Cuffe has purchased "Maple Villa," the spacious and substantial residence of Mr. Geo. J. Sherry on Queen street. Mr. Cuffe recently had plans prepared and was about to commence the erection of a handsome home at the corner of Queen and Alma streets, but changed his mind at the eleventh hour, having been offered "Maple Villa" with all its improvements at a price which would save him a substantial sum of money. This is a very fine property, and we think Mr. Cuffe has made no mistake in purchasing it.—Norwood Register.

Good Progress

Good progress is being made on the new All Saints' church. Arrangements are now being made for the laying of the corner stone.

Will Conduct One Here This Summer in a Large Tent—Tent Will Have Air Dome

Prof. Green, well-known in Peterborough, will operate a picture show here this summer. He will not conduct his amusement enterprise in a theatorium, but will use a large tent instead.

The tent will be 40 feet by 50 feet and will have a seating capacity for 600. The tent will be equipped with an air dome for keeping it cool and will be comfortable for the audiences on the warmest days.

WEDDING BELLS

McGOWAN — McCARTHY

A very pretty wedding was that of Miss Catharine McCarthy, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCarthy, to Mr. M. Lewis McGowan, of Toronto. The ceremony took place in St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, at 9.30 o'clock, Tuesday morning, the Rev. Father Conway officiating.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in her wedding gown of white eolienne with Orienta. lace trimmings, wearing a large white hat trimmed with lillies of the valley, rose buds and foliage, and carried a beautiful shower of white roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss May McCarthy, sister of the bride, wore a natural color Rajah silk empire gown, with touches of old rose and gold, and large tuscan hat trimmed with moss roses and velvet ribbon, carrying a shower of orchids.

Mr. Frederick McGowan, of Brechin, Ont., brother of the groom, acted as groomsman.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pendant set with pearls and diamonds; to the bridesmaid, a pearl crescent, and to the groomsman, initial cuff links.

The bridal party and guests drove to the home of the bride's father, where the bride and groom received congratulations, and a dainty wedding breakfast was served. The bride received numerous beautiful gifts, including a handsome cheque from her father.

Mr. and Mrs. McGowan left on the afternoon train, amid showers of confetti, to spend their honeymoon across the border, Mrs. McGowan wearing a tailored taupe broadcloth suit, with smart black hat.—Norwood Register.

REID—KENNEDY

A pretty wedding was solemnized last night by Rev. H. J. Keith, Miss Margie Kennedy and Mr. John Reid being the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride, 137 Stewart street. Miss Marion Kennedy was bridesmaid and Mr. Alexander Elliott the best man.

The wedding took place at 7 o'clock in the presence of several friends and a delightful wedding supper was enjoyed after the ceremony.

The bridal pair both came from Scotland, but have been residents of Peterborough for some time. They left on a honeymoon trip and on their return will reside in this city.

LOGAN—LOUCHS

Miss May Logan and Mr. Joseph Crawford Loucks, both of this city, were quietly married on Friday, June 4th, by Rev. J. H. Keith. The ceremony was performed in the presence of witnesses only.

Mr. and Mrs. Loucks will reside in Peterborough.

TO RIDE HORSE ON THE STAGE

Miss Maude Adams' first public appearance mounted on a horse will be made when as Joan of Arc, in Schiller's tragedy, she will gallop across the stage in the Stadium of Harvard University on June 22nd.

The horse which the actress will ride is a beautiful white Arabian now quartered at the Central Park Riding Academy. During the last fortnight she has taken morning canters in the tanbark ring.

Up to yesterday morning she took her daily riding exercise in divided skirts — tradition recording that Joan of Arc scorned the latter-day niceties of the side saddle.

Last Monday morning, however, costume rehearsals of the tragedy began at the Lyceum Theatre and for the first time the steel armor which Miss Adams will wear in the performance was unpacked. To be certain that she will be able to wear the unwieldy costume gracefully and at the same time keep her place in the saddle she took her morning ride yesterday fully accoutered.

Although Miss Adams never rides horseback in the park during her New York engagements, she is an accomplished equestrienne. During her vacations she has been in the habit of taking daily gallops through the woods on her estate at Ronkonkoma, Long Island.

In the performance of "Joan of Arc" at the Stadium in Cambridge, 200 horsemen will appear in the pageant.

SENIOR LEAGUE GAMES TO-MORROW WILL BE FAST

Strathconas and P. A. C. Play at 2 o'Clock—West Ends and T. A. S. Will Clash at 3.30—Contests Should be Well Patronized.

Saturday afternoon at Riverside two more games in the senior city league will be played, and both contests are sure to be fast and interesting. The teams are not doing much talking in regard to their chances, but are aware that much depends on the result.

Good hard practices have been held this week, and the players will go into the game in the best of shape. The batting to-morrow should be harder than that of last Saturday, and this will add more excitement to each of the contests.

The first struggle will be between the Strathconas and the P.A.C., beginning at two o'clock sharp. The former have changed their line-up, with a view of trying out new players, all of whom have given a good account of themselves in practice. Who will compose the P.A.C. nine is not known, but the fact of Jack Pilling being at the helm should be a guarantee to the fans that the team will be a strong one. If there is any pick between the two games the second contest is probably the choice. The T.A.S. and West Ends played a five innings game last Saturday, and the result was a tie, 1—1. Naturally both nines are confident of winning, and it would appear that with Quinlan pitching, the abstainers should have an easy win. But the West Ends are hitters, and are in the game all the time, and claim it will be an extreme pleasure for them to send the former Midland leaguer to the bench, and they mean to try to do this same trick.

Dan McCabe will umpire both contests, and there should be a large number of fans on hand to encourage the boys in their endeavor to resurrect the baseball game in this city.

The line-up of the Strathconas, West Ends and T.A.S. will be as follows:

West Ends—Minorgan, ss.; Gibson, lf.; L. Dobson, 3b.; Halpin, 2b.; Craig, rf.; Rose, 1b.; Kern, p.; Carton, c.; Fallon, cf.

T. A. S.—Doherty, Callaghan, Derocher, W. O'Brien, A. Quinlan, M. Quinlan, Cahill, Flaherty, Corkery, McFadden.

Strathconas—Curtis, Shaw, Weatherstone, Kendrey, F. Craig, Parnell, Wettlaufer, Henskp, Guerin, Patterson, Hickey.

AN EXPLANATION OF A PUZZLING BASEBALL RULE

"After a foul hit, a man on first does not return to the base but scores on a hit on the next ball pitched. Is he out?"

This question has come up in base ball. And the solution is found under the rules that govern the game.

Rule 56, section 13, of the 1908 code of base ball playing rules declaring a base runner, out, follows:

"If, when advancing bases, or forced to return to a base, while the ball is in play he fail to touch the intervening base, or bases, if any, in the regular or reverse order, as the case may be, he may be put out by the ball being held by a fielder on any base he failed to touch, or by being touched by the ball in the hands of a fielder in the same manner as in running to first base. Provided that the base runner shall not be out in such case if the ball be delivered to the bat by the pitcher before the fielder hold it on said base or touch the base runner with it."

Ordinarily with a man on the paths a batter after hitting the ball, steps out of the box, to prevent the pitcher returning the ball to the plate until the runner has returned to his base.

Now, if the batter would step back into position as soon as the pitcher receives the ball even while the runner is returning to his base, and the pitcher should deliver the ball, the runner is at liberty to turn and dash for the next base.

If, with a runner half way between first and second returning to the former base after a foul the pitcher deliver the ball and the batter hit it, the runner may face about and streak it as fast and as far as possible and he may not be declared out for not returning to first.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

SACRIFICE HITS.

A sacrifice hit shall be credited to the batsman who, when no one is out, advances a runner a base by a bunt hit which results in the batsman being put out before reaching first, or would so result if it were handled without error. A sacrifice hit shall also be credited to a batsman who, when no one is out, or when but one man is out, hits a fly ball that is caught, but results in a run being scored, or would in the judgment of the umpire so result if caught.

The Strathconas have received an invitation to play in Hastings on Dominion Day, and it will probably be accepted.

The senior T.A.S. and St. Andrew's junior Church League team had a splendid practice at Boswell's field last night. Batting was the order of the practice and the pitchers did not extend themselves. Batteries—T.A.S., Quinlan and H. Giroux; St. Andrew's, Cresswell and O'Connell.

T.A.S. have dropped out of the Junior Church League, and most of the players will perform with the Intermediates against the Park Nine to-morrow at the Oval. St. Andrew's and All Saints' still remain in the league, and it is up to them to battle for the cup.

Len Patterson will twirl for the Straths to-morrow, and Walley Parnell will do the backstopping. Kendrey is troubled with a sore arm and Wettlaufer may be placed at short. The West End line-up will be changed and Dobson will play at third. Gibson will work in the left garden and Gus Rose will look after first bag.

Quinlan will be able to "let out" more in the game with the West Ends to-morrow. Dee McFadden is getting better at every practice behind the plate, and will go into the game to-morrow confident that he can hold the shoots from this pitcher—and that's a big proposition.

Will anybody secure the Belleghem prize to-morrow? Four players have each secured one two-bagger, and are looking forward to to-morrow for more. But the twirlers say no.

Talbot's box of cigars will have a close shave to-morrow, judging from the accounts of the practices held this week. Some of the players have been doing some big hitting.

Mullin won his eleventh straight victory for Detroit yesterday when he beat New York 2—1.

The Pacific Coast League established a world's record at San Francisco on Tuesday. San Francisco and Oakland played twenty-three innings without a run being scored. The break came in the twenty-fourth inning, when the San Francisco team scored the one run that brought an end to the tense struggle.

The T.A.S. Intermediate and Senior baseball teams will practice tonight at Boswell's field, when the players will be given their final instructions for to-morrow's game.

The following ball teams will play to-morrow afternoon at the O.G.E. Angling Club's excursion to Jubilee Point:—

Armature Department.—Mgr. Campbell, Simmonds, Bell, Judd, Wareham; Derocher, Hayes, Jobe, Collins, Billington, Doherty and Togue.

Transformer Department.—Manager Grose, Mulhall, Bryce, Derocher, O'Toole, Chapman, Sanders, Pearson, Conroy, O'Toole, Grose and Freeney.

BRAWN DISPLACED BY QUICK WIT IN THE BIG LEAGUES

Stars of To-day on the Leading Clubs are Modern Strategists and Fast Thinkers — Fast Ball Player Must Have Good Head.

That brain has superseded brawn among ball players is proved by the fact that those who have risen to the top are men of active mentality. You will notice that the men whose names you see most in the papers are strategists. Quick thinking is what brought Ty Cobb, Al Bridwell, Kid Elberfeld, Dutch Schaefer, Hal Chase, Johnny Evers and a score of others to the front. There are many players who have shown themselves wonders physically, but who could not keep up the pace by thinking quickly on the base lines and had to make way for the more fortunate youngsters. There is ample room for the inventor in baseball and every season we see these agile brained athletes producing something in baseball that is new.

Strategy in baseball is a beautiful thing—when it works. But when that "Jinks" of all sport called Hard Luck bobs up and puts reverse English on the play it inserts a kink in enthusiasm that is hard to straighten out for the rest of the game. While it may seem an incongruous statement, many ball games have been lost by brilliant plays.

Kid Elberfeld and Hal Chase, of the Highlanders are two of the best-known exponents of strategy in the business, but to illustrate how the best laid plans "gang aft aglee" let's recall a certain game with Cleveland.

Elberfeld had reached first safely, and there were none out. A couple of runs were badly needed. Instead of making the sacrifice play that the other team was expecting, Elberfeld gave the signal for the hit and run. The unexpected is always the foremost move in baseball. The idea of a hit and run is to make the second baseman run to cover the bag and for the batter to hit the ball through the hole that he left.

The other variation of the play is for the batter to line the ball into right field if possible so that the runner can reach third. Chase got the signal all right and with an aim as true as a rifle lined the ball for what looked like a perfect single over first. The outfielder of Cleveland, however, expecting a bunt had come so as to back up the play at first.

It so happened to his own surprise that he arrived just in time to catch Chase's line drive and Elberfeld, who was speeding toward second, was astounded to find himself doubled up before he could get back to first. Many fans blame the Kid for leaving the bag, but he had really made a beautiful play. But, unfortunately the strategic move had worked with reverse English.

The other day at the Polo grounds Murray was on first and he he gave O'Hara the signal for a hit and run. O'Hara is naturally a right field hitter and he figured it that it would be easy to hit the ball through the hole that Knabe, second baseman for Philadelphia would leave when he ran to cover second. Murray got away on the jump and O'Hara smashed the ball. But, as luck would have it he had hit a grounder directly over second that would have been a perfect single if no strategy had been attempted. It so happened that the forcing of Knabe to cover put him directly in the path of the ball, and all he had to do was to grab it, touch second, and then throw to first for a double-play. That's one time that old-fashioned hammer and tongs baseball would have won when, as Murray expressed it, "strategy got a kick in the shins."

SCHAEFER HAD TO THINK

Over in Detroit not long ago Dutch Schaefer was just about to perform a bit of excellent strategy, when a little pebble no bigger than a peanut broke up his strategy and lost the game. There was a runner on first, with one out. A short fly was hit so that it would fall about five feet back of the second base line. Dutch could have caught it with his left hand, but his active brain suddenly figured out a great scheme. Instead of catching the ball on the fly, he would let it strike the ground first and make a "pick-up" of it. This would force the runner off first, and then the ball could be thrown to second and first, thereby putting two men out instead of one.

You can understand how fast the baseball mind has to think when Schaefer figured all this out while the ball was dropping a distance of, perhaps, twenty-five feet. Instead of catching the ball Schaefer suddenly stooped and put his hands to the ground for a "pick-up." Just at that moment something happened. The ball, in striking the ground, hit a little pebble and bounced away. Both runners were safe and the opponents eventually won the game.

There is a general belief that Ty Cobb, the brilliant outfielder for Detroit, can make a ball spin either to the right or to the left as he desires, when bunting, but personally I do not believe it. Be that as it may, Lee Tannehill, of the White Sox, believes it.

COBB DROPS A BUNT

During a game at Chicago there were two runners on bases, with none out, and Cobb bunted directly toward third, the ball spinning around like a top. Tannehill saw that he might have difficulty in getting the fleet-footed Georgian at first, so he resorted to the old form of strategy that tells a third baseman to give the ball a chance and it will roll foul. Tannehill didn't notice which way the ball was spinning, and while the crowd clamored for him to grab it he placidly stood there and watched it spin. The ball came within an inch of the white foul mark, and then suddenly spun to the right and rolled on the green in fair territory. It was a clean hit and filled the bases. A long single then won the game.

Notwithstanding the fact that strategy often goes wrong, it is the exception that proves the rule. It has now come to pass in baseball that brains has superseded brawn. It's the only way to win. It may go wrong occasionally, but in the long run strategy will win.

THE RING

Last week in Brantford, Ont., a "prizefight" of twenty-five rounds was advertised between Charlie Neary, of of Milwaukee, and Tommy Murphy, of Buffalo, says the Buffalo Courier. The promoter, whom no one in Brantford knew, gathered in several hundred dollars from the gullible Canadians and then, the day before the fight (!) was to take place, eloped with the funds. It is just such tricks as this, by crooks which kills legitimate boxing. There is no "Tommy Murphy, of Buffalo," and Charlie Neary is not fighting around small Canadian towns. No twenty-five-round prize fight would be allowed in any Canadian town, and any one who fell for that line of dope in one sense ought to be trimmed. It is a good bet that if some prominent, honest Brantford men had advertised a legitimate boxing bout of ten rounds in that city he wouldn't have taken in enough money to pay his printing bill, but as soon as a stranger, whom no one knew, with nerve and gall and with crook spelling itself all over his face turns up, they all go down in their pockets and hand out their money so fast that it is impossible for the crook to keep track of the same. It would be a mighty good thing for Canadians and for Americans on this side of the border as well to have nothing to do with the travelling promoters, and stick to the men in their towns whom they know to be all right.—Hamilton Herald.

BLACK WON THE BEAVERTON RACE

Toronto Men Made Pretty Much of a Clean-up

Beaverton, June 10.—The athletic meet of the Beaverton A.C. and Rev. Father Hayes' picnic were held yesterday, and both were great successes. The eleven-mile Marathon was a dandy, and the best ten-milers in the country lined up with the thirty starters.

George Black, I.C.A.C., Toronto, took the lead from the start and held it for the entire eleven miles, winning in 65 minutes. Jack Roe, W. E.Y.M.C.A., Toronto, finished strong in second place, and Jack Near, of Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto, got third. The rest finished in the following order:—Claude Pearce, I.C.A.C., Toronto; Frank Mason, Uxbridge; Norman Reed, Y.M.C.A., Orillia; Jimmie George, Beaverton; Ernest Reilly, Beaverton; Philip Rice, Parry Sound; Jim Corkery, I.C.A.C., Toronto, and Herman Baker, Parry Sound.

Montreal Y.M.C.A. has raised $82,244 since Monday night.

All used up

Miss Ella Wood, of Brownsville, near Woodstock, says: "I have to thank PSYCHINE for my present health. I could hardly drag myself across the floor. I could not sweep the carpet. If I went for a drive I had to lie down when I came back; if I went for a mile or two on my wheel I was too weak to lift it through the gateway, and last time I came in from having a spin I dropped utterly helpless from fatigue. My father gave me no peace until I procured PSYCHINE, knowing it was excellent for decline or weakness, I must say the results are wonderful and people remarked my improvement."

"Instead of a little, pale, hollow cheeked, listless, melancholy girl, I am to-day full of life, ready for a sleigh-ride, a skating match, or an evening party with anyone, and a few months ago I could not struggle to church, 40 rods from my home. I have never had the slightest cause to fear any return of the disease." If you are "All used up" and run down you can be built up in a short time by PSYCHINE. It creates rich, red blood, revives the appetite and transforms the weak into strong healthy beings.

The Woman In the Alcove

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,
Author of "The Millionaire Baby," "The Filigree Ball," "The House in the Mist," "The Amethyst Box," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY.

Before me lay the large square of the central hall. Opening out from this was the corridor leading to the front door and incidentally to the library. As my glance ran down this corridor I beheld approaching from the room just mentioned the tall figure of the Englishman.

He halted as he reached the main hall and stood gazing eagerly at a group of men and women clustered near the fireplace, a group on which I no sooner cast my own eye than my attention also became fixed.

The inspector had come from the room where I had left him with Mr. Durand and was showing to these people the extraordinary diamond, which he had just recovered under such remarkable if not suspicious circumstances. Young heads and old were meeting over it, and I was straining my ears to hear such comments as were audible above the general hubbub, when Mr. Grey made a quick move, and I looked his way again in time to mark his air of concern and the uncertainty he showed whether to advance or retreat.

Unconscious of my watchful eye and noting no doubt that most of the persons in the group on which his own eye was leveled stood with their backs toward him, he made no effort to disguise his profound interest in the stone. His eye followed its passage from hand to hand with a covetous eagerness of which he may not have been aware, and I was not at all surprised when, after a short interval of troubled indecision, he impulsively stepped forward and begged the privilege of handling the gem himself.

Our host, who stood not far from the inspector, said something to that gentleman which led to this request being complied with. The stone was passed over to Mr. Grey, and I saw, possibly because my heart was in my eyes, that the great man's hand trembled as it touched his palm. Indeed, his whole frame trembled, and I was looking eagerly for the result of his inspection when, on his turning to hold the jewel up to the light, something happened so abnormal and so strange that no one who was fortunate (or unfortunate) enough to be present in the house at that instant will ever forget it.

This something was a cry, coming from no one knew where, which, unearthly in its shrillness and the power it had on the imagination, reverberated through the house and died away in a wail so weird, so thrilling and so prolonged that it gripped not only my own nerveless and weakened heart, but those of the ten strong men congregated below me. The diamond dropped from Mr. Grey's hand, and neither he nor any one else moved to pick it up. Not till silence had come again—a silence almost as unendurable to the sensitive ear as the cry which had preceded it—did any one stir or think of the gem. Then one gentleman after another bent to look for it, but with no success, till one of the waiters, who possibly had followed it with his eye or caught sight of its sparkle on the edge of the rug, whither it had rolled, sprang and picked it up and handed it back to Mr. Gray. Instinctively the Englishman's hand closed on it, but it was very evident to me, and I think to all, that his interest in it was gone. If he looked at it he did not see it, for he stood like one stunned all the time that agitated men and women were running hither and thither in unavailing efforts to locate the sound yet ringing in their ears. Not till these various searchers had all come together again, in terror of a mystery they could not solve, did he let his hand fall and himself awake to the scene about him.

The words he at once gave utterance to were as remarkable as all the rest.

"Gentlemen," said he, "you must pardon my agitation. This cry—you need not seek its source—is one to which I am only too well accustomed. I have been the happy father of six children. Five I have buried, and before the death of each this same cry has echoed in my ears. I have but one child left, a daughter. She is ill at the hotel. Do you wonder that I shrink from this note of warning and show myself something less than a man under its influence? I am going home; but, first, one word about this stone." Here he lifted it and bestowed or appeared to bestow on it an anxious scrutiny, putting on his glasses and examining it carefully before passing it back to the inspector.

"I have heard," said he, with a change of tone which must have been noticeable to every one, "that this stone was a very superior one and quite worthy of the fame it bore here in America. But, gentlemen, you have all been greatly deceived in it; no one more than he who was willing to commit murder for its possession. The stone which you have just been good enough to allow me to inspect is no diamond, but a carefully manufactured bit of paste not worth the rich and elaborate setting which has been given to it. I am sorry to be the one to say this, but I have made a study of precious stones, and I cannot let this bare faced imitation pass through my hands without a protest. Mr. Ramsdell," this to our host, "I beg you will allow me to utter my excuses and depart at once. My daughter is worse—this I know as certainly as that I am standing here. The cry you have heard is the one superstition of our family. Pray God that I find her alive!"

After this what could be said? Though no one who had heard him, not even my own romantic self, showed any belief in this interpretation of the remarkable sound that had just gone thrilling through the house, yet, in face of his declared acceptance of it as a warning and the fact that all efforts had failed to locate the sound or even to determine its source, no other course seemed open but to let this distinguished man depart with the suddenness his superstitious fears demanded.

That this was in opposition to the inspector's wishes was evident enough. Naturally he would have preferred Mr. Grey to remain, if only to make clear his surprising conclusions in regard to a diamond which had passed through the hands of some of the best judges in the country without a doubt having been raised as to its genuineness.

With his departure the inspector's manner changed. He glanced at the stone in his hand and slowly shook his head.

"I doubt if Mr. Grey's judgment can be depended on tonight," said he and pocketed the gem as carefully as if his belief in its real value had been but little disturbed by the assertions of this renowned foreigner.

I have no distinct remembrance of how I finally left the house or of what passed between my uncle and myself on our way home. I was numb with the shock, and neither my intelligence nor my feelings were any longer active. I recall but one impression, and that was the effect made on me by my old home on our arrival there, as of something new and strange, so much had happened and such changes had taken place in myself since leaving it five hours before. But nothing else is vivid in my remembrance till that early hour of the dreary morning when, on waking to the world with a cry, I beheld my uncle's anxious figure bending over me from the footboard.

Instantly I found tongue and question after question leaped from my lips. He did not answer them. He could not. But when I grew feverish and insistent he drew the morning paper from behind his back and laid it quietly down within my reach. I felt calmed in an instant, and when after a few affectionate words he left me to myself I seized on the sheet and read what so many others were reading at that moment throughout the city.

I spare you the account so far as it coincides with what I had myself seen and heard the night before. A few particulars which had not reached my ears will interest you. The instrument of death found in the place designated by Mr. Durand was one of note to such as had any taste or knowledge of curios. It was a stiletto of the most delicate type, long, keen and slender, not an American product, not even of this century's manufacture, but a relic of the days when deadly thrusts were given in the corners and byways of medieval streets.

This made the first mystery.

The second was the as yet unexplainable presence on the alcove floor of two broken coffee cups, which no waiter nor any other person, in fact, admitted having carried there. The tray, which had fallen from Peter Mooney's hand—the waiter who had been the first to give the alarm of murder—had held no cups, only ices. This was a fact, proved. But the handles of two cups had been found among the debris—cups which must have been full from the size of the coffee stain left on the rug where they had fallen.

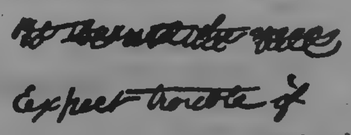
In reading this I remembered that Mr. Durand had mentioned stepping on some broken pieces of china in his escape from the fatal scene, and, struck with this confirmation of a theory which was slowly taking form in my own mind, I passed on to the next paragraph with a sense of expectation.

The result was a surprise. Others may have been told, I was not, that Mrs. Fairbrother had received a communication from outside only a few minutes previous to her death. A Mr. Fullerton, who had preceded Mr. Durand in his visit to the alcove, owned to having opened the window for her at some call or signal from outside and taken in a small piece of paper which he saw lifted up from below on the end of a whip handle. He could not see who held the whip, but at Mrs. Fairbrother's entreaty he unpinned the note and gave it to her. While she was puzzling over it, for it was apparently far from legible, he took another look out in time to mark a figure rush from below toward the carriage drive. He did not recognize the figure nor would he know it again. As to the nature of the communication itself he could say nothing, save that Mrs. Fairbrother did not seem to be affected favorably by it. She frowned and was looking very gloomy when he left the alcove. Asked if he had pulled the curtains together after closing the window, he said that he had not; that she had not requested him to do so.

This story, which was certainly a strange one, had been confirmed by the testimony of the coachman who had lent his whip for the purpose. This coachman, who was known to be a man of extreme good nature, had seen no harm in lending his whip to a poor devil who wished to give a telegram or some such hasty message to the lady sitting just above them in a lighted window. The wind was fierce and the snow blinding, and it was natural that the man should duck his head, but he remembered his appearance well enough to say that he was either very cold or very much done up and that he wore a greatcoat with the collar pulled up about his ears. When he came back with the whip he seemed more cheerful than when he asked for it, but had no "thank you" for the favor done him, or if he had it was lost in his throat and the piercing gale.

He unpinned the note.

The communication, which was regarded by the police as a matter of the highest importance, had been found in her hand by the coroner. It was a mere scrawl written in pencil on a small scrap of paper. The following facsimile of the scrawl was given to the public in the hope that some one would recognize the handwriting:



Expect trouble if

The first two lines overlapped and were confused, but the last one was clear enough. Expect trouble if— If what? Hundreds were asking the question at this very moment. I should soon be asking it, too, but first I must make an effort to understand the situation—a situation which up to now appeared to involve Mr. Durand, and Mr. Durand only, as the suspected party.

This was no more than I expected, yet it came with a shock under the broad glare of this wintry morning, so impossible did it seem in the light of everyday life that guilt could be associated in any one's mind with a man of such unblemished record and excellent standing. But the evidence adduced against him was of a kind to appeal to the common mind—we all know that evidence—nor could I say, after reading the full account, that I was myself unaffected by its seeming weight. Not that my faith in his innocence was shaken. I had met his look of love and tender gratitude and my confidence in him had been restored, but I saw with all the clearness of a mind trained by continuous study how difficult it was going to be to counteract the prejudice induced, first, by his own inconsiderate acts, especially by that unfortunate attempt of his to secrete Mrs. Fairbrother's gloves in another woman's bag, and, secondly, by his peculiar explanations, which to many must seem forced and unnatural.

I saw and felt nerved to a superhuman task. I believed him innocent, and if others failed to prove him so I would undertake to clear him myself—I, the little Hilda, with no experience of law or courts or crime, but with simply an unbounded faith in the man suspected and in the keenness of my own insight, an insight which had already served me so well and would serve me yet better once I had mastered the details which must be the prelude to all intelligent action.

The morning's report stopped with the explanations given by Mr. Durand of the appearances against him; consequently no word appeared of the after events which had made such an impression at the time on all the persons present. Mr. Grey was mentioned, but simply as one of the guests, and to no one reading this early morning issue would any doubt come as to the genuineness of the diamond which, to all appearance, had been the leading motive in the commission of this great crime.

The effect on my own mind of this suppression was a curious one. I began to wonder if the whole event had not been a chimera of my disturbed brain—a nightmare which had visited me, and me alone, and not a fact to be reckoned with. But a moment's further thought served to clear my mind of all such doubts, and I perceived that the police had exercised only common prudence in withholding Mr. Grey's sensational opinion of the stone till it could be verified by experts.

The two columns of gossip devoted to the family differences which had led to the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Fairbrother I shall compress into a few lines. They had been married three years before in the city of Baltimore. He was a rich man then, but not the multimillionaire he is today. Plain featured and without manner, he was no mate for this sparkling coquette, whose charm was of the kind which grows with exercise. Though no actual scandal was ever associated with her name, he grew tired of her caprices and the conquests which she made no endeavor to hide either from him or from the world at large, and at some time during the previous year they had come to a friendly understanding which led to their living apart, each in grand style and with a certain deference to the proprieties which retained them their friends and an enviable place in society.

He was not often invited where she was, and she never appeared in any assemblage where he was expected, but with this exception little feeling was shown. Matters progressed smoothly, and to their credit, let it be said, no one ever heard either of them speak otherwise than considerately of the other. He was at present out of town, having started some three weeks before for the southwest, but would probably return on receipt of the telegram which had been sent him.

The comments made on the murder were necessarily hurried. It was called a mystery, but it was evident enough that Mr. Durand's detention was looked on as the almost certain prelude to his arrest on the charge of murder.

I had had some discipline in life. Although a favorite of my wealthy uncle, I had given up very early the prospects he held out to me of a continued enjoyment of his bounty and entered on duties which required self denial and hard work. I did this because I enjoy having both my mind and heart occupied. To be necessary to some one, as a nurse is to a patient, seemed to me an enviable fate till I came under the influence of Anson Durand. Then the craving of all women for the common lot of their sex became my craving also; a craving, however, to which I failed at first to yield, for I felt that it was unshared and thus a token of weakness. Fighting my battle, I succeeded in winning it, as I thought, just as the nurse's diploma was put in my hands. Then came the great surprise of my life. Anson Durand expressed his love for me, and I awoke to the fact that all my preparation had been for home joys and a woman's true existence. One hour of ecstasy in the light of this new hope, then tragedy—and something approaching chaos! Truly I had been through a schooling. But was it one to make me useful in the only way I could be useful now? I did not know. I did not care. I was determined on my course, fit or unfit, and in the relief brought by this appeal to my energy I rose and dressed and went about the duties of the day.

One of these was to determine whether Mr. Grey, on his return to his hotel, had found his daughter as ill as his fears had foreboded. A telephone message or two satisfied me on this point. Miss Grey was very ill, but not considered dangerously so; indeed, if anything, her condition was improved, and if nothing happened in the way of fresh complications the prospects were that she would be out in a fortnight.

I was not surprised. It was more than I had expected. The cry of the banshee in an American house was past belief, even in an atmosphere surcharged with fear and all the horror surrounding a great crime, and in the secret reckoning I was making against a person I will not even name at this juncture I added it as another suspicious circumstance.

CHAPTER VI.

To relate the full experiences of the next few days would be to encumber my narrative with unnecessary detail.

I did not see Mr. Durand again. My uncle, so amenable in most matters, proved inexorable on this point. Till Mr. Durand's good name should be restored by the coroner's verdict or such evidence brought to light as should effectually place him beyond all suspicion I was to hold no communication with him of any sort whatever. I remember the very words with which my uncle ended the one exhaustive conversation we had on the subject. They were these:

"You have fully expressed to Mr. Durand your entire confidence in his innocence. That must suffice him for the present. If he is the honest gentleman you think him, it will."

As uncle seldom asserted himself, and as he is very much in earnest when he does, I made no attempt to combat this resolution, especially as it met the approval of my better judgment. But, though my power to convey sympathy fell thus under a yoke, my thoughts and feelings remained free, and these were all consecrated to the man struggling under an imputation the disgrace and humiliation of which he was but poorly prepared by his former easy life of social and business prosperity to meet.

For Mr. Durand, in spite of the few facts which came up from time to time in confirmation of his story, continued to be almost universally regarded as a suspect.

This seemed to be very unjust. What if no other clew offered—no other clew, I mean, recognized as such by police or public! Was he not to have the benefit of whatever threw a doubt on his own culpability? For instance, that splash of blood on his shirt front, which I had seen and the shape of which I knew. Why did not the fact that it was a splash and not a spatter (and spatter it would have been had it spurted there, instead of falling from above, as he stated) count for more in the minds of those whose business it was to probe into the very heart of this crime? To me, it told such a tale of innocence that I wondered how a man like the inspector could pass over it. But later I understood. A single word enlightened me. The stain, it was true, was in the form of a splash and not a spurt, but a splash would have been the result of a drop falling from the reeking end of the stiletto, whether it dislodged itself early or late. And what was there to prove that this drop had not fallen at the instant the stiletto was being thrust into the lantern, instead of after the escape of the criminal, and the entrance of another man?

But the mystery of the broken coffee cups! For that no explanation seemed to be forthcoming.

And still the unsolved one of the written warning found in the murdered woman's hand—a warning which had been deciphered to read: "Be warned! He means to be at the ball! Expect trouble if"— Was that to be looked upon as directed against a man who, from the nature of his projected attempt, would take no one into his confidence?

Then the stiletto, a photographic reproduction of which was in all the papers, was that the kind of instrument which a plain New York gentleman would be likely to use in a crime of this nature? It was a marked and unique article, capable, as one would think, of being easily traced to its owner. Had it been claimed by Mr. Ramsdell, had it been recognized as one of the many works of art scattered about the highly decorated alcove, its employment as a means of death would have gone only to prove the possibly unpremeditated nature of the crime, and so been valueless as the basis of an argument in favor of Mr. Durand's innocence. But Mr. Ramsdell had disclaimed from the first all knowledge of it; consequently one could but feel justified in asking whether a man of Mr. Durand's judgment would choose such an extraordinary weapon in meditating so startling a crime—a crime which from its nature and circumstance could not fail to attract the attention of the whole civilized world.

Another argument, advanced by himself and subscribed to by all his friends, was this: That a dealer in precious stones would be the last man to seek by any unlawful means to possess so conspicuous a jewel, for he, better than any one else, would know the impossibility of disposing of a gem of this distinction in any market short of the orient. To which the unanswerable reply was made that no one attributed to him any such folly; that if he had planned to possess himself of this great diamond it was for the purpose of eliminating it from competition with the one he had procured for Mr. Smythe, an argument, certainly, which drove us back on the only plea we had at our command—his hitherto unblemished reputation and the confidence which was felt in him by those who knew him.

But the one circumstance which affected me most at the time and which undoubtedly was the source of the greatest confusion to all minds, whether official or otherwise, was the unexpected confirmation by experts of Mr. Grey's opinion in regard to the diamond. His name was not used—indeed, it had been kept out of the papers with the greatest unanimity, but the hint he had given the inspector at Mr. Ramsdell's ball had been acted upon and, the proper tests having been made, the stone, for which so many believed a life to have been risked and another taken, was declared to be an imitation, fine and successful beyond all parallel, but still an imitation, of the great and renowned gem which had passed through Tiffany's hands a twelvemonth before, a decision which fell like a thunderbolt on all such as had seen the diamond blazing in unapproachable brilliancy on the breast of the unhappy Mrs. Fairbrother only an hour or two before her death.

On me the effect was such that for days I lived in a dream, a condition that nevertheless did not prevent me from starting a certain little inquiry of my own, of which more hereafter.

Here let me say that I did not share the general confusion on this topic. I had my own theory, both as to the cause of this substitution and the moment when it was made. But the time had not yet come for me to advance it. I could only stand back and listen to the suppositions aired by the press, suppositions which fomented so much private discussion that ere long the one question most frequently heard in this connection was not who struck the blow which killed Mrs. Fairbrother (this was a question which some seemed to think settled), but whose juggling hand had palmed off the paste for the diamond, and how and when and where had the jugglery taken place?

To be continued.

Thus is the Earl of Desart, who has just been made a baron of the United Kingdom, known to his intimates, the nickname arising from the fact that two of his Christian names are Hamilton and Agmondesham. Lord Desart is well known as a traveler, cricketer, and shot, and is not at all the sort of man who might be looked for in one who has filled the position of solicitor to the treasury, director of public prosecutions, and King's proctor.

PROVINCIAL LOAN
... OF ...
$ 3,500,000

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, under the authority of Chapter 5 of the Statutes of Ontario, 1909, invites subscriptions from the public for a loan of $3,500,000 on bonds of the Province of Ontario, or "Ontario Government Stock".

The bonds will be dated 1st June 1909, and payable on the 1st June, 1939, in denominations of $1,000 each, with coupons attached for interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st June and 1st December in each year at the office of the Provincial Treasurer, Toronto, or at the offices of the Bank of Montreal, in Montreal Canada, and in New York, N. Y., at the holders' option. Bonds will be made payable to bearer, but on request will be registered in the office of the Provincial Treasurer and endorsed as payable only to the order of certain persons or corporations, and on request of holders will be exchanged for "Ontario Government Stock" at any time.

"Ontario Government Stock" will bear interest from 1st day of June, 1909, principal payable on 1st day of June, 1939, and interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, will be paid half-yearly by cheque on the 1st day of June and the 1st day of December in each year. "Ontario Government Stock" may be subscribed for in sums of $50 or multiples thereof, and will be transferable in the books of the Treasury Department only by the holder or his attorney in similar manner to transfers of bank stock.

The issue price during the month of June, 1909 will be 102 for each $100, and after the 30th day of June, 1909, the issue price will be 102 with interest accrued from the 1st June 1909.

ALL BONDS AND INSCRIBED STOCK ISSUED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE SAID ACT ARE FREE FROM ALL ONTARIO PROVINCIAL TAXES, CHARGES, SUCCESSION DUTY AND IMPOSITIONS WHATSOEVER.

Purchasers of stock or Bonds will be required to send certified cheque with the application payable to the order of the "Provincial Treasurer of Ontario".

This loan is raised upon the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Ontario, and is chargeable thereupon.

Subscribers should state whether they desire bonds or "Ontario Government Stock".

Example: A subscriber for $1,000 will have the option of taking either a bond or "Ontario Government Stock". A subscriber for $750 will be given "Ontario Government Stock" as bonds are only in the denomination of $1,000.

OLYMPIC OUTING

The annual outing of the Olympic Club yesterday was the usual enjoyable success. The trip to Buckhorn was a delightful one, and the 25 who went on the excursion voted Mr. W. E. Leck's annual event one of the best pleasure tonics of the season.

The party left in the morning for Lakefield and returned by special train from that point.

APPLICATIONS FOR FARMERS' HELP

Good Wages Can be Secured in Return for Services to the Farmers

There are many applications for help at the immigration office at the present time, and there is no excuse for anyone who cares to work, for remaining idle. The farmers are asking for men, and are willing to pay a fair wage in return for laborers' services. Naturally young men prefer the city life, but unemployment makes poor returns. One case is recorded of a well-built and strong young fellow, who came to this city from Halifax recently. He could have secured a good position with a farmer, but said he would rather go to Toronto and try his luck. The result was that he took a trip to that place but could not get any work and had to come back here again, where he was glad to start with a farmer near Keene, and from last reports he is satisfied with his situation.

REPORT OF BRANCH TREASURER PRESENTED BY MRS. KENDREY

At W. F. M. S. Convention at Lindsay—Receipts Larger Than Ever Before—What Has Been Accomplished During the Year.

Lindsay, June 10—The chair last night at the Missionary convention was occupied by Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of Cambridge street church. After the singing of a hymn, prayer was offered by Rev. Johnston. Miss Flavelle and Mr. Brimmell rendered a beautiful duet.

The report of the branch treasurer was read by Mrs. Kendrey of Peterborough. The receipts during each quarter this past year are larger than ever before and the total is very much larger. Total receipts $14,517.04; donations, $674; thankoffering, $4,085.22. The Bay of Quinte branch will contribute $5,342.72 to the new Chentu hospital.

Mrs. Ashton, Mission Band cor-sec, reported a total membership in circles and bands of 2247; total number of circles and bands, 76, one more than ever before; Easter thankofferings, $226.97; the total amount sent to branch $2208.40.

The report of the branch cor-sec, Mrs. Grange, was as follows;

Number of auxiliaries, 167; increase over last year 5; number of annual members 4625; increase of 270, number of life members, 365, increase 55; total auxiliary members 4988, increase of 523; number of Mission Circles 18; increase 5; number of Mission Bands, 58, increase by members of circles 551; members of bands 1,718, increase 56; associate helpers, 128, decrease 15; Cradle roll members 168, increase 9; total amount raised by auxiliaries $12,148.54; total amount raised by Circles and Bands, $2208.04; increase raised $168.41; total income for year, $14,517.04; increase for year $2537.04.

Bales of goods with an aggregate value of $700 have been donated to needy mission stations; 1500 Outlooks and 508 letters are taken by our members.

Seven new auxiliaries and nine circles and bands have been organized.

The secret of the success of the past year is;

First, the reform movement for the early collection of fees.

Second, the board of management provided a stimulus for our enthusiasm by naming the proposed Chentu hospital as a definite object to work for.

Third, our workers have been permeated with the great truth inculcated by our watch word for the year—"Not by might nor by power, but by money spent, saith the Lord."

A chorus by the Mission Circle of the Cambridge street church was given, led by Miss E Flavelle.

Mrs. M E Wilson, Dunsford, read a paper on the "Results of 27 Years' Effort in Japan."

Solos were rendered by Mrs Blackwell and Miss Miller.

At the afternoon session, Mrs Real, of Lindsay, presented an excellent report on systematic giving. The church had tried every human plan to raise money to carry on the work, only to find such plans unsatisfactory.

"We have to come back to the old plan of giving systematically" said Mrs. Real. 35000 members of the Methodist church are pledged to give at least one-tenth. The tenth is the Lord's and all true giving must be above that amount.

Dr. Olive Rea, missionary elect from the Cambridge street church was next heard. She said that there were many hearts in Lindsay consecrated to the Missionary work.

Following are some of the influences that lead Dr Rea, to give herself to the work; A Christian home; report of Dr. Henry's work in China; Dr. Rea believes in the whole Bible as an inspired book.

A most helpful consecration service was lead by Mrs D. E Rose of Tamworth, at the close of which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered.

The convention then adjourned to the home of Mrs. R M Real, where a hearty reception was tendered to all delegates and visitors.

FRENCH-CANADIAN JOURNAL OUT AGAINST IMP. FEDERATION

"LaPresse" Makes Bold and Aggressive Statement Regarding Imperialism—Sir Wilfrid Laurier to Stemthe Tide of Imperial Unity — A Forecast of Disaster ..."Laurier Will Personally Bear the Whole Burden of the Next Battle."

Montreal, June 10—A day or two ago La Presse announced that Mr. Colclough, a well-known London lawyer, would represent it at the Imperial Press Conference, and now it publishes a despatch from him stating that he had been refused admission on account of the attitude taken by La Presse.

The circumstances resulted in the following vigorous article;—"The jingoist conspiracy, stimulated by its success in Australia, is now preparing a great stroke on Canada. Because it destroyed a Prime Minister down there it believes it can be resisted nowhere. It does not know with whom it has to deal. In the whole history of the British Empire we have never met such indecency as this convocation in a star chamber of a press which England has never known, that it will never understand, and which it is supposed to be able to remove from the control of each colonial Government and even of colonial ideas by means of extravagant receptions. The idea is to have our newspapers kept away from the influences of their surroundings, their connections, their local interests and their political ties. What a pretension!"

After declaring that in his recent utterance Sir Hugh Graham did not voice the feelings of the people, the article says;—"The time is past when it can be imagined that British public men can make an impression on colonial public men. Neither their politicians nor their journalists have more value than our own, and they are greatly mistaken when they believe than colonists can be bought with honors and empty promises. If England imagines than tinsel, titles, influence and flattery can make an impression on British subjects who understand duty for duty itself and not for useless honors, it makes the greatest mistake of the present age. The bulwark of Great Britain lies perhaps more in her colonies, full of blood, sap, courage and British aspirations, than in her coffers of gold, which she takes wicked and demoralizing pleasure in pointing out to us as getting exhausted. If she persists in pleading poverty, her prestige is gone with her far-away subjects, who have been brought up in the idea that she is an indomitable and irreducible power."

After pointing out that party spirit in England and the struggle for power gave rise to a miserable conspiracy that secured success for an ambitious man in Australia, with the accompaniment of cries of "Judas," the article concludes as follows;—"Let us not forget that the same thing has already been tried upon us. Lord Minto and Lord Dundonald had there a mission that killed them. It will kill those who may dare to try it again. We know that the whole of the next fight in Canada will be against Laurier, the bad servant of military Imperialism. An immense split will take place among the people of our country. Laurier personally will bear the whole burden of the next battle. Such is the conspiracy now in progress. The press convention in London is simply the prelude thereof. Everything is there so well arranged that admission is refused to a marjoy like La Presse. Our country has not seen the end of these obsessions, who have become unbearable."

EXCURSIONS TO PETERBORO' DURING THE FALL EXHIBITION

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Association are arranging to have several large excursions from our side points to Peterborough during the days of the fair. Last year the Foresters from Picton had an excursion here during the exhibition and several hundred visitors were brought in. They weer egreatly pleaseds with the trip and will likely come again this fall. It is the intention to arrange excursions from several other points, both on land and water.

OTONABEE RIVER WILL BE POPULAR

The indications are that there will be many young people, and some old ones, too, go down the river to-morrow afternoon to remain over Sunday, provided, of course, that the weather remains fine. The many beautiful and available camping places will be well patronized from now on until the end of the summer season. Clubs of young men who have spent the winter in building a canoe, or in some cases a yacht, will now have the pleasure of making use of their crafts. Then there are many others who have bought new and up-to-date boats with the intention of sailing on the river. This should result in the Otonabee becoming widely known as an attractive summer resort for boatmen and anglers. When the proposed new park is opened a trip down the river will be an important feature in the recreations indulged in by both young and old.

TELLS HOW MOTHER WROTE "UNCLE TOM"

Dr. Stowe Says Stories Told by Negro Servants Were an Inspiration

New York, June 10—After evening service at the Church of the Ascension, Fifth and Tenth street last evening the congregation adjourned to the Parish Hall where the Rev. Dr. Charles Edward Stowe made an address on his mother's great book, 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'

"My mother wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin" said Dr Stowe, "simply because she was a woman and a mother. She knew nothing about the arguments that had been put forth by each side but she had babies of her own and she had negro servants also. When she learned that some of those women whom she employed had their babies torn from them that is what hurt her most and touched her heart.

"Then her brother, Charles Beecher on his return from New Orleans, told her of the misery in which these poor people lived. Her sister-in-law, was there at the time and she exclaimed, "Oh, Harriet, if I could write like you I would write something about these poor people." My mother on the impulse of the moment exclaimed, "So I will."

"My mother had not the faintest idea what she would write about until one day she was in church and suddenly the whole scene of Uncle Tom and Legree floated before her eyes. She broke into a fit of uncontrollable weeping. When she reached home she went up to her room and sat down and wrote the chapter that most of you are familiar with, 'The Death of Uncle Tom.' Then she called her six children around her and read it to them until they cried too. It was a cry from a woman's heart at what was wrong. I need not tell you how it worked. Strong men read it and wept over it."

Dr. Stowe said that if his mother had made sufficient money from the sale of the book it was her wish to found an institution for the education of negroes, but she had made little. She got nothing from the sale of the book in Europe or from the dramatized version. An old lady suggested that a fund be started to found such an institution as a memorial to Mrs. Stowe and this was agreed to.

BRITISH ADMIRALTY MORE FAVORABLE TO LOCAL FLEETS

Reports in London Have it That Canada is About to Make a Very Generous Offer of Money to Be Spent as Defence Conference Sees Fit—Press Congress Functions Reach Climax in a Big Dinner.

London, June 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—It is stated here that the Canadian Government is contemplating a "very generous financial offer to the Imperial Government," to be expended on naval defence in such a way as may be decided by the Imperial Defence Conference.

Balfour's speech has encouraged Canada to believe it possible to come to an agreement with the Imperial Government on lines of an autonomous local navy, working in harmony with the Admiralty. It is added that the Admiralty is now less inclined to oppose the formation of local navies than was the case.

"Omens are favorable, therefore, for an agreement between the Dominion Government and the Admiralty on the lines of their present proposals," is the statement made.

The week's brilliant functions in connection with the Imperial Press Conference reached a climax last night with the Government's dinner. Earl Crewe presided. Premier Asquith, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Col. Seeley, Lord Cromer, Lord Northcote and other distinguished men were present. The Premier proposed the toasts to the guests. He claimed there ought to be in a sense a partnership between Governments and the press. It was the duty of an Imperial press to promote in highest forms, for its worthiest purposes, the spirit of Imperial unity. He referred to the one voice and settled conviction wherewith the statesmen of both parties had dealt with the question of Imperial defence.

Mr. Langlois of Montreal first responded. Speaking for two and a quarter millions of French-Canadians he declared that in all crises Quebec would stand by the Empire. There would be no discordant voice. Should the occasion arise, Canada would be united as a mighty whole to defend the common cause.

French-Canadians were proud of the British flag, which floated over a peaceful and contented people in Quebec.

Speaking in French he expressed pleasure at the entente cordiale. French-Canadians were grateful to Britain for safeguarding their religion, customs and liberties. He recalled with pride that in the dark days of 1812 French-Canadians had saved Canada. What they did then they could be relied on to do in the future.

Cunningham Fenwick responded for Australasia.

Lord Crewe said the Home Government would meet the overseas representatives as equals and allies. Nothing could be further from the Minister's thoughts than to dictate to them any policy or act. He thought the International Press Conference would have effects as far-reaching and beneficial as any conference that had been, or would be, held.

The St. Petersburg Novoe Vremya, exalting British Imperial policy as demonstrated in the Imperial Press Conference, exclaims, "How great will be the might of the Empire if the policy initiated by Chamberlain has already yielded such astonishing fruit." Other newspapers join in the apotheosis to British Imperialism.

RECORD FOR DISTINGUISHED SCHOLARSHP IN ONE FAMILY

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Ont., June 12.—The record for distinguished scholarship in one Canadian family at one time was reached yesterday at the convocation exercises of Toronto University. Mr. J. H. Coyne of St. Thomas, saw three of his children and three of his nephews awarded degrees. One son won the bankers' scholarship, another secured honors in political science, and his daughter gained honors in moderns. Mr. Coyne has been for years a member of the University Senate. He graduated from Toronto forty years ago.

Hearst Costs New York $83,000.

New York, June 12.—Mayor McClellan's bill of personal expenses incurred in the mayoralty recount fight against W. R. Hearst is to be paid by the city. Justice Patterson presiding, having decided that the provision in the city charter for the reimbursement of city officials who may be put to expense in defending their title to office applies to the case. He orders the reimbursement of the mayor in the sum of $83,000, the major portion of which is for counsel fees.

G.T.P. Passenger Train.

Winnipeg, Man., June 12.—The first regular passengr train service on the Grand Trunk Pacific will be inaugurated June 14 between Winnipeg and Scott, Sask., 560 miles, to be extended as the roadbed is completed. It is expected that the service will be extended to the foothills of the Rocky Mountains this autumn, and to Fort William and Port Arthur, giving a continuous completed line of about 1,500 miles west from Lake Superior, besides the section built eastwardly from Prince Rupert. Settlers are rapidly taking up land along the line.

Prompter Trade Reports.

Ottawa, June 12.—F. C. T. O'Hara, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, has decided upon a radical move in respect to the manner of issuing the annual report of the Department. Commencing with the report of 1907, it will be issued in seven parts. In this way the most important features of the trade statistics of Canada will not have to be held back until the completion of the other statistics. By adopting this system the Department hopes to present the principal details of the trade of Canada in much shorter time.

Western Counties Want Asylum.

Chatham, June 12.—Yesterday afternoon the County Council unanimously passed a resolution asking the counties of Essex, Middlesex, Elgin and Lambton to co-operate with Kent in building an insane asylum, centrally located in the western peninsula, to take care of the many lunatics which at present have to be taken care of in the local jails because the Government asylums have no room.

$12,500 For Dislocated Spine.

Welland, June 12.—Lafayette Upthegrove, of Port Colborne, has been awarded $12,500 damages against the Great Western Railroad by an Iowa court for injuries received in an accident on Sept. 5, 1907, when he was brakeman on the road. He suffered a rotary dislocation of the spine, permanently disabling him.

Lee Shubert Ejected From Theatre.

Atlantic City, N.J., June 12.—Considerable excitement was caused in the Apollo Theatre here last night when Lee Shubert, Lew Fields and Mrs. Fields were ordered from the theatre, first it is said by Florenz Zeigfeld and subsequently by A. L. Erlanger. Upon their refusal to leave, officers were called upon and a threat to use force made. After the curtain had been down for ten minutes, the party left the theatre. Zeigfeld explained that the action was in retaliation for the refusal to allow him in a Shubert theatre. Shubert threatens to bring suit for his ejection.

THE DEGREES CONFERRED

University of Toronto Convocation Was a Brilliant Function—Rewards for Good Work

Toronto, June 12.—The annual commencement exercises of Toronto University were held in convocation hall yesterday afternoon.

Among those on the platform were Dr. Hoskin, Prof. Goldwin Smith, Principal Gandier, Dean Fernow, Provost Macklem, Principal Hutton, Dr. Kennedy, Dr. Reeve, Dr. Ham, Mr. Justice McLaren, Dr. King, Dean Galbraith and Prof. Ramsay Wright.

Two hundred and eight new B.A.'s were accepted, 50 M.A.'s, 87 M.B.'s, 62 B.A. Sc., 36 Phm.B., 10 V.S., and 24 B.Ag.

Sir Charles Moss, in presenting Z. A. Lash, K.C., for the degree of LL.D., referred to the service rendered by him to the university in the erection of the new residences. These buildings accommodated at least 140 students. If the senate were satisfied with the experiment he believed there would be friends enough of the university found to erect others.

Prof. Vander Smissen presented W. Wedd, M.A., and Canon Welch was presented by Provost Macklem, both for honorary degree of LL.D.

In presenting Principal Andrew Smith for the new degree of D.V.S., President Creelman of the O.A.C. referred to the unique position of the Ontario Veterinary College for over 40 years. One man had been its founder, owner and principal. Over 3,000 students had gone through his hands.

Two gentlemen received the degree of doctor of philosophy, Austin Perley Misener, M.A., of the staff of Victoria College, and John Francis Mackay, M.A., for the last two years a member of the university staff.

A unique feature was the conferring of the degree of bachelor of forestry on James Herbert White, M.A. He was presented by Dean Fernow, who stated that Mr. White was the first man to receive this honor on Canadian soil.

The candidates for the other degrees were presented by various members of the staff. The winners of medals and prizes were also presented.

WHEEL WAS TAKEN OFF

In Collision on Water Street This Morning Between Farmers' Buggies

A peculiar accident occurred on Water street this morning, when two farmers' buggies collided with the result that one of them is minus a wheel. One buggy was being driven north and the other south, and the horses were going along the road at an ordinary rate, when one of them suddenly shied and took an Inshoot.

The buggy it was drawing was a heavy one, and the other rig was much lighter, and a wheel was taken off the smaller vehicle as cleanly as it could be.

DIED IN ROOM WITH CHILDREN

Rochester, N.Y., June 12.—Cecelia Swirner, a widow, 30 years of age, took her two children into a bedroom yesterday afternoon, lay down after turning on the gas and was asphyxiated with them. A third child, a boy of nine years of age, was playing outdoors and would not come when called by his mother.

The woman was an Austrian and, it is said, had been brooding over the death of her husband and was in poor circumstances for about a year, since her husband met death by accident here.

FOREST FIRES DO TERRIBLE DAMAGE

Refugees Flocking Into Campbellton Tell of Destruction of the Forests, Cut Lumber and Homes—Settlement is Wiped Out.

St. John, N.B., June 12.—New Brunswick bids fair to be fire-swept from end to end unless rain comes quickly. Forest fires are raging in every section, and the continued drouth and high winds make fighting the flames futile, although thousands of men have been doing nothing else for the past ten days. Many dwellings have already been destroyed and many thousand acres of the best timber land in the province have been burned over.

The most gaphic story of the dangers passed through comes in a despatch last night from Campbellton. Refugees from along the Intercolonial Railway, who arrived there last evening, tell a tale of hardship and suffering seldom heard in a settled country. After a week of fighting fires, and when the danger was considered past, the roar of flames was yesterday heard about two miles away from Messrs. Couillard & Guemont's mill, and fanned by a brisk wind, they advanced rapidly on the mill property. A great fight was made to check the flames, but they advanced through the old workings with a roar which sent terror to the hearts of the ninety inhabitants of the place. Without stopping to pack their belongings, some without coast or hats, the men carrying the children and helping the women, ran in advance of the flames two miles, until picked up by a relief train, sent out by the manager of the International Railway, and all were brought safely to town, where they are being cared for by friends. The property destroyed consists of the mill, which was equipped with three shingle machines, six million shingles which were purchased by Mr. S. S. Harrison; two million feet of spruce and hardwood, purchased by Messrs. V. and K. Nordin & Co.; four camps, a store, and three hovels, in which were three horses. All the goods in the store and the houses, together with the equipment, were destroyed, and last night nothing but a blackened waste remains of what yesterday morning was a scene of commercial activity.

Forest Fires Along Algoma Central.

Sault Ste. Marie, June 12.—Reports from along the line of the Algoma Central Railway say that bush fires are running all along the line of railway between posts 63 and 69. The fire extends about three miles on each side of the railway. Smith's camp, at mile 68, has been completely destroyed, also the camp of the Mayflower Mining Co. in Penyfather Township. The fire threatens camps along the Goulais River. From this it is estimated that the fire is covering a large district and unless rain comes may extend right down to the Soo. The Algoma Central Railway has 50 men fighting the flames. The fires are regarded as the most serious that have visited the district for many years. Everything in the bush is very dry.

THE TRAVELLERS MAKE DEMANDS

Ogdensburg, N.Y., June 12.—The ninth annual convention of the New York Grand Council of United Commercial Travelers yesterday in a resolution requested all members to urge landlords to install conveniences by which travelers may obtain water without going into the barroom for it. Objection was otherwise made to the roller towel, which was held to be unsanitary, and a protest was lodged against the collection of charges for excess baggage and fees for storage.

TRAGIC DEATH OF BANK CLERK

Saskatoon, Sask., June 12.—Walter A. Sherwood, teller in the Bank of Nova Scotia here, is in the hospial with a bullet hole through his body and an even chance for life. Half an hour after midnight Sherwood, with some camp companions, went across the river to visit five bank clerks from the city, but all were asleep. The visitors started fooling with the tent ropes, and one of the other party ordered them off. After some argument a revolver shot was fired from the tent, the bullet entering Sherwood's abdomen. The shot was fired by R. C. Lane, aged 17, clerk in the Bank of Hamilton, and a great friend of Sherwood.

COURT TOOK INDIAN'S WORD

Brockville, June 12.—Notwithstanding that the hotelkeepers of Brockville a short time ago agreed to observe the liquor license law, H. Barker, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, was yesterday fined $50 and costs for selling liquor on Sunday. His brother, Alfred Barker, who is a bartender, was fined a similar amount for dispensing liquids to M. Bero, an Indian. The defendants gave straight denials to the charges, but the magistrate accepted the testimony of the redman, on which he made the conviction.

Holidays En Bloc.

Ottawa, June 12.—The last shock to the Government employes of Ottawa is an order that the three week's holiday granted to civil servants must be taken at one period. It has been the custom of the service to take a day off when it suited them or a week now and then.

Want a Fire Engine.

Cornwall, June 12.—A majority of the freeholders of Chesterville have petitioned the council to purchase a steam fire engine, 1,000 feet of hose, hose reel and general equipment, the same to cost $2,500, payment to extend over five years at 5 1-2 per cent.

OCTOGENARIAN KILLS AN OCTOGENARIAN

Scranton, Pa., June 12.—A murder and suicide, remarkable because of the great age of the two principals, each being an octogenarian, occurred yesterday on a farm in Derry Township, near Honesdale, about 25 miles from here.

According to reports received here George Baker, a farmer, aged 87 years, was murdered, presumably with a shotgun, by his brothr-in-law, Mark Vanduesen, aged 86 years. After leaving Baker dead in the barn, Vanduesen returned to the farmhouse and informed Mrs. Baker what he had done. Before the aged woman could summon neighbors, Vanduesen hurried out of the house and shot himself dead.

FIRST DIVIDEND BY END OF YEAR

York Loan Claimants Will Fare Better Than Once Expected

Toronto, June 11.—The 105,000 claimants to a share of the net assets of the defunct York Loan Company will be pleased to learn that within the next six months they will receive the first dividend from the wrecked concern, which will amount to from 20 to 25 cents on the dollar.

Under the nourishing hands of the trustees, the National Trust Company, of Toronto, the assets have considerably appreciated in value, and prospects are that the return to the shareholders will be in excess of what was originally supposed.

It is learned on good authority that the first apportionment will be made in December next, if not earlier, and that the final dividend will follow in due time.

From the present outlook, it is estimated that the assets still undisposed of, will bring a total payment to the shareholders up to 45 or 50 cents on the dollar.

Reduced to figures the affairs of the York Loan Company stand at present as follows:—Claims, total about $3,100,000 (subject to further adjustment on loan account.) Assets, cash in bank, $500,000. Good mortgage and sale agreements, $400,000. Property still on hand, $650,000 (estimated.)

Australia's Dreadnought Fund.

London, June 12.—A Sydney despatch yesterday says the Dreadnought fund now totals over $385,000.

THE DESPATCH WAS INCORRECT

Mr. Passmore of Toronto, whose name was connected in series of swindles worked by a man who appropriated his name and operated under it in several places, is hereby tendered an apology for the use made of his name in connection with these matters. Mr. Harry Passmore, the Toronto newspaperman, was in no way connected with them, and regret is expressed that anything in these columns should have been of such a nature as to direct attention to him in such manner as to indicate that he had any connection with the offenses named or that he had disappeared. There was no intention to do Mr. Passmore any injury either to his good name or his good reputation.

THE FINANCES OF THE DOMINION

Ottawa, June 12.—The revenue of the Dominion for the two months of the current fiscal year, according to the unrevised statement issued yesterday, was $13,613,974, as against $11,880,281 for the same period last year. The Postoffice Department collected $50,000 more than it did in May, 1908.

The expenditure for May was $3,560,630, as compared with $2,555,490 in May, 1908. The statement shows an increase of $5,146,609 in the public debt, which is now $313,120,831. The total gross debt is $480,403,745, and the total assets $167,275,914.

TORONTO METHODISTS FAVOR A COURT TO PASS ON ORTHODOXY

Members of Conference Pass Motion Presented by Laymen for a Tribunal to Deal With Cases of Doctrine Coming up From Time to Time.

Toronto, June 12.—A new court to pass upon the orthodoxy of Methodist college professors was proposed by the Toronto Conference yesterday afternoon. The adoption of the motion was the feature of the day. It was one of the recommendations in the report of the laymen's association and led to a noteable debate.

A. D. Powell presented the report of the Laymen's Association. It nominated J. Taylor president and A. D. Powell secretary-treasurer.

When its recommendations had been read, Alex. Mills proposed as a substantive separate motion the clause that it was desirable for the purpose of keeping the connexional colleges in the closest touch with the church that the appointment and retention of professors be subject to the approval of the general conference, the general conference special committee, or a committee appointed by the general conference.

Also that it was desirable that all theological professors should be ministers or members of the Methodist Church in Canada.

Mr. Mills said that the motion was proposed with the object of securing for the colleges the fullest support and confidence. It was not aimed at any controversy or individual. At present the professors did not need to be Methodists. The regents could appoint a Hottentot.

Rev. Geo. Washington, secretary of the conference board of examiners, read a similar resolution passed by the Uxbridge District.

J. R. L. Starr opposed the motion on the ground that Victoria College was so strongly religious and orthodox now that some parents were afraid to send their sons and daughters there for fear they would volunteer as missionaries. It would be most unfair to demand that Rev. Geo. Jackson should sever his connection with the British Conference, when it would mean the sacrifice of his superannuation allowance.

Dr. Hough, a Victoria regent, said he agreed with Mr. Starr that there was no danger of improper teaching at Victoria. The regents had taken prompt action when necessary in the past, and were prepared if necessary to do so again. He believed, however, the action proposed in the resolution would strengthen the hands of the college boards.

Mr. Justice Maclaren, as a Victoria graduate and the senior member but one on the college board, said the proposed committee would be a valuable addition, and recent cases had shown the necessity for some such a body.

Rev. Dr. Binns said that the portion of the resolution respecting membership in a Canadian conference would prevent Canadian Methodism in future securing professors from the British Conference. He moved that the concluding portion of the resolution be laid on the table for a year.

On a close vote the motion to table was lost. The main motion was adopted by a substantial majority, amid some applause.

South America Needs Missionaries.

Clifton Springs, N.Y., June 12.—South America as a field for missionary work was the burden of the addresses before the International Missionary Union here yesterday.

"No country needs missionaries to a greater extent than South America," said Bishop Neely.

A Million Dollar Scheme.

Winnipeg, June 12.—It is rumored that the Dominion Government have plans for opening navigation at a cost of less than a million dollars between North Dakota and Europe, via the Red River, Lake Winnipeg and Hudson Bay.

Two New Religions Predicted.

New York, June 12.—That two new world religions soon will take the place of the present Christian denominations is predicted by Prof. George Burman Foster of the University of Chicago.

Prof. Foster declares that the present question of religious freedom points to a union of all the Protestant churches with the Catholic against the free thinkers.

People Wouldn't Read It.

Melbourne, June 12.—The Argus say lower cable rates would constitute a gift no one would refuse, but it would not increase the interest of Canadian readers in Australian affairs or vice versa. The publication of domestic news from Canada or South Africa, or even in England, would mean so many columns to be skipped.

MARK TWAIN GIVES ADVICE TO GIRLS

"Dont Marry; That is to Excess" is One of Them

Baltimore, June 11.—Mark Twain was the star to-day at the commencement exercises at St. Timothy's, a young women's school at Catonsville, a suburb of Baltimore. He was enthusiastically greeted.

Smiling, Mr. Clemens, with his peculiar drawl, gave the girls some advice.

"There is nothing for me to do but to tell you young ladies what not to do. There are three things that you should never do on any occasion.

"First—Don't smoke—that is, not to excess. I am seventy-three, and have always smoked during my seventy-three years to excess.

"Second—Don't drink—that is, to excess.

"Third—Don't marry—that is, to excess.

"Now, if you young ladies refrain from all these things you will have all the virtues than any one will honor and respect.

"Another thing I want to say, and that is that honesty is the best policy.

"I remember when I had just written 'Innocents Abroad,' when I and my partner wanted to start a newspaper syndicate. We needed $3 and did not know where to get it. While we were in a quandary I espied a valuable dog on the street. I picked up the canine and sold him to a man for $3. Afterward the owner of the dog came along and I got $3 from him for telling him where the dog was. So I went back and gave the $3 to the man whom I sold it to, and I have lived honestly ever since."

Will Attend Murray St.

To-morrow evening the I.O.F. will attend the Murray St. Baptist church in a body. Rev. J. R. Webb will deliver the sermon to the Foresters.

BOATSANK IN STORM

In Black Sea—Nineteen Men Went to Their Death in Wreck.

St. Petersburg, June 12.—The Naval Board to-day received a despatch from the admiral commanding the Black Sea fleet, saying the torpedo boat Kambala sank yesterday during a storm in the Black Sea. The commander Lieut., Commander, Engineer and seventeen men of the crew were drowned in the disaster.

THE LOCAL OPTION MOVEMENT IN THE CITY

The Matter Appearing in This Department is Furnished by the Peterboroug Temperance and Moral Reform League Which Has Arranged for its Publication.

CATHOLIC QUEBEC LEADS PROTESTANT ONTARIO

The Temperance campaign in the Province of Quebec has been pushed with such vigor, during the past few years, that that province now leads Ontario as regards the proportionate number of minor municipalities that are without bars of any kind. In the annual report for the year 1908 of the Board of Moral and Social Reform of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, as presented recently to the General Assembly, it is stated that in Quebec there are 664 municipalities out of 1008, or considerably over half, that are under local veto. In Ontario, only 334 out of 807 municipalities, or considerably less than half, are without bar-rooms or liquor shops. In speaking about the temperance conditions in Quebec, the report says: "The well-known action of Archbishop Burchesi and other Roman Catholic authorities along the line of urging Total Abstinence is bearing manifest fruit in communities where the Catholic faith predominates, and constitutes an example worthy to be followed by our own church leaders."

Spread of the Temperance Movement

That part of the report that deals with temperance shows that gratifying progress was made last year by the temperance workers in all the provinces of Canada. The report reads as follows;—

"Steady progress has been made during the year in temperance reform. The common-sense, practical policy adopted last Assembly, combining as it does the aggressive and the reasonable, has been heartily endorsed by the strong laymen of the Church, and made its influence powerfully felt amongst other denominations and temperance organizations, and has probably permanently affected for the better the tone of discussion and methods of work on this great question.

Temperance Legislation

"In legislation for temperance reform considerable progress has been made.

"The Dominion Parliament has considerably improved the Canada Temperance Act or Scott Act, so that it is being more effectively enforced in some parts of the Eastern Provinces.

"The struggle for Provincial Prohibition, provincially enforced, is still on in Nova Scotia, and it would seem that the temperance forces, led by Rev. H. R. Grant, are gaining ground. Meantime a special movement is in progress in Halifax for further restriction of licenses, and for a better observance of the License Law.

"In New Brunswick the new Government has committed itself to the Provincial enforcement of both the Scott Act and the Provincial License Act. It has also amended the latter Act so as to make it more easily enforceable and has given to municipalities, parishes and wards, the right of local veto on a simple majority vote. One result has been that a campaign for Local Option has been carried on in the wards of the city of St. John, N.B., with the result that Local Veto carried in three out of the four wards voting. In this campaign, Rev. A. A. Graham, B.D., a member of our Board, was the recognized leader.

"The Moral and Social Reform Council of New Brunswick has submitted to the Government a slight modification of the policy of our Church, as adopted by last Assembly, for its consideration, and there seems a good prospect of uniting all the forces, including the Roman Catholics and Anglicans on this ground.

"In Quebec many licenses have been cut off, as in Quebec City and Montreal, and the Provincial Government is showing increased activity, and growing firmness in enforcing the law. 654 of the 1,008 municipalities are under Local Veto.

"In Ontario 52 licenses in 21 municipalities were during the year cut off by local veto, and about 50 by license reduction, and 40 by action of License Commissioners. In 334 out of 807 municipalities in the Province now there are no bar-rooms nor liquor shops.

The Ontario Law

"The Legislature has again improved the law. The main purpose of the Bill was to perfect the enforcement machinery rather than to restrict further the liquor traffic. The sale of liquor by brewers in Local Option municipalities is absolutely prohibited, and the sale under a brewer's warehouse license is not only prohibited in Local Option municipalities, but it is provided that no liquor should be sold to unlicensed persons in places of less than 4,000 population.

"Provision is made for granting permits to inspected hotels in municipalities where no liquor licenses are issued. The penalty of a first offence of selling without a license is increased from a fine of not less than $50 or more than $100, and costs. Minors can be compelled to state who furnished them with liquor. Power is given to inspectors, police, and other peace officers to seize liquor in transit or in course of delivery, if they believe such liquor to be sold or kept for sale in violation of law. The License Commissioners are given power to withhold licenses from clubs, at their discretion.

In the West

"The Manitoba Legislature has also during the year removed certain weaknesses and has given the people one of the most effective local veto measures to be found in Canada. The number of municipalities now free from the burden of the bar-room is [illegible] out of [illegible], and this year there is the brightest prospect of the number being doubled. The temperance reform in Manitoba is being directed by the Moral and Social Reform Council, of which Rev. Principal Patrick, D.D., is president, and under his statesmanlike leadership the Roman Catholic, Anglican, Lutheran, Methodist, Baptist, Congregational and Presbyterian churches, as well as the Trades and Labor bodies, and the Royal Templars and Good Templars, are all heartily co-operating in the promotion of this and other moral reforms. This great federation has already flooded the Legislature with petitions for the abolition of the bar-room, in line with our church's policy, and with such effect that the politicians admit that this cry has entered the arena of practical politics.

"While Saskatchewan Legislature greatly improved the License Act in its local veto and other features as commended by Last Assembly, there has been since a slight retrogressive step taken in restoring to bar-rooms in cities thirty minutes out of the ninety then cut off from the hour's sale. The Moral and Social Reform Council in this Province also has charge of the Temperance Reform, and as it is securing the services of a capable secretary, decided progress seems assured in the near future.

"In Alberta, while no progress has been made in legislation during the year, much has been done through the Temperance and Moral Reform League, as led by Rev. W. G. W. Fortune, in forming and arousing public opinion, which in the near future is likely to bear fruit.

In British Columbia the people have petitioned the Legislature for the right of local veto on the local option method. The Government has promised to take a plebiscite to ascertain whether a majority of the people of British Columbia believe in the principle or not, and meantime the Legislature has directed a Royal Commission to investigate the liquor question in British Columbia, and to report upon the working of the Gothenburg System of Scandinavia. Meanwhile the public opinion of British Columbia is rapidly taking form against the traffic in intoxicants and especially against the bar-room. The men in the traffic know this and are using the weapons of intimidation and the boycott to prolong their day of opportunity.

ANGLICANS AND LOCAL OPTION

The strong stand taken by the Anglican Synod at its annual session in Ottawa last year on the temperance question, including local option, shows that the Anglican Church as a body intends to do its part to secure local option. Recently we published in these columns the resolution that was passed by the Synod which endorsed the temperance movement including local option. The following is a report of the discussion that took place while the resolution was under consideration.

"The Anglican Synod of Canada met in annual session in Ottawa last week, made a strong pronouncement in favor of local option. It is recommended, upon the initiative of the Committee on Temperance and Moral Reform, that full advantage be taken when "practicable of the local option clauses of the License Law by securing the adoption and enforcement of local option by-laws.

"The revised report of the committee, submitted by Canon Ingles, of Toronto, recommended, also, that the License Commissioners should be interviewed in every municipality, and the request urged that "windows should be uncurtained and all obstructions removed which would prevent persons seeing into the bar from the street at all hours of sale."

"An amendment was moved by Judge McDonald that all bars should be at the front of the hotels, and open on the street. This was done as it was pointed out that did the windows not open on the street, the value of the former clause would be annulled.

"The amended motion was carried, the words, "Of Sale," being struck out. This change was greatly objected to by Judge Hannington who urged the claim that after license hours the the bar-keepers should be entitled to close their shutters.

"It was also moved by Canon Ingles, and carried that a league against the habit of treating to liquor should be formed.

"The recommendation was made that where local option did not obtain, the hours of sale of liquor should be shortened.

"The recommendation for the formation of a Church of England Temperance Society was also adopted."

LAW ENFORCEMENT AND LOCAL OPTION

Some people in Peterborough claim that they are not in favor of local option in Peterborough because it would be impossible to enforce it. When these people hear of any cases of liquor drinking in local option districts, they point to them as evidence that local option is not a success. When the law is broken in a district where licenses are issued, nothing is thought of it. For instance, a party of Peterborough young men went on an excursion down the river one Sunday recently and when they returned some of them were so helplessly drunk that they had to be taken home in hacks. Liquor was consumed on this trip in large quantities. Were this to occur next year in Peterborough under local option there would be a general clamour that local option was not proving a success.

When local option laws are broken, who breaks them? It is the men who sell the liquor. These men have never hesitated to break the law when they can do so with impunity. This is shown by the following item from the Kingston Citizen—

"The liquor journals are constantly declaring that no-license is a failure, and that drunkenness increases with the banishment of the saloon. And who, pray, are the lawless fellows who conduct the speak-easy and carry on a boot-legging business? Certainly not the no-license folks, but in every instance the emissaries of the liquor trade. And who furnishes them the liquor to be sold in these places? These same brewers and distillers and wholesalers who are crying themselves hoarse about the failure of no-license. What a pretty lot of patriots these people are, anyway! They say law cannot be enforced. Who says the law cannot be enforced? Why, these same good fellows who are doing their utmost to make their word good.

"They say, however, that laws aimed at the habits of the people cannot be enforced. No, that is not the difficulty. The trouble is the people have not yet understood fully the innate lawlessness of the liquor business. They have naturally expected that when no-license laws were enacted, the liquor folks would yield to the public dictum, and they have trusted them to abide by the decision of the people. They have yet to learn that it is the policy of the liquor trade to do any or everything under heaven in furtherance of the business that the public does not forbid by genuine force. When the people do waken to this fact and this is coming right speedily, the result will be written in vengeance. Both the saloon and the speak-easy are doomed. Their very lawlessness is working their own destruction."

SHOW YOUR COLORS

How do you stand on local option? Are you afraid to show your colors? If so, be careful that you do not get into worse repute than you would by coming out in the open and taking a stand. In a local option contest that took place last January in a municipality within seventy-five miles of Peterborough, an Anglican minister refused to take a stand in favor of local option. One of the leading hotel keepers was an officer in his church. By declining to support local option it was generally concluded that he was opposed to it. When election day came the hotel-keeper drove around to get this minister, expecting him to vote against local option. Many of the leading citizens of the place were strongly in favor of local option. The minister refused to go out and vote. The attitude of this minister had helped the liquor interests. When, however, the hotel-keeper found that he could not get this minister to vote, he showed his gratitude by bursting out with, "You old straddle-the-fence, you are no good to anybody." This minister found that it is a difficult matter to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

Lindsay has definitely decided to take a vote next January on local option.

If Peterborough carries local option next January there will be a great procession of other cities and towns throughout the province that will immediately undertake a similar campaign.

The Grand Jury of the General Sessions, at Toronto, in bringing in their report, recently took a whack at the open bar room and club room in connection with liquor laws, and suggested that the open bar and treating system should be prohibited. Judge Winchester stated that the presentment on a whole was the best that had ever been presented in Toronto. Things have got so now that the liquor interests never know from what direction the next blow is coming.

SERVING QUINCES.

Three New Ways In Which This Preserve Is Delicious.

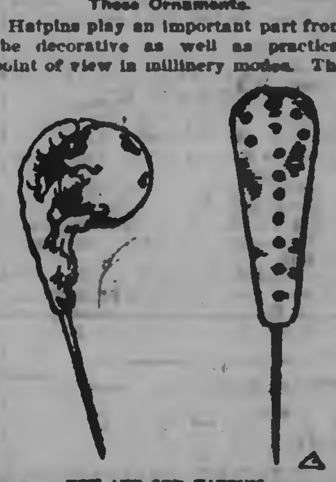
A delicious trifle may be made with chopped preserved quinces. Arrange them in a deep glass dish with alternate layers of macaroon or sponge cake crumbs, then pour over a rich boiled custard made with the yolks of six eggs, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, three cupfuls of milk and half a teaspoonful of almond extract. Pour the custard over while it is still warm and set aside until very cold. Just before serving heap over the top the whites of two eggs whipped to a very stiff snow with two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and two tablespoonfuls of chopped blanched almonds. Garnish with candied cherries.

A quince tart is either a pie or pudding if one prefers it so called, but it is equally delicious under either name. Press one pint of quince pulp through a colander, add to it one cupful of granulated sugar, the beaten yolks of four eggs and one pint of milk. Line a shallow pudding dish with puff paste and pour in the quince mixture. Twist a strip of the pastry around the edge of the dish for a border and bake in a moderate oven for about half an hour or until done. Whip the whites of the eggs to a very stiff snow with four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, heap it over the top and let it brown very delicately in a slow oven. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Tapioca cooked in water until perfectly clear and thick to jelly makes another pleasing foundation for a quince dish. Sweeten the tapioca to taste and flavor with a little nutmeg and lemon juice. Place it in layers in a buttered pudding dish with chopped preserved quinces.

DECORATIVE HATPINS.

Amber Is a Favorite Material For These Ornaments.



NEW AND ODD HATPINS.

Hatpins play an important part from the decorative as well as practical point of view in millinery modes. The latest creation must be securely anchored or its effectiveness is marred, and there is practically no limit to the elaboration and costliness of the anchors. Hatpins intended for decoration as well as service are frequently models of artistic designing, and, as a matter of fact, the simple, plain pin is hard to find these days, so much in evidence are the ornate, elaborate fasteners. The fancy just now is for the big pin, and the accompanying sketch shows a few of the most striking of recent productions.

Amber is a favorite selection for a hatpin top, and two of the designs pictured are of amber—one a ball clutched in the talons of an eagle and the other a simulated club studded with rhinestones. Tortoise shell pins are also favored, and the umbrella design is one of the newest examples of this type. The porcelain pin has long held sway, and its vogue continues, one three inches in diameter representing the latest in porcelain effects.

About Mrs. Taft.

A very justifiable interest centers around Mrs. Taft, the coming first lady of the land, and it is gratifying to read from time to time such appreciative and complimentary comments concerning her. Those who know her are hearty in their praises of her character and ability. If personal testimony were lacking her pictures would denote without question a woman of strong character, but a genial and kindly temper.

She is said to be unusually well read, to speak French well, to be fond of music and to be an excellent hostess. In this connection a comment by Hallie Erminie Rives is especially interesting. It is as follows:

"William Taft and Helen Herron must have started life even. She has the same straightforwardness, the same honesty, the contempt of tinsel and sham and pretense. Her worst enemy, if she could have one, would call her 'genuine.' She has no affectations, no surface veneer, no 'isms.' She has always remained the sweetheart of her husband, the playmate and confidant of her children. In the best sense she is a woman of the world. She knows the big business of statecraft and the smaller dicta of society. By reading and studying she has kept apace with her husband till possibly there is no woman in American life who is better qualified to discuss the real questions of the day."

Surely such a tribute as this is worthy of emulation by every American woman.

When to Add Salt.

According to a teacher of domestic science, salt dissolves and draws out the nitrogenous flesh forming substances from vegetables and meats. Therefore if it is added too early in boiling it draws out the most valuable parts of the vegetables. It also toughens fibers and for these reasons should be added a few minutes before serving.

THE PLAIN OF GUISNES.

Its Transformation Into the Field of the Cloth of Gold.

It was a magnificent display when Henry VIII. of England and Philip I. of France met in good fellowship on the plain of Guisnes.

The king's retinue had been selected from the noblest of the kingdom. Wolsey, with his 300 followers, headed the escort and was followed by dukes, earls, barons, bishops and knights, with their retainers. The escort numbered 4,000 horsemen, not including the queen's escort, numbering nearly 2,000 persons and 800 horses. The French king had an equally splendid retinue. King Henry and his great cavalcade were taken, on arrival at Guisnes, to the magnificent palace provided by Wolsey. There was an old palace there, and Wolsey had established himself in that and erected one for his king. The palace was the most beautiful place imaginable. It had so many glazed windows that it looked as though built of crystal, and much of the woodwork, both inside and out, was covered with gold. All the way from the gate to the door were rows of silver statues. Inside the walls of the chambers and halls were hung with magnificent tapestry embroidered in gold, and the ceilings were draped with white silk.

But Henry was not to spend all of his time in his fine palace, for tents had been erected on the plain, and in these the two kings and their suits were to lodge. The tents of the French king were pitched just outside the walls of the town of Ardres and extended almost to the tents of King Henry.

The tents in which the two queens were lodged were covered with cloth of gold, as were also the tents of the ladies in attendance upon them and of all members of the royal families. The effect was dazzling. Beautiful pavilions, hung with cloth of gold, dotted the plain; banners floated everywhere; fountains of wine spouted in the bright June sunshine; horses, decorated with fluttering ribbons, pranced about gayly. So gorgeous had the dreary plain been made that it has become known in history as the "Field of the Cloth of Gold."

Market Garden of the West.

So heavy has been the demand for land on the Canadian Pacific irrigation block near Calgary, that an army of engineers has just been sent into the field to add another [illegible] miles of canals and ditch to the [illegible] miles already built. The total area of 3,000,000 acres will eventually require 3,000 miles of ditch, and at the present rate of progress should be filled up in ten years' time. By that date Calgary should be the most densely populated farming district in Canada, as the average unit of irrigated farms is 40 acres, compared with the average of 160 acres for non-irrigated land in Canada.

"Already All-Red."

The news of the shelving of the [illegible]000,000 All-Red Route scheme evidently has not damped the ardor of the Canadian Pacific, which sends us a pamphlet printed with the brightest of bright red covers, entitled, "The Already All-Red Route." It is, of course, well known that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy had little sympathy with the scheme advocated by Hon. Clifford Sifton, claiming that the speed and size of steamers on the Canadian route should grow with the trade, and not at the expense of the taxpayer.—Standard of Empire.

HAVELOCK BEAT LAKEFIELD IN FIRST OF SEMI--FINALS

Special to the Review.

Havelock, June 11—In a fast and interesting game here today Havelock defeated Lakefield in the first of the semi-final games to the tune of 3-0. Both teams played excellent ball but the Havelock defence broke up Lakefield's combinations and fed the forwards well. The Havelock forwards worked well together, making some fine passes which were responsible for the three goals.

The following was the line-up of the Havelock team:

Goal—Wm Rose.
Backs—H H Andrews, K McKay.
Halves—W McMullen, H Kindred, W Hitchins.
Centre—C Robinson.
Left forwards—H Lancaster, H Mathison.
Right forwards—R McPherson, E Bennett.

Mr. Russell Pearce of Norwood, made a competent referee.

Havelock plays their return match at Lakefield on Saturday next at 6.30 o'clock in the evening.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

CHARLES S. STREET.

The Washington club made no mistake when it added to its ranks this excellent ball player, who is the principal backstop for the club in 1909. Cincinnati had this player in 1904, having secured him by purchase from the Terre Haute, Ind., club, Cincinnati allowed him to go in 1906 and sold him to the San Francisco club, but he joined the Williamsport, Tri-State club then not under the National agreement. When the Tri-State League joined organized ball, Street rejoined the San Francisco club and did so well that he was secured by Washington. Street is a southener by birth, Huntsville, Ala., being his native place, and he will be twenty-seven years of age the 27th of next September. He played with Jackson, Tenn., in 1900, and after devoting two years to study, played in "Kitty" League in 1903, rapidly advancing thereafter to the highest company. He acquired national fame by his feat in catching a ball thrown from the top of the Washington Monument in Washington, D.C., August 21, 1908.

ACTOR BALL PLAYERS.

I have not only a stage history but also a baseball record. Lots of actors take an interest in baseball, and anyone that does is always welcome on the Polo Grounds, New York, if not elsewere. I was once a regular member of the New York Nationals, and my contract was approved by President Pulliam. There have been actors who were ball-tossers. If memory serves me right, Dan Ryan was one of the most clever of minor league pitchers and had so much speed that he was dubbed "Cyclone." George Bernum, who is with the "Third Degree" was well known as an umpire. Frank Lane, a long time with the Hoyt plays, was another one who sought distinction as an umpire. An umpire has to be a good actor in these days or else he stands a good chance to lose his job. "Billy" Hallman, one of the veterans of the game, has done good service both in the game and on thestage, and is still doing vaudeville stunts. Adrian Anson, one of the swell figures of the game, once tried his hand as an actor in a play that Charley Hoyt wrote for him. It was called "A Runaway Colt," but it did not run very long. The lamented "Ten Thousand Dollar Beauty," as Mike Kelly was called, tried his hand on the stage, but "Mike" did not shine. Dave Don of the Red Mill Company, was once a good ball-player, and was clever at other things besides acting and ball-playing.

FOOTBALL

Special to the Review

Havelock, June 11—The Norwood scribe to the Peterborough papers is evidently up in his sleep. In Wednesday's papers a despatch from Norwood stated that their junior team had won the junior series by defeating Warsaw. Warsaw defaulted the scheduled game to take place here today so the junior league stands as follows:

	Won	Lost
Havelock	2	1
Norwood	2	1
Warsaw	1	2

The next match takes place in Norwood on Tuesday next, when Havelock meets Norwood.

NO KNOCKOUT FOR KETCHELL

A Fighter Has to be Counted Out by Referee Before a K. O. is Credited.

Sporting Editor Review—

Being an interested party in a bet as to whether Stanley Ketchel scored a knockout over Jack O'Brien on Wednesday night, I ask you to render a decision.

Yours,
J. D.

Ans.—This is one of the many inquiries on the same subject the Review has received since the fight. No knockout was scored by Ketchel and the fight will appear on his record with "won after 3. A knockout is only credited when the referee counts the defeated fighter out. Jack Johnson did not knockout Tommy Burns. He only "won" the fight. As will be seen by the following description of the third round O'Brien was coming back for more when the referee interfered:

Round 3.—Ketchel rushed like a tiger. He caught O'Brien on the jaw with a left and Jack reeled into the ropes. Ketchel sailed in like a cyclone and with punches on the neck and jaw he had the Quaker on the ropes. O'Brien was game and fought back blindly. He did not have a chance with the Michigan lion. Then Ketchel rushed in full tilt and with a tremendous right hand swing he caught O'Brien squarely on the jaw. O'Brien staggered like a drunken man and clutched the ropes to save himself. Another wallop in the stomach made him double up, while a smash on the neck sent him to the floor in a heap. O'Brien, still game, struggled to his feet. He was tottering and unable to defend himself. Before Ketchel could finish him, however, Referee McGuigan interfered and Ketchel walked to his corner in triumph. The round had lasted 40 seconds.

MR. COSTIE GETS WARM ROAST

The New York World of yesterday has the following hot roast:—

THERE IS NOTHING SLOW about Mr. Al. Costie. He writes thus:

To the Sporting Editor of the World.

I have five promising young fighters who are looking for a bout. They are "Batting" Green, "Fighting" Stevens, "Handsome Charlie," "Kid" Miller and a young lady who will meet any lady under 136 pounds in private for $100 a side. She is Mrs. Klein. Yours truly,
AL COSTIE.

Yours truly, indeed, Mr. Costie. The sooner you quit the boxing game the better it will be for the sport. Any one who exploits a woman as a fighter thoroughly debases himself. He gives a humiliating shock to the respect which all real men have for the gentleness and refinement of womanhood. When a lady—save the mark!—becomes a professional fighter she is clearly an abnormality. She has not imbibed a fraction of sense of the respect inherently due to her sex. And you, who exploit such talent, Mr. Costie, are worthy of a little of that effective mixture known as tar and feathers.

LAWN BOWLING

The following games have been played:—

The following scratch games were also played—

Jno. Mackenzie	Rev. Mr. Pogue
Jno. Hall	Ed. Graham
D. H. Moore	Mr. Clarke
B. Lastor	T. Ed. Tratt
Skip 14	Skip 24

A number of other games were played but no scores were left with the game secretary, so they cannot be published.

The green presented a very fine appearance last evening with the large number of players out and the new lighting, which has made a great improvement.

DO MARATHONS PAY? DORANDO CAN REPLY

Dorando, the Italian, whose running in this country for the last six or seven months has attracted attention, is going home to visit his relatives. He will sail June 28. He can well afford the trip, for he earned $27,000 at the Marathon game over here.

Less than a year ago Dorando was an insignificant and unknown Italian baker, having his own troubles in keeping clothes on his back and getting enough to eat. He got the running bug, and someone staked him to the Olympic in London. His spectacular collapse just before he crossed the line in the Marathon race which Johnny Hayes won was worth more to him than if he had won the race, as he was the chief figure in the memorable contest.

A few weeks in the music halls of London put him on his feet financially, and then along came the American promoters, who secured a contract with the Italian for six months' racing in the United States.

How Dorando made good over here and really improved in his speed is well known. He has run in short and long distances, and while he did not win all of them, he was sufficient attraction to come out handsomely in his end of the purse. He was well advertised. He's been a thrifty fellow and has something to show for his work. Jack Johnson and some other pugilists could get a little profitable hint from this $27,000 which Dorando has laid by.

He says that he expects to run very few Marathons in the future, as the effort is too wearing, and he wants to live some time yet. He will confine himself to 15 miles and under. He is not going to quit the racing game, though. He is coming to the United States next fall, and may make that country his home.

WILL OPEN RINK IN SUDBURY

Professor Genno who conducts the Auditorium roller rink here will go to Sudbury next week where he will open a roller rink that has been built there.

Mr. Genno told the Review today that the rink was one of the best in the province and from the success of roller rinks in Cobalt and other northern towns he should do a land office business.

FENELON FALLS PEOPLE INTERESTED IN A $4,000,000 ESTATE IN ISLE OF CUBA

"The Master in Chambers reserved judgment on a motion by Mr. J. Creighton for an order directing the former solicitor of Mrs. Jennie Noland to return papers relating to her estate in Cuba which is valued at $4,000,000. The property in question consists of 10,000 acres of sugar plantations with the mills situated near Cardenses, Matanzas County, Cuba, formerly owned by the late James Stevens and left by him to his nephew, Jeremiah Stevens, Waubaushene. The latter inherited in 1903 and was on the point of leaving for Cuba, when he was taken suddenly ill and died of cancer on Oct. 6th 1903. He willed the property to his wife, and from her it passed to her daughter, Mrs. Noland, formerly of 58 Mackensie Crescent, Toronto but now living with her husband a lumberman at French River. It is stated that $2,000,000 was offered by New York capitalists, and refused, as information to hand indicated that the value was about double that amount. Mr. Creighton has been instructed to proceed to Cuba as soon as he obtains the desired papers and to sell the property for $4,000,000 or over, receiving a minimum commission of $100,000 and expenses."

The above item of news which appeared in the law court proceedings of the Mail and Empire of June 3rd, soon became a topic of conversation in the Falls, where Mr. Jeremiah Stevens resided for the greater part of his life. The Mrs. Noland mentioned is a daughter of the second wife of Stevens. The sons of the first wife of Mr. Stevens at the Falls, Jas., William and Thomas have employed Mr. R J. McLaughlin of Lindsay, to look after their interests.

Mr. McLaughlin has made enquiries concerning the will said to have been made leaving the property to Mrs. Stevens but so far has not been able to find any record of it and it seems probable that no such will was made. In this event the greater part of the proceeds of the state in question, which includes property in New York City, will come to the sons here, who with their friends are awaiting with much interest further developments in the matter.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

DEATH WAS CAUSED BY ACCIDENTAL DROWNING

Jury Gave the Above Verdict at the Inquest Over the Body of the Late Elias Armstrong Who Was Drowned in the Otonabee—No New Evidence Last Night.

The jury selected to consider the evidence relating to the drowning of the late Elias Armstrong met last night and returned the verdict;

"That the said Elias Armstrong, came to his death from accidental drowning."

The jurors were Messrs. James W. Latimer, foreman; Jas L Latimer, W Henry, Wm McIlmoyle, James McIlmoyle, Thomas Cowling, Richard Latimer, James Stewart, George Trotter, James Trotter, Jas. Hopkins, Allen Kidd, Jos Simlin.

The first witness was James S. Latimer. He told of the circumstances relating to the finding of the body, after which he informed the proper authorities.

Mr. George Cochrane told of his going to the scene of the finding of the body and what he found there.

Dr. T. W H. Young, who conducted the post mortem examination stated in his report that death was caused by drowning. There were no external marks of violence and when he examined the deceased's lungs they were in the condition of that of a drowned person.

Elton York, said he had known the deceased for six years. He had stopped at the New Oxford Hotel several times. Witness had viewed the body at Belleghem's undertaking rooms, and recognised the remains as those of Elias Armstrong.

The son of the deceased had come to the city and identified the articles found in the drowned man's clothes as belonging to his father.

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION EXECUTIVE IS PREPARING FOR PETERBORO' FAIR

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, was held at the home of the president, Mr R. H. Leary, last night, and three hours were spent in making arrangements for this year's fair. A deputation was appointed to wait on the city and county councils to ask for grants.

Further arrangements were made regarding excursions from outside points during the fair, and it is likely that special trains from six or seven towns in the district. This will bring a good deal of money to the city as well as swell the attendance at the exhibition.

The prize lists are about ready for distribution and will be in the hands of the members in a few days.

The fair will be better advertised this year than ever before.

President Leary presided at the meeting.

DISORDERLY PUSSY CAUSED A GREAT DEAL OF ALARM

A Charlotte street family was very much startled last night by hearing a pounding and banging at their back door. They were frightened by the continuous noise to such an extent that the head of the house timorously stole down stairs to investigate the cause of the turmoil. Biff bang; biff bang, the knocking was kept up with alarming monotony.

To eliminate the smaller details and get to the point the householder found that it was the family cat that was responsible for the confusion.

The family had had salmon to eat and had thrown the can out. The cat with the usual feline fondness for fish dug into the salmon can and the tin became fastened on its head after the manner of an Elizabethian collar. It ran to the door and knocked hard in its appeal for relief. It took half an hour to get the can off pussy's head.

So it will be seen that in this summer weather even cats get canned.

87 YEARS OF AGE AND SAW FIRST PICTURE SHOW LAST NIGHT

Last night was the first time in her long life of 87 years, that Mrs. Andrew Haycke of Hastings ever saw a picture show. The old lady is on a visit to her son Mr W. W. Haycke, 480 Aylmer street and as a novel means of diversion paid a visit to the Crystal.

She was thoroughly delighted with the pictures and in spite of her advanced years heard the lecturer distinctly and followed with interest the subjects discoursed upon.

THIS WALNUT PLANK WAS ONE OF UNUSUAL WIDTH

Mr. C. Clementi, Water street, made quite a discovery to-day when taking apart an old chiffonier. He found the cover of the chiffonier to be a walnut plank 22 inches wide by an inch thick—an unusually great width for a walnut board. The board was five feet 2 inches in length.

The tree from which the plank was taken must have been a remarkably large one. It was mahogany veneered, and Mr. Clementi always believed it to be mahogany until he discovered to-day that it was walnut.

The chiffonier is a massive one, and splendidly put together, most of the boards being dovetailed. It was purchased in Boston over 60 years ago.

STRAWBERRIES FROM NIAGARA

The first Canadian strawberries are expected on the Peterborough market on Wednesday. They will come from the patches of the Niagara district.

There are no berries quite so good as the Canadian grown strawberry.

The crop is going to be big. The bloom was magnificent, the foliage is good and the berries have set well.

The finest leaves from Ceylon tea plantations are contained in "Salada" Tea. It is packed in sealed lead packets to preserve its delicious flavor and aroma. Sold by all grocers; never by peddlers or in bulk.

BURGLARS AT WORK

Tried to Make Entrance into Simcoe Street Residence Last Night.

A couple of burglars made an attempt to enter the residence of Mrs J. W. Meyers, Simcoe street, last night.

The burglars were unsuccessful in their efforts, however.

WEDDING BELLS

LAING—GILBERT

A pretty wedding was solemnized at All Saints' church this morning at 10.30 o'clock when Mabel Louise Gilbert, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs A. Gilbert, 270 Sherbrooke street was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Archie R. Laing of Montreal, fourth son of Mr. Robert Laing, 502 Water street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R H Trumpour. The lower parts of the church were reserved for guests and the ends of the pews were tied with garlands of purple and white lilacs, the same kind of flowers also being used to decorate the chancel of the pulpit and the edifice was otherwise beautifully decorated by the Girls' Club and Ladies' Guild. The bride, who was given away by her father looked lovely in an empire gown of cream oriental satin, beautifully braided. She wore a beautiful mohair braid poke bonnet with cream plumes and lilies of the valley and carried a white prayer book with streamers and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Greta Gilbert of Toronto who wore a directoire gown of pink liberty satin with pink and gold trimmings and heavy fringe. Her hat was a large brimmed one and was beautifully trimmed with flowers and chiffon. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported by his brother Mr. B Laing. During the signing of the register Miss Mary Laing, cousin of the groom, sang, "O fair, O sweet O holy. The newly wedded couple left on the 11.26 train for Montreal, where they will reside in the future. The bride travelled in a cream serge suit with trimmings of gold braid and a drooping black hat with large bunches of tiny pink roses and knotted velvet streamers. The bride is one of this city's popular young ladies, and many beautiful and costly presents were received from her many friends. Among them was a variety shower from Miss Mollie Blois, a granite shower from Miss Mary Laing and a cabinet of pearl handled cutlery from the Virginia Girls' Club.

BISSELL—MALLORY

The Brockville Recorder, of June 3, has the following:

The home of Mr. and Mrs F. H. Clifford, Mill street was the scene of unusual interest last evening when their only daughter, Miss Irene Mallory was united in marriage to Mr. Olin C Bissell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. M H Bissell of this town.

The bride gowned in embroidered chiffon over duchess satin with trimmings of hand embroidered chiffon and wearing the customary veil, caught up with lilies of the valley, and carrying a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses was escorted to the altar on the arm of her father, the bridesmaids being Miss Helen E. Taylor of Knowlton, Quebec, and Miss Alberta Lane, of Brockville, each gowned in white silk and carrying bouquets of lilies of the valley and carnations while Mr Clifford Bissell, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman.

Rev. Dr. J. B Saunders, of Montreal, relative of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The decorations of the room corresponded with the flowers worn by the bridal party, the marriage taking place under an arch of smilax and suspended from the centre was a horseshoe of lilies of the valley. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. Harold Mallory, Brockville's favorite soloist rendered in his usual perfect style "Beloved it is Morn."

The bridal party and guests then entered the dining room, where a wedding supper was served and at the conclusion the young couple were escorted to the station, where they departed on an extended trip, being sent off in an enthusiastic manner by the large number present.

The bride is one of Brockville's charming and clever young ladies, and as an elocutionist has appeared many times in public both in Brockville and various other places and will be greatly missed from the Island City.

The groom is one of Brockville's young men who has been successful in his sphere of life and at the present time is representative in Western Ontario for the Ogilvie Flour Mills Company with his headquarters at Peterborough.

The young people will reside at Peterborough and will be at home to their friends after September 15.

Going away Mrs. Bissell wore a costume of pearl grey English broadcloth, her hat being a tuscan straw with old rose trimmings.

Mr. and Mrs. Bissell were each the recipients of many valuable presents from friends in all quarters as far off as Japan and each is expressive of the esteem in which the young couple are held.

To Mr. and Mrs. Bissell the Recorder extends its congratulations and well wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bissell have taken up their residence in the Grand Central apartments, George street.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Y.W.C.A. girls cordially invite their many friends to call on them on Tuesday evening next at their beautiful home, corner Simcoe and Aylmer streets. The orchestra will add greatly to the evening's enjoyment. Ice cream, fruits, sherbet, strawberries and cream, home-made cake and candy will be served from prettily arranged tables on the lawn. It is hoped that a large number of both gentlemen and ladies will accept of this invitation, as the Y.W.C.A. girls will be prepared to welcome many.

W. A. Hodgey has secured an injunction against the Chatham Water Commissioner to prevent using meters.

OBITUARY

J. J. COTTINGHAM.

A large number of friends in the city were pained yesterday afternoon to hear of the death of Mr. John James Cottingham, a well-known resident. He passed away at St. Joseph's hospital at 2.30 o'clock, aged 43 years. He had been in the hospital for about a week.

The late Mr Cottingham had lived in Peterborough for nearly twenty years. He was unmarried and is survived by four brothers and two sisters. The brothers are Samuel, of Peterborough; George, of Kinmount; William, of Omemee, and Thomas, of British Columbia, and the sisters are Mrs. Thomas Richardson and Mrs. Jos. Crowe, both of Peterborough.

The late Mr. Cottingham was a member of the Gold Lake Hunt Club and had been captain of that organization for several years. He will be greatly missed.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2.30 o'clock from the residence of deceased's brother, 430 Donegal street, to Omemee cemetery.

WALTER ROBERTS.

The death occurred this morning at his late residence 502 Stewart street of Walter Roberts after a lingering illness. The deceased was well-known and highly respected. He is survived by a wife and two children, his parents, four brothers and two sisters. The brothers are Messrs A. J. Roberts of Windsor; H. R. Roberts of Penetanguishene and W. H. Roberts of this city. The sisters are Misses Maude and Ethel of this city.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from 502 Stewart street to the Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Canon Davidson will conduct the funeral service.

JUNE 12 1889.

The Douro picnic will be held tomorrow.

The first meeting of the local branch of the Christian Alliance was held in the YMCA rooms last evening when there was a large number of members present.

Today a train has been loaded with telegraph poles at a point on the Chemong line of railway about six miles from town. This is the first freight shipment over the line.

EXCURSIONISTS HAD GOOD TIME

Those who went to Ottawa on the Farmers' Institute excursion report a most enjoyable outing. PLAY WAS TOO MUCH FOR THEM

Husband and Wife Affected by the Acting in "the Climax"

New York, June 11.—Near the end of the second act in "The Climax," which is playing at Daly's Theatre, the heroine starts to end her life by stabbing herself.

Last night in the fourth row sat Mr. and Mrs. John Burlison, of 207 Dyckman street. As the heroine drew the knife Mrs. Burlison said in an audible voice, "Oh, don't." Her husband then fell from his seat in a faint. The action of the play was stopped abruptly and the audience became somewhat excited.

Two ushers carried Mr. Burlison to a dressing room where he was attended by Dr. Gustavus G. Fischlowitz, of 1298 Madison avenue, who had the seat next to the Burlison's. Mrs. Burlison also fainted when she reached the dressing room. Both were sent home in a carriage.

POTATOES DOWN TO $1.00 PER BAG

Good potatoes were offered at $1.00 a bag this morning at the market, although there were some farmers who refused to take lower than $1.25. Considerable rubarb, and green stuff were also offered at fair prices. Eggs, butter and fowl were very much in evidence upstairs in the market hall, and the prices were about the same as last week.

Mackeral fishers along the coast of Halifax, report an exceptionally big run.

DEPARTURE REGRETTED BY MANY

Serious Illness of Her Father Calls Miss Pierce Home

There are many in the city who will learn with regret of Miss Pierce's decision to return to England. During her four years stay in the city she has made many friends who have appreciated her untiring devotion to the welfare of "Hazel Brae" and later, the Margaret Cox School for Girls. The long and serious illness of her father necessitated her giving up her work here and her return to England, but it is hoped that she will return. Miss Pierce left on Friday at noon for Montreal and will sail from there today per SS Canada. She will be much missed by her associates here.

FARMER IN AN AWKWARD FIX

On Monday 7th inst. Mr John Anderson of Bunker Hill, was busy drawing manure to a field, and in getting off the load to let down the bars his foot caught in a hole in the boards and he was thrown forward violently on his face on the whiffletrees. Fortunately the horses were quiet, and did not move while Mr. Anderson endeavored to free his foot. He could not get back on the load, and being alone he had to shift for himself. The hole in which his foot was held fortunately extended towards the front and Mr. Anderson dragged his foot free. He expected every moment to hear the bone in his leg snap for owing to the position it was under heavy strain and he will have a sore foot and lame leg for some time as a result.

WEST PETERBORO' ELECTION PROTEST

The following "Ottawa despatch" regarding the West Peterborough protest, appears in the Toronto Star of Friday. These despatches have been sent out from "somewhere" with almost suspicious regularity. So far they have been flatly contradicted by the progress of the protest, and this one will find its own denial in time. It is a pity that the Toronto press cannot find more reliable correspondents. Anything that would throw doubt on the going to trial of the Peterborough protest is a canard.

Special to the Star.

Ottawa, June 11.—The situation as regards the protest in connection with the Federal elections has resolved itself into a clean sweep except in the case of West Peterborough and North Lanark, where Hon. J. R. Stratton, Liberal, and Mr. Wm. Thoburn, Conservative, are the sitting members.

Neither of these protests, however, is looked upon seriously, and while there may be preliminary moves in both cases, it is not expected that the present representatives will be disturbed.

This is practically a certainty as far as North Lanark is concerned, while in West Peterborough the outcome of the petition will not be regarded as at all likely to alter the situation.

NEW PARK DOWN RIVER

The indications are that there will be many young people and some old ones too, go down the river this afternoon and remain over Sunday, provided, of course, that the weather remains fine. The many beautiful and available camping places will be well patronized from now on until the end of the summer season. Clubs of young men who have spent the winter in building a canoe, or in some cases a yacht, will now have the pleasure of making use of their crafts. Then there are many others who have bought new and up-to-date boats with the intention of sailing on this river. This should result in the Otonabee becoming widely known as an attractive summer resort for boatmen and anglers. When the proposed new park is opened a trip down the river will be an important feature in the recreations indulged in by both young and old.

SILK AT $2 FOR 10 YFARS

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 12.—In the Federal Court to-day L. B. O'Neill, of Morgantown, pleaded guilty to using the United States mails fraudulently. O'Neil advertised to sell beautiful silk at $2 for ten yards, purchasers to inclose money and address the Merchant's Remnant Company, of Morgantown. Susan N. Stevenson, of Grafton, sent $2 and in return received ten yards of silk thread. Many others refrained from making charges through fear of ridicule, it is said.

KEEPING CHILDREN WELL

Every mother should be able to recognize and cure the minor ills that attack her little ones. Prompt action may prevent serious illness. A simple, safe remedy in the home is therefore a necessity and for this purpose there is nothing else so good as Baby's Own Tablets. They promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles, destroy worms, break up colds, make teething easy and keep children healthy and cheerful. Mrs. Jos Levesque, Casselman, Ont., says. "I have used Baby's Own Tablets and have always found them satisfactory. My child has grown splendidly and is always good natured since I began using this medicine." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

Time to Do Something.

Mrs. Mimms—Mary, it was 1 o'clock this morning when you got in. I heard you. Mary—Well, ma'am, if I was you I'd take something to make me sleep better. I took my shoes off down in the kitchen and didn't make no more noise than a cat would. I've been kind of worried about you for a good while."

Satisfied.

Mrs. Skowler—You will have to go, Mary. I can't put up with your impertinence any longer. I'm sorry I can't give yen a recommendation. Mary—It's all right, mem. My leaving alive will be all the recommend I need.—Boston Transcript.

To Turn Up a Hem.

Every woman who does any sewing at home should have some kind of gauge for helping to turn up a hem. It is not an easy matter for any one, even if she has an accurate eye, to turn up a hem by gauging the distance from the floor with the eye alone. If you have no gauge you can make an excellent substitute from a piece of stiff cardboard. Make a niche in the cardboard at the distance the skirt is to be from the floor. Rest the cardboard on the floor and measure the skirt with this, placing pins in the skirt to mark where the cardboard is niched. The pins should be placed quite close together, and when they have been placed all around the skirt it may be turned up. This is an easy and quick way of turning the skirt up, and it will be found that if care has been used in placing the pins the skirt will be perfectly even all the way around. Be careful to hold the cardboard upright and not to slant it in some places or the length of the skirt will be changed.

CULTURE OF GRAPES.

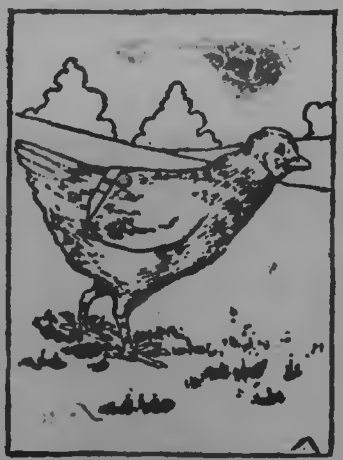
Don't Prune Vines Until Chilly Weather is Over.

Grapevines should not be pruned until cold weather has entirely passed. Any time in April is soon enough. The middle of the month in more northerly sections is the surest date. Vines pruned just before the buds commence to swell may bleed a little, but this will cease as soon as growth starts and will do less injury to the vine than early pruning. As a general rule, the buds farther out on the canes grow the best clusters of grapes. Prune the canes to the proper length, two arms four feet in length, with spurs having two or three buds to the spur. Tie the arms to the trellis bars, so the clusters of fruit will hang down, with plenty of light and air, and they will be free from rot and mildew, the grapes ripening early and fully. The ground between the rows and under the trellis bars must be kept clean and the soil mellow to take in the dews and light rains. When the grapes commence to swell spread a thick coat of fine rotted manure, mixed with fine cut grass, around the vines and one foot out from the grape on each side. This mulch will keep the ground moist and cool, which will permit a greater development of the fruit.

The vines should be planted in rows eight feet apart, planting one grape eight feet apart in the rows. This will give plenty of room for horse culture and for the air and sunshine, which are necessary for best development of both vine and fruit. By this method the vineyard can be cheaply and quickly cultivated, the canes tied up as they advance in growth and sprayed. The bunches of fruit will hang down through the foliage, which will prevent mildew and rot. The following year two canes near the head or junction of the arms are taken and the old canes cut off and removed. In this way we have a new growth of well ripened wood and are sure to be rewarded, when proper care is given, with an abundance of choice, well ripened clusters of grapes. The best fertilizer for grapes is rich, well rotted manure mixed with one-half peck of fine ground animal bonemeal to each bushel of manure. Mix the two together, spread it evenly under the trellis bars the latter part of October and cover with a light furrow run on each side of the row of grapes, or turn under with the digging fork. This dressing, besides supplying the fertilizing matter necessary for the growth of the vines and prefection of the fruit, will make a mellow soil that will hold the moisture and make a deep soil easy for the roots to spread out and make strong, healthy growth. Grapes may be set out this month or in October. Select any land. Land that will grow the regular farm crops will grow choice grapes. Plant two-year-old vines. Good, stocky vines may be had for 10 cents each for family eating. Twenty vines properly planted and cared for will give an abundant supply of fruit. The Concord, Niagara, Clinton, Catawba, Salem and Campbell Early are standard varieties of established merit.

Counts Eggs as Laid.

The dishonest hen with cannibalistic tendencies can no longer defraud her employer with impunity, and if she likes eggs for her meals she is in danger of decapitation. Two Wisconsin men have put their heads together and have perfected a registering device which keeps a record of every egg laid and enables chicken owners to detect any loss through theft or any other agency. This device is in the form of a band that fits over the hen's body. The expansion of the body caused by the emission of the egg causes the band to spread and register a number. If the indicator shows that a hen is laying more eggs than are collected and if the owner finds no evidence of theft he can then be sure that the bird is eating the eggs herself and either put her in the stewpan and replace her with a more honest fowl or keep such a close watch over her that she will not have an opportunity to indulge her cannibalistic taste. It is impossible to cure a hen of this habit once it is contracted.



FASTENS ON BIRD'S BODY.

No Money In Average Yields.

M. D. White, expert in dairy of the bureau of animal industry, says that in some of the dairy states the average yield of butter per cow is less than 150 pounds per annum, when it is possible under quite ordinary conditions with grade cows of dairy breeds to produce double that amount, 300 pounds. This is considerably less than one pound a day. Evidently, he says, there is plenty of room for improvement. By proper selection, care, feed and breeding of dairy cows the output of dairy products can be doubled without increasing the number of cows now in the country.

AMBULANCE WAS STRUCK BY STREET CAR

And Dr. Horace E. Ayres, a Former Peterborough Boy, Was Injured, But Not Seriously

Thursday's New York Herald says; Dr. Horace E. Ayres, of Flower Hospital, was thrown from an automobile ambulance and suffered a sprained wrist last night when a Madison avenue car ran into the ambulance at Sixty-third street. The chauffeur of the ambulance, John Sezek, was uninjured.

Dr. Ayres was responding to an ambulance call from a house in West End avenue. As the ambulance neared the corner Policeman Gilmartin motioned to the motorman to slow up. The motorman tried to do so, but the tracks were slippery, and the car hit the ambulance broadside. Dr. Ayres informed the hospital, and another ambulance was sent on the West End avenue call. The motorman, Patrick Thompson, was not arrested.

SUFFERED FOR SIX LONG YEARS

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Mrs. Richard's Diabetes

Her Rheumatism Also Vanished When Dodd's Kidney Pills Put Her Kidneys in Condition to do Their Work

East Chezzetcook, Halifax County, NS, June 11—Special — Cured of Diabetes and Rheumatism from which she had suffered for six years Mrs. Boniface Richard, well known here, is joyfully telling her neighbors that she owes her health to Dodd's Kidney Pills and to no other cause.

"My Rheumatism and Diabetes were brought on by a cold and a strain and though I was attended by a doctor he could not help me. After suffering for six years, I made up my mind to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and to my surprise they did me good almost at once. Two boxes cured me completely. I recommend them to everybody as a sure cure for Diabetes, Backache and all other Kidney Diseases."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mrs. Richard's Diabetes because Diabetes is a Kidney Disease, and Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all Kidney Diseases. Mrs Richard's rheumatism was caused by her diseased Kidneys failing to take the uric acid out of her blood. When her Kidneys were cured they strained the uric acid out of her blood and her Rheumatism vanished.

IT WILL BE AN UNUSUAL ECLIPSE

Solar Eclipse on June 17th Will Be First of It's Kind

Prof. John A. Brashear, of Allegheny, in a signed statement, says that the eclipse of the sun on June 17th will be unlike any other eclipse within the knowledge of man. In part Prof. Brashear said—

"The eclipse will be of a very interesting character from the fact that for a few seconds it will be annular eclipse, then change to a total eclipse, then back to the annular eclipse for the second time.

The writer cannot find record of such an occurrence in any history of astronomy, although we have records of annular eclipse for 100 years and total eclipse for thousands of years. The eclipse, as a partial phase of greater or lesser magnitude, will sweep over the north, decreasing in size as it goes down through Canada and the States."

PETERBORO'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterborough a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin running; simply this, more families will of necessity move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase in other words prosperity is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city. ¶ People whoare contemplating purchasing homes will do well to see J. More bread and Better bread
—And the Reason for it

A STRONG FLOUR can only be made from strong wheat. Manitoba hard wheat is acknowledged the strongest in the world—and that is the kind used for Purity Flour.

But that's not all. Every grain of this wheat contains both high-grade and low-grade properties. In separating the high-grade parts from the low-grade the Western Canada Flour Mills put the hard wheat through a process so exacting that not a single low-grade part has the remotest chance of getting in with the high-grade.

Of course this special process is more expensive to operate but it means a lot to Purity flour users—that's why we use it.

It means that Purity Flour is made entirely of the highest-grade flour parts of the strongest wheat in the world.

It means a high-class, strong flour and therefore yields "more bread and better bread."

Purity may cost a little more than some flours, but results prove it the cheapest and most economical after all.

PURITY FLOUR

WESTERN CANADA FLOUR MILLS COMPANY, LIMITED

LINDSAY IS TOLD THAT IT CANNOT HAVE AN ARMORY

Lindsay, June 11.—The chances for an armory being built in Lindsay are not particularly bright.

There has been a strong feeling in town that such a building would be very desirable here and that the town was deserving of an armory. In fact the county council petitioned the Government for such a building last fall.

A courteous letter from the Minister of Militia, Sir Frederick Borden, informed the county council that the Government could not see its way clear for the present at least, to grant sufficient funds for such a purpose.

The minister "regretted exceedingly to inform the council that, owing to lack of funds, due to falling off in the revenue, very few armories are being built, and the building of one in Lindsay will have to be postponed indefinitely."

GERMAN VISION OF ENGLANDS' FALL IN THE NEAR FUTURE

A brilliant pamphlet is being circulated in Germany which describes the coming debacle of the British Empire out of whose ashes a universal German sovereignty is to arise. It is entitled "After the Storm," the storm being a great European war. The result to England is that her "world wide empire collapses like a house of cards" following "the destruction of her fleet." Before this "storm" England had "dared to humiliate every great empire in turn." "Victorious Russia was forced at the command of England to turn back before the gates of Constantinople; France met the same fate at Fashoda, where she was compelled to strike her colors; and Germany was obliged during the Boer war to submit to the holding up and searching of her proud merchantmen by British cruisers like the ships of any little piratical state."

But the end of England will come, it appears, with the dismemberment and destruction of the whole British fleet off Heligoland. The North Sea air ships drop dynamite bombs which blow the admiral's ship to atoms. The German navy follows up this stroke, and the English ironclads in flight are broken up by German guns and aerial bombs. The news is carried to England by a German army corps. The failure of the entente cordiale with France is here pointed out. France has been invaded and occupied by a vast German army, and Japan, which had pledged herself to send England to a re-enforcement of 100-000 men, seizes Hongkong instead. Far from bringing any assistance, as she had promised, Russia sends her Cossacks into India and thus forestalls a second Sepoy uprising, and it is only through the intervention of Italy, that Egypt is saved from a bloody insurrection.

Then South Africa publishes a declaration of independence and hoists the flag of the United Free States of Africa. At this point our Government puts in an oar and Congress passes a resolution that American troops are to march into Canada "for the preservation of law and order." The German pamphleteer rubs it in still more savagely by his solution of the Home Rule question, and Ireland becomes an independent republic. As German ship sweep the ocean the commerce of England is paralyzed all the provision ships are seized, and the Government, seeing that famine stares the country in the face, submits to a humiliating peace.

A straw may tell which way the wind blows, and the tone of "After the Storm," positively bears out the saying of the Kreuz Zeitung, Berlin, "It is nothing but the policy of the ostrich to shut our eyes to the fact that we are constructing our fleet against England and against England alone." The German pamphleteers, and German journalists who so frankly avow Germany's object and predict an Anglo-German conflict find their view echoed in England."—Literary Digest.

A WARLIKE ECHO FROM THE PAST

The Mobilization of the Troops in Ontario at the Time of the Rebellion of 1837-38—Peterborough Mentioned

The following is from the Toronto News:—

The News reporter walking about the Yonge street dock yesterday discovered Captain Esford, of the steamer Kingston, perusing a bandful of old rusty papers he secured recently. Inquiry showed that the papers were copies of military orders issued in December, 1838, and April, 1839. The captain not only holds his rank as one of the best sailors on the lakes, but he has had his time as captain in the militia in his home town, Kingston.

The oldest paper, dated December 29th, 1838, and issued over the name of Colonel C. Foster, Assistant Adjutant-General, deals with the carrying of messages by the Militia and Volunteer Dragoons and states that only the most urgent messages shall be sent by these special messengers. The rate at which the Express Dragoon was allowed to travel is named as "not more than six miles per hour, and in returning not more than five miles." No messages are to be marked "immediate" or "urgent."

The same copy of general orders order the following Provincial Battalions of militia formed: The 6th, under Colonel Baldwin, at Toronto; the 7th, under Colonel Alexander McDonnell, at Peterborough; the 8th, under Lieut.-Colonel Allan Macdonell, at Kingston; the 9th, under Lieut.-Col. Gowan, at Brockville; the 10th, under the Hon. Colonel James Kirby at Niagara; the 11th, under Colonel Radcliffe, at Adelaide, and the 12th, under Colonel Alexander McMillan at Perth. The companies formed were at Whitby, under Captain Low, at Drummondville, Captain Foote; at Bond Head, Major Dewson; at Cayuga, Captain Martin; Amherst Island, Captain Cummings; Bytown and two at Cobourg, under Major Elliott. The establishment of the four last companies being one lieutenant, one sergeant and twenty privates more than that of the other companies. To Hastings was given the task of raising an artillery company under Captain Booter, a rifle company under Captain Murray, and the Third Hastings Company under Captain Fraser. Other companies raised were the Third Frontenac contingent—for six months—under Major Sampson from Wolfe Island, troop of Brockville cavalry, Captain Hervey, from Brockville, and the first Leeds Cavalry under Captain Hogert from the country around Brockville; the Whitby Cavalry under Captain Farquharson, from Whitby, and the Tenth Gore Cavalry and the Woodstock Cavalry, the latter under Major Riddell, Woodstock. The Town Guard, Kingston, one hundred men at one shilling per diem each, without rations, so long as may be required. One company under Captain William Beamish, from the Newcastle district for six months' service to terminate on the first of May, 1839, is also ordered to be raised.

A GENERAL INVENTORY.

A general inventory of the goods in possession of the troops is ordered to be taken and returns in duplicate to be made of every article held by the different corps, even to the specifying of the number of stove pipes and elbows possessed by each comp. The first order concludes with: "All these returns are to be very accurately drawn out, and the authorities for the purchases fully started; as the officers who have made such purchases are held personally responsible for what they have ordered."

The second copy of "general orders" after giving details of the manner in which all short service men shall be allowed to disband lays out a table of charges which sall be collected from the men for any objects which may be found in their outfits. Some of the charges made are: stopper for rammer 2d, breech nail 3d, trigger plate 4d, a new bayonet 3s 3d. The charges run up to 10s. 6d. for the stock and new stocking of a "Musquet."

GALLANT AND LOYAL MILITIA.

Clause number 12 in the orders reads: His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor and Major General commanding cannot permit that portion of the gallant and loyal militia, included in the foregoing orders, to return to their private pursuits, without expressing to them, in the strongest terms, his unqualified approbation of their patriotism and loyalty; and assuring them that he will ever hold their services in the defence of the Province in the highest estimation, and as a convincing proof of his favorable opinion of their good conduct in general, desires that all prisoners be forthwith released from confinement."

This paragraph is followed by number 12, which says: His Excellency however, regrets to observe that he has received a report, that a party banner was lately carried by a detachment of militia, on its march through one of the Frontier Towns on the line of St. Lawrence. Such proceedings being fraught with the greatest injury to the service at large, and to the harmony and good understanding, which should, at all times, subsist amongst troops, who have hitherto infallibly proved their firm determination to serve, hand in hand, in the same noble and generous cause—The Defence of their Sovereign and their Country, and its Happy and Venerable Institutions; Sir George Arthur strongly reprobates, and forbids such a practice; and at the same time feels thoroughly satisfied that the gallant militia whose services His Excellency has already declared, that he holds in the highest estimation, will not repeat so offensive a proceeding."

This order, like the former, is issued over the name of C. Foster, Colonel, Assistant Adjutant General.

OMEMEE WANTS A NEW ARMOURY

Roof of the Old One Fell in—Government Has Been Petitioned

Lindsay, June 11.—Omemee wants an armory. But the building Omemee wants is just a modest little armory, or rather drill shed, and not as magnificent a structure as the Peterborough armory.

Omemee had a drill shed at one time. It was built in 1867, and the government paid half the cost of construction, the township of Emily and the county furnishing the balance of the money.

On an unfortunate occasion the roof of this building fell in, due to the heavy weight of snow which had been allowed to accumulate, and the company which that village and surrounding country furnish to swell the ranks of the 45th Regiment, have no place to drill in or in which to store their accoutrements.

The township council of Emily petitioned the county council of Victoria to assist in securing another drill shed—or armory—for Omemee and the council decided yesterday to memorialize the government to secure the desired building, if possible.

IS WIFIE DRESSING? THEN READ, MAN, READ

Senator Depew Finds Solace for Hours When She is Seeing if its on Straight

No less an authority than Senator Chauncey Depew has advised married men to make use by reading of the time when their wives are dressing, chatting, thinking or otherwise delaying an appointment. This advice was volunteered by Senator Depew in his address on last Saturday to the graduates of the Medico-Chirurgical College in Philadelphia.

"If you are married you will have just as much time as if you were single, if you know how to find it," said the Senator. "Your wife will give you plenty of time, waiting for her. Don't fret and fume during this interval. Read. I have known men to pick up a liberal education reading while waiting for their wives to get ready to go out."

Senator Depew glanced furtively at his watch while speaking, and said he did not have time to specify a course of reading to fit the several occasions which confront married men. Otherwise he would have suggested "Three Weeks" as a panacea for some of those gowns which hook up the back and down again and take anywhere from ten to twenty-five minutes for proper adjustment.

Married men, he suggested, could do no better than pore over the pages of "Pilgrim's Progress" while the hair dresser is incorporating a whirly-whirl in a coiffure which proclaims the advantage of using IT before "too late" strikes twelve. John O'Hara Cosgrove, editor of Everybody's, helped out Senator Depew yesterday with the following:—

"The spare moments of an industrious magazine editor are perforce devoted to the bagful of manuscripts he has brought home from his office. If, after the daily batch is disposed of, there still remains an interval before the lady is ready to emerge, he may educate himself on his periodical contemporaries or beguile it with the Evening Post. Thus he may acquire virtue of fortitude while exercising more patience."

Some of the authors who write in lighter vein give perfect satisfaction pending completion of milady's struggle with certain laces and a pair, and far be it from the husband's mind to be diverted from his reading until it is time for him to put on his coat and hat.

HOLDS RUGS IN PLACE.

Clamp Fastens to Floor and Keeps Covering Flat.

Most people prefer rugs to carpets as floor coverings, but an objection that has been raised to the former is that they will not lie flat, and on a polished surface they are liable to slip from under people and cause them to fall. Then, too, many a person has tripped over the loose end of a rug, with painful results. A clever man has devised a rug clamp which corrects these faults. The clamp is a strip of metal doubled, with teeth at the free ends, turned inward. A band slides over the clamp, and by running this band toward the clutching end the grip of the teeth is tightened. At the other end are sharp spikes, which are to be driven into the floor to hold the device. The spikes are small, and the holes they make are scarcely noticeable. By using a set of these clamps on all four sides of a rug the latter is fastened down as securely as if it were tacked and does not crinkle up when walked on or when chairs or tables are moved about on it.

A TINY BIT OF GROUND.

What May Be Done With a Plot Twenty by Fifty Feet.

A space 20 by 50 feet may under intensive culture be made to yield fresh vegetables for a small family through half the year. With 40 by 50 feet or 50 by 100 there can be a garden spelling riotous plenty.

Have the spading done as early as possible, use thoroughly rotted manure and supplement it with some good commercial fertilizer, either broadcasted and raked in or put in hills or drills.

It is a waste of seed, strength and time to plant a garden in poor soil. The seed will come up, the spindling plants will be harder to work than if they were luxuriant, and the resultant crop will be mostly conspicuous by its absence. So, if it be impossible to do more, make small rich beds, four feet wide and as long as the manure holds out, and sow them crosswise with such things as radishes, lettuce, cress, parsley, beets and onions. Make the rows a foot to eighteen inches apart or sow the radishes broadcast. Lettuce also yields more for broadcast sowing. Pull out the thriftiest as soon as edible and leave the rest to grow. Radish tops make excellent greens, something better flavored than mustard. By sowing thickly you can have dishes of greens.

Say the garden is 40 by 50 feet, this is something what the planting of it should be: Dwarf early peas, medium early and late peas, beets, early and later; beans in succession, including bush limas; carrots, radishes, tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers. Do not adventure upon corn unless it be sweet corn planted on the pea space as a second crop, to come in just before frost. Make an asparagus bed all across one end of the plot, setting two-year-old roots and fertilizing the bed heavily in early summer just after cutting ceases.

Peas are so hardy they may be planted before snow is past, provided, of course, the ground is right when they go in. Make it fine and light, cover the seed at least three inches deep, then tramp the earth over them, setting the feet so one track touches the other. A quart of seed will sow a hundred feet of drill the proper thickness. An ounce of beet seed will sow the same row length.—Circle Magazine.

INDIGESTION CURED EVIDENCE IN PLENTY

Your Neighbors Can Tell You of Cures by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Every case of indigestion no matter how bad, can be cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Not only cured, but cured for good. That is a sweeping statement and you are quite right in demanding evidence to back it. And it is backed by evidence in plenty—living evidence among your own neighbors, no matter in what part of Canada you live. Ask your people in your own district who have been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills of dizziness, palpitation, sour stomach, sick headaches and the internal pains of indigestion. Dr Williams' Pink Pills cure because they strike straight at the root of all stomach troubles. They make new rich blood, and new blood is just what the stomach needs to set it right and give it strength for its work. Mrs. Geo. H Whitenect, Hatfield Point, N.B., says: "I am glad to have an opportunity to speak in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for they deserve all the praise that can be given them. I was a great sufferer from indigestion which was often accompanied by nausea, sick headache, and backache. As a result my complexion was very bad and I had black rings under the eyes. I took a great deal of doctor's medicine but it never did more than give me the most temporary relief. About a year ago I was advised to give Dr Williams' Pink Pills a trial. Before I had taken a couple of boxes I found relief and by the time I had used a half dozen boxes I found myself feeling like a new woman with a clear complexion. I can strongly recommend Dr Williams' Pink Pills for this trouble and advise similar sufferers to lose no time in taking them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all the troubles which have their origin in bad blood. That is why they cure anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, eczema, St Vitus' dance, partial paralysis, and the many ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50c a box or two boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

Sir Charles Bagot's papers have been presented to the Dominion Archives.

HAVELOCK

Special to the Review.

Havelock, June 12.—This year Havelock will have a larger and grander celebration on July 1st than ever before. Attractions will be put on that will draw crowds from all over the surrounding country. Plans are under way and things are being gradually got into shape and the 1st of July this year will go down in history as the greatest celebration ever held in this hustling railroad town.

The following committees have been appointed;

Executive Committee—Reeve Knox, chairman; Geo. Young, treasurer, and A. Ormston, secretary.

Advertising Committee—T. P. Lancaster, J. V. A. Coon and A. H. Burnet.

Special Attraction Committee—T. E. Duncan, J. Coon, J. Marks, A. C. Denike, H. Williams, Aleck. Rose, Dr. Holdcroft and Jesse Campney.

Small Sports Committee—Wm. Mathison, H. Andrews, J. Knox, K. McKay, Geo. Young, F. Haig, T. Wood and W. Patterson.

Ground Committee—Geo. Phillips, J. Watson, T. Wood and J. Campney.

Horse Race Committee—J. Marks, Jesse Campney and Chas. Armstrong.

Prize Committee—W. A. McMaster, R. J. Graham, J. Scott, S. S. Joyce and Dr. Holdcroft.

Concert Committee—F. Haig, Dr. Kindred, Ed. Fennel, G. Chiles and M. H. Swain.

Gatekeeper—J. Scott, H. Williams and Geo. Young.

All the committees are working hard and everything points to a grand success.

Mr. John Black, of Tennessee, formerly of town, is the guest of his brother, Mr. Jas. Black.

Mrs. McIlmoyle, of Lakefield, who was operated on for appendicitis at Mrs. Campbell's hospital some time ago, returned to her home on Saturday last.

Miss O'Brien, of Peterborough, is visiting Mrs. M. McNichol.

A large number from town went to Ottawa yesterday on the Farmers' excursion. The special train left Havelock at 7.45 a.m.

Miss Grace Foster, of Norwood, was in town on Thursday.

Mrs. Jesse Campney has returned from visiting friends in Belleville.

Mr. Wilmot Herrington has moved his family back to town from West Toronto. They are residing on Ottawa street east.

Miss Edna McIlmoyle of Apsley, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Jos. Bertrand.

Archdeacon B. M. Spurr, of West Virginia, visited his cousin, Mrs. C. A. Ghent, on Monday and Tuesday.

Messrs. S. Halcombe, H. Barrie and D. Post were in Campbellford on Wednesday.

Mrs. and Miss Francis, of Campbellford, are visiting Mrs. A. Ormston.

Mr and Mrs. N. Stibbs, of Ottawa, are visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. Wm. Denike.

The citizens band are to be congratulated on their success this year. They made their first public appearance in the park on Friday night and their playing was most creditable, considering the short time they have been practising.

Mr. Ed. Foley while working at Mathison's saw mill on Monday night, had a bone in his left leg broken by a wheel bursting and hitting the limb.

A new house is being erected on Mathison street east, by Jno. Toman, jr.

A public school deputation from Norwood came over on Saturday and played the local school's boys in both base ball and football. The baseball game resulted in a victory for Havelock by 28 to 6, and the football of 2-0.

Mr. Lees, P.S.I., Peterborough, was in town on Friday.

Mr. G. Sherry, of Norwood, was in town on Friday.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York Styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel, in Peterborough, Friday, June 18. adv.

A. T. Freed, of Hamilton, inspector of weights and measures, is to retire.

Two men, suspected of being professional burglars, were arrested [illegible] at London.

A CHILDREN'S AID CASE

A case came before the magistrate yesterday that calls attention to a phase of children's aid work which remains to be developed. The family in question consists of a father, a mother and five children. The father goes to the shanties and leaves the mother for a long time without funds. She had to go out and work to get money to keep the pot boiling. The children "ran wild." In this case, as the magistrate suggested, someone could be put in charge from day to day of the children, until the condition of things is rectified, rather than that severe measures should be adopted. It is a case of ineptitude and unfitness, rather than impropriety or degradation, and as such it might be well to treat it. There are and always have been numbers of such cases, and a plan for the care of them might now be evolved, as well as at any time; the more especially as the magistrate suggests it. It may add, it is true, to the already manifold and well-performed duties of the society, but doubtless the officers will be keen to improve their means of relief, and to further minister to the needs of the unfortunate.

FEROCIOUS JOURNALISM

Not in the history of Canada has there been such an upheaval arising from an apparently small cause as at present in the Province of Quebec.

• • • •

Mr. Asselin was editor of La Patrie, of Montreal. He criticized the administration, and especially the administration of justice in Quebec, severely. A senator made a speech reflecting upon Mr. Asselin's character. The latter met and struck the senator. Mr. Asselin was sent to gaol for 15 days and on release suddenly becomes the head of a shouting, jubilant and numerous following, who are demanding "redress" at large, while condemning the Quebec administration more roundly than ever.

• • • •

The issue has become that of the administration of justice. Justice is said to be bought and sold by the highest (nominally) in the province. Allowing for the natural fury of the Franco-Canadian, the situation is still very serious. There seems to be an inside and obscure cause disturbing life in Quebec that is hard to get at. It is true that the revelations at Montreal rival those of San Francisco, but then Canadians have become so used to that sort of thing of late that it is passed off with a laugh. Another journalist of high reputation is now defying the Government in that same way as did Mr. Asselin, and it looks as if there would be "trouble" in the lower province before long. The financial affairs of the province are said to be in good shape. We must look elsewhere for the cause of disturbance.

THE NORTH COUNTRY

Before the month of June closes, those in search of a delightful and inexpensive trip should go north to Kinmount, and even Haliburton. But to enjoy the outing it is not advisable to go by rail, rather by carriage or auto. The party should arrange to leave Peterborough in the afternoon, reaching Buckhorn by five o'clock or half-past five, having previously notified the innkeeper what they expected and when they expected it. It would be advisable to spend the night here also. Early next morning a delightful trip can be made across country, past Sandy Lake, to Bobcaygeon, where an excellent lunch can be disposed of. The rest of the day might be profitably spent in that pretty village. The following morning a trip along Burnt River and the Kinmount road will well repay the explorer. At Kinmount luncheon having been partaken of it would be well to make ready for Haliburton, or to return through Galway, Harvey and Ennismore to George Brown's hostelry at Chemong Park. Here a rest and an outing upon the lake are both possible and the next morning the city can be reached at any hour. The lakes and rivers are full at this season of the year, the hills and vales are green and lovely, the roads are excellent, the air is delightful, and the mosquitoes, etc. on the downgrade. Try it: it is inexpensive and charming.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mrs. Eddy denies that she is in any way what her rivals and enemies say she is.

The rule of Tammany in to-day's "Of Interest" column, should be read by everybody. It shows how easily the decent" people are duped into letting criminals hold the balance of power.

The great Mississippi deep waterway scheme has been upset by the report of the Special Committee which says it is not needed. Thus has another plan of the money-spenders and usurers come to naught. Compare Georgian Bay Canal, etc.

From all accounts the Pugsleyites, including the Toronto Globe, and the Peterborough Examiner, woke up the wrong passenger when they attacked Judge Landry. He is a man of great influence and of the highest standing in Acadia.

The following on "Country Houses" is taken from Public Opinion, (Eng.) "Let us quote, for instance, Mr. E. L. Lutyens's work at Temple Dinsley, Herts (1410); Mr. Reginald Blomfield's 'Whittington, Great Marlow' (1430); two houses built by Mr. John Belcher in Herts and Oxfordshire; etc."

London, June 9.—John E. Redmond, the Nationalist leader, hoisted the signal of revolt in the course of the debate in the House of Commons this afternoon on the second reading of the Finance Bill. He notified the Government bluntly that the Nationalist policy would vote against the budget on the ground that it was grossly unfair to Ireland and constituted a breach of the act of union. Mr. Redmond's objection was to the proposed increases in the taxes on whiskey, which he characterized as a crushing impost on one of Erin's few remaining industries.—The Gazette.

This would look as if the Redmonites represented the last remaining industries of Ireland.

Mr. Uriah Wilson—Dr. Bryce, the chief medical inspector in his report says that the population in 1900 was 5,571,315, and the increase between 1900 and 1908 was estimated at 1,866,684, making a total of 6,437,999 persons. Estimates of increase of population based on immigration, are very deceptive. The immigration into the United States for 1908 was 924,695 persons but the number of persons who left the United States was 714,828, leaving a net increase of 209,867. If the same influences operate in Canada, then our population is hardly yet 6,800,000.—Hansard.

"The Ontario Government has done good work in the detection and punishment of lawless liquor-selling in many parts of the province. The vigilance of officials has not only lessened the extent to which liquor was sold by unlicensed persons, but has also made license-holders more careful in their observance of the law.

It is probable that a right policy on the part of the Government is also to some extent responsible for the abolition of canteen liquor-selling at the military camps, which was lawlessness of a very flagrant kind."—The Pioneer.

Canadian Railway Earnings.

Mr. I. G. Ogden, fourth vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, says of the commercial situation and the railways that there is plenty of blue sky ahead, and that business conditions are looking promising all over. The earnings of all the large railways are increasing, which is evidence of larger movement of merchandise generally. To meet the demands of its growing business at Montreal the Canadian Pacific has decided to proceed with enlargements that will double its facilities for handling passengers at the Windsor Station. OF INTEREST

How Criminals Keep Tammany

Not less timely than it is amazing is Mr. George Kibbe Turner's account of how Tammany retains the reins of government —which are also the purse strings —in New York City by the fraudulent votes of thieves, yeggmen, pimps, and other professional criminals. The citizens of New York will have a chance to register their comment at the polls in the fall. Tammany's stake in the coming election says Mr Turner, is "the most tremendous political prize on the continent —the handling of a municipal expenditure of $150,000,000 and the control of tens of millions more in semi-public expenditures." For Tammany's mercenaries, the professional criminals who have carried its elections during the past fifteen years the coming fight "means life or death —the chance or the loss of a chance to make a living." It is therefore predicted by those "on the inside" that in spite of the enactment at Albany last year of a more drastic election law, the next election will see "repeating" on a greater scale than ever before in the history of the city. At the same time says Mr. Turner, the general public is more than usually interested, its concern having been aroused by "two notorious and closely related facts—the approach toward bankruptcy of the richest city in the world under the class of rulers it has had; and the continued raids of thieves and burglars upon the private property of citizens." A thorough defeat this fall, asserts Mr. Turner, would mean the total and permanent collapse of Tammany —"that moribund and unnatural social growth, founded for years upon the thief and the prostitute."

How Tammany pays its debt to those who risk their liberty for it at the polls appears in the statement that "in every Assembly district in the criminal sections of the city there is some agent of the Democratic political machine watching continually to help the criminal escape justice at every stage, from the magistrate's court up." As a consequence says Mr. Turner,—who tells this story in McClure's Magazine for June —prostitution is practically licensed in New York, one out of every three criminals convicted for violent assault, burglary, or larceny is set free by means of the "suspended sentence" and only one-fifth of one per cent of cases against law breaking saloons end in actual punishment.

Mr. Turner points out that from 1870 to 1890 two-thirds of the voters of New York City were Irish and German peasants and their sons, who were easily controlled for Tammany by the saloon keepers who supplied these people with their chief social centers. This was the period of Tammany's natural rule. But, when the great Jewish and Italian immigration overwhelmed the two earlier races, Tammany Hall was compelled to resort to an entirely artificial method of control. "To do this" says Mr. Turner "it merely developed further the system of fraudulent voting by 'repeaters'—men who vote repeatedly on false names—which the Democratic party had used for forty years in State and national elections, and in local contests between themselves." It was found that the professionally criminal classes supplied the most useful and efficient "repeaters," and thus the Bowery and the Red Light districts became centers of political power. Such leaders of criminal gangs as "Monk" Eastman, "Kid" Twist and Paul Kelley, each controlling from 2000 to 20,000 fraudulent votes enjoyed to the full the fruits of political power.

Says the writer:

"No stranger spectacle has ever appeared than the present organization of this criminal population of New York as professional, fraudulent voters. The two-thirds of a million registered votes of the city are divided so closely along conventional party lines that only a slight balance is needed to secure control of the government. This balance is furnished by these organized criminals trained to manufacture fraudulent votes at elections and primaries. And by this means not only the city but the party organization is held in absolute control. The government of the second largest city in the world when the system is in full working order depends at bottom upon the will of the criminal population — principally thieves and pimps. The eighteenth-century governments founded on mercenary troops offer mild examples of social decadence compared with this.

"The work of these 'repeaters' is done on a most elaborate and careful system. If they are captured and convicted they are sent to prison. So, in the first place they can be voted only in very strong Democratic districts, where the Republican half of the election officials are weak or complaisant. To insure absolute freedom, in several of the Assembly districts of Manhattan the Republican district organization is elected by Democratic 'repeaters.' And in all of the so-called 'gorilla' districts there are specialists, sometimes election-district captains and sometimes not, who make it their business to negotiate for this vote plan its schedules and see that individuals arrested at the polls are bailed and in every way protected from the law. Although thousands of 'repeaters' are operating at the polls in Manhattan every year, the average annual number of persons convicted in election cases for the past nine years has been fifteen.

"In general, registration or voting by 'repeaters' proceeds along these lines;

Between the heads of the Assembly district and the leaders of gangs, an estimate is made of the number of repeaters to be furnished. The 'repeaters' are then gathered at some central place —often the Assembly district club house —and sent out through the election districts in squads of ten or twelve under a lieutenant. This lieutenant has some token or 'high sign' —a peculiar button or a motion of the hand —to show to the election district captain. All business is transacted between these two men.

"This voting proceeds on a regular schedule. In the morning the fictitious registration is usually voted, with those names of residents who have died, moved or gone to jail that it has been possible to get past the Republican board of elections. In the afternoon there is a general clearing up of the registration that has not previously been voted on. There are innumerable stories of the boldness of the 'repeaters.'

For instance;

"Some years ago a middle aged man who is now an Assemblyman from the East Side of New York, was standing in the line before an election booth when he was startled to hear the man just ahead of him —a youth of some twenty years— demand a ballot in a familiar name.

"Here' said the Assemblyman, 'that is my father's name.'

"The husky youth turned, glaring down upon him then kicked him in the shins sharply.

"Shut up, you fool," he said hoarsely, 'don't you know your own father.' He then proceeded to vote.'

Under this protecting cloak of politics, crime in New York has doubled in eight years, increasing more than four times as fast as the population.

Says Mr. Turner;

"The safer the crime, the more criminals; the more criminals, the more votes for the element that now rules Tammany Hall; the more votes for these leaders, the more certainly they influence the maladministration of justice. From the election district captain, who signals the criminal into the polling booth to the district leader on the bench or at the head of the workhouse or the court machinery the hand of not one Tammany politician touches the machinery of justice but to retard or pervert its action."

In 1906 "repeating" ran wild, the farce being carried so far that scores of professional criminals were supplied with badges and clubs and empowered to act as deputy sheriffs. One result was the passage of election laws which helped to reduce the "repeating" vote in 1908 by some 50,000. Yet even in that year it is estimated that at least 20,000 of these fraudulent votes were cast. In the "gorilla" districts a quarter of the registration was false.

We read;

"Immediately after the last campaign, two election districts were selected in two of the most typical 'gorilla' Assembly districts in the city. A careful canvasser was sent through these districts to see what names in the registration list could be found in the residences given. In each of them —widely separated both in distance and character of population—fully a quarter of the names were found to be entirely fictitious. Further investigation showed that four-fifths of these false names were voted on. If there were only 15 Assembly districts of the 63 in the city, voting but two-thirds of the false registration indicated in these two districts, the false vote on false registration alone would have been over 20,000 last year—a year freer from election fraud than any in the last twenty.

"Now these votes, it must be remembered are wholly fictitious. The additional votes by 'repeaters' on the names of actual persons dead or moved from the district, or of persons who neglect to vote or are forestalled at the polls would add thousands more."

THE VAIN JACKDAW

A PLAY FOR CHILDREN

By Augusta Stevenson

(Copyright, 1909, by Augusta Stevenson.)

The children who play the jackdaws should wear very plain clothing, black cloaks and black caps if possible. The children who play the Peafowls may be gayly dressed. They may even wear mother's bright blue and green stand covers as trains.

VAIN JACKDAW.
OLD JACKDAW.
YOUNG JACKDAW.
OTHER JACKDAWS.
PEAFOWLS.
Time:—Early one morning.
Place:—A park.

OLD JACKDAW—Come, jackdaws; we must go for cherries. Come!

YOUNG JACKDAW—A jackdaw stops to look at something on the ground.

OLD JACKDAW—No one should stop to look at anything. Come!

YOUNG JACKDAW—Just look at him. He takes up feathers.

VAIN JACKDAW (to himself)—How fine I would look in these peafowl feathers.

ANOTHER JACKDAW—See how he sticks the feathers in among his own.

YOUNG JACKDAW—See how he struts about in them.

OLD JACKDAW—My son, take off those feathers.

VAIN JACKDAW—It pleases me to wear them.

OLD JACKDAW—Take them off, I say!

VAIN JACKDAW—I will not take them off!

OLD JACKDAW—Then you cannot stay with us.

VAIN JACKDAW—I do not wish to stay with jackdaws. I will not walk with jackdaws. I will not talk with jackdaws. I think myself too fine for jackdaws.

OLD JACKDAW—Then, jackdaws, we will think no more about him. Come! Now to find ripe cherries! Come!

[They go. The peafowls enter.]

VAIN JACKDAW—Good morning, brothers.

PEAFOWLS—Ha, ha, ha!

VAIN JACKDAW—Why do you laugh so, brothers?

PEAFOWLS—Ha, ha, ha!

VAIN JACKDAW—You must not laugh, dear brothers. I am a peafowl, like yourselves.

FIRST PEAFOWL—You silly jackdaw!

VAIN JACKDAW—I am no jackdaw. Do I not have feathers like your own?

SECOND PEAFOWL—Ha, ha! I dropped them on the ground this morning.

THIRD PEAFOWL—Let's take them from him!

VAIN JACKDAW—No, no! I beg you——

FIRST PEAFOWL—Come, let's pull them out!

[They pull the peafowl feathers from the jackdaw.]

THIRD PEAFOWL—You cannot stay with us!

SECOND PEAFOWL—Go back to the jackdaws!

FIRST PEAFOWL—Away with you! Away!

[The jackdaw runs. The peafowls go, laughing. The other jackdaws enter with cherries.]

OLD JACKDAW—We will eat our cherries here.

[The vain jackdaw enters.]

VAIN JACKDAW—Ah, here you are! I have been looking for you.

OLD JACKDAW—Why do you look for us?

VAIN JACKDAW—I want to show you some fine cherries.

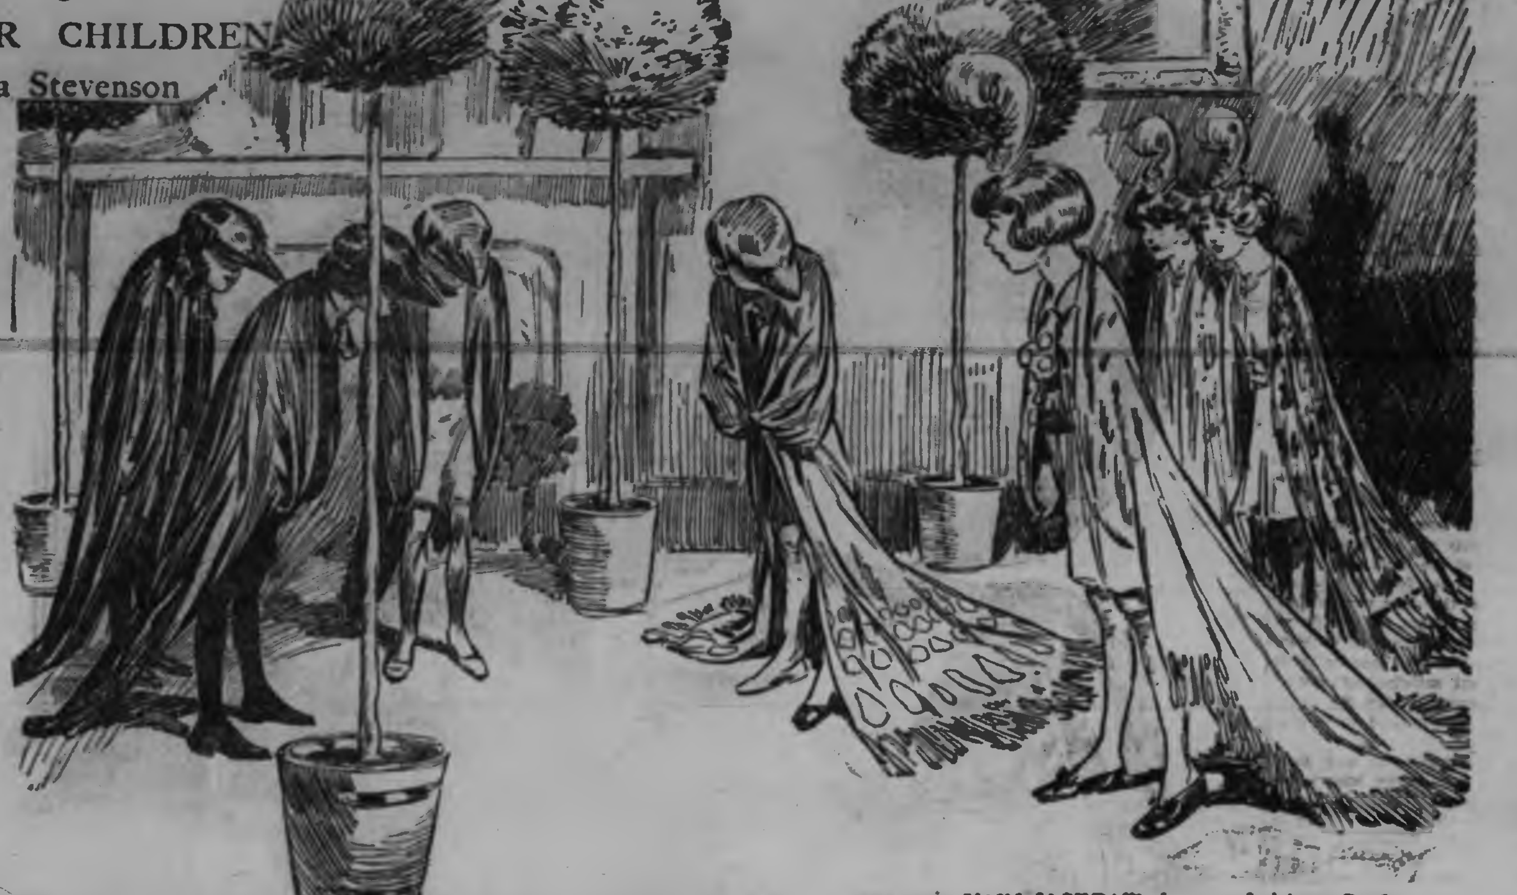
OLD JACKDAW—We will have nothing more to do with you! Away!

VAIN JACKDAW—I am a jackdaw. I wish to stay with jackdaws.

OLD JACKDAW—Away, I say!

ALL JACKDAWS—Away! Away!

[They drive the vain jackdaw from the park, out into the cold, cold world.]



VAIN JACKDAW—I am no Jackdaw. Do I not have feathers like your own?

There will be another playlet by Miss Stevenson in next week's Children's page.

THE SUNBEAM

By Frederick Irving Anderson

IT was a long, sleepy afternoon and Catherine grew tired of play and went to the cool summer house, where she could close the blinds and shut out the light. After a long time the sun came around the corner and peeped in through the keyhole. Catherine thought how fine it would be if she could catch him and keep him.

"It would never be dark, then," thought Catherine, and, springing quietly from her couch, she slipped her finger over the keyhole just as if she were trying to catch a butterfly.

"Let me out," cried Sunbeam.

"What a funny little voice!" thought Catherine. She pinched herself to see if she were dreaming, and the funny thing about it was that she could not tell.

"I will come and see you to-morrow at this time if you will only let me go now," pleaded Sunbeam. "I must go around the world between now and then. If I should happen to be late all the clocks in the world would have to be turned back, and that is bad for clocks."

"Oh, don't be foolish. What have you got to do with clocks?" asked Catherine.

"Every day at noon men catch me in a funny thing they call a sextant, and when I move into just the right place they say, 'There she dips.' Then they know it is exactly noon and they let me go."

"Don't be silly," cried Catherine. "Our clock in the dining room strikes twelve every day at noon. I have counted it, so I guess I know how to tell when it is noon. Besides, some days when it rains you aren't around at all, and we have noon just the same."

"Please, please let me go," pleaded Sunbeam. "If I am late the tide won't come in on time, and then the Lusitania can't come up the bay, 'cause the water won't be deep enough."

"Ho, ho! but you think you are smart," laughed Catherine.

"Well, you see it is this way," said Sunbeam. "The Moon follows me around every day, just like your dog Fido follows you, and the Moon makes the water in the ocean follow it."

"I have heard about the Moon," said Catherine.

"And people will think it is winter if I am late," said Sunbeam.

Catherine laughed at this.

"You will be sorry if it snows to-morrow," said Sunbeam.

"Oh, you are so silly," gasped Catherine. "Who ever heard of it snowing in August? But wouldn't it be fun!"

"I am not joking," said Sunbeam. "Even a little girl like you ought to know that I come around later on winter mornings than on summer mornings. Everything will be topsy-turvy if you don't let me go."

Sunbeam sat on the floor for a little while thinking.

"Oh, let me look through that glass spangle," cried he at last. Catherine held up a three sided piece of glass for Sunbeam to shine through, and she was never so surprised in her life as when she saw him spring from the floor and spread out in all sorts of colors on the wall.

"What are you doing?" cried Catherine, keeping her finger tightly over the keyhole so he could not get away.

"I am showing you my dress," said Sunbeam. "Isn't it very pretty?"

"Yes, it is very pretty," Catherine admitted, and it was. It was made up in bands of red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet. Catherine would have clapped her hands, only she was afraid Sunbeam would escape if she took her finger from the keyhole.

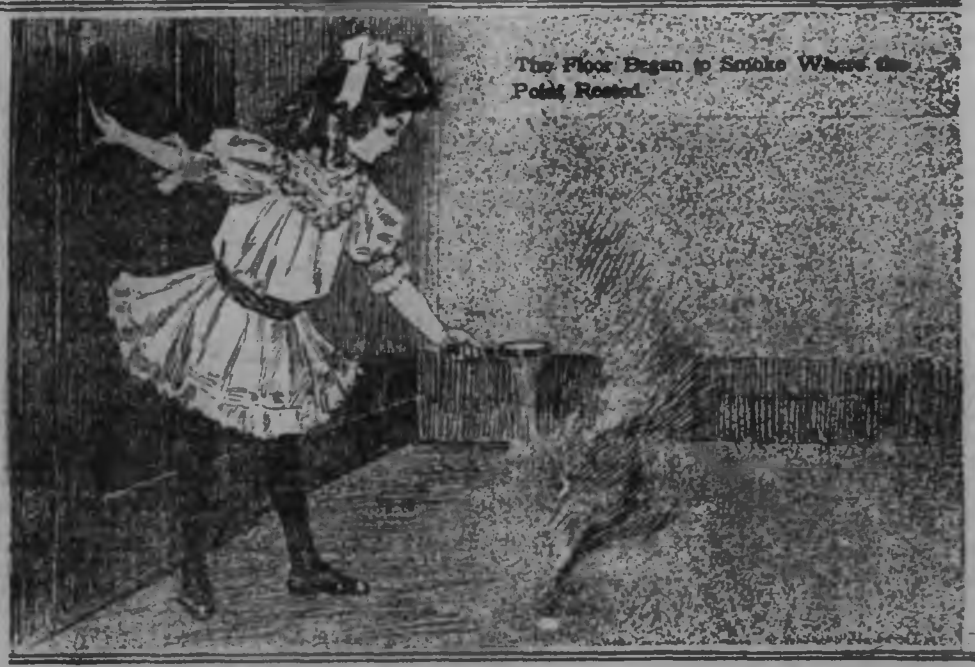
"Is it new?" asked she.

"No," said Sunbeam, "I have always had it. See, there are seven colors. When I dress myself this way men call me Solar Spectrum."

"Oh, my! what a big word!" cried Catherine.

"If you look at my dress closely you will see black lines running through the selvage," said Sunbeam. "Do you see them? Well, these are Frauenhofer lines. What do you think of that for a big word? Men tell lots of things from those lines. They can tell what stars are made of by them. But that is not for little girls."

Catherine just smiled to herself when Sunbeam said this because she thought it couldn't possibly be so. But the funny thing about it is that Sunbeam told the truth.



The Floor Began to Smoke Where the Point Rested.

"Do you see the pretty violet color?" asked Sunbeam.

"Yes, it's just like my new stockings," said Catherine.

"Well, when men want to take photographs they sift out my violet color, just like you sift sand out of gravel," explained Sunbeam.

"You can't make me believe that," said Catherine. "I know how to take pictures. I just press the button."

"I know it," explained Sunbeam. "When you press the button I slip in just as quick as a wink."

Catherine was so surprised at this that she dropped the glass spangle Sunbeam was looking through and he hopped down to the floor again.

"You see, I am a lightning change artist. All I have got to do is to roll up all of my colors into one, like you make mud pies, and I am white again."

"Teacher told me white was not a color," protested she.

"White is all the seven colors in one," said Sunbeam. "Just like a chicken is a chicken until you cut it up into drumsticks, wishbone and wings."

Catherine thought this over and decided it must be so, as she had seen Sunbeam spread himself out in colors, just like a fan, and then roll all the colors up again.

"Aren't you going to let me go now?" asked Sunbeam. "I have to travel 24,800 miles before this time to-morrow and I want to get started."

"Show me some more tricks and I will let you go," promised Catherine.

"Just let me look through that magnifying glass," said he. Catherine let him look through the glass and to her surprise Sunbeam shrivelled up at one end until he was as thin as a pencil point. The floor began to smoke where the point rested.

"Stop, oh, stop!" cried Catherine. "We will burn up the summer house and papa wants to use it for chickens."

Catherine dropped the magnifying glass in her fright and Sunbeam was no longer a pencil point. Sunbeam can't put a point on himself unless he has a glass to look through.

"You shouldn't play with fire," said Catherine.

"I carry matches with me," smiled Sunbeam. "All I need is a sun glass to make me thin and then I can set things on fire."

"I guess you'd better go," said Catherine. "I don't want you to burn things up here. Come again, though, but leave your matches at home."

Sunbeam promised to call again some day and Catherine let him slip out through the keyhole.

"Oh, dear," said Catherine after he was gone. "I don't know whether I have been dreaming or just talking to myself."

THE CAUTIOUS BOY EXPLAINS.

By Irene Elliott Benson.

They say that I'm a coward,
And this is 'sactly why:—
'Cause I won't stand a-holdin'
A lighted firefly.

It isn't that I'm frightened
At them, you understand;
But s'posin' it should burn me—
Then I might lose my hand.

HOW TO MAKE A MENAGERIE BOOK

DID you ever make a circus book or a menagerie book?

It is lots of fun and you will find plenty of material in the daily and Sunday newspapers.

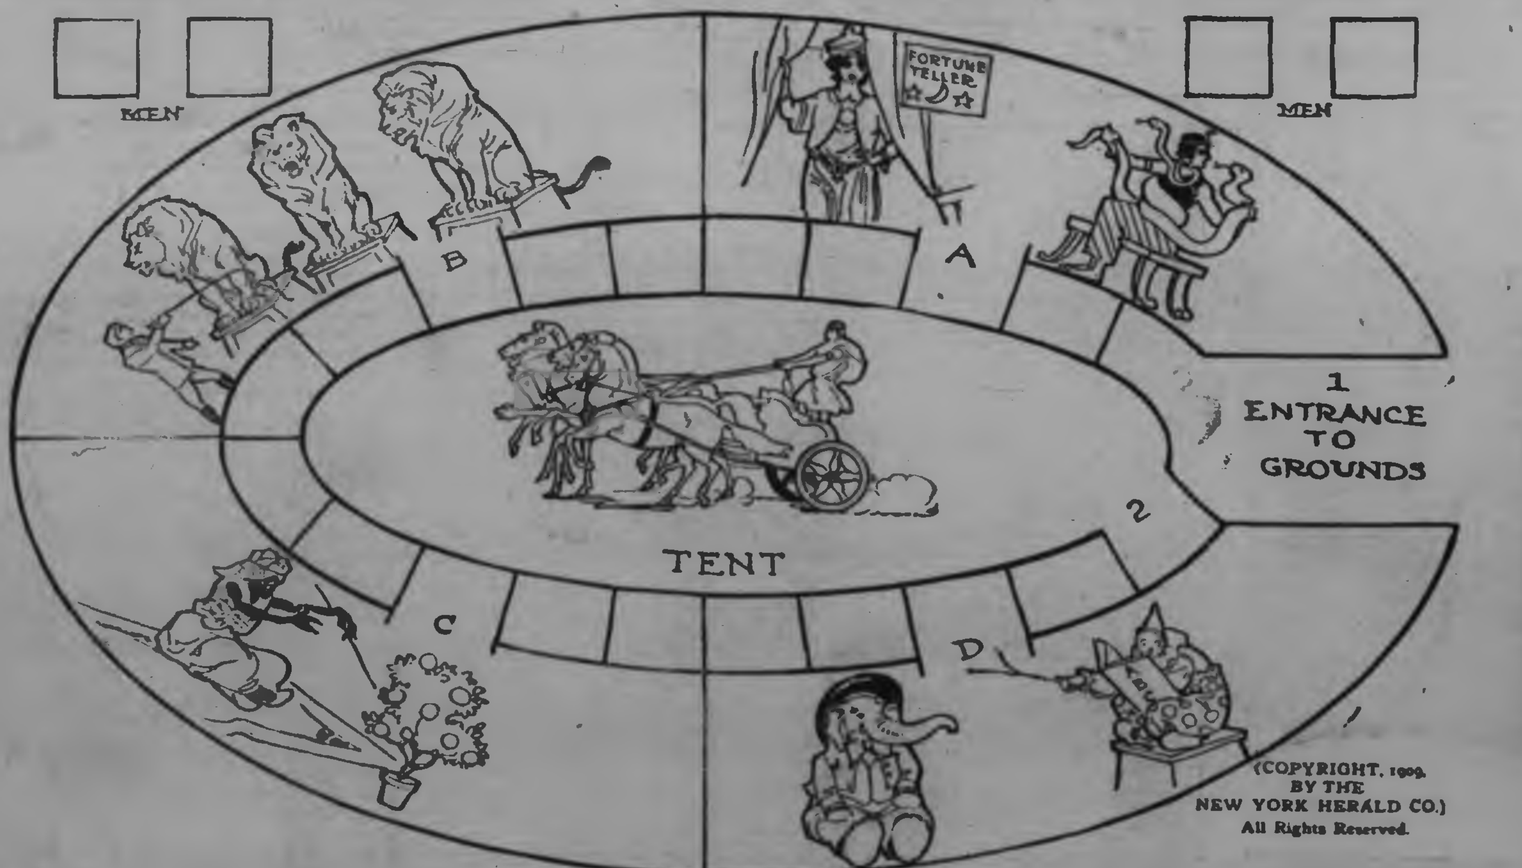
A blank book is necessary to begin with. It may be as large or as small as you wish and contain as many pages as you think you can fill. The pictures cut from the paper are pasted in the book after being carefully grouped, the bears on one page, the elephants on another, prize poultry on another, and so on. It takes some time, of course, to collect the pictures, but that is the most interesting part of it for boys and girls who have outgrown kindergarten days. It makes the gathering of pictures for one's menagerie even more interesting if several friends start out at the same time to see which one can get the best collection.

Rare animals are of course greatly prized, but no animal of any size or shape is rejected. One way to group a lot of animals of different sizes is to have them going in procession across a page or in a circle, or the largest of all may be put in the middle, the smaller forming a circle or a square around him and so on until the pictures have been used up.

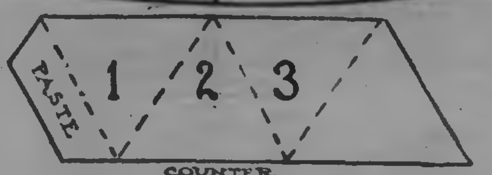
Sometimes it is interesting to make one's book up of family groups instead of having each page devoted to different animals. For instance, there may be a barnyard group, a jungle group, a Maine woods group and so on. If this is done the jungle group could contain all the animals which would be found in a tropical jungle, the farm yard group all the domestic animals, the Maine woods group bears, deer, trout, catamounts, &c. It is very interesting indeed to adhere strictly to the geographical limitations and have pages devoted to different sections of the country—for instance an Australian page, an African page, a South American page, a home page, &c. It is also possible to have the different families on the different pages—the cat family, the dog family, the rodents and so on. After the work is completed it is a most attractive gift for some younger member of the family, if the boy or girl who has made it ceases to take an interest in it when all the pages are full.

CUTOUT BROTHERS' CIRCUS GAME

By E. Patten Beard



(COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE NEW YORK HERALD CO.)
All Rights Reserved.



COUNTER

CAREFULLY cut out the game board and mount it upon a stiff, flat piece of cardboard. Allow it to dry with some flat weight upon it.

Next cut out the counter. Fold this on the dotted lines and paste the flap.

While your game board and counter are drying cut out the men indicated for playing the game. When this is all done your game is ready to play.

Any number of players may play this game, but as the paper game board is small it is better that only a few go to the circus at once.

Players who wish to go to the circus toss up the numbered triangle in turn. The first to gain admittance must buy a ticket—in other words, he must turn up the "No. 1" before he can enter the circus grounds.

Each player must visit two side shows before he can enter the circus tent, so he must make the round of the circle about the tent after he has gained admittance to the grounds. He proceeds from right to left, doing as many spaces as are indicated upon the base of the numbered triangle after tossing.

If a player rests upon a space which is the entrance to a side show his next turn takes him into the show and he stays there over one turn without tossing up the counter.

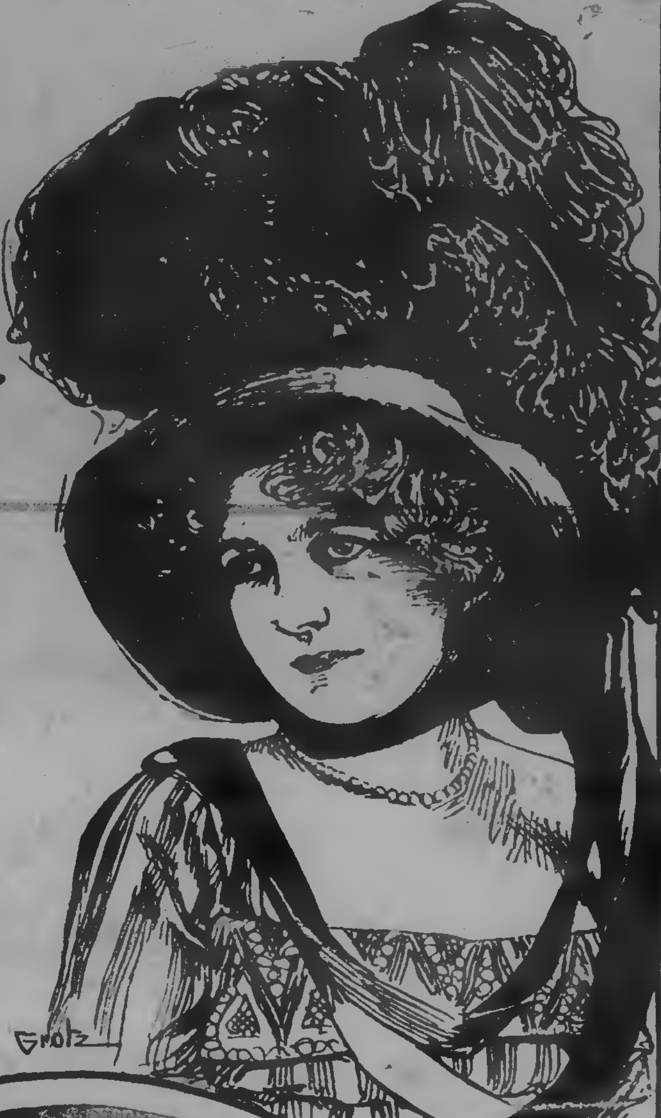
On his next turn he tosses up the triangle and proceeds around the circus grounds as before. He must go into every side show opposite whose entrance he stops. If he does not stop at the entrance of the first show he proceeds around the tent as before. He must, however, have entered at least two side shows before coming to the entrance to the main tent. If he reaches this entrance without having entered at least two side shows he must go all over the course again, going back to the first division inside the entrance to the grounds.

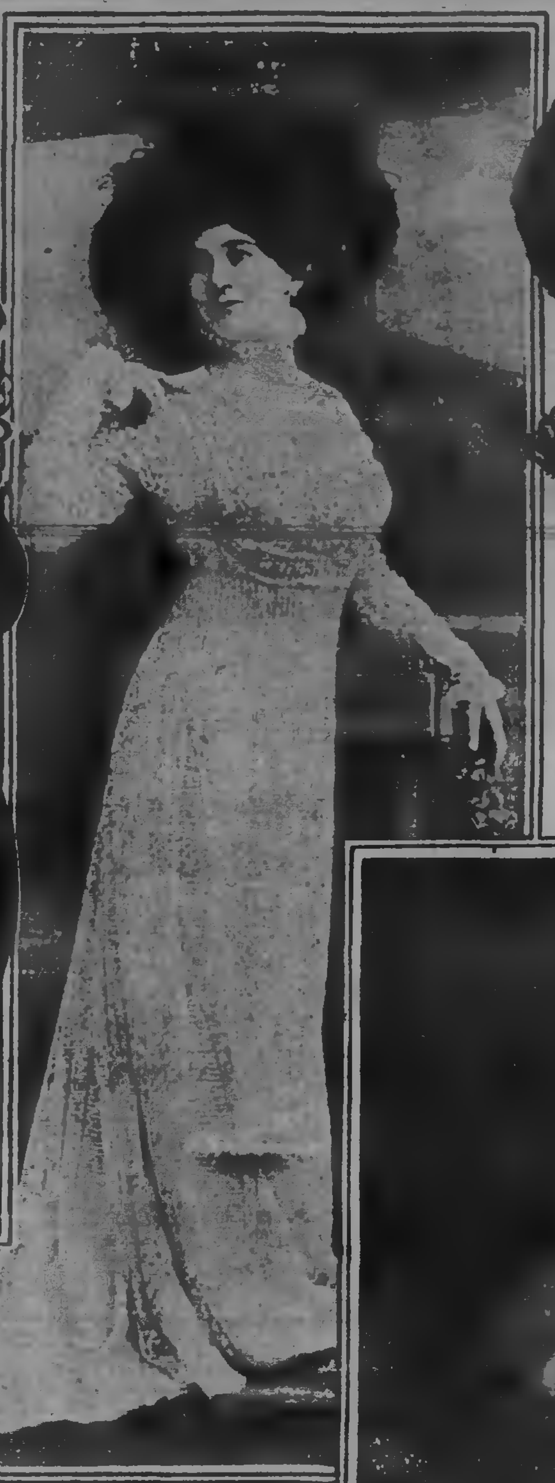
If he has entered at least two side shows before coming to the entrance to the main tent he must then get "two" on the triangle in order to enter the tent. If he gets "one" or "three" instead of "two" he must wait another turn before he enters the tent and must continue to wait until the triangle has indicated two. The player who first makes the main tent has won and may go home.

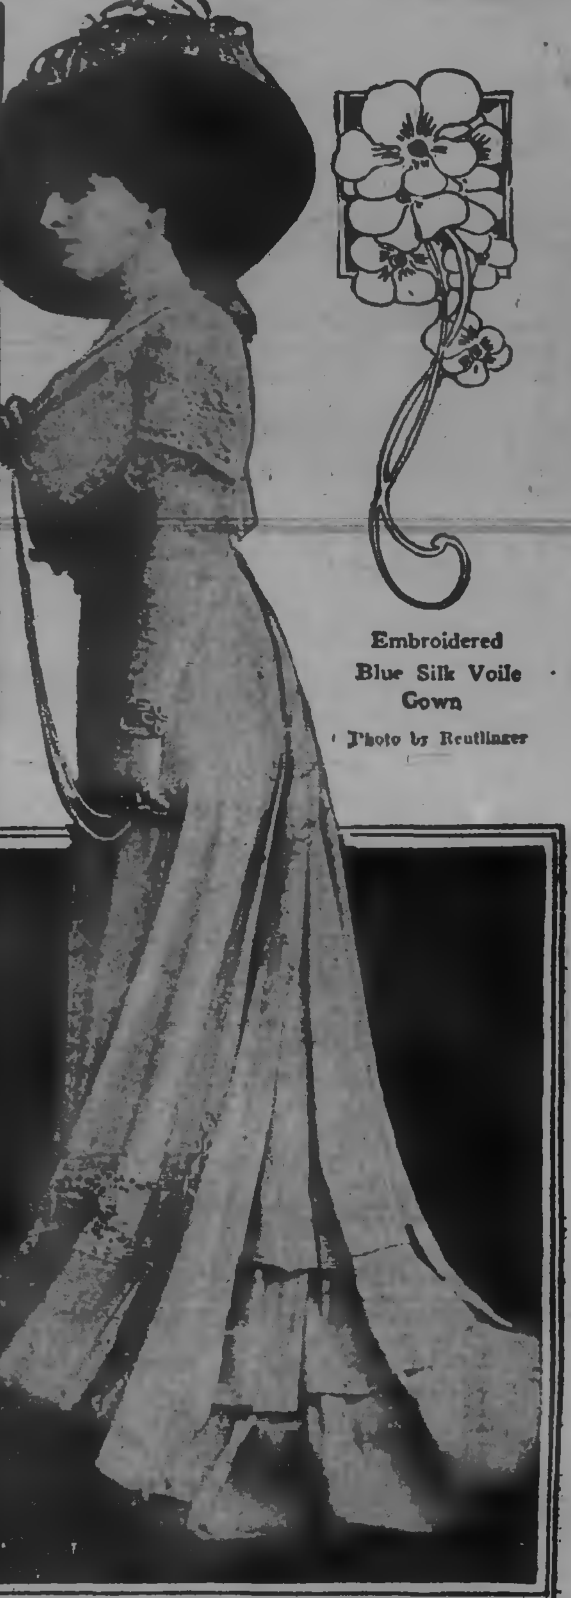
The "one" that must be indicated before the grounds may be entered places the player on the first division inside the grounds. To enter each side show the counter must indicate "one" after reaching the division opposite the side show entrance. If it does not indicate "one" the player must wait until he gets it before going in. When coming out of the side show the player need not have "one," but may count from the first division from the entrance. If on completing his journey around the promenade the counter at the last indicates more than enough to bring the player to the division opposite the tent entrance he nevertheless stops on this division and waits for another turn to toss the "two" which is to take him into the tent.

Latest Paris Fashions

Styles for Summer Gowns in Varied Designs







Embroidered Blue Silk Voile Gown

SUMMER fashions are now being exhibited in bewildering profusion, and the necessity for decision is evident, for not to have the summer outfit in order ahead of time marks a woman in these days as being either extremely careless or indifferent to clothes, either of which is a decided slur upon her mentality. The problem is a serious one, and every whit as serious for the woman of unlimited income as for the woman who has to count her pennies. The former must needs provide this season an apparently endless stock of gowns for any and all occasions, and if her summer is to be spent, as is the accepted rule, not in one but many places, then there must be special provision made for each—seashore or mountains, the summer hotel, the country house, &c., &c., until the wonder is how so many many costumes can ever be selected.

Fashion's changes are many, and some rules as to color and material are painfully stringent. At the same time there is a wide range of choice permitted in the one respect that there are no longer hard and fast rules regarding the proper materials for summer and winter, and the same fabrics can be worn both seasons. Lingerie gowns may, however, be quoted as the exception; these are reserved for the summer as a rule, and they certainly look as though intended for that time of year with their filmy and transparent effects, their dainty embroideries and fine laces. There is a more or less conservative element as to the lingerie gown, and it does not go so absolutely out of style as gowns of other materials. The shape and size of the sleeves and the width of the skirt vary, but the general styles and the lines can be modified with little trouble and brought up to date.

Princess Style the Smartest.

The princess style is the smartest and most practical, for the waist line can be regulated and changed by a sash or belt if so desired, and the model is the most becoming of all; besides it is not difficult to change the plain lines of a too plain lingerie gown by the trimming on the waist, flat bands of insertion, embroidery or lace, bretelles, fichu or bertha of lace or embroidery, and so on indefinitely.

Under the head of lingerie gowns are many that have far more lace than embroidery in their construction and there is a curious mingling of not only embroidery and lace but different laces that to the conservative lover of laces seems sadly incongruous, but the woman who to-day is given the palm for the best taste in dress pays little attention to apparent inconsistencies; she delights in the general finished effect of the whole and pays absolutely no attention to the minor details of material and color according to the old cut and dried rules. Irish lace gowns are classed with the lingerie ones, and indeed there are ever so many of them with not enough lingerie to excuse their being so termed. But no matter what they are, the end and aim of every woman is to possess at least one. Perhaps the most noticeable point of them this year is the back of the gown, which is so becoming in its graceful lines and the effect of which is gained by a most skilful adaptation of the trimming and material. It is remarkable how cleverly this is done. Often a figure is made to appear slender when in truth the lines are heavy and broad.

White is to be extremely popular this summer and in consequence there are any number of different white materials to chose from. The silk voile is fascinating in its new weaves, while nets of all kinds and descriptions, plain and figured, are most attractive. There are also the white pongee with rajah, tussor and the numberless novelty goods that each season are exhibited, while in the chiffon and gauzes many old favorites have returned to be welcomed with enthusiasm. Embroidery and lace are popular trimmings and both heavy and fine laces are used in the sheer materials. Soutache braiding on net cannot well be called a new fashion, but it is to be counted among the styles of the year, and soutache braiding on the net and voile unlined coats is decidedly a novel idea. In white this fashion is extremely popular and is almost invariably becoming.

The newest summer fashions may be termed more normal. They are distinctive, individual and very smart, but the note of eccentricity is lacking. Then the sometimes too harsh lines have been marvellously improved upon the soft flat folds of trimming in the old time fichu effect, being so much more generally becoming than the too harshly outlined figure in the absolutely plain fitting waist, even when made of the most costly embroidery. But it is not for one moment to be supposed that there are very radical changes of figure or design, and the dressmaker has to study the lines of each individual customer and take just as much trouble to turn out satisfactory gowns. It is only a softening of the too harsh outlines and the too marked eccentricities.

Such subtle distinctions as now exist in dress were surely never known before these days.

Embroideries of all kinds are more in demand than ever and handwork is at a premium. This, too, at a time when machine work has attained an excellence never dreamed of. In truth it needs a well trained eye to discern which is the machine and which the hand work. Not too much embroidery but the best of its kind is the rule with the fastidious woman who delights in the luxuries of dress. The draped or plain tunic of plain net or tulle that has an elaborate design but not one that will cover the entire tunic is thought far the smartest effect. The large patterns in the heavy embroideries are the most popular and effective and are more in demand than the finer—this for the embroidery on net, tulle, chiffon or any of the transparent materials that are used for reception and evening gowns.

The rule does not apply to the simple gowns or rather to those to be worn for less formal occasions, for there the finest of fine work is demanded, so fine as often to be disappointingly ineffective. Rows upon rows of the finest pin tucks, hand run, with entredeux of real lace, mean charming daintiness but do not show half the labor spent nor the consequent expense. Fine embroidery in the material and hand knotted fringes do not, to the uninitiated, display half their real value, and consequently are never generally popular, the average woman preferring something that "shows" the money expended. There are wonderfully effective trimmings to be found this spring among the inexpensive ones, and the expenditure of time and thought will gain better results than a too lavish outlay of money. The gowns are so planned that it is much easier to choose suitable trimmings than when all details were so involved that trimmings had to be chosen somewhat recklessly. Now color, design and material can each and all be consulted—must be, in fact—but the glint of color obtained in an exquisite piece of embroidery or passementerie will transform a failure into a success. As has been said, it is not essential to use quantities of trimming; on the contrary, the less the better, for then the beauty of line of the gown itself is not disturbed or marred. The great variety in color in the new trimmings is of service in keeping the unbroken lines, for if the trimming match exactly the material it is simply a rendering of the same color scheme with only a little contrast in shade. If so desired the same coloring can be found with merely the lightening or darkening in the pattern. A curious instance of this is to be seen in the all white gown that is trimmed with bands of narrow side tucks—here is the same material, but the tucks make it appear to be in sharp contrast.

Will fringe become popular? is a question often asked. It is one of the most expensive trimmings that can be used. It is heavy and it is easily defaced, but it is certainly very beautiful and graceful in effect and can be dyed to match any and every shade. It is not easily dealt with, for it is not so easily sewed on as might be imagined. Still, some of the most costly gowns are trimmed with it, and it is also used on the medium priced. It must be included in every fashion report of summer trimming, but is a better choice for the woman who does not have to consult economy and count the number of gowns in her summer's wardrobe.

FASHION DETAILS THAT EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW.

Need for Separate Blouse.

ONE of the crying needs of women is always and ever for new designs for separate blouses, for, despite all the theories that these are to be no longer fashionable, they continue to form a necessary part of the wardrobe of large numbers of women. The illustration herewith shown is a model designed especially for batiste, but it may be equally well employed for chiffon, chiffon cloth or grenadine.

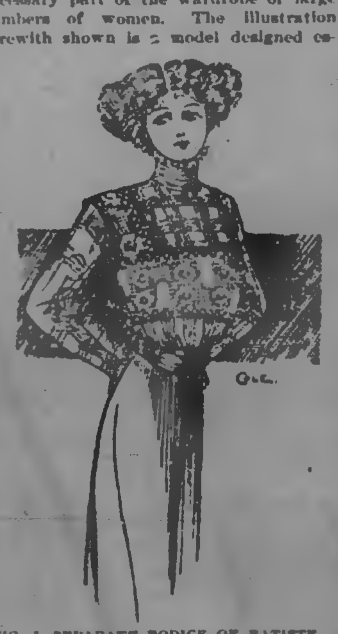

FIG. 1—SEPARATE BODICE OF BATISTE.

Rather heavy lace is used for the garniture, but heavy net with an application of Irish lace motifs may also be employed.

The design used for the material of the waist shows tucking in blocks, rows of four tucks crosswise extending across rows of four tucks lengthwise in such a manner as to form regular blocks. The square yoke is made of the batiste so tucked, as are the sleeves. The lace is used in a deep band to form a sort of suspended arrangement with a crosspiece at the bottom.

Suggestion of Bolero Jacket.

THERE is a suggestion of the bolero jacket combined with a suggestion of the draped bodice which makes illustration No. 2 well worth studying. The combination of different styles used in the costume seems almost incredible, and yet a harmonious whole has been achieved. It is by means of the broad pointed belt that it has been possible to produce the effect of both the bolero and the draped waist, and also because of the peculiar garniture of the front.

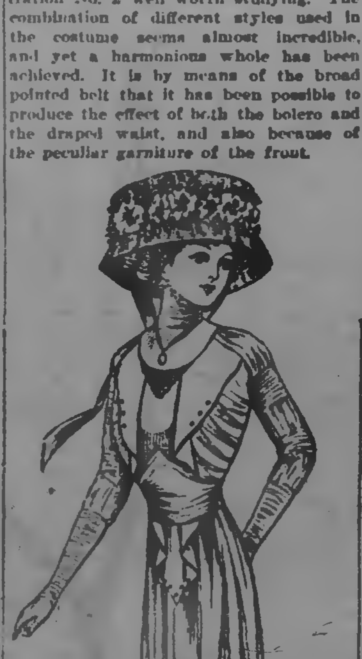

FIG. 2—UNIQUE MODEL FOR CHIFFON CLOTH.

The bodice has a plain round yoke and a plain front panel, which extends below the belt. An ornament of braid between the yoke and the lower part of the panel makes the latter look like a waistcoat.

Attractive Skirt Model.

INSTEAD of using the stiff and rather awkward belt with which so many dresses are now finished, so that the skirt part is made to extend above the ordinary waist line, the idea adopted in the accompanying illustration has been followed with great success in both street and afternoon costumes. Wide belts, or girdles, even when they are fitted, give a bulky look to the waist, while the softly draped effect seen here is both graceful and becoming and suggests slenderness.

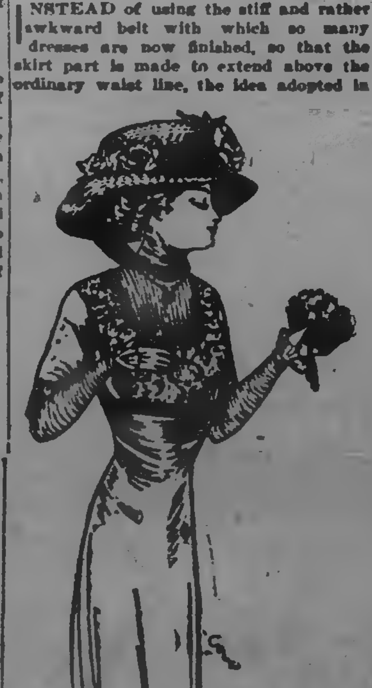

FIG. 3—GOWN WITH HIGH BELTED SKIRT.

The skirt ends just below the bust and is finished with a band of silk, under which the "U" shaped bodice trimming terminates. This is made of heavily embroidered net and where the design is carried out in linen a coarse wash net is used, while the needlework is done in wash floss to match the amethyst shade of the dress material.

THE MOST RELIABLE and Successful Authority—Greatest success in the treatment of Hernia (Rupture) Varicocele (False Rupture) of all known agencies in modern times. He who makes a specialty of one department must certainly be more experienced and capable than those having "many irons in the fire." Don't put off your case, believing it to be simple. Remember neglect often proves fatal. Have your case attended to now, and thus avoid danger. Stop wasting time and money elsewhere, but come to one whose life-long study has taught him what to do. Do not despond or be deterred from seeking further advice, or because of repeated failures consider your case incurable. Because others failed in your case you have become discouraged. This is the very time you should consult me, as my reputation has been made in curing hopeless (so-called) cases. Come and have a talk with me.

LADIES suffering from any form of Rupture should not hesitate having their case attended to at once. Everything strictly professional. Write Toronto office for fuller particulars.

MOTHERS—Look to your children—have them cured, while young. Don't allow them to grow up handicapped in the race of life, with rupture. Reliability my guarantee.

MY CHARGES are within reach of all, the poor man as well as the rich. Terms can be satisfactorily arranged, no reason why you should not consult me at once, during this visit.

VARICOCELE FALSE RUPTURE

MEN OF ALL AGES SUFFER from this affliction. There is no affliction that so completely unfits man for the duties of life as Varicocele. The tendency of these conditions is to grow worse and more complicated—leading to nervous debility, wasting, lumbago, exhaustion, etc. Do you intend to allow this affliction to impair your vitality? It is doing so now and if not checked will result in the above conditions. No matter how serious your case may be, time afflicted, or the failure experienced in trying to be cured by medicine—free trials, or Electric belts—my Biotone system will cure. No temporary benefit, but a PERMANENT one. NO OPERATION necessary. No detention from business.

The Woman In the Alcove

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,

Author of "The Millionaire Baby," "The Filigree Ball," "The House in the Mist," "The Amethyst Box," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY.

Opinions on this point were, as I have said, many and various. Some fixed upon the moment of exchange as that very critical and hardly appreciable one elapsing between the murder and Mr. Durand's appearance upon the scene. This theory, I need not say, was advanced by such as believed that, while he was not guilty of Mrs. Fairbrother's murder, he had been guilty of taking advantage of the same to rob the body of what in the terror and excitement of the moment he evidently took to be her great gem. To others, among whom were many eyewitnesses of the event, it appeared to be a conceded fact that this substitution had been made prior to the ball and with Mrs. Fairbrother's full cognizance. The effectual way in which she had wielded her fan between the glittering ornament on her breast and the inquisitive glances constantly leveled upon it might at the time have been due to coquetry, but to them it looked much more like an expression of fear lest the deception in which she was indulging should be discovered. No one fixed the time where I did; but, then, no one but myself had watched the scene with the eyes of love. Besides—and this must be remembered—most people, among whom I ventured to count the police officials, were mainly interested in proving Mr. Durand guilty, while I with contrary mind was bent on establishing such facts as confirmed the explanations he had been pleased to give us, explanations which necessitated a conviction on Mrs. Fairbrother's part of the great value of the jewel she wore and the consequent advisability of ridding herself of it temporarily if, as so many believed, the full letter of the warning should read: "Be warned. He means to be at the ball. Expect trouble if you are found wearing the great diamond."

True, she may herself have been deceived concerning it. Unconsciously to herself she may have been the victim of a daring fraud on the part of some hanger on who had access to her jewels, but as no such evidence had yet come to life, as she had no recognized or, so far as could be learned, secret lover or dishonest dependent and, moreover, as no gem of such unusual value was known to have been offered within the year here or abroad, in public or private market, I could not bring myself to credit this assumption, possibly because I was so ignorant as to credit another and a different one—one which you have already seen growing in my mind and which, presumptuous as it was, kept my courage from failing through all those dreadful days of enforced waiting and suspense. For I was determined not to intrude my suggestions, valuable as I considered them, till all hope was gone of his being righted by the judgment of those who would not lightly endure the interference of such an insignificant mote in the great scheme of justice as myself.

The inquest, which might be trusted to bring out all these doubtful points, had been delayed in anticipation of Mr. Fairbrother's return. His testimony could not but prove valuable, if not in fixing the criminal, at least in settling the moot point as to whether the stone which the estranged wife had carried away with her on leaving the house had been the genuine one returned to him from Tiffany's or the well known imitation now in the hands of the police. He had been located somewhere in the mountains of lower Colorado; but, strange to say, it had been found impossible to enter into direct communication with him, nor was it known whether he was aware as yet of his wife's tragic death. So affairs went slowly in New York, and the case seemed to come to a standstill, when public opinion was suddenly reawakened and a more definite turn given to the whole matter by a dispatch from Santa Fe to the Associated Press. This dispatch was to the effect that Abner Fairbrother had passed through that city some three days before on his way to his new mining camp, the Placide; that he then showed symptoms of pneumonia and from advices since received might be regarded as a very sick man.

Ill—well, that explained matters. His silence, which many had taken for indifference, was that of a man physically disabled and unfit for exertion of any kind. Ill—a tragic circumstance which roused endless conjecture. Was he aware, or was he not aware, of his wife's death? Had he been taken ill before or after he left Colorado for New Mexico? Was he suffering mainly from shock, or, as would appear from his complaint, from a too rapid change of climate?

The whole country seethed with excitement, and my poor little unthought-of, insignificant self burned with impatience, which only those who have been subjected to a like suspense can properly estimate. Would the proceedings which were awaited with so much anxiety be further delayed? Would Mr. Durand remain indefinitely in durance and under such a cloud of disgrace as would kill some men and might kill him? Should I be called upon to endure still longer the suffering which this entailed upon me, when I thought I knew—

But fortune was less obdurate than I feared. Next morning a telegraphic statement from Santa Fe settled one of the points of this great dispute, a statement which you will find detailed at more length in the following communication, which appeared a few days later in one of our most enterprising journals.

It was from a resident correspondent in New Mexico, and was written, as the editor was careful to say, for his own eyes and not for the public. He had ventured, however, to give it in full, knowing the great interest which this whole subject had for his readers.

CHAPTER VII.

NOT to be outdone by the editor, I insert the article here with all its details, the importance of which I trust I have anticipated:

Santa Fe., N. M., April —.

Arrived in Santa Fe. I inquired where Abner Fairbrother could be found. I was told that he was at his mine, sick.

Upon inquiring as to the location of the Placide, I was informed that it was fifteen miles or so distant in the mountains, and upon my expressing an intention of going there immediately, I was given what I thought very unnecessary advice and then directed to a certain livery stable, where I was told I could get the right kind of a horse and such equipment as I stood in need of.

I thought I was equipped all right as it was, but I said nothing and went on to the livery stable. Here I was shown a horse which I took to at once and was about to mount when a pair of leggings was brought to me.

"You will need these for your journey," said the man.

"Journey!" I repeated. "Fifteen miles!"

The livery stable keeper, a half breed with a peculiarly pleasant smile, cocked up his shoulders with the remark:

"Three men as willing, but as inexperienced as yourself, have attempted the same journey during the last week, and they all came back before they reached the divide. You will probably come back, too, but I shall give you as fair a start as if I knew you were going straight through."

"But a woman has done it," said I; "a nurse from the hospital went up that very road last week."

"Oh, women, they can do anything—women who are nurses! But they don't start off alone. You are going alone."

"Yes," I remarked grimly. "Newspaper correspondents make their journeys singly when they can."

"Oh, you are a newspaper correspondent! Why do so many men from the papers want to see that sick old man? Because he's so rich?"

"Don't you know?" I asked.

He did not seem to.

I wondered at his ignorance, but did not enlighten him.

"Follow the trail and ask your way from time to time. All the goatherds know where the Placide mine is."

Such were his simple instructions as he headed my horse toward the canyon. But as I drew off he shouted out:

"If you get stuck, leave it to the horse. He knows more about it than you do."

With a vague gesture toward the northwest, he turned away, leaving me in contemplation of the grandest scenery I had yet come upon in all my travels.

Fifteen miles! But those miles lay through the very heart of the mountains, ranging anywhere from 6,000 to 7,000 feet high. In ten minutes the city and all signs of city life were out of sight. In five more I was seemingly as far removed from all civilization as if I had gone a hundred miles into the wilderness.

As my horse settled down to work, picking his way now here and now there, sometimes over the brown earth, hard and baked as in a thousand furnaces, and sometimes over the stunted grass whose needlelike stalks seemed never to have known moisture, I let my eyes roam to such peaks as were not cut off from view by the nearer hillsides and wondered whether the snow which capped them was whiter than any other or the blue of the sky bluer, that the two together had the effect upon me of cameo work on a huge and unapproachable scale.

Certainly the effect of these grand mountains, into which you leap without any preparation from the streets and market places of America's oldest city, is such as is not easily described.

We struck water now and then—narrow watercourses, which my horse followed in midstream—and, more interesting yet, goatherds with their flocks, Mexicans all, who seemed to understand no English, but were picturesque enough to look at and a welcome break in the extreme lonesomeness of the way.

I had been told that they would serve me as guides if I felt at all doubtful of the trail, and in one or two instances they proved to be of decided help. They could gesticulate if they could not speak English, and when I tried them with the one word Placide they would nod and point out which of the many side canyons I was to follow. But they always looked up as they did so, up, up till I took to looking up, too, and when, after miles multiplied indefinitely by the winding of the trail, I came out upon a ledge from which a full view of the opposite range could be had, and saw fronting me from the side of one of its tremendous peaks the gap of a vast hole not 200 feet from the snow line, I knew that, inaccessible as it looked, I was gazing up at the opening of Abner Fairbrother's new mine, the Placide.

The experience was a strange one. The two ranges approached so nearly that it seemed as if a ball might be tossed from one to the other, but the chasm between was stupendous. I grew dizzy as I looked downward and saw the endless zigzags yet to be traversed step by step before the bottom of the canyon could be reached and then the equally interminable zigzags up the acclivity beyond, all of which I must trace, still step by step, before I could hope to arrive at the camp which from where I stood looked to be almost within hail of my voice.

I have described the mine as a hole. That was all I saw at first—a great black hole in the dark brown earth of the mountain side, from which ran down a still darker streak into the waste places far below it. But as I looked longer I saw that it was faced by a ledge cut out of the friable soil, on which I was now able to descry the pronounced white of two or three tent tops and some other signs of life, encouraging enough to the eye of one whose lot it was to crawl like a fly up that tremendous mountain side.

Truly I could understand why those three men, probably newspaper correspondents like myself, had turned back to Santa Fe after a glance from my present outlook. But though I understood I did not mean to duplicate their retreat.

The sight of those tents, the thought of what one of them contained, inspired me with new courage, and, releasing my grip upon the rein, I allowed my patient horse to proceed.

Shortly after this I passed the divide—that is, where the water sheds both ways. Then the descent began. It was zigzag, just as the climb had been, but I preferred the climb. I did not have the unfathomable spaces so constantly before me, nor was my imagination so active. It was fixed on heights to be attained rather than on valleys to roll into. However, I did not roll.

The Mexican saddle held me securely at whatever angle I was poised, and once the bottom was reached I found that I could face with considerable equanimity the corresponding ascent. Only as I saw how steep the climb bade fair to be I did not see how I was ever to come down again. Going up was possible, but the descent—

However, as what goes up must in the course of nature come down, I put this question aside and gave my horse his head, after encouraging him with a few blades of grass, which he seemed to find edible enough, though they had the look and something of the feel of spun glass.

How we got there you must ask this good animal, who took all the responsibility and did all the work. I merely clung and balanced, and at times, when he rounded the end of a zigzag, for instance, I even shut my eyes, though the prospect was magnificent. At last even his patience seemed to give out and he stopped and trembled. But before I could open my eyes on the abyss beneath he made another effort. I felt the brush of tree branches across my face and, looking up, saw before me the ledge or platform dotted with tents, at which I had looked with such longing from the opposite hillsides.

Simultaneously I heard voices, and saw approaching a bronzed and bearded man with strongly marked Scotch features and a determined air.

"The doctor!" I involuntarily exclaimed, with a glance at the small and curious tent before which he stood guard.

"Yes, the doctor," he answered in unexpectedly good English. "And who are you? Have you brought the mail and those medicines I sent for?"

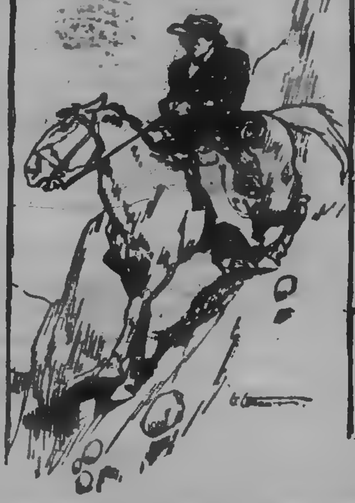
"No," I replied with a propitiatory a smile as I could muster up in the face of his brusk forbidding expression. "I came on my own errand. I am a representative of the New York ——, and I hope you will not deny me a word with Mr. Fairbrother."

With a gesture I hardly knew how to interpret he took my horse by the rein and led us on a few steps toward another large tent where he motioned me to descend. Then he laid his hand on my shoulder and, forcing me to meet his eye, said:

"You have made this journey—I believe you said from New York—to see Mr. Fairbrother. Why?"

"Because Mr. Fairbrother is at present the most sought for man in America," I returned boldly. "His wife—you know about his wife"—

"No. How should I know about his wife? I know what his temperature is and what his respiration is—but his wife? What about his wife? He don't know anything about her now himself; he is not allowed to read letters."



I preferred the climb.

"But you read the papers. You must have known, before you left Santa Fe, of Mrs. Fairbrother's foul and most mysterious murder in New York. It has been the theme of two continents for the last ten days."

He shrugged his shoulders, which might mean anything, and confined his reply to a repetition of my own words.

"Mrs. Fairbrother murdered!" he exclaimed, but in a suppressed voice, to which point was given by the cautious look he cast behind him at the tent which had drawn my attention. "He must not know it, man. I could not answer for his life if he received the least shock in his present critical condition. Murdered? When?"

"Ten days ago, at a ball in New York. It was after Mr. Fairbrother left the city. He was expected to return after hearing the news, but he seems to have kept straight on to his destination. He was not very fond of his wife—that is, they have not been living together for the last year. But he could not help feeling the shock of her death which he must have heard of somewhere along the route."

"He has said nothing in his delirium to show that he knew it. It is possible, just possible, that he didn't read the papers. He could not have been well for days before he reached Santa Fe."

"When were you called in to attend him?"

"The very night after he reached this place. It was thought he wouldn't live to reach the camp. But he is a man of great pluck. He held up till his foot touched this platform; then he succumbed."

"If he was as sick as that," I muttered, "why did he leave Santa Fe? He must have known what it would mean to be sick here."

"I don't think he did. This is his first visit to the mine. He evidently knew nothing of the difficulties of the road. But he would not stop. He was determined to reach the camp, even after he had been given a sight of it from the opposite mountain. He told them that he had once crossed the Sierras in midwinter. But he wasn't a sick man then."

"Doctor, they don't know who killed his wife."

"He didn't."

"I know, but under such circumstances every fact bearing on the event is of immense importance. There is one which Mr. Fairbrother only can make clear. It can be said in a word"—

The grim doctor's eyes flashed angrily, and I stopped.

"Were you a detective from the district attorney's office in New York sent on with special powers to examine him I should still say what I am going to say now. While Mr. Fairbrother's temperature and pulse remain where they now are no one shall see him and no one shall talk to him save myself and his nurse."

I turned with a sick look of disappointment toward the road up which I had so lately come.

"Have I panted, sweltered, trembled for three mortal hours on the worst trail a man ever traversed to go back with nothing for my journey? That seems to me hard lines. Where is the manager of this mine?"

The doctor pointed toward a man bending over the edge of the great hole from which at that moment a line of Mexicans was issuing, each with a sack on his back, which he flung down before what looked like a furnace built of clay.

"That's he, Mr. Haines of Philadelphia. What do you want of him?"

"Permission to stay the night. Mr. Fairbrother may be better tomorrow."

"I won't allow it, and I am master here so far as my patient is concerned. You couldn't stay here without talking, and talking makes excitement, and excitement is just what he cannot stand. A week from now I will see about it—that is, if my patient continues to improve. I am not sure that he will."

"Let me spend that week here. I'll not talk any more than the dead. Maybe the manager will let me carry sacks."

"Look here," said the doctor, edging me farther and farther away from the tent he hardly let out of his sight for a moment. "You're a canny lad and shall have your bite and something to drink before you take your way back. But back you go before sunset and with this message: No man from any paper north or south will be received here till I hang out a blue flag. I say blue, for that is the color of my bandanna. When my patient is in a condition to discuss murder, I'll hoist it from his tent top. It can be seen from the divide, and if you want to camp there on the lookout well and good. As for the police, that's another matter. I will see them if they come, but they need not expect to talk to my patient. You may say so down there. It will save scrambling up this trail to no purpose."

"You may count on me," said I. "Trust a New York correspondent to do the right thing at the right time to head off the boys. But I doubt if they will believe me."

"In that case I shall have a barricade thrown up fifty feet down the mountain side," said he.

"But the mail and your supplies?"

"Oh, the burros can make their way up. We shan't suffer."

"You are certainly master," I remarked.

To be continued.

SCRAPING THE STOMACH

Dangerous and Painful Operation Avoided by Taking "Fruit-a-tives."

Guelph, Ont., Aug. 6, 1908.

I suffered for many months with dreadful Stomach Trouble, with vomiting and constant pain, and I could retain practically nothing.

My doctor stated that I must go to the hospital and undergo an operation of scraping the stomach and be fed by the bowels for weeks. All the medicine the doctor gave me I vomited at once. I was dreadfully alarmed, but I dreaded an operation and had refused.

I had heard of "Fruit-a-tives" and the great success they were having in all Stomach Troubles, and I decided to try them. To my surprise, the "Fruit-a-tives" not only remained on the stomach, but they also checked the vomiting. I immediately began to improve, and in three days the pain was easier and I was decidedly better. I continued to take "Fruit-a-tives" and they completely cured me.

Mrs. Austin Hainstock.

"Fruit-a-tives" are 50c a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, trial box 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ECZEMA CURED IN SIMPLE WAY

No More Dosing the Stomach—Cure the Skin Through the Skin

When you have a scratch on your hand you wash the cut and cleanse it and then the skin cures itself. You never think of dosing your stomach for it.

The best skin specialists today are agreed that the only way to cure eczema and similar skin diseases is through the skin, for statistics show that nearly all eczema sufferers are perfectly healthy in all other ways except as to their skin. If the eczema patients were really suffering from an internal remedy the entire body and not the skin only would be diseased.

You can prove immediately the relief of a true skin cure by using oil of wintergreen as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription. This liquid kills the disease germs while toning up the healthy part of the skin.

For free sample bottle write to the DDD Laboratory, Department PR. 23 Jordan street, Toronto.
